It would not be an easy matter to find a man who works more strenuously than Mr. T. P. O'Connor. When, a short time ago, he went to America to collect the funds for the Irish Party which have furnished so much talk and discussion, he traveled 12,000 miles in eight weeks, delivering speeches almost every day. Then the doctor ordered him complete rest. "T.P." rested for two days; then he got restless, wrote a long magazine article, delivered two speeches, each of nearly one hour's duration, and afterwards wrote another short article, which he posted himself between one and two o'clock in the morning. Mr. O'Connor writes everything with his own hands on a typewriter. He has one machine in his library and another by the side of his bed, and each typewriter lasts him little more than twelve months.

Dangerous Work.

Cordite, used by the British soldiers, is the outcome of a strange paradox—the result of mixing two most powerful explosives is a smokeless, slow-burning powder of great velocity. Nitroglycerine and guncotton mixed together with a little petroleum jelly make cordite. In the factory women knead the two deadly explosives into paste with the same unconcern as if they were kneading dough for bread. Indeed, machines similar to those used in bakeries take up the work and knead the buff-colored cordite paste for seven hours.

SIX KILLED IN BAD SMASH

were buried in flying splinter and glass.

Darkness immediately enveloped the train and its struggling occupants, the excitement and confusion being greatly enhanced by the fire, which rapidly spread from the old coal oil lamps in use on the train.

The wreck of the baggage car was complete, and neither of its occupants, Baggageman McFarland or John Whitelaw, express messenger, escaped. McFarland was rescued from the flames, but was so seriously injured that he died early Sunday morning at Scott's farm house.

A pitiful story is told by eye-witnesses concerning Whitelaw, who was pinned within the rapidly burning debris, unable to move. The flames gradually crept around his limbs, and with death merely a matter of a few minutes of prolonged agony Whitelaw is said to have drawn his revolver and ended his sufferings. At any rate, a revolver shot was heard, and the charred remains of the express messenger were recovered yesterday as well as the revolver. Whether the discharge of the revolver was due to the heat of the fire may never be known, but the sad plight of Whitelaw being unable to release himself from the ravaging fire is an established fact.

The crew of the mogul engine practically escaped unhurt. Engineer Errett only being slightly injured, when he jumped with the others from his cab. The crew is from Sarnia, and is not well known on this division. They must have seen the approach of the passenger train first, as all appeared to clear the wreckage.

The victims are all well known. Mail Clerk Tye had seen nearly forty years service and was about to retire on a pension. Engineer Turner was well known from Buffalo to Goderich. Johnny Whitelaw was a popular Canadian Express Co. messenger, and was well known in and around Hamilton. R. M. Crozier, the only passenger to meet death, was a turnip buyer for Wood Bros., Brantford, and resided with his family in Drumbo. His knife, recovered in the wreck, was one used by him in cutting turnips for inspection. J. D. Smith was comparatively a young fireman out of Stratford. Baggageman McFarland was an old Grand Trunk man.

Trainmaster Forrester lent heroic assistance in the work of relief, arriving quickly with special train from Stratford headquarters and working all night at the scene of the wreck. The catastrophe occurred at an out of the way place on the line, and this impeded the assistance sent by the survivors, who worked heroically for the release of the imprisoned ones, and succeeded in rescuing Baggageman McFarland.

THE SERIOUS-MINDED GIRL

"Womankind," said a New York matron the other day, "in this country, at least, may be put into two classes. Rather, I should say, girlkind, because we are talking about girls. In one class is the girl who is generally spoken of as 'serious minded.' She is planning a career for herself outside of domestic activities as a professional woman or a business woman.

"Splendid girls are these, but they don't care a whoopee for anything in the male world, unless it is some one who can further their career through her interest or influence. We know his interest or influence. We know these wonderful girls and they are getting to be more of them all the time.

"They go to college to fit themselves for professorships, for being doctors and lawyers and what not, and they are the cleverest and smartest and most capable people in the world. I have always had the most profound admiration for this style of girl.

NOT MAN HATERS.

"They are not unwomanly in the sense that they are m nnish or that they are not interested in womanly things. They don't dislike men—oh, not at all. Men are all right, so long as they are willing to be good chums and to recognize these clever girls as equals along every line. But, as a rule, these girls who are bent on a career won't allow a man to get anywhere near the love-making line. Do they flirt? Bless you, no! They are feminine enough to know that flirting might make emotional ripples on the placid stream of their lives and this above all things, they wish to avoid.

PUT CAREER FIRST.

"These girls assent to the old saying that a woman's greatest work can be performed in the home, some of them talk very eloquently about the nobility of womanhood and all that, but as a matter of fact, they really do not plan to marry. I think that most of them have a feeling that maybe, some time, after they have achieved the success they are working for in the path they have chosen, they may select a husband and settle down to domestic life. But their chief interest is not in mankind or in any particular man and they think of him in connection with their own scheme of living only very remotely.

ARTIFICIAL WOMEN.

"Now this is one type of the American girl of the moment. Much as I admire her I regard her as an artificial woman. She is the product of high civilization if you please; of much culture, perhaps of abnormal economic conditions. She is subtle in her way—wonderful and above all, intelligent. She is the woman whose reason has been so highly cultivated that her heart has forgotten some of its primitive instincts.

HAVELOCK HAPPENINGS

Special to the Review.

Havelock, Feb. 6—Mrs. Chas. Herrington and daughter, Miss Leta, Kathleen and Charlie McNicholl, and Mr. Mac Foley of town attended the Box Social in Norwood on Wednesday night last, where a very enjoyable evening was spent by all who were present.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Presbyterian church congregation was held in the basement of the church on Monday night of last week, and the various reports presented show a prosperous year, and in better financial strength than it has ever been in the past years. The total amount raised during the year was $1,600.00, and also a good substantial balance left with which to begin the current year. The stipend fund was increased by $50.00, and an expression of appreciation of the work of the pastor and officials was unanimously endorsed. After the financial reports were completed, light refreshments were served by the ladies, and a social and enjoyable hour spent. The Presbyterian congregation is looking forward in hope to a permanent work of good and blessing being done. The following officials were elected:—

Managers, Messrs. A. Spencer, W. Martin, R. Jack, F. McMullen, A. Rose and P. J. Wright; Treasurer, A. Rose; Assistant Treasurer, P. J. Wright.

$25.00 FOR A LETTER

CAN YOU WRITE ONE?

Eight Prizes to be Awarded in a Letter Writing Contest Open to Every One in Ontario

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, have been used in Ontario for a generation. Hundreds of remarkable cures have been reported during that time and there is scarcely a family in which the remedy has not been tried with beneficial results. There is no demand upon the imagination; every letter must deal with facts and facts only.

PRIZES

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., will award a prize of $25.00 for the best letter received on or before the 20th day of March, 1911, from residents of the province of Ontario on the subject, "Why I Recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." A prize of $10.00 will be awarded for the second best letter received, a prize of $5.00 for the third best letter, and five prizes of $2.00 each for the next best five letters.

CONDITIONS

The cure or benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills described in the letter may be in the writer's own case, or one that has come under his or her personal observation.

More than one cure may be described in the letter, but every statement must be literally and absolutely true.

The letter should be no longer than is necessary to relate the benefit obtained from the remedy in the case described.

Every letter must be signed by the full name and correct address of the person sending it. If it describes the cure of some person, other than the writer of the letter, it must also be signed by the person whose cure is described as a guarantee of the truth of the statement made.

The writer of each letter must state the name and date of the paper in which he or she saw this announcement.

Fine writing will not win the prize unless you have a good case to describe. The strength of the recommendation and not the style of the letter will be the basis of the award.

It is understood that the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., shall have the right to punish any letter entered in this contest if they desire to do so whether it wins a prize or not.

The contest will close on March 20th, 1911, and the prizes will be awarded as soon as possible thereafter. Do not delay. If you know of a cure write your letter NOW. Observe the above conditions carefully or your letter may be thrown out.

Address all letters as follows.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

A large number of men attended the services held by the Y. M. C. A. in the Crystal yesterday. Mr. H. M. Gilchrist addressed the meeting, his subject being, "Choose Ye This Day Whom Ye Will Serve."

The special feature in the song services was St. James' Church male quartette, which rendered two selections.

FIRST AID

The First Aid to the Injured class of the Y. M. C. A. are to have their examinations Wednesday next. The class has been in progress for some time, under the leadership of Dr. McPherson. A good many have taken advantage of this opportunity to learn first aid and the lecturer has always had a full class room. Quite a number have signified their intention of writing on Wednesday. The examinations will be conducted by Dr. J. Malcolm McCullough.

ATHLETIC CONTEST

There has been great interest taken in the junior class all round contest at the Y. M. C. A.

Brown's team won out on Saturday in all the events in which they entered.

The following are the events and names of the captains of the winning teams.

60 yards potato race, Brown's defeated Stewart's. In the standing broad jump, Brown's also defeated Stewart's; High jump, Horsfield's defeated Stewart's; 100 yards relay, Brown's defeated Horsfield's; obstacle race was also won by Brown's team who were against Horsfield's.

The standing is as follows: Brown first, 234 points; Horsfield second, 188 1-4 points; Smith third, 84 3-4 points; Stewart fourth, 59 points.

MYSTERIOUS DREAMS.

Phantasms of the Night That Have Caused a Sensation.

The interest in the general election in the British Isles gave way to the sensation caused by the evidence given by Mr. Claude Sawyer in the Waratah case. Mr. John Dickinson, who conducted the Board of Trade inquiry into the mysterious disappearance of this liner between Durban and Cape Town last June, said at the close, "I heartily congratulate you, Mr. Sawyer, on being alive and being here to give evidence." Mr. Sawyer told that three or four days before the ill-fated vessel reached Durban, he had "a dream, which was most unusual." He had booked a first-class passage from Sydney to Cape Town by the Waratah, and he seems to have felt anxiety before leaving Australian waters. Three times he had a dreaming vision of a man in a peculiar dress, who was holding in his right hand a bloody sword. "The second time it came, I thought, 'I will know it again'; and the third time I looked at it so intently that I could almost design it, sword and all, even now. Next day I mentioned the dream to a gentleman, and he said, 'It's warning.' Then I began to think why I should be warned, and I was anxious to leave the ship." He left it at Durban.

Perhaps the strangest story of a dream at sea is that told by George Burrow in the opening pages of "The Bible in Spain." "I was bound for Lisbon. We passed Cape Finisterre, and, standing farther out to sea, speedily lost sight of land. On the morning of the 11th the sea was very rough, and a remarkable circumstance occurred. I was on the forecastle, discoursing with two of the sailors. One of them, who had but just left his hammock, said: 'I have had a strange dream, which I do not much like, for,' continued he, pointing to the mast, 'I dreamt that I fell into the sea from the cross-trees.' He was heard to say this by several of the crew besides myself.

A moment later the captain of the vessel, perceiving that the squall was increasing, ordered the top-sails to be taken in, whereupon this man, with several others, instantly ran aloft; the yard was in the act of being hauled down, when a sudden gust of wind whirled it round with violence, and a man was struck down from the cross-trees into the sea, which was working like yeast below. In a short time he emerged. I saw his head on the crest of a billow, and instantly recognized in the unforunate man the sailor who a few moments before had related his dream. I shall never forget the look of agony he cast whilst the steamer hurried past him. . . . The poor fellow who perished in this singular manner was a fine young man of about twenty-seven, the only son of a widowed mother. He was the best sailor on board, and was beloved by all who were acquainted with him."

May Knight Women.

In olden days they were not so chary of recognizing feminine services. The abbesses of great nunneries used to be "knighted" and even now there is a charming young French woman, who, though, unmarried, is a countess in her own right by reason of being the Chanoinesse of a religious order.

At present in England there is something anomalous in the fact that man takes all the titles, stars, and ribands, as well as place, power, and money, and allows the women folk to toil all their lives at inferior salaries and with no hope even of those ornamental rewards, such as coronets and orders, to which human nature is so persistently attached.

It has been whispered, though, that the two ladies who have been elected Mayors of English towns, will be knighted during this coronation year, precisely as their masculine compeers will receive this honor at the hands of King George.

The idea should be persistently dwelt on, as the circulation of such a rumor may lead to the foundation of some order—with a title attached—which can be bestowed on eminent women, whether married, single or widows.

RECIPROCITY FRAMED BY U.S. TO BREAK CANADA

As a Rival People Enjoying Great National Advantages.

SAME OLD BAIT

"It is the same old bait," said J. H. Burnham of the reciprocity negotiations between United States and Canada, in speaking to a largely attended meeting at the Young Conservative Club rooms, Saturday evening.

"The United States first broached the recent reciprocity negotiations, not Canada. They proposed to give up certain of their protected interests if we would do the same. Canadian national policies having been successful, the United States found that protection had worked a miracle with Canada. It was time, therefore, to begin the unloing. This reciprocity negotiation is the outcome. Once entangled with our neighbors, the United States will never let go at any rate, so long as there remains a bone to pick. That is the natural action of a rival and predominating power. Ten years hence would find us in the position of the man who has taken all he can get out of the soil, and leaves nothing behind. Our manufactories, and, therefore, our home market would have almost disappeared. We would have the whole work of nation-building to begin over again, unless we did not intend to become an imperial partner again, but intended to continue on as a real or apparent state of the union, in which event we should probably become the fringe of the great Republic, and be divided up into outlying states, our nationality, our traditions, our hopes and a vast deal of our local development things of the past. The reciprocity of 1854 was a reciprocity in name only, since we had then neither manufactories nor the west and north. The present measure is framed to break us up as a rival people to the United States, enjoying great natural resources, and it will surely do so. It is the same old bait that Hon. Edward Blake ruthlessly flung aside, then known as Commercial Union. It is a measure that may spring from the necessities and requirements of the United States with regard to their natural resources, but why should we be so silly as to sell out as if we had no further interest in our own country? The United States is determined to remove all centres of gravity of continental trade and currency to within its own borders. The effect of the removal of these centres of gravity from Canada would be serious upon the growth and development of those regions from which they had been removed. Are outlying States as prosperous as we are? These are just a few of the many points for us to consider. If it is good for Canada that our natural, unmanufactured products should find a market in the United States, why did we put on some of them an export duty? Why did we not let them go? It is possible that the removal of an extradition line might prove acceptable to our bank-wreckers. That is a point that must be considered. These gentlemen are entitled to some consideration.

Terrible Position of Young Mail Clerk

ENGINEER SAW HIM

Parts of His Body Badly Frozen

Mat Booty, a mail clerk on the Toronto to Montreal G.T.R. passenger train, had an experience in the early hours of Sunday morning that he will remember for a long time.

He is now in St. Joseph's hospital under the care of Dr. McNulty, with parts of his body badly frozen.

Booty, who resides in Cobourg, came down from Toronto, on the C.P.R. midnight train Saturday to visit his uncle, a Mr. Christie, living between Indian River and Norwood.

His intention was to leave the train at Indian River, as it was only a couple of miles from that station to the home of his relative. Through some reason or other he went on through to Norwood, and proceeded to walk back on the track, a distance of five or six miles.

The cold was intense and a strong wind blowing at the time. He was not any too well clad for such a long trip under such conditions. At different points he would rest and protect himself from the sharp wind behind trees and piles of railroad ties, but finally he sat down and went to sleep.

The engineer of a freight noticed him about seven o'clock yesterday morning, and he was taken to Norwood and brought to this city on a snow plow early in the afternoon. Belleghem's private ambulance took him from the station to the hospital. His ears, feet and hands are in a critical condition, and his physician is unable to say at present just what the result will be.

Booty is a young man, and apparently did not size up the situation before leaving Norwood.

TO PROBE THE ACCIDENT

Searching Inquiry Into the G.T.R. Train Wreck.

Conductor Claims That He Was Overworked.

Woodstock, Feb. 7.—Dr. Staples, coroner, of Princeton, announced yesterday morning that he would open an inquest on the bodies of the dead trainmen in the hall at Princeton on Wednesday afternoon next, on the arrival of the accommodation from London, which will bear several of the witnesses.

The scene of the wreck was just about 200 yards within the Oxford boundary, and as Dr. Staples is the coroner for that section, he took charge of matters.

"The wreck is one of the worst of the many we have had in our boundaries," said Dr. Staples, "and you may depend upon it that as far as I myself and the jury can investigate, we will fix the responsibility where it belongs, if it is possible to do so.

"At present it looks as though the crew of the light engine had run past their order, but the truth of this can only be ascertained when the surviving trainmen and other witnesses are put on their oath.

"I am summoning all these men, together with other eyewitnesses of the wreck, and the investigation will be as thorough as we can make it."

Says He Was Overwork.

London, Feb. 7.—Conductor William Meecham, in charge of the light engine at the Richwood wreck, was in the city Sunday for some hours. A reporter called at his home, 406 Rectory street, and was told that he had not been at his home since Saturday night.

Meecham, it is said, reached London on train No. 7 Sunday morning.

Supt. Bowker received word that Meecham was to be ordered to Stratford, and he sent a message to the house last night to that effect.

"I do not know whether he has been in the city or not," said Supt. Bowker.

A brother-in-law of the much-wanted man said yesterday, in answer to the question, if Meecham had been home: "We have heard nothing about him. We know that he was in the wreck, but he has not been here and we have not seen him."

"Have you heard from him?"

"No, we have not heard a thing. They worked the poor fellow to death. He was not home for three weeks until Saturday night, and then he had to go right out. He has not had a minute to himself in three weeks."

Engineer to Blame, Says Gillen.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—Grand Trunk Superintendent Gillen, when interviewed yesterday concerning Saturday night's wreck near Paris, said that the collision would not have occurred had Engineer Erreol of the mogul engine complied with the rules of the signal code.

The official admitted the entire loss of the baggage and mail car, the complete destruction of three first-class coaches and the putting out of business for two months of two engines. Exclusive of any claims which may be brought against the company, Supt. Gillen estimated that the accident would mean a loss of between $16,000 and $24,000 to the Grand Trunk.

TERRY McGOVERN IS DYING NOW

End Cometh Soon for Former Ring Champion

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 7.—Terry McGovern known as "Terrible Terry," who was the featherweight champion of America for a couple of years, is dying here. The ailment that has laid the fighter low is unknown.

Want Better Food.

Montreal, Feb. 7.—Claiming that their food is not fit to eat, the students of the Presbyterian Theological College threaten to leave the college in a body unless some change is made. Incipient riots have broken out in the dining-room on several occasions, and recently the trouble came to a head, when the students complained to the faculty.

PREMIER ASQUITH.

EX-PREMIER BALFOUR.

Leaders again cross swords in the British Commons Arena

RECIPROCITY IS DENOUNCED BY BALFOUR AND LANSDOWNE

Unionists Strongly Stirred up Over the Situation, and Are Protesting.

London, Feb. 7.—The formal opening of the new Parliament yesterday was marked by gorgeous ceremony and was attended by King George and Queen Mary and their suites, most of the dignitaries of the Empire, many members of the diplomatic corps and all others who could crowd within the doors of Westminster.

The processional display of nobility and military was one of magnificence. The streets were massed with people from dawn on, waiting to catch a glimpse of the coach containing the King and Queen and the Prince of Wales. Among the spectators were many Americans, some of whom paid large prices in order to see the great procession. The immense throngs cheered mightily for the King and Queen.

The suffragettes gave up their proposed attack upon the Parliament Building and King George at the last moment. Christobel Pankhurst, one of the leaders of the militant suffragettes, issued a statement declaring that no attempt would be made to storm Parliament or mob the King. However, believing this might be a ruse, the police kept up their strict guard.

Following the example of his father, the late King Edward, King George V. delivered the crown's address to Parliament in person. It contained a strong plea for the furtherance of friendly relations between England and other powers of the world. After expressing pleasure at the result of the trip of the Duke of Connaught to South Africa, the King said:

"My relations with foreign powers continue friendly. Japan intends to terminate the treaty of 1894. It is hoped that satisfactory arrangements can be made for a new treaty."

The King next referred to the action taken by the British Government to restore order along the trade routes of Southern Persia.

His Majesty announced that proposals will be submitted to settle the relations between the two Houses of Parliament, with the object of securing a more effective legislation.

That the King made no further announcement on the veto question caused great surprise among members of both branches of Parliament.

Continuing his speech His Majesty announced that measures would be presented to provide insurance for the industrial population against sickness and invalidity. This measure will embody the plan of a slight tax to provide the principal for the payment of the insurance pensions.

Both Lord Lansdowne and A. J. Balfour took occasion to denounce the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada, but the evening session was mainly devoted to getting the legislative ship under way.

Premier Asquith gave formal notice of the veto bill, and his intention to claim the whole time of the House until the Easter recess in order to get the veto bill disposed of before the coronation. The Government's policy was discursively criticized in the two Houses, but outside of references to the reciprocity agreement, the debate on the address was of no special in-

COUNCIL WILL GO TO OTTAWA

St. Catharines Aldermen to Back up Growers.

St. Catharines, Feb. 7.—The thousand fruit men who will go to Ottawa on Friday will be accompanied by Mayor McBride, City Clerk Pay and the whole City Council, in accordance with the following resolution, passed with only one dissenting voice at the regular meeting last night.

"That it being the opinion of the council that the business interests of the Niagara peninsula, and particularly of this city, are deeply concerned in the prosperity of the fruit growers of this section, and, feeling that the agreement for reciprocity which is now being considered by the Parliament of Canada, and whereby it is proposed to remove the duty from tender fruits, will result in serious financial loss.

Therefore, be it resolved that this council appoint a committee, to be named by the mayor, to accompany the deputation of fruit growers who propose to interview the members of the Dominion Government and protest against the oblition of the present duty upon tender fruits."

Following Toronto's Lead.

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—An agitation among consumers here over gas bills has reached the City Hall. It is likely that the council will be urged to take action towards securing a reduction of rates. The present prices are $1.20 to $1.35 per thousand net. Efforts will be made to secure an agreement similar to that in Toronto, where rates have been lowered to 70 cents.

Incensed at Discharge of Foreman.

St. Catharines, Feb. 7.—Over a hundred men in the blacksmith and press departments of the McKinnon Dash Co., walked out yesterday, incensed at the discharge of Foreman Russell and his replacement by an American. The men say they will not go back until Russell is reinstated.

TO CONTROL THE RATES

International Commerce Commission is Formed.

Announcement Made in the House Yesterday of Affair.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—At yesterday's session of the House of Commons, W. S. Middlebro (N. Grey) interpollated the Minister of Railways on the truth of an article in a United States magazine that an agreement had been reached between the two countries providing for an international commerce commission. Hon. George Graham stated that this was the result of a conference between Mr. Knapp, chairman of the Interstate Commission of U.S., and Judge Mabee, chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners. Its object was to secure a through bill of lading for goods originating in U. S. and destined for points in Canada. Unless there are a competing line the shipper was obliged to pay the local freight rate to and from the border. There were to be four members of the new body, including the two chairman. Its duty would be to fix a uniform rate. As the matter was covered by a treaty the details could not be made public at present.

Replying to Col. Sam Hughes, the Prime Minister said the Government had not received any information regarding the plans of a United States company to build a dam at the Long Sault and divert the waters of the St. Lawrence by a canal into Lake Champlain.

The House spent practically all the rest of the sitting discussing a resolution proposed by Mr. Sinclair of Guysboro, urging upon the Government the necessity of taking steps to secure an international agreement which would in the future prohibit steam trawling in such spawning grounds of deep sea fish as the banks of the north Atlantic adjacent to Canada and the St. Lawrence Gulf.

Mr. Sinclair, in the course of his speech, said that steam trawling had resulted in great injury to fisheries in all waters where it had been permitted. The Government had prohibited steam trawling within the three-mile limit, which was all it could do, but Mr. Sinclair expressed the view that if the fisheries were to be properly conserved there must be international regulation. He emphasized the fact that much damage had been done Canadian fisheries in recent years by French trawlers operating off the coast of Nova Scotia, the chief spawning ground of the Canadian deep sea fisheries on the Atlantic coast.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur said he would approve of trawling as restricted on the North Sea by international regulations.

H. H. Miller (S. Grey) sought to read to the House yesterday a resolution condemnatory of Col. Hughes, passed by Ottawa Ministerial Association, in view of certain references made by that gentleman about Dr. Milne a Presbyterian clergyman at the capital. Col. Hughes asked the House to permit the reading of the resolution, but the Speaker ruled Mr. Miller out of order. It is understood the matter will come up on Friday, when a lively interchange is anticipated.

Good News For Travelers.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—Commercial travelers will be interested in a decision of Justice Riddell's in an appeal of William Canning and W. J. Sarvis from the decision of the local judge at Guelph, on matters relating to the liquidation of the Morlock & Clinex Co. of Guelph. This decision of Justice Riddell's allows them the preferred creditor's chances to both salary and expenses, amounting in each case to $209.94.

"Expenses," declared the justice, "are as much a part of the wages as any fixed sum. It is not as though these sums were paid for the company to the railway companies, hotels, etc., with an undertaking that the company would repay the sums so paid as a debt, as would be the case if the commercial traveler were to pay some creditor of the company. The servant is paying money for himself the repayment of which to himself is payment of part of his wages."

SNOW STORM TIED UP THE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Few of Them Showed up Yesterday—Four Bills in Waiting.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—Had it not been for the foresight of the Prime Minister last week in having Government business placed on the order paper on Mondays, yesterday would have seen but little progress in the Legislature, as the private members did not avail themselves of the precedence which belonged to them.

The Government set the members an example of prompt business methods by having three bills ready for the committee stage, and when Government orders were called for, about 100 clauses of the bills in question were dealt with.

The time was taken up almost solely in committee. W. F. Nickle, Kingston, was in the chair. The majority of the members were conspicuous by their absence, less than half not wishing to brave the storm. Report had it that Hon. A. G. MacKay, Opposition leader, was snow-bound in North Grey.

Four Government bills went through the committee stage. They were: Bill 83, respecting the law of landlord and tenant; bill 85, respecting the support of illegitimate children; bill 91, respecting infants, having Hon. I. B. Lucas as their sponsor; and Hon. J. J. Foy's bill, No. 97, respecting trustees and executors and the administration of estates.

This afternoon the budget debate wil be resumed by S. Clarke, West Northumberland, who is expected to make a vigorous reply to the fighting speech of T. W. McGarry.

An inquisition into the affairs of the Provincial Secretary's Department is indicated by notice by W. J. McCart, Stormont, for a return of all the officials in Hon. W. J. Hanna's Department on Feb. 1, 1905, when the new regime began, and on the first of last month.

Hon. J. S. Duff's report for the Department of Agriculture shows the attendance at the Guelph College was the highest in its history, aggregating 1,386, including Macdonald Institute.

In the Niagara district it was found that while there are at present only about 375,000 trees in bearing, there are young orchards comprising approximately 500,000 trees. This means that in the next few years the production of the district will be doubled. Nearly 200,000 peach trees have been planted in Norfolk, Kent, Essex and Lambton Counties.

An aggregate of 7,581 immigrants were brought to Ontario through the Colonization Department.

The Minister of Agriculture vigorously commends the plans of the Hydro-Electric Commission for placing electricity at the early disposal of the individual farmers of the province.

CROMPTON IS TO BE TRIED

Charge is Illegally Accepting Bank Notes.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—Fred. Crompton, president of the Crompton Corset Co., and brother-in-law of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, former president of the Farmers' Bank, was yesterday committed for trial from the Police Court upon a charge of illegally accepting the notes of the bank, contrary to the provisions of the Bank Act.

The only evidence taken was that of Travers, who was given protection by Magistrate Denison when he stepped into the box. Travers told that Mr. Crompton had been introduced by Dr. Beattie Nesbitt and that the illegal scheme by which the bank secured $50,000 in cash from Mr. Crompton, giving in return its own unrecorded notes, upon which interest at 5 per cent. was later paid, was suggested by the fertile brain of the doctor. He said that he did not believe that Mr. Crompton knew that what he was doing was illegal, but that it simply looked like a good investment.

Travers said that the arrangement had been made verbally and that the money had been needed to tide over the bank's obligations at the clearing house. The former general manager was the only witness heard, but Messrs. V. A. Burke, James F. Fitzgibbon and H. A. E. Menshall were bound over as additional witnesses, to be called when the case comes up for trial at the March sessions.

Mr. Crompton, who appeared upon a summons and who has made restitution of $869, said to have been received as interest upon the notes, was allowed to depart upon his own bail of $1,000.

Travers was once more closeted in the detective office for the day. At 6.30 he left by street car for the jail with Detective Murray, as he had come up in the morning. He is looking a good deal thinner, but heathier than when he first appeared in court.

Crown Attorney Corley yesterday received a telegram from James J. Warren, charged jointly with Dr. Nesbitt, Travers and the four provisional directors and C. H. Smith, with conspiring to obtain the certificate of the Treasury Boar dby which the bank opened its doors for business.

The telegram is from Revelstoke, B.C., and reads:

"Understand some proceedings contemplated. Writing you fully, with particulars my address. Telegraph answer to Spencerbridge."

Mr. Warren has interests in British Columbia which take him there frequently.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking your medicine. It has also helped other women to whom I have recommended it."—Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ontario.

Another Cure

Harvey Bank, N. B.—I can highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any suffering woman. I have taken it for female weakness and painful menstruation and it cured me.—MRS. DEVERE BARBOUR.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

OUR IMPERIAL TRADE

During the past ten years we exported to Great Britain approximately twice as much as we imported. In the same period we imported twice as much from the United States as we exported. This condition is the effect of the British preference working to increase our trade with the Motherland.

If the reciprocity agreement goes through, it means that much of what we now export to Britain will go to the United States. Instead of sending across the ocean twice as much in value as we bring in, our export and import trade will be more largely equalized. We will, in selling more largely to the United States, buy more freely there, and our British trade will be lessened both in exports and in imports. Our trade with the United States will be increased as our British trade decreases, but it is safe to assume that our exports to the United States will not increase more rapidly than our imports. Trade figures bear out the contention that the reciprocity business is the biggest sort of a blow at our British connection.

The fate of the nation hangs in the balance. From every section of the country strong protests are coming against the ratification of the agreement, beneficial though it may be for the passing day to a few classes of Canadians, because it imperils our national life and freedom.

PUBLICITY WORK

The provision in the estimates of $4,000 for the office of publicity commissioner caused a great deal of concern to Ald. Morgan, who thought that there was a great deal of waste in the appropriation, which should be cut in half. Many Peterborough people will probably look in the matter in the same light as Ald. Morgan, and although he was voted down, what he had to say is the evidence of sentiment in some quarters.

We think that the Mayor and Ald. Bradburn took the right stand on the question, however. Mr. Duggan's year will not end until May, and it is probable that by that time some tangible results of his year at work will be shown. Ald. Buller, who originally opposed the scheme for publicity work by a special official, announced that he had changed his mind, and he was confident that the publicity work would bear good fruit.

Whether under the present conditions much result can be shown may be doubted by many citizens, but the root of the matter is the power question, and Mr. Duggan is stirring this up some.

There is only one course open for Peterborough to pursue in the matter. Mr Duggan is certainly entitled to a proper trial. A year at least is necessary, and in some cases more than one year. The arrangement which was understood at the meeting of the council last night in providing an appropriation for the continuance of the office, was that if it should be deemed unwise to continue the work by a specialist official in May, the money could be otherwise appropriated. The financial statement as shown by Ald. Bradburn, explained that it was by only carefully paring the various appropriations that the 22 mill rate could be maintained.

Peterborough distinctly does not want a higher rate, and the committees of the council should exercise every care with their appropriations, so that the council of 1912 will not be burdened with an overdraft.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Hon. Clifford Sifton some weeks ago uttered a warning against entangling trade alliances with the United States. Will Sifton support his strongly expressed views on the subject by bolting from the party?

Premier Roblin declares that the trade agreement will not placate the western farmer. He says that the trade agreement is the parting of the ways for Canada and the Motherland. Premier Roblin is one of the big men of the West, and his views may be taken to represent the West.

The Montreal Star published on Saturday a full page appeal to Sir Wilfrid Laurier to save Canada from reciprocity, and commercial union with the United States. But so determined is Sir Wilfrid in his fatuity that even a full page in the Montreal Star wouldn't make him twitch in his chair.

James J. Hill is delighted with the prospect of reciprocity. His railway lines have a dozen or fifteen feeders into the Canadian West drawing commerce for his American roads. Any railway magnate would feel delighted at the prospect at seeing his lines congested with wheat, cattle, produce, going one way, and great trainloads of manufactures coming back. It is a fat thing for James J. Hill, but who will get the lean end?

T. W. Crothers, M.P. for West Elgin, has inserted an advertisement in the St. Thomas papers asking his constituents to give him their opinion on the adoption of the trade agreement with the United States. In a matter so important as this, each member should hear from the people, and be guided in his course by public sentiment. Has anyone here seen or heard of Hon. J. R. Stratton soliciting the opinion of his constituents?

The Kingston Standard boasts of having been quoted on the floor of the House of Commons three times within ten days. The Standard has been known as a Conservative paper, but in order to attract attention to itself frequently goes over boot and baggage to the enemy's camp, and outdoes even the Globe. The Standard has about as much right to call itself a Conservative organ as the Mail and Empire has to call itself a Grit supporter. We are not arguing against honest independence of the press in the least. The party newspapers of the country should be free to express their opinions, if differing from their party, but when a newspaper like the Standard habitually makes practice of flouting the party it supposedly is affiliated with, in order to "get quoted" then the quotations cease to have value as the expression of Conservative opinion.

MANY PATRONS AT THE LIBRARY

New Institute is Already Being Well Patronized

The public seemed very well pleased with the new Public Library, with the magazines and literature in general provided for the reading rooms and with the homelike comforts that may be enjoyed by anyone wanting to spend an evening quietly. Everyone seems to realise that absolute quietness is necessary and is complying with the rules to perfection. About one hundred and twenty-five people visited the reading-room the first day and an average of about one hundred every day since. The children seem to patronize it well, about forty being there every day. This is what the Board likes to see.

Unforeseen delay in the arrival of the borrower cards and printing pertaining to them, is keeping the librarian from issuing books. The public may be assured of no needless delay as soon as they arrive.

About three hundred and sixty books have already been returned, but there are quite a number out yet. As the borrower will have to sign a declaration before receiving books now, it would be as well to see to the returning of any out yet.

People are in the habit of leaving articles in the reading room. If the loser would apply to the librarian, he would be pleased to hand them over on identification.

PROBLEM OF THE MISSION

Miss Warren Gave Interesting Talk on Topic

Regular Meeting of Knox Church Y.P. Guild Last Night

At the regular meeting of Knox Church Young People's Guild last night Miss Warren gave a very interesting and instructive address on the Home Mission Problem."

The speaker divided the subject into four main parts, complexity of the problem, issues at stake, solution of the problem and the supreme need.

COMPLEXITY OF THE PROBLEM.

Multitudes were crowding out cities and covering out plains and Christianity must be inserted into the hearts and lives of these people to produce a great national ideal, true to the principles of freedom and with a master passion for righteousness. This is our Home Mission problem and is so much a national problem that a man's attitude towards Home Missions is the real indicator of his Christian patriotism.

ISSUES AT STAKE.

Are the people of our own flesh and blood to be left to struggle with the material spirit that is so widespread and powerful in every new community or to battle with demoralizing forces? There is the country in whose welfare we are all so deeply interested and of whose future we cherish such bright anticipations. Is it enough that we may point to the commercial advantages and possibilities? Surely not. Even the least thoughtful of us must recognize that bigness is not synonymous with greatness and that the supreme glory of a country consists, not in magnitude of its material possessions, but in the high character of its citizenship.

There is the church which we all love, and whose traditions have been so splendidly maintained. These labors have won for her the enviable reputation of being the most influential factor in the moulding of the life of Western Canada.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM.

It is estimated that about 1,500 new men will be required to man our mission fields during the next five years. Why not send some from the Young People's Guilds. There are lots of men for every profession, but the ministry.

THE SUPREME NEED.

The supreme need is a deepened spiritual life which cannot fail to bring with it a quickened consciousness of personal obligation; eyes opened to see the graciousness of this day of splendid national opportunity; consciences quickened to recognize the solemnity of our individual responsibility; hearts touched by the love of Christ to feel the burden of the worldliness and sin that must be overcome. faith; to claim the promised help of the Almighty, and love to make self-denial easy.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Widespread snow, directly beneficial to fall-sown wheat, carried down the price of wheat to-day. The far southwest, tho, where moisture would be of greatest help, received very little. As a result, the advance was checked, with closing figures at a net loss of only ⅛c to ⅜c. The day's trading left corn unchanged to a sixteenth lower, oats off a shade to ⅛c, and provisions not altered more than a nickel either way.

The Liverpool market closed ⅛d to ¼d higher than on Saturday for wheat futures; corn, ⅛d to ¼d lower. Berlin closed ⅛c higher; Buda Pest, ⅛c lower; Paris, ¼c to ⅜c lower, and Antwerp, unchanged.

Exporters

Alexander McIntosh bought 37 export steers, 1300 to 1400 lbs. each, at $5.90 to $6.15.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers sold at $5.80 to $6; loads of good at $5.50 to $5.75; medium, $5.15 to $5.40; common, $4.90 to $5.15; cows, $3 to $5.15; bulls, $4 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited number of milkers and springers sold at $40 to $70 each

Veal Calves.

Thirty-four veal calves found ready sale at $3.00 to $8.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, ewes, sold at $4 to $4.50 per cwt.; rams at $3.50 to $3.75; lambs, $6 to $6.40, and one select lot at $6.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

Hogs were reported at $7.40, fed and watered, and $7.15 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points, which means $7 to farmers.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 4, were 1000 cattle, 900 sheep and lambs, 1626 hogs and 275 calves. The offerings on the market this morning amounted to 750 cattle, 300 sheep and lambs, 1050 hogs and 150 calves.

The stronger feeling which developed in the market for cattle a week ago has been fully maintained owing to the continued small supplies coming forward and the higher prices demanded for them at country points on account of improved condition and quality of the same.

There was a large gathering of buyers, notwithstanding the cold weather, and as they all seemed to be short of beef the demand was good and a fairly active trade was done. A few extra choice steers sold as high as seven cents per pound, but the bulk of the trading was done in choice stock at 6¾c, good at 6¼c to 6½c, fairly good at 5¾c to 6c, fair at 5¼c to 5½c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5c per pound. There were a few extra choice heavy bulls offered, which brought as high as 6c, 5¾c and others sold at 5c to 5½c per lb.

There was a stronger undertone to the market for hogs and prices scored an advance of 10c per cwt. Supplies were fairly large for the demand was keen from packers, and an active trade was done, sales of selected lots being made at $7.85 to $8 per cwt., weighed off the cars. Owing to the limited supplies of lambs coming forward a stronger feeling developed in the market and prices advanced ½c per lb. The demand was good and all the offerings met with a ready sale at 6¼c to 6½c per lb. The market for sheep was steady at 4½c to 4¾c per pound.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Cattle, receipts, 17,000, market strong; beeves, $4.85 to $6.80; Texas steers, $4 to $5.35; western steers, $4.30 to $5.80; stockers and feeders, $3.75 to $5.75; cows and heifers, $2.00 to $5.75; calves, $6.50 to $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 32,000; market mostly 10c up; light, $7.55 to $7.85; mixed, $7.45 to $7.80; heavy, $7.30 to $7.65; rough, $7.10 to $7.30; good to choice hogs, $7.30 to $7.65.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

The unexpected exit of Rouletabille sent a chill to my heart and seemed to spread a general sensation of alarm throughout the company. Mme. Darzac was very restless. And because Mathilde showed herself to be disturbed and nervous I fancied that Arthur Rance thought that it behooved him to display some little anxiety. Arthur Rance and his wife were not aware of the whole of the unfortunate story. It had seemed useless to inform them of the fact of Mathilde's secret marriage to Jean Roussel, afterward known as Larsan. That was something which concerned only the family. But they were fully aware of the way in which the secret service agent had pursued Mme. Darzac. The crimes of Larsan were explained in the eyes of Arthur Rance by a mad passion for Mathilde, the indications of an insane and hopeless love. As to Mme. Edith, her thoughts, which I read without her suspecting it, ran about in this way: "But what on earth is there about this woman which could inspire such an insane passion, lasting for years and years, in the heart of any man? Here is a woman for whose sake a detective officer becomes a murderer, for whom a temperate man becomes a drunkard and for whom an innocent man permits himself to be pronounced guilty of a felony. What is there about her more than there is about myself, who owe my husband to the fact that she refused him before he ever saw me? What is the charm about her? And yet even now my husband forgets all about me while he is looking at her." That is what I read in Edith's eyes as she watched her husband gazing at Mathilde. Ah, those black eyes of gentle Mme. Edith!

Mathilde asked me where I thought Rouletabille had gone. As she left the dining room I walked with her to the entrance to the fort. Darzac and Mme. Edith followed us. Stangerson had bidden us good night. Arthur Rance, who had disappeared for a moment, joined us while we were at the passageway. The night was clear, and the moon shone brightly. As we passed beneath the arch we heard Rouletabille's voice.

"Come on! One more effort!" he cried, and the voice which answered him was husky and panting. The two portals of the immense iron doors slammed. They were closed for the first time in a hundred years.

Mme. Edith looked astonished at the act of her guest and asked what had happened to the gate, which had always served in place of the doors. But Arthur Rance caught her arm, impressing upon her that she must keep silence.

Rouletabille announced that if any of us had any desire to make a trip to the village we must give it up, for the order had gone forth, and no one could leave the chateau or enter it. Pere Jacques was charged with the carrying out of the command, and every one knew that it was impossible to bribe the faithful old servitor. Pere Jacques, whom I had known so well at the Glandier, had accompanied Professor Stangerson as his valet. That night he was sleeping in a tiny closet in "la Louve," near his master's bedroom, but Rouletabille had changed that, and it was Pere Jacques who took the place of the concierge in the tower marked A.

"But where are the Berniers?" cried Mme. Edith.

"They are installed in the square tower in the room on the left, near the entrance. They are to act as caretakers of the square tower," replied Rouletabille.

"But the square tower doesn't need any caretakers," exclaimed Edith.

"That, madame," returned the young reporter, "is what we cannot be sure of."

He made no further explanations, but he took Arthur Rance to one side and informed him that he ought to tell his wife about the reappearance of Larsan. If there was to be the slightest chance of hiding the truth from Stangerson it could scarcely be accomplished without the aid and intelligence of Mme. Edith. And, then, too, it would be as well henceforward for all of those in the Fort of Hercules to be prepared for everything, and surprised at nothing.

The next act of Rouletabille was to make us walk across the court and place ourselves at the postern which commanded the entrance to the inner court, but at that point the moat had been filled up. Rouletabille declared that he intended to have the moat dug out and to replace the drawbridge.

At the newly fortified postern Rouletabille had stationed no one, for he reserved that place that night for himself. From there he could obtain a complete view of both the inner and outer courts. One could reach the apartment of the Darzacs only after passing by Pere Jacques in A, by Rouletabille at H and by the Berniers, who guarded the square tower at the door marked K. The young man had decided that it would be better for those on guard not to retire that night. As we passed by the oubliette I saw that some one had displaced the circular board which covered it. I saw also on the margin a flask attached to a cord. Rouletabille explained to me that he had wished to know if this old oubliette, which was really nothing but a well, corresponded with the sea and that he had found that the water was clear and sweet, a proof that it had nothing to do with the Mediterranean.

He walked for a few steps with Mme. Darzac, who immediately took leave of us and entered the square tower. Darzac and Arthur Rance, at the request of Rouletabille, remained with us. Some words of excuse addressed to Mme. Edith made her understand that she was being politely asked to retire, and she bade us good night with a nonchalant grace. Rouletabille beckoned us—the men—toward the postern into the little room of the gardener, a dark, low ceiled apartment. There Arthur Rance, Robert Darzac, Rouletabille and myself without even lighting a lamp held our first council of war.

"We may make our plans here in tranquillity," began Rouletabille. "No one can hear us, and we shall not be surprised by any one. If any person should attempt to pass the first gate, which Jacques is guarding, without the old man seeing him we shall be immediately warned by the sentinel whom I have stationed in the very middle of the court, hidden in the ruins of the chapel. I have placed your gardener, Mattoni, at that point, M. Rance."

I listened to Rouletabille with admiration. Mme. Edith was right. He had indeed constituted himself a captain, and he had not left one impregnable spot without defense.

Rouletabille lit his pipe, took three or four puffs and said:

"Well, here we are. Can we hope that Larsan, after having so insolently flaunted himself before us, at our very doors, in order to defy us, will confine himself to such a platonic manifestation? And, content with what he has done, will he go away? I hardly think so, first, because such a thing would be foreign to his character, for he loves a fight and is never satisfied with a partial success, and, second, because no one of us has the power to drive him off. We have, of course, no hope of any help from outside. And he knows it well. That is what makes him so bold and audacious. Whom can we call to our aid?"

"The authorities," suggested Arthur Rance.

The reporter looked at his host with an air of pity which was not entirely free from reproach. And he said in a chilly tone, which showed plainly to Arthur Rance how little value there was in his proposition:

"You ought to understand, monsieur, that I did not save Larsan from French justice at Versailles to deliver him over to Italian justice at Rochers Rouges."

Aeroplane Scouting.

Washington, Feb. 7.—So far as an aeroplane can discover the U. S. Government will probably soon be in a position to determine the facts as to the activities of the insurgents along the Mexican border. At present, owing to the conflicting reports and absurd and extravagant claims on the part of the different leaders and their neutrality law, and troops are continually making wild goose chases after military expeditions reported to be crossing the Rio Grande, which rarely materialize. When the troops are on these false scents, it is presumed that armed parties make their way across the river at unguarded points.

Yesterday Gen. Wood, chief of staff, let it be known that at least one aeroplane would be employed in observation work along the Rio Grande.

May Be "Tong" War.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—There may be trouble among the local Chinese as a result of a big seizure of oriental liquor made by the license officers on Saturday night. Those who understand the ways of Chinese state that Ottawa may have something of the nature of a Tong war. It is said the members of the Reform Association are indignant at the actions of certain members of the Freemasons, the Opposition "Tong," and claim the latter were the informers who told the police where they could expect to find the liquor that was seized. They resent especially the injury to Hum Quong, the member of the Chinese Parliament who was one of the losers in the raid.

May Reorganize Regiment.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Speaking as to the disbanding of the Prince of Wales' Fusiliers at Montreal, Lieut.-Col. Lessard of the Militia Department said that he hoped the regiment could be reorganized. However, the regiment had become so shaken up that there was nothing left to do but disband it temporarily.

"It is, of course, well known in military circles that a regiment cannot be reorganized properly until it is disbanded," he concluded.

Might Have Been Serious.

Palmerston, Feb. 7.—Fire broke out in the Albion Hotel stable, a large frame building close behind the hotel, also frame, and situated close to the Grand Trunk yards. A fierce easterly gale was blowing, and for a time things looked serious for the business street of the town, but thanks to the new waterworks system, the fire was confined to the building in which it started.

DON'T FOOL WITH YOUR LIVER
MAKE IT ACTIVE AND HEALTHY WITH "FRUIT-A-TIVES"
Don't treat the Liver with common purgatives. Salts, senna, calomel and the host of "liver pills" do not act on the liver at all. They merely irritate the bowels.
"Fruit-a-tives" will cure Biliousness and Torpid Liver because this famous fruit medicine acts directly on the liver.
"Fruit-a-tives" corrects Indigestion and Constipation—not by inflaming the bowels like common purgatives, but by making the liver active and healthy.
"Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest liver medicine in the world, and is the only medicine made of fruit juices.
50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Troubles Didn't Come Singly.

Niagara Falls, Feb. 7.—The season's severest storm struck here early yesterday. A forty-mile gale blew and snow fell in great quantities. Traffic on both steam and electric lines was handicapped. Cold dinners were the rule in hundreds of homes, as there was scarcely enough gas pressure in many houses to boil the kettle. Then the high wind caused the level of the river to fall greatly cutting off the supply of city water. If a fire were to occur during present conditions great damage would be done. Ice in the upper river gave the power-house employes great trouble early last evening.

Conflict of Authority.

Kingston, Feb. 7.—In his attempt to serve the people, Mayor Graham had a lively row with the Board of Works and Chairman Ald. Rigney. The mayor ordered out the snow clearing machine to cut down high spots on Princess street. The engineer ordered the men in off work, as he had not given orders, and Ald. Rigney wrote the mayor that he must not interfere with his department. Solicitor McIntyre stated that the mayor was within his rights. The matter will be threshed out in committee.

"Oatmeal King" Dead.

Mitchell, Feb. 7.—Walter Thomson, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Mitchell, and until recently one of the largest millers and grain dealers in western Ontario, died at the residence of his son in Texas on Friday. He was formerly known as the Oatmeal King, and had milling interests in London, Woodstock, Seaforth and Mitchell. He was born in Kelso, Scotland, in 1825, but has lived since 1840 in Ontario, and since 1867 has been a resident of Mitchell.

A Win For the Wets.

Barrie, Feb. 7.—A recount of the local option vote, which was asked for by some in favor of the bylaw, took place yesterday before Judge Wismer, and resulted in a further victory for the anti-local option side. Two votes which had been counted in favor of the bylaw were thrown out, thus defeating the bylaw by ten votes instead of eight.

Refused to Be Rescued.

Viborg, Finland, Feb. 7.—Two vessels sent to the rescue of the fishermen who on Friday were swept out to sea on an ice floe in a gale yesterday found the floe stranded near the Island of Seitskar. The fishermen, who numbered 253, were in no danger and refused to be taken off.

Tax Autos in Quebec.

Quebec, Feb. 7.—In the Legislature yesterday the Provincial Treasurer gave notice of a bill providing for the taxation of automobiles according to their horsepower, the revenue to be applied to the improvement of the highways.

Bad Case of Eczema Cured By Zam-Buk
Another case of the healing power of Zam-Buk, in cases of eczema, is to hand from Winnipeg. Mrs. H. Cross of 176 McIntosh Ave., Elmwood, is the subject and gives the following facts, with a view to leading other sufferers to a means of cure.
"For five years," she says, "I was terribly afflicted with eczema on my legs, and despite all the doctoring and numerous remedies I tried, I seemed unable to get relief. The disease first started with watery blisters, which itched terribly, and when rubbed, burned and smarted very much. The pustules then spread and formed sores. These were irritable and very much. The pustules then spread and formed sore. One blister was no sooner rubbed—or I might say touched—than another started.
"They soon spread over both limbs W. Madill to-day and get a large tried various remedies as they were recommended but could find no relief. Ordinary salves and ointments seemed unequal to my case.
"At last just a friend suggested my using Zam-Buk. I acted on this advice and began the Zam-Buk treatment. A few applications gave me considerable ease, and the burning, smarting pains were reduced. I persevered with the balm, and in the course of a week the disease was under control and the sores healing. From that time forward I continued to improve and the sores too, became less and less troublesome, until in a wonderfully short time, considering the seriousness of my case and the long time I had been suffering, Zam-Buk worked a complete cure."
Such is the nature of the great cures which Zam-Buk is daily effecting. Purely herbal in composition, this great balm is a sure cure for all skin diseases, cold sores, piles, scalp sores, ring worm, inflamed patches, babies eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, and bruises. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful imitations and substitutes.

In reply to a question by Mr. Borden, Hon. Mr. Graham stated in the Dominion House yesterday that the cost of the N.T.R. between Winnipeg and Moncton to the end of last year had been $89,553,740.

Want Particulars.

Montreal, Feb. 7.—A preliminary plea has been filed on behalf of the Pinkerton Detective Agency of New York and Mr. John M. Macnamara, their agent here, in answer to the action for $200,000 damages taken against them by Mr. David Russell. This preliminary is in the shape of a motion for particulars on most of the allegations made by Mr. Russell.

A Farmer's Suicide.

Brockville, Feb. 7.—Albert Carroll, a prosperous farmer, living three miles from Westport Village, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. Worry over a recent business transaction is reported to have caused mental derangement, with the above result. Carroll leaves a widow and family.

BARBARA TENNANT AT THE GRAND

The Montreal Standard has the following to say of the recent appearance in Windsor Hall of Miss Barbara Tennant. Miss Tennant is at the Grand this evening, under the auspices of the King's Daughters.

Montreal, Feb. 14—"It is something of a feat to fill the large Windsor Hall for a recital on a Saturday afternoon. It is more difficult to satisfy such a critical and fashionable audience as greeted Miss Barbara Tennant to-day. The reputation which preceded her from England made her taste somewhat heroic, for it is not every day we hear of possible rivals to Ellen Terry in the sober criticisms of the London journals. The difficulty of sustaining such a reputation won chiefly in Shakespearian repertoire must have been added to greatly by the absence of accessories, and the throwing of all responsibility upon the same fair pair of shoulders. To the experienced theatre-goer there was not much room to fear the result, when Miss Tennant had achieved that most arduous of tasks and made a perfectly graceful and natural stage entrance. She is possessed of a native grace and style, which wins her sympathy from the audience from the first, and goes a long way towards assuring her success. The training of the British stage is often said to be most chillingly severe, but it produces good results, when the material is right from the first.

Miss Tennant led her delighted hearers "from grave to gay, from lively to severe," from the coquettish to the tragic with unerring tread, her reading of her lines being equally pleasing in every selection. The change from the playful Oberon's speech to Puck, to the masculine Gunga Din, was startling and the intensity of feeling developed in the unstudied soldier tale was a revelation to those who read their Kipling as an evening pastime. It revealed an underlying power in the well known lines, which somehow made it quite clear how the same author wrote the Recessional. The pathos of Miss Wilcox's little reverie "My Ships" prepared the way for the sweet little specimen of restrained tragedy contained in Little Boy Blue, which was rather more than some hearts present appeared able to bear, without adding the luxury of tears. Possibly the skill of the artist was best displayed in the little gem, "The Birth of the Opal," which was nothing apart from the soul Miss Tennant breathed into it. Those present grasped readily the leap from Queen Mab to the Potion Speech from Romeo and Juliet, though it appeared impossible that the same charming personality was dealing with the airy persiflage of the one, and the terrible tragedy of the other also.

Miss Tennant was a complete success on this, her first appearance in Montreal, and her return will be eagerly looked for.

THE BEST OF THE SEASON

"Il Trovatore" in English on 14th

Joseph F. Sheehan, America's greatest tenor and idol of every music lover in the country, coming to The Grand with his all star company for one performance of Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Joseph Sheehan needs no introduction, he is universally acknowledged the greatest of all American tenors and his company for the past three years has been proclaimed the foremost opera company in America but this year he has by far outdone himself and gratified his ambition of taking only one opera on tour and making an elaborate production of it. He has selected for his opera the greatest and the most popular of modern times "Il Trovatore" and in so doing has struck a responsive chord in public favor.

To those who have heard "Il Trovatore" the opportunity of hearing the great tenor solo "di Quella Pira" sung by the greatest of American tenors, of hearing the stirring "Anvil Chorus" by a company of selected voices of hearing the world renowned "Miserere" in the Tower Scene, and a score of other famous numbers will be a welcome treat. To those who have never heard this great opera, it will prove a most happy surprise.

No better proof of the hold "Il Trovatore" has on the public can be given than the fact that those who have heard it once, never lose an opportunity of doing so again and again. And to this the fact that probably never before has it been sung in English by such a famous organization of stars and nothing remains to be said.

Mr. Sheehan has selected from his various companies the principals best fitted for the different roles and thereby truly making an all star production.

DROVE IN RINGS AROUND LAKE

Experience of City Party on Chemong—Ice-buoys Needed

The attention of the superintendent of the Trent Canal system is respectfully called to a much needed work. Much has been done to buoy the courses through the lakes and rivers during navigation, but nothing at all to guide the mariner who gets out on the lake on a winter day. A party of four started out last Friday to attend a festival at the Indian Village at Chemong. They drove on to the ice at Kelly's, and steered a course among the light snow that was falling. The way was enlivened by song and joke. After a while views were expressed that the way was a long one, and presently at the end of an hour the party drove ashore half a mile above where they took to the ice. A farmer in the distance was subsidized with a dollar to get into the rig and act as pilot. They drove for an hour-and-a-half and landed about where they started. Song and story ceased, and the party returned to town fully convinced that the canal men should look into things and provide something for the safety of the general public.

SCORED GREAT SUCCESS IN EAST

Montreal Acclaimed Barbara Tennant as Great

The Barbara Tennant Recital at the Windsor Hall, Montreal, on Saturday, was a splendid triumph. With a brilliant audience and twenty-six of the keenest critics to greet her, Miss Tennant at once gripped and to the end of the performance enthralled everyone who heard her. The Montreal Star said in part:—

Her voice is of splendid sonority, compass and quality. Her gestures are perfect, all-expressive, never exaggerated, never conveying other than an absolutely clear significance, and invariably instinct with delicacy and grace. Her play of features is carefully restrained, but adequate, and at times of immense illuminating force. That she possesses true dramatic instinct is beyond question; that she directs it through the medium of a cleverly-controlled and polished art is equally undeniable.

Her diction alone is a delight, so smooth, clear-cut, and beautifully modulated it is. She does not adopt any eccentric chant form for her recital work but relies on the direct appeal of words through the interpretative medium of dramatic expression And in this she is wise, for the appeal is potent, and succeeds.

The Final Settlement

"The Final Settlement" a drama of to-day, will be the attraction at the Grand next Saturday, matinee and evening. This will be the first presentation of the play in the city. It is quite melo-dramatic, with a strong vein of good comedy. The story deals with the early struggles of a young foreman in one of the mills of a great iron corporation. Through an accident he is raised to the position of president of the corporation. His suddenly acquired wealth and position, and the allurements of life in the fast social set in which he moves, cause him to renounce the wife of his youthful struggles and privations and to seek companionship in the person of a beautiful actress whom he believes better qualified for the exacting demands society would make upon the wife of a man of his exalted commercial position and wealth. His subsequent ruin and his final rescue at the hands of the wife of his youth, form the basis of the melo-drama. The company presenting the play is a strong one — is now playing the big city time, and the production is in every way qualified to give the theatre goer a good evening's entertainment.

ALDERMEN DISCUSS WORK OF MR. DUGGAN AND THE RESULTS

Appropriation of $4,000 for Publicity Work for 1911—Ald. Morgan's Complaint—Deputations and Appointments—A Busy Session.

A question that seemed to be agitating the minds of several of the aldermen at last night's city council meeting, and particularly, that of Alderman Morgan, was, whether the salary of the publicity commissioner was an unnecessary expense to the city. Consequently that gentleman's duties and his work were thrown in the limelight of publicity and the question as to the advisability of retaining his services or dispensing with the office entirely, aroused some interesting discussion.

It was decided to try the experiment another year at the expense of four thousand a year. Ald. Morgan thought, in introducing the matter that the expense was too much for the results shown. A variety of opinions, both of approval and disapproval followed. Ald. Morgan suggestd cutting the outlay in two, but Ald. Bradburn, Duncan and Anderson disapproved of it. They were of the opinion that Mr. Duggan was making good, although much of his work was necessarily required to be secret. An amendment was moved by Ald. Anderson, that three thousand of his salary be paid by the city and the balance by private subscription for another year.

This was not put through, however, and the original appropriation stood, and if the commissioner's engagement is not renewed on May 15th the money will be appropriated to other departments. Ald. Buller was in favor of retaining the office. He had been originally opposed to the idea, but after seeing Mr. Duggan's work, was converted.

THE ASSESSORS.

Previous to this business, the committee of the whole council, with all members present, met at seven-thirty. The Mayor presided.

The question of the C.G.E. siding was the first item. It is to run across Park street into the company's property. The Board of Works looked over the scene and reported favorably on it. Ald. Morgan moved that the siding be built. Ald. Duncan inquired about a flagman for the protection of the public. The Board of Railway Commissioners with deal with that.

There was no scarcity of applications for assessors. Ten were sent in. Harry Thompson and W. J. Henry won out, and were appointed for the next year. Ald Buller bucked against it, being strongly inclined to favor T. B. McGrath as an assessor. He was without a seconder. The job required experience. Ald. Buller declared that party feeling or religion should not influence the Council in filling the office. The applicants were: T. B. McGrath, Geo. W. Powell, W. C. Bourn, W. J. Henry, Wm. VanEvery, Wm. H. Thompson, R. J. Kidd, W. Aldridge, W. J. Johnston, Thos. McKee. In committee Ald. Buller said that he regretted that conditions in Peterborough were such that the Roman Catholics were without representation. The Protestants left themselves open to the conclusion that they wanted to wipe the R.C.'s off the map.

The offices of City Trust Commissioner go to V. Eastwood, who is re-appointed, and to E. A. Peck, for a term of four years, who fills the vacancy caused by the death of H. LeBrun.

Revs. R. Pogue and C. H. Coon were present, representing the Ministerial Association. They wished the council to be given power to regulate the issuing of licenses for pool-rooms. They would like to see the statute amended on the matter, which at present makes no provision regarding number.

Ald. Duncan wanted to take $100 off the Fire, Water and Light Committee appropriation for adding to the comfort of the council room. No action was taken.

MUCH SMALL BUSINESS.

The council then adjourned to the council chambers.
budget of communications. Some were ancient and some new.

J. J. Turner appeared to ask for
The city clerk had a rather lengthy some electric illumination at the corner of his plant. Dr Scott had rendered a bill stating the amount of his services to Mrs. C. Warner, who sustained injuries through a defective sidewalk. It was referred to the Charity Board.

J. A. Porter, township clerk of South Monaghan, wrote regarding the pollution of the Otonabee river. A conference will be arranged between the township council and the city at an early date.

R. N. Scott is still hot-foot after damages, caused by his engine breaking through Mark street bridge some months ago.

A number of deputations present were next heard from. Ex-Ald. Turner was first, regarding the sign by-law. He considered it unfair that the owners of signs should be compelled to pay for inspection and also assume the liability for accidents from the same. The matter was referred to the Board of Works.

WANTED BIGGER GRANT.

Peter Campbell, for the Horticultural Society, was present. It was evident, he remarked, that a new sidewalk of concrete was required leading down from the court house in Victoria Park to the front of the park. He asked for a $200 grant to assist in the re-laying. It was also referred to the Board of Works.

Mr. Harry Beal, on behalf of the Horticultural Society, also addressed the Council asking for an increase in the annual grant, which is inadequate to cover expenses incidental to the proper care of the parks. The question will be settled by the Finance Committee.

Quite a number of by-laws were next heard and passed their second and third readings. Ald. Buller, when the assessor's by-law cropped up again urged that T. B. McGrath's name be inserted. There was nothing doing, however.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

The chairmen of the various committees submitted their reports, which were received and adopted without amendment. Ald. Morgan, for the Fire, Water and Light Committee, recommended that the Mayor be requested to interview the Auburn Power Company and ascertain whether an arrangement could be made to have a water main carried across the river in their new dam.

The Legal Committee reported having authorized the city solicitor to employ counsel and appeal the suit of Hatton vs. the city.

The Manufacturers' Committee had authorized the chairman to have an advertisement of the city published in the Canadian Hardware and Stove Journal to cost $25.

The Committee of the Whole Council reported that the Council did not object to the C.P.R. railway constructing their over-head bridge at George street.

The The Property Committee recommended that the Public Library Board be given $1,000 for the purpose of purchasing books for the library.

Ald. Metheral, chairman of the Board of Works, amongst other recommendations re the request of the Auburn Power Company, that the eastern boundary of Water street along their power canal be defined, they agreeing to pay half of the expense of having it done, be left in the hands of the city engineer with authority to employ a surveyor, if necessary. It was moved and adopted.

The concluding matter of business was reached when the Reception Committee was given authority to take whatever action necessary for the reception of the Hardware delegation on the 17th.

W. P. Marten, C.P.R. local freight agent at Montreal, has been given charge of the freight steamship service at Vancouver.

TAX RATE STAYS AT 22 MILLS; CITY'S FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Estimates for Year, With Details of the Funds and Expenditures—Much Valuable Information in Tabloid Form—Comparison With Other Years.

At the city council last night Ald. Bradburn as chairman of the Finance committee, presented the estimates for 1911, the rate being 22 mills, the same as last year. Mr. Bradburn, in reading the financial statement, took occasion to comment on the great increase in the rate to cover the debenture interest in the last few years. In 1909 the debenture interest rate was 2.09. In 1911 it was 5.53 mills, or an increase of nearly 3 1-2 mills in four years. The city requires $204,000 this year for all purposes, a considerable increase over last year's requirement.

The estimated revenue, other than taxes was $17,741.59, including the surplus of $5,441.59. The receipts in 1911 were $12,743.43.

The estimates for 1911, including the $4,000 for the commissioner, total $100,935, and allowing for the receipts from sources other than taxes, the general rates will require $83,193.41 to be raised.

The Collegiate school estimate is $20,300, public schools $12,200 and Separate schools $10,220, a total for schools of $72,729. The city trust requires for debentures $48,517, making a grand total of $204,430.88 required for the year.

The assessment for this year is $9,07,955, as compared with $8,813,273 for the previous year.

The total debenture debt of the city is $1,361,108.31, an increase during 1910 of $87,805.73. The public school supporters pay 22 mills and the Separate school supporters 21 mills rate.

The assets and liabilities statement shows assets of $47,353.04, and liabilities of $5,441.59.

The full details of the statements herewith summarised will be published to-morrow completely. The summary of the rate is:

LOCALS LOST IN OVERTIME; GOAL SCORED NOT COUNTED

With Game Tied up Kelly Tallied in Second Half But Score Was Not Allowed—Teams Played Thirty Minutes Extra Time and Were Going Strong at Midnight—Croft Won Game for Trenton—Score 3-2.

The Peterborough Intermediate O.H.A. team to-day stands defeated but not in any way disgraced. Just as sure as McGiffin, the Trenton goaltender stood in his nets, that puck shot by Fred Kelly, landed in behind the goal posts, and in a position that called for a goal to be counted. And that tally would have won the game for Peterborough. Naturally the boys protested, but there was no move on the part of any member of the team, towards the gate, leading to the dressing room, where Referee Whitehead gave his decision in favor of Trenton. The boys stayed right with the game and "dug in" with every muscle strained. Not one let up until the whistle blew for the finish of that ninety minutes of play. Such has been the spirit of sportsmanship shown by the players in all their games this season.

To win last night's game in Belleville with Trenton, by scoring the only goal of the second half, and yet go down to defeat was the experience of the local intermediates, who are now on the shelf for the remainder of this season, instead of being in the position, which they fairly won—champions of district No. 1.

And it happened like this.

With the score 2-2 at half time, the Petes returned to the ice, confident of landing the honors. When well into the half, Kelly took the puck up the side and shot dead on the nets, the rubber getting away from McGiffin and landing inside the posts. Hundreds of spectators claimed it to be a tally but the goal umpire couldn't see it that way and refused to award the counter to Peterboro.

PLAYED AT MIDNIGHT.

Referee Whitehead called for a face off in front of the nets, and play continued, without a tally for the remainder of the hours going.

Two five minute halves followed and still no score. Another two and the game stood the same, a tie 2-2. The third period of ten minutes was commenced with the fingers on the watches in the hands of the timekeepers, but a short distance from the midnight hour.

The first five minutes over— the same story. The teams exchanged goals, and finally with but one minute to play, Croft secured the puck near his position at point, moved swiftly down the ice, around one player and then another. He was worked into the side, but by a magnificent exhibition of stickhandling, retained possession of the disc, worked his way out and shot, into the unguarded corner of the Peterboro nets.

It was a great finish to a hard gruelling game, which the Petes had the better of the argument, and with a crippled team at that.

KELLY WAS GAME.

Kelly played with a sprained wrist and he been able to shoot, there would have been no overtime played for Trenton would have gone down to their third consecutive defeat, at the hands of the blue and white.

McMillan laughed when they asked him to play cover. It was to be his first experience at that position and yet he went out and played a strong game. Not, of course, such as Fred. Denison would have put up, on his showing in the other two games, but the light haired boy was here, and there and all over, doing his best, to help win the struggle.

HELP FOR TRENTON.

With the regular line-up, The Petes would have registered another big score against the easterners, who will now go into the second round. Just how far they will travel, all depends on where the first game is played. If it's away from Trenton, another aggregation will have connected with the shelf, and it won't be the other team.

GOALTENDERS STARRED.

The game was fast throughout with the Belleville rink well filled with an enthusiastic attendance, the teams breaking even, in the number of rooters. There was lots of combination and individual plays, and of the class that warms the heart of a hockey fan. But maybe the goaltenders didn't shine! Both Derocher and McGiffin were at their best and blocked repeatedly, shots, that looked good to land behind them. A blow up at either goal would have settled the game in its early stages, both lines were pegging away at every opportunity. Fletcher had a great chance to put his team in the lead, in the second overtime period, getting a pass not ten feet out from Derocher, he shot a hot one, but Laj picked it off, for which he received a glad hand from the crowd.

Every man in the local team played for every ounce that was in him. Capt. Ray was given a stiff jolt by Croft, early in the first half, and it affected his playing for the rest of the contest. He was banged into the boards as he rushed alone. Kelly despite his injured hand worked up to his usual good form, but was unable to shoot with any great speed or accuracy. Giroux repeated his performance of Friday night as did also Sarels. Bond saved the game on half a dozen occasions during the overtime periods by stopping lone rushes at his position.

Two hundred left on the special, which arrived at Belleville shortly after eight o'clock. The return trip commenced about one o'clock, and it was 4.45 a.m. when the station was reached again.

The teams were:—

	Peterborough
	Derocher
	Bond
	McMillan
	Ray
Sarels	Fletcher	Kelly
	G
Armstrong	Fletcher	Powers
	Palmer
	McGaw
	Croft
	McGiffin
	Trenton

THE PLAY.

The teams were sent away at 9.05. Kelly and Ray took the opening shots and Powers drew first penalty. Following an assault on the Peterborough goal, McMillan was banished after stopping a two-man play. On the return McGiffin stopped a shot, and McGaw securing rushed alone, only to be blocked by Bond. Derocher was called upon to handle several stiff shots, but finally Palmer and Fletcher got away, giving the shot to Armstrong, who placed the rubber in the Peterborough nets.

Croft intercepted the pass on a likely looking play by Giroux and Ray. The latter tried again and failed. McGaw was chased. Both teams were going strong with the play about even. Powers was next man to do time, and after Derocher had warded off a shot following a Fletcher-Armstrong rush, Kelly, Ray and Giroux contributed the play that tied the score, Giroux placing the puck behind McGiffin.

McMillan went off again for getting Fletcher on a dangerous rush. Ray, Kelly and Giroux got going again but the shot went into McGaw. The Trenton captain carried the rubber for the next tally, giving the pass to Palmer, who had an open shot. Trenton 2, Peterborough 1.

Sarels evened up again on a side shot after an unsuccessful assault on Derocher.

Giroux went to the timekeepers for hoisting McGaw, Sarels went down with Ray, who shot high. McGaw came on, secured, only to waste a shot. On the return, Sarels sent the rubber at McGaw.

Kelly contributed a speedy one that had McGiffin guessing, but he managed to get it. Giroux was hurt at the boards, Armstrong drawing a penalty, and just before time was called McMillan was handed three minutes for stopping Palmer, who had a rosy chance to connect with the flags.

SECOND HALF.

On resuming Powers was given a rest for tripping. Peterborough worked the rubber to the Trenton goal nothing but the toughest kind of hard luck prevented a score. Armstrong returned and drifted into the defence, losing a nice chance to put his team ahead. Shots were exchanged, but the great work of Derocher and McGiffin kept the game tied up. Powers went off for chopping Giroux, Kelly pulled off a board rush, but there was nothing doing. McMillan went into McGaw and saved again, being rewarded with another rest. Giroux missed a pass out from Kelly. Fletcher and Armstrong broke away together, the shot going high. Derocher was called upon to step lively on a slider, Sarles had hard luck on a chance near McGiffin. McGaw broke a skate and Bond went off to even up. Croft fell down out from Derocher when he had a lone shot and McMillan was canned again. Ray relieved Fletcher of the rubber and returned, losing to defence, and Sarels lost to Croft. Derocher blocked two shots with no defence. Croft went off and Kelly, following a board jaunt sent the puck past McGiffin. The goal umpire refused to call it a counter and the referee faced the puck again. McGaw and Bond came on again.

Despite the great efforts of the two teams for the balance of the half, the nets remained unbulged.

OVERTIME.

The first overtime period saw both teams missing chances at the nets. Derocher and Bond stopped several likely looking scores for Trenton, and McGiffin worked overtime, in his nets.

Another period of the same time and still there remained no change in the situation, with the exception that the Trenton bunch looked ready to drop.

It was up to Croft to pull the string in the third period, he finding a hole, after a great rush and with one minute to play the locals were held safe.

Scoring summary:—

FIRST HALF

The east city hockey seven will journey to Lakefield, Wednesday night, to meet a seven of that place and the boys are leaving by bus from the post office corner at 6.35 p.m. Any boys wishing to take in the trip are requested to be in hand in good time. The east city line-up will be—Goal, H. Tate; point, J. Revoy; cover, G. Fox; rover, F. Guerin, centre, A. Houghton; right wing, T. Stoker; left wing, E. Measley.

In a Mercantile League game last night, the Tool Room seven won from the Lock Works team 4-3

The bankers' team was defeated at Marmora last night 10—4. The local boys played on an open air rink and in the storm.

CAN GRILLERS STOP THEM?

Kingston Frontenacs Here To-night—Sproule to Referee

And now its the Grillers and Kingston Frontenacs to-night.

Dame fortune ought to smile on the local youngsters to make up for her evident lack of sympathy with the intermediates at Belleville just a few short hours ago.

Frontenacs are coming with the intention of not only winning the game but to gather as many counters as possible.

But the Grillers will be there too and ready for any kind of attacking dodges the visitors may attempt to uncover. The ice will be in splendid condition and the struggle between the two teams promises to be a pretty one to witness.

Harvey Sproule will referee and the local lineup will be as follows:

Goal—Patterson.
Point—Reynolds.
Cover—Heffernan.
Rover—Coughlin.
Centre—Hall.
Right—Anderson.
Left Matthews.

Frontenacs were to arrive at 4.30 with about fifty supporters and the lineup is;

Goal—Marchand.
Point—Davidson.
Cover—McCammon.
Centre—Hunt.
Rover—Brouse
Left—Millan.
Right—Boyer.
Spare—Williams.

SPORT TALK

The Port Hope Guide has the following to say in connection with a report at the Port Hope-Picton pro. game of Friday night:

The attendance was very small, enough to discourage the management. Port Hope clamored for hockey early in the season and the statement on all sides was "get a good team and we will support it." The management gathered together a speedy septette, yes, the fastest in Ontario, and now evidently because they are trimming everything in sight the enthusiasm is becoming luke-warm. There might be some excuse if the team were losing, but with a winning team putting up the brand of hockey they are, it is a shame the patronage they have received on the last two occasions. Here is Peterborough playing to crowded houses, and it is safe to say that five of the Port Hope pros. would defeat the whole Peterborough team with ease.

It is certain that Port Hope will win the championship in the east, and it was their intention to play off with the winners of the west for the provincial championship.

TO BE SUPPORTED BY HUSBAND

Harold Wadely Will Assist Barbara Tennant

An interesting fact in connection with the presentation of "Cinders" a splendid little sketch adopted for Miss Tennant, is that she will be supported by her husband, Mr. Harold Wadely, who is well known in Peterboro, as the manager of the Brinton Carpet Works. Mr. Wadely before coming to Canada took a very lively interest in things theatrical—particularly the artistic, and his taking in this splendid piece of realism, shows another score—or rather a broadening out of his art.

BRIGHT YOUNG LIFE AT A CLOSE

Death of James Grady an Early Hour This Morning

James Grady, 18 years of age, and the third son of Mr. John Grady, 122 Park Street, passed away about 5 o'clock this morning after a brief illness. Deceased had attended the local Collegiate Institute and had he been spared, would have graduated from Commercial II, in June.

He was always very popular among his many friends and schoolmates, and they will regret to learn his demise.

Death was due to heart trouble.

The late Mr. Grady leaves to mourn his loss his parents, four brothers and three sisters.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Thursday morning, at nine o'clock, proceeding to the Sacred Heart Church, thence to St. Peters' Cemetery.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENTERTAINED

Enjoyable Evening at All Saints' An Old Fashioned Spelling Match

All Saints' Young People's Society entertained the Young People of St. John's and St. Luke's in the parish hall last evening. In spite of the weather a goodly number of all three churches were present, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A feature of the evening was an old fashioned spelling match. First St John's defeated All Saints' and then met defeat at the hands of St. Luke's. Successful spellers excited great applause and the contests were most enjoyable and interesting. The winners' prizes were awarded Miss Eva Graham, of St. Luke's, and Miss L. Whitcroft, of St John's. To Miss Adams, of St. Luke's and Mr. Miles of St John's, were also given tokens of the audience's confidence that they would be more at home on smaller words. Rev. Mr. Carpenter, of St. John's, presented the prizes.

The programme was as follows.

Instrumental duet—Misses McKee and Starke.

Piano solo—Miss Phyllis Dawson.

RECIPROCITY IS DENOUNCED

Lord Lansdowne intimated that the House of Lords was still ready to negotiate with the Government on the necessary changes in the constitution of the Upper Chamber and the relations between the two Houses. James Ramsay Macdonald, who, yesterday elected chairman of the Labor party to replace George Nicoll Barnes, who retired on account of illness, characterized Mr. Balfour's description of the reciprocity agreement as an imperial disaster, as the most awkward and colossal blunder he had ever heard in Parliament.

The Prime Minister replied to the Opposition speeches, saying that for the present it would be wise to withhold criticism of the reciprocity agreement. It was as certain as the rising of the sun, that sooner or later the U. S. would have been bound to level the tariff wall with Canada. He said it was certain that the Government could do nothing by preference to prevent the natural trend of even this.

It is expected that the debate on the address will be carried over into next week. As the speech from the throne made no mention of the Aliens Act, the Opposition has given notice of an amendment raising this question.

The Irish party, at a prolonged meeting, adopted a resolution to the effect that, while approving the principle of the payment of members of the House of Commons, they desired this measure excluded until home rule has been granted, preferring to depend on voluntary contributions, and would therefore ask the Government to devote the money to some useful public purpose in Ireland. It is known that Mrs. Asquith is opposed to any such differential action, and is unlikely to accede to this.

CASE OF EGGS WAS STOLEN

From Scott & Hogg's Storehouse East City—Thieves Entered Through Window

The storehouse belonging to Messrs. Scott and Hogg, East City, was entered by thieves some time last night, and one case of eggs stolen. Entrance was made through four panes of glass which were removed by the thieves, on the east side of the building.

It was evident that they were in quest of money, as the bookkeeper's desk was ransacked also. They contented themselves with the eggs.

Mr. McDonald, the bookkeeper, was the first to discover the loss when he came down to work this morning.

The matter is in the hands of the police for investigation.

DRURY TO SPEAK TO THE FARMRE

He Will Address Clubs in Peterborough County

Arrangements are being made in connection with the Farmers' Clubs in Peterborough County, for the holding of a series of meetings, which are to be addressed by Mr. E. C. Drury, of Crown Hill, Ont. Mr. Drury is secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, which represents the Farmers and Grain Growers' Associations of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and the Dominion Grange. Mr. Drury was the leading speaker for the farmers, who acted on the large deputation that waited on the Dominion Government in Ottawa last December. The meetings that have been arranged up to the present, are as follows;

Warsaw, Wednesday, February 15th, 2 p.m.

Lakefield, Wednesday, February 15th, 8 p.m.

Stewart's Corners, Thursday, February 16th, 2 p.m.

Central Smith, Thursday, Feb. 16th, 8 p.m.

Monaghan Town Hall, Friday, Feb. 17th, 2 p.m.

Norwood, Friday, February 17th, 8 p.m.

King of Canada.

Sydney, N.S., Feb. 7.—A luncheon was yesterday tendered to Sir Henry Pellatt by the City Council and business men of Sydney. In responding to an address of welcome from the city, Mayor Gunn referred to Sir Henry as the uncrowned king of Canada.

Montreal Snowed Up.

Montreal, Feb. 7.—Five thousand men and 1,500 carts are now engaged by the city to remove the snow from the streets. The city engineer states that it will take over a week before the snow is all cleared away from the streets where there are car tracks.

HAUNTED JUNGLE.

An Explorer's Vivid Description of Dutch New Guinea.

Details of the experiences and hardships of the British expedition in Dutch New Guinea, which for months past has been engaged in an apparently hopeless attempt to reach the great interior snow range, show that Mr. Goodfellow, the leader of the expedition, is now on his way home owing to sickness. Writing at the end of August from the British camp at Parimau, on the Upper Mimika river, one of the explorers says: "A climate hot, steamy, and unhealthy, never varying more than 25 degrees Fahr., night or day, winter or summer. Sickness and disease rampant, and deaths the rule rather than the exception. Heavy rains and storms all the year round, hardly a day or night passing without a downpour; and during the so-called wet season, June-September, incessant rain night and day, and, in consequence, heavy floods. About a week ago Capt. Rawlings and Dr. Marshall had just reached the Iwaka river by a 5 1-2 mile route, which, however, only places us three miles or so due east. The jungle in this direction is the worst we have yet encountered, and one might well spend a life-time in jungle trails and yet meet with nothing to equal this. The mere fact that it exists in one of the only remaining spots of the world yet to be explored is sufficient reason for presuming that the difficulties to be overcome are exceptional.

It is virgin jungle, never before trodden by the foot of man; to its hidden depths the natives are complete strangers; the pigmies from the hills shun it; and the natives from the low lands fear it, and do not probe its dark mysteries. The outskirts and more open parts bordering the river are frequented by cassowary, boar, and wallaby, and are the haunt of the greater Bird of Paradise, whose shrill, joyous calls from its dancing trees enliven these dark depths. Less than a mile from the river the trees and saplings encroach upon one another to such an extent that it is impossible for a man to stand at any spot without being touched on every side by their straight stems. In addition to this these are heavy undergrowth and many other obstructions from falling and rotting trees. It is the haunt of all creeping things, from the deadly puff adder to the greater, yet comparatively harmless python. Noxious insects abound, and leeches swarm on the saturated, moss-ridden trees and undergrowth. Everything decaying; no air seems to circulate there, and what little there is is foetid and stifling.

Dismal, dark, dripping—this is the jungle where for days and weeks we have been trying to cut a path, along which we may squeeze through to the big valley, which undoubtedly lies 12 or 13 miles to the east. With Gurkhas and natives cutting and hacking with axes for hours on end, some slight advance is made. Never a halt or rest—for as soon as one man's hand gives out, rendered incapable by bruises and blisters, his place is promptly taken by another and a fitter. Four weeks' arduous and constant work has resulted in the cutting of 5,900 yards of road."

Dr. Eric Marshall in a letter gives some interesting details of the natives in these unknown regions. He says: "Woman out here is relegated to a very inferior position. Her duties are numerous, for she drags up the children, cuts the firewood, brings in the sago from the sago swamps, and works the canoes so far as poling and paddling go; occasionally proving her skill as a warrior in the family and village quarrels, and always coming off best with her tongue. The tailoring department does not worry her much, she being usually content with a strip of bark cloth which adorns her person if it does not suffice to clothe her.

On the death of a man—men predominate in this region—the night is spent by the mourners in shouting, chanting, and yelling around a large fire, with the purpose of driving away the ghosts or devils. From time to time the widow, clad like Eve, but as ugly as Satan, crawls around the grave wailing and chanting, and performing weird movements with arms and body."

Premier's Test of Fitness.

Brockett Hall, Hatfield, where the King and Queen are to pay a visit to Lord and Lady Mount Stephen, formerly belonged to Lord Palmerston, and it was there he went after his last election for Tiverton. Of those last days a story has been told of the moribund Premier's unconquerable pluck and cheerfulness. There were then some tall railings just opposite the front door. One day the invalid, who imagined himself unobserved, was seen to walk out bareheaded and deliberately climb over the rails and climb back again to feel how fit he was.

One of the real romances of life is associated with the career of Lord Mount Stephen. Born of Scottish parents, he received his early education in a parish school, and worked between his studies as a herd boy. He passed into a draper's shop in Aberdeen, and when in his twenty-first year emigrated to Canada, where he made a fortune in the woollen trade, and largely financed the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He received the honor of a peerage in 1891, and is one of the most generous men in the world, generally contributing to charities in thousands of pounds.

A Well-Earned Honor.

Cordial congratulations from members of both parties reached Sir Robert Hudson, chief agent of the Liberal party, when he was knighted in 1906, for he has earned the respect and goodwill of political opponents as well as political friends. The knighthood came to him as a complete surprise, being carefully planned by the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and it was an honor richly deserved, for, thanks to Sir Robert, the Liberal party was never better equipped for fighting than it is to-day.

WATER COMMISSIONERS TELL OF WORK AND EXPENSES OF DAM

Details of the Big Job Handed to City Council by the Commission—Information on Power and Other Matters

The report of the water commissioners on the construction of the new dam and other works was made last night to the City Council, giving an account of the work and expenditure. The report was—

"Although there remain to be adjusted some small amounts with the contractor in relation to the new dam and pump house, your commissioners feel that the time has arrived when as full information as possible should be given of the works constructed and the sums expended by them.

"When asking the people for a vote of $120,000 for a new dam and pump house and pumping machinery, it was the opinion of the commissioners and of their engineer, Mr. William Kennedy, jr., of Montreal, that this amount would be sufficient to build the dam and pumping station, and install an additional set of pumps capable of discharging three million gallons of water every twenty-four hours against a pressure of one hundred and thirty pounds to the square inch. The commissioners had the estimate from their engineer, arrived at after a careful survey of the whole situation and had also as a guide the judgment of their superintendent, Mr. Henderson whose large experience is well known.

"For several years your commissioners were convinced that it would be necessary to build a new dam, if it was desired to take advantage of the full flow and fall of the river for pumping and power purposes, the old dam having served almost to the limit of its usefulness the object for which it had been erected. If the city had remained stationary in population and consumption of water, it would have been possible to struggle on a while longer with the old dam and the same pumping plant, but when it was considered that the number of water takers had increased from 1070 in 1901 (with 18 miles of mains) to over 3000 in 1910 (with 35 miles of mains) and was likely to increase at the rate of 250 to 300 in water users each year, it will be seen that it has become an imperative necessity there should be increased pumping capacity, and that the city should erect a dam that could be relied on and would develop greatly increased power.

As far back as 1908 the matter was carefully considered, and information obtained from expert engineers, not only as to the rebuilding of the old dam, but on water purification and filtration as well, and the commissioners had decided to advise going ahead then, but during the next two years the condition of the money market together with the high cost of materials made it appear to be wiser to await a more favorable opportunity. Therefore, the old dam was kept repaired and in as good working order as possible.

WORK WAS STARTED.

In the fall of 1908 it was thought that the time was opportune, and on the advice of the engineer and superintendent it was decided to abandon the old site and move down stream 700 feet to where, apparently, a better river bottom, more head and, consequently more power, could be obtained, and where the distance across the river was less by 200 feet than at the old dam. Estimate plans for the new dam, etc., were prepared, and two years ago the council was asked to submit a by-law to raise $120,000 for their erection which was carried by a large majority.

When it became known that operations were about to begin, the company owning the power next above, notified the commissioners through their solicitors that they must not infringe on the company's rights by raising the water, and that their actions would be carefully watched. This related to the greater head of water proposed to be carried at the new dam, and the increased backing up of the water of the river towards Nassau. The owners of Nassau had considerable land on the east side of the river below their dam, but they did not own nearly all the land on the west side of the river, the larger part being owned by the estate of the late J. M. Irwin. It appeared to the commissioners that it was of vital consideration to the city that this Irwin property should be purchased from the executors, the National Trust Company Limited, immediately it was found to be on the market. The land in question is known to many citizens as the home of Mr. Harvey and his boat, the portion of the river opposite his house being the "Harvey Rapids." This purchase included the large fields down the river from his house and extends 1,000 feet up-stream to within 800 feet of the Nassau dam. The cost was $2,000. Your commissioners felt at the time and equally so now, that for obvious reasons this was a prudent and provident course to take and that it was necessary to act promptly in the matter. The city now owns the land and power rights, if any, on one side of the river, and it is not likely that there will be the least friction with the power company at Nassau, so long as the water is not actually backed on their wheels. The city's dam will have from 12 to 13 feet of head instead of ten feet. The McCauley property on which the western end of the dam rests, had to be acquired, and cost $1,500. It has a frontage on the river of about 450 feet.

The commissioners also purchased from John Stothart a further strip of land south of the McCauley property, of about 500 feet along the river, at the price of $200. This was obtained in order to secure a better tail race and enable dredging and excavation to be made at a future time, when it is desired to have a more free discharge of the water from the wheels. The city now owns over 1,500 feet of frontage on each side of the river adjoining the dam, in addition to the Irwin property.

A HEAVY EXPENSE.

One unexpected, heavy additional expense incurred was in connection with the river bottom where the dam was placed. The rock was found to be rotten and porous, and it was necessary to take out many hundreds of yards more than estimated, which called for the replacing by an immense mass of concrete. The estimated quantities of the engineer and the actual amount of materials taken out and put in are dealt with in the statement presented with this report. In it is included a further large quantity for excavation and concrete for the erection of extra deep heavy, additional piers intended for the foundations of a power house that the city might think fit to erect at its own expense, and which were intended by the commissioners as a substitute, for the proposed expenditure by the city council of $15,000 at the east end of the dam. This now represents an extra of about $3,000.

Some time after building operations began, it was seen that the engineer's estimate would be below the actual requirements, but it was impracticable to suspend operations and ask for a further sum, as even then it could not be determined how much would be required. The situation presented was one that it was impossible to have foreseen. Therefore, it was decided to push the work through to completion and the only regret felt by the commissioners is that this should have been made the subject of discussion before knowing the facts, and before the final settlement had been obtained with the contractor, who, in addition to the small items not yet adjusted is making a large demand for unwatering, which the engineer has not allowed, and which your commissioners are advised by counsel the city is not responsible for.

TO PREVENT CONTAMINATION.

In addition to the above it was decided to do certain work along the banks of the river above the dam, so as to prevent contamination of the water at flood time. This, also, was extra work. It was necessary to put a concrete core wall in the embankment on the west side. The first intention was to build a watertight embankment with a clay core, but it was found impossible to obtain enough good clay for the purpose. The expense would not have been much different and the engineer advised using concrete.

It was also decided to install another pumping unit to cost $9,736, in order to bring the capacity up to the point demanded by the Fire Underwriters, namely, ten million gallons per day of twenty-four hours. To make the plant still more efficient, a venturi meter was purchased at a cost of $1,404, plus the cost of installation, in order that an accurate daily and also hourly record of the quantity of water pumped might be made, whether the pumps were in all respects doing their proper work.

After a careful scrutiny of the engineer's estimate together with his final statements now given of the cost of the dam construction, etc., your commissioners are hopeful the ratepayers will be satisfied they have throughout acted in the best interests of the city. To spend wisely, as they believe they have done, the large sum of money entrusted to them, has only been accomplished at the sacrifice of very considerable time on their part, and of continued anxious attention to the details of all the works in hand. Every expenditure has been carefully scrutinized, and when the work is complete and the opportunity given of an inspection of what the commissioners consider to be the best municipal pumping plant of any city in Canada of less than 30,000 population, they are assured the cost will not be considered excessive.

LEASE OF DAM.

About six months ago at the request of the City Council your commissioners made a lease of the surplus water at the dam to the Canadian General Electric Company, for a period of twenty years at the reserved rental of $2,000 per year, the company binding itself to erect on the extra heavy piers adjoining the east end of the pump house a power house similar to the pump house, of about 45 feet square and to install therein modern machinery for the generation and transmission of electric power. It was estimated that if the city had proceeded with this development of power the cost would have been at least $70,000, and judging from the work already done by the company it appears to your commissioners that the cost will be considerably greater. All the improvements of the company and the machinery will become the property of the city at the expiry of the lease and both the building and the machinery must at all times be kept in first-class condition by the lessees. The commissioners reserve the right to take all the flow of the river that is necessary for pumping power and for supplying water takers, and for fire protection, the surplus only going to the company. This surplus water is estimated to produce about 1,000 h.p. It will be observed that the rent to be paid and the return of the property without cost to the city at 20 years, represent an annual value of at least $4,000, thus paying interest at 4 1-2 per cent. on $90,000. The arrangement looks like a good one for the city.

In conclusion, your commissioners would point out that the revenue of the waterworks department is sufficient to meet the additional demand for interest and sinking fund required by reason of the construction of the new works and no additional water rates or taxes will have to be imposed.

As a matter of further information it may be mentioned that the water rates have supplied sufficient income to operate the works and to pay the interest on all the debentures issued, and have also contributed from the year 1902 to 1910, inclusive, $65,135 as a sinking fund to retire the debentures at maturity.

MAY FEEL PROUD.

Your commissioners confidently believe the city is now possessed of a dam and pumping station of excellent design and lasting construction, supplied with a pumping plant not surpassed in quality in the Dominion, to all which the citizens will be able to point with some degree of pride, and upon which they can always rely to effectly answer all demands on them.

Much attention has been given to the absolute necessity of securing a good and healthy supply of water for citizens and the river and Stony Lake have been carefully patrolled for the past two years, in an endeavor to prevent impurities from entering, which has had a very improving effect on the water supply. It is intended to continue in this course until every apparent source of danger is removed.

Attention is drawn to the fact that the city owns a block of 18 acres on the east side of the river at the dam, over there is a bridge. This property is suitable for park purposes, and your commissioners would suggest that the city make the necessary improvements and have the street railway extended to the pump house which would be reached in a fifteen-minute ride from the centre of the city. It is hoped the City Council may take this suggestion into their early consideration.

LIMITS SALE WAS ERROR

Liberal M.L.A. Criticizes the Government

Tax Proposed on Automobiles and Churches

Toronto, Feb. 8.—Attracted by the announcement that S. Clarke, the redoubtable debater of West Northumberland, would resume the budget debate, with, it was expected, old-time humor, the galleries contained many listeners yesterday afternoon. Mr. Clarke, however, took the tone of a serious, financial critic of the Government.

It would be impossible, said the member for West Northumberland, for any member of the House to master the contents of the big book of public accounts covering over eight millions expenditures.

He noticed that whenever the name of the Minister of Mines was mentioned it seemed to act like electricity on Government members. (Ministerial applause.) He did not know the reason why; perhaps they did? (Renewed Ministerial applause.) But there was one little item, or rather, one big item about which he did not do his whole duty. That was in respect to the sale of the Gillies' limits. It was one of the greatest errors of judgment imaginable. The Department, after a few small pettifogging advertisements, sold the Gillies' limit to A. J. Young for $10,500, and the purchaser resold the limit in October of the same year to a firm of Montreal contractors for $330,000.

Mr. Ferguson—"What could you buy it for now?"

Mr. Clarke—"That has nothing to do with it."

Recurring to the financial statement, Mr. Clarke opined that a $3,400 balance was a very small margin on an expenditure of $9,000,000, and it must have required, as the Provincial Treasurer had said, some very careful bookkeeping.

Seven years ago the total expenditure did not exceed $5,000,000. He considered that $4,000,000 was a large increase for the last six years, especially as Col. Matheson had got up in the House six years ago and decried an expenditure of $5,000,000 at the end of ten and a half years of Liberal rule.

"The way he used to depict the Liberal extravagance," announced the talker, "I could almost see the price of coffins raising."

When Mr. Clarke suggested that the Government might get some added revenue by taxing the automobiles—not extremely, but tax them for running up and down the Ontario roads. People in the rural sections had no right to keep up the roads for the auto owners "to go and do as they pleased."

Then the $80,000 revenue from liquor licenses was touched up. If the Government had left the old act and the square equal vote alone, they wouldn't have an increased revenue without increasing the licenses.

J. W. Johnson, West Hastings, Conservative, said that the feeling of the public of Ontario towards the Government was one of satisfaction, confidence and gratitude.

The province was prospering as never before, and it was regretable that this condition was threatened by the reciprocity proposals, which also would tend to the disintegration of the Empire.

J. McEwing (West Wellington), in a speech which was not concluded when the House adjourned, declared that there would be a deficit of three and a half millions, and he contended that his predictions were realized in the present budget. It would so appear, too, but for a beautiful system of bookkeeping.

Charles Beresford

Will retire from the navy on Friday.

Mr. McEwing attributed to Hon. Senator George W. Ross and Senator McMullen "the weakness of old age," because they had spoken against reciprocity.

C. R. McKeown (Dufferin) will shortly introduce a bill to abolish the exemption on land covered by and immediately surrounding church buildings.

Hon. J. S. Duff has been applied to by the Ontario Plowman's Association for a grant of $1,000.

Hon. J. S. Hendrie is expected to introduce a bill to control the powers of street railway companies with respect to the enforcement of the company's bylaws and the establishment of P.A.Y.E. systems.

Died From Exposure.

Bolton, Feb. 8.—Thomas McGuire of Bolton, a single man, 60 years of age, was found on the highway yesterday morning apparently frozen, by a farmer coming into town. Upon examination McGuire was found to be alive. A doctor was summoned, but he expired shortly afterwards without regaining consciousness. It appeared he had been walking home from Locktown, a place about ten miles from Bolton, where he had been acting as bailiff, and must have become exhausted with the snow and extreme cold.

Madrid, Feb. 8.—Joaquin Costa, the republican leader in Spain, died this morning, after a long and troubled political career.

Suing Dun's Bulletin.

Kingston, Feb. 8.—Action for libel for $50,000 has been entered by Walter Telfer, proprietor of the British American Hotel, against R. G. Dun & Co., Toronto, publishers of Dun's Bulletin. The alleged libel was for publication of a report that his hotel had been placed in the hands of a receiver.

Fire at North Bay.

North Bay, Feb. 8.—The new block of J. E. Farrell was damaged by fire originating in oakum stored in the basement, used as a plumbing shop. The damage amounted to $1,000 on the building and $1,000 on stock, covered by insurance.

Another Banker Guilty.

New York, Feb. 7.—Wm. R. Montgomery, former president of the Hamilton Bank of New York, a state institution, was found guilty late yesterday of feloniously converting to his own use $4,400 of the bank's funds.

CROWD WAS DISAPPOINTED; TARIFF DISCUSSION OFF

Hon. Mr. Graham Corrected Some Figures in Connection With Cost of Railway.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—It was a disappointed crowd that filled the galleries of the House of Commons yesterday. Interest was keen on a promised debate on the reciprocity issue, but a pall seemed to fall on the chamber when Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced that, in accordance with the leader of the Opposition, the debate on the tariff proposal would go over until Thursday of this week.

The Opposition seem to be marking time. There is some rumor that an amendment will be moved to the resolution already introduced by Mr. Fielding. Again, it is suggested that the hand of the Opposition will be withheld until the bill is brought before the House. In the interval Mr. Pugsley had a long session at the estimates of his Department.

Hon. Mr. Graham corrected the figures given on Monday as to the cost of the eastern division of the National Transcontinental Railway up to the end of December, 1910. The cost was $93,920,956.

When the vote of $35,000 for repairs, etc., to Rideau Hall was under consideration, Dr. Reid (Grenville) asked if there was any truth in the report that the Government had decided to erect a new residence for the Governor-General.

Mr. Pugsley replied that Rideau Hall was not creditable to this great country. Improvements involving $300,000 had been proposed, but he personally thought it would be better to sell the residence, the value of which was $700,000, and erect a new Government House on some commanding site in the City of Ottawa, which would be a credit to the country.

Paid $25 For Hug and Kiss.

Brantford, Feb. 8.—For offering his company to a young lady while walking along Brant avenue Monday night, and finally hugging and kissing her against her wish, Orval Saunders, a local young man, was fined $25 or 60 days by Magistrate Howell at the Police Court yesterday. The magistrate held the performance to be no joke and set a high premium on indiscriminate kissing in Brantford. The fine was paid.

Death of F. J. Devlin.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Fred. J. Devlin formerly of Montreal, and a brother of Hon. Charles R. Devlin, Quebec Minister of Mines, and E. B. Devlin, M.P., died Monday night at the home of his father at Aylmer, Que. He was in his 47th year, and death was due to paralysis.

Calls It a Lie.

Winnipeg, Feb. 8.—Officials of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association vigorously deny and resent the charges contained in the address of Hon. Price Ellison at Victoria on Monday. They say the statement regarding an alleged bribe by J. J. Hill is a lie, base and ridiculous. "When a Minister of the crown," they say, "stoops to make such improbable statements, the situation becomes alarming."

Hitch In Armistice.

Washington, Feb. 8.—A deadlock in the proposed armistice in Honduras is threatened. The Government authorities contend that the status quo in the situation should be maintained, pending the establishment of an armistice, while Gen. Bonilla desires to occupy Puerto Cortez as a condition to accepting the armistice.

Prominent Nobleman and Descendant of Macbeth Dies

Special to the Review.

London, Feb. 8.—Earl Cawdor, formerly the First Lord of the Admiralty, and one of the most prominent railroad men in Britain, died to-day at the age of 63. He was a descendant of Shakespeare's Macbeth.

The Power Was Off.

Hamilton, Feb. 8.—A fire broke out in the power-house of the Dominion Power and Transmission Co.—the Cataract Co.—at Decew Falls yesterday morning, and for several hours the plant of every factory in this district was at a standstill.

The power came on again about 10 a.m., but as the manufacturers thought it would not be available until noon at least, they had sent home their hands for the day. The street cars were stalled around the system, and at intervals all morning, while the suburban traffic was tied up for hours, and badly congested.

The advocates of the Hydro-Electric are using the breakdown of the Cataract power this morning as a forcible argument of having an alternative system in the city.

Paid $200 For Neglect.

Hamilton, Feb. 8.—Magistrate Jelfs yesterday placed an important construction on the statute governing the guarding of ice fields.

Hugh O'Heir, manager of Dewey & O'Heir, ice company, who, at the enquiry into the deaths of Frederick and Albert Smith, the two young men drowned, in Dewey & O'Heir's ice field, assumed responsibility for the protection for skaters, was fined $200.

His worship declared that the guard—and he did not consider trees guards — should be of sufficient strength to prevent a skater breaking through and drowning.

Sylvia Pankhurst Arrives.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Sylvia Pankhurst, member of the noted English family of militant suffragettes, arrived in Ottawa from New York yesterday afternoon, after being snowbound for several hours south of the city on the Ottawa and New York Railway. Miss Pankhurst delivered an address in behalf of the equal suffrage cause here last night. She was welcomed by a deputation of the Ottawa Equal Suffrage Association, and in an interview expressed the conviction that her cause would triumph in England within a very few years.

Report From Shanghai of Stabbing Affair

Special to the Review.

Tokio, Feb. 8.—There is an unconfirmed report here that the prince regent of China has been stabbed by a palace attache. The report comes from Shanghai, but it is denied from Pekin. It is believed that a plot exists to depose him, however.

Amendment to Address.

London, Feb. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Commons notice was given last night of the official Opposition amendment to the address on the fiscal question, which Austin Chamberlain moves to-day in the following terms: "This House expresses regret at the persistent refusal of His Majesty's Government to modify the fiscal system of this country, imperilling the advantages at present derived by British commerce from the preference granted by the dominions overseas, has deferred commercial union of the Empire and deprived the country of the most effective method of inducing foreign countries to grant fair terms to British manufacturers." The debate has been arranged to extend over two nights and a division will be taken on Thursday.

Did Not Talk Reciprocity.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Contrary to expectations, the Canadian Lumbermen's Association did not take any action with regard to reciprocity at their annual meeting, held here yesterday afternoon. The lumbermen will ask the Board of Railway Commissioners to revise their order relating to export and freight rates on lumber.

Reports of the various officers showed that the session has had a good year. It now has 81 members, divided among the provinces as follows: Ontario 47, Quebec 17, British Columbia 15, Manitoba 1, and Saskatchewan 1.

The retiring officers and board of directors were all re-elected the officers for the ensuing year.

COMMISSION OF THREE MEN

To Have Power Over Grain Transportation and Inspection

The Terminal Elevator Bill Introduced

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Sir Richard Cartwright, in the Senate yesterday, introduced the bill in respect to terminal elevators and the inspection of grain in general, which is based upon an agreement arrived at between the executives of the Western Farmers' Associations and the Government. The chief provision of the bill is one for the appointment of an independent commission of three, a chairman and two associate commissioners, who will have the same extensive jurisdiction over the transportation inspection and storage of grain that the Railway Board has over the railways of the country. The measure is a bulky affair, as it includes all the provisions of the Manitoba Act, and the Inspection Act, which it is proposed to continue in force. It was given a first reading

In the course of his explanation, Sir Richard Cartwright said that the grain commission would have power to investigate and control all questions relating to the transportation, inspection and storage of grain, and will have authority to weigh and examine grain whenever they desire to do so. They will also have power to declare which are terminal elevators, and, in fact, may so designate any elevator. With the assent of the Government, and an appropriation being made for the purpose by Parliament, the commissioners will have authority to acquire by lease, purchase or expropriation, any elevator, or they may construct new elevators. They are given authority to engage experts and the necessary staff, and are directed by the bill to create inspection divisions as they see fit. The board is given authority to make rules and regulations respecting grain without the counsel of the Government being required.

The commissioners will hold office for ten years, and will be required to live at Port Arthur or Fort William.

Drastic penalties are provided for offences against the act, such as mixing grain in terminal elevators, the minimum penalty in such cases being a fine of $5,000. When corporations are found guilty their officers are made subject to penalties. Elevators where offences are committed are liable to have their licenses revoked for a year, in addition to their penalties.

LECTURE ON "OUR WORLD IN SPACE"

J. R. Collins of Toronto Gave a Profitable and Interesting Address

The regular meeting of the local centre of the Royal Astronomical Society was held last evening in the chemical laboratory of the Collegiate Institute. There was a large attendance and the lecture was both profitable and interesting.

In the absence of the president, H. B. Collier, the chair was occupied by T.A.S. Hay.

After the minutes of the last meeting were heard, R. A. Logan, 14 Murray street, was elected a member of the society on motion of H. O. Fiske, seconded by Dr. Marsh.

Mr. Fiske reported some of the observations which have been made with the Stratton telescope, and the members were beginning to realize the benefits of the new instrument.

J. R. Collins, of Toronto, the general secretary, of the Royal Astronomical Society, gave an interesting lecture on "Our World in Space," referring to the physical features and the laws which govern it, showing that while our earth was small, amid the heavenly orbs that sweep through space, yet its place was as important as any in the sun's family.

The lecture was profusely illustrated by lantern slides shown by H. O. Fiske.

Dr. Marsh moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer at the conclusion of the address, in which he referred to the many qualifications of Mr. Collins as a scientist and to his discoveries in astronomical optics, meaning the telescope particularly.

Dr. Marsh explained the use and working arrangement of the telescope in a very lucid and thorough manner.

SAYS IT IS VERY UNFAIR

U.S. Pulp Interests Are Opposed to Clauses in Draft.

Washington, Feb. 8.—As a result of the growing belief that the paper and woodpulp provisions of the new Canadian reciprocity agreement will operate one-sidedly to the benefit of the Dominion without a corresponding benefit to the U. S., an important change is likely to be made by Congress in the measure before it is ratified.

Paper manufacturers and other who have studied the agreement closely, believe that the language of the arrangement is so drawn that the United States may be compelled to admit paper free, before Canada complies with her part of the agreement. The situation has been presented to the way and means committee of the House in such a strong light that many members of that committee are satisfied the agreement between the two countries on the paper and pulp is open to a construction which will be distinctly to the disadvantage of United States manufacturers.

Secretary Knox sent a letter to the committee yesterday stating that the commissioners who framed the reciprocal agreement had arrived at only a tentative agreement upon the paper schedule. It can be changed, he said, without defeating the rest of the treaty, and its adjustment can be left to future negotiations or future action of Congress. The ways and means committee also procured yesterday a draft of the measure introduced in the Canadian Parliament to put the agreement in force in the Dominion. This shows that Canada had taken the stand that American paper and pulp shall not be admitted free into that country until all provinces have removed the restrictions against the exportation of the pulp logs.

The trouble arises over the distinction in Canada between "crown lands" and "private lands," and the rulings that the Treasury Department at Washington has made on this subject. Where Canadian provinces restrict the exportation of pulp logs, it is from "crown lands." The provinces have no power to restrict the exportation of logs cut from private lands.

Effect on Immigration.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—W. J. White, chief Canadian immigration agent to the United States, says that the reciprocal trade agreement with the United States will result in a large increase in the American immigration into the Canadian west. At the beginning of the year it was estimated that during the immigration season 130,000 settlers would cross the international boundary line into Canada. Mr. White thinks that the estimate can now safely be increased to 150,000.

Aluminum Trust's Plan Knocked on the Head.

There is Still Need for Much Vigilance.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The House yesterday defeated the bill introduced by Representative Young of Michigan, giving the Long Sault Development Co. the right to erect dams in the St. Lawrence River near the Long Sault, Barnhart and Sheek Islands, so as to utilise the water power of that stream.

It was asserted in debate that the so-called "aluminum trust" was back of the bill, and proposed to make an investment of $40,000,000. The State of New York has granted a charter to the company, and waterfront rights. The only interest of the United States, it was declared, was to preserve navigation.

The opponents of the bill urged that the rights granted by the United States should be limited to 50 years. Amendments being out of order, they voted down the measure in its entirety.

Still Need For Vigilance.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—When told that the Long Sault power bill had been defeated in Congress, Hon. Clifford Sifton, who is chairman of the conservation committee, said:

"I am much gratified that Congress have taken this action, and I have no doubt that it was due to a desire to avoid any reasonable cause of offence to Canada. I have been in telegraphic communication with the Ottawa Government to-day regarding this bill, and I have no doubt that the decision is due to representation made by the Government to Washington as a result of agitation carried on here.

"That is, that local agitation has caused the Government to take action by advising its representatives in Washington to advise the throwing out of the bill.

"The company still retains its powers for New York State, and it is quite as necessary to be vigilant and on the defensive to prevent any further legislative powers being granted by the New York State Legislature; as the State Legislature approved of this very bill whoch the Congress have turned down."

A Fine Thing For Canada.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Andrew Broder of Dundas, one of the chief opponents of the proposal to dam the St. Lawrence River at the Long Sault, said last night that the defeat of the bill was "a fine thing for Canada."

"It meant," he said, "if it had gone through, the loss of the St. Lawrence as a navigable waterway. This would have been a serious blow to the Dominion. These schemers were the same who tried last year to get the Canadian Parliament to give them power to dam the St. Lawrence and were defeated."

Provinces May Appeal.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—Hon. J. J. Foy received word yesterday that the Privy Council had granted the provinces leave to appeal in the litigation respecting the rights of provinces to grant charters to companies to operate outside of their own boundaries.

The Dominion Government had made a reference of the issue to the Supreme Court, but the Premier declined to have that body adjudicate upon the case, and asked to be heard by the judicial committee of the Privy Council. The application of the provinces having been granted, the case will likely be argued in London next June.

The revenue of Ontario will be affected to the extent of $300,000 a year by the final decision.

Imposing Lincoln Memorial.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The House enacted into law yesterday the Senate bill providing for a commission to secure plans and designs for a suitable monument or memorial to Abraham Lincoln in this city. It is estimated that this memorial will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, and be the most imposing of all the monuments in Washington, save only the towering shaft erected in memory of Washington.

Senator Brings Libel Suit.

Montreal, Feb. 8.—Hon. Senator R. Dandurand, through his lawyers, Beique and Beique, has entered a suit of $10,000 against La Publicite, publishers of Le Devoir, and Mr. Tancrede Marcil, one of the editors of Le Devoir. The suit is for damages resulting from an article which appeared in Le Devoir of Monday under the heading of "Defendez-Vous," and signed by Mr. Tancrede Marcil. The article insinuates that Mr. Dandurand had misappropriated goods belonging to the Government of Canada.

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 8, 1911.

ARE YOU GUILTY, PARENT ?

Every parent will do well to read the remarks of the members of the Board of Education last night on the evil effects on the children of allowing them to run the streets at night, to patronize regularly the moving picture theatres, to stay out late in questionable amusement, to the detriment to the proper development of mind and body. The school principals say that this evening indulgence in these amusements results in children tired in mind and body in the morning, and totally unfitted for the serious and important work of preparing for life's struggle.

We do not place the blame on the children—who, if given every license by the parent, will naturally seek amusement rather than study—but on the parents, whose careless disregard for their children's welfare is astonishing, and betrays a lack of appreciation of the important part that a good education and a sound body have on the child's future welfare.

Some of the school principals say that girls of twelve and thirteen are becoming almost useless for educative purposes. Their minds run to boys, to parties, cards, dancing, moving picture theatres, anything rather than school work. The boys are busy discussing the moving picture shows, and other attractions. Having exhausted their energies the night previous in being out to all hours, learning the empty, time-wasting frivolities that injure so many other and older people, it is no wonder that they are slow and stupid in school. Many a boy has had to take a lower position in life because of his lack of training as the result of inapplication to his studies following this nightly license.

The Whitney Government has under consideration a bill for the regulation of the moving picture theatres, which may be said to be largely responsible for this sad condition of affairs. Keeping open until eleven o'clock to draw in the nickels of the children, these theatres encourage the stay-out-late-at-night habit of the children, besides introducing them to many phases of life that cannot help but unsettle their impressionable characters. There are hundreds of parents in Peterborough who do not know where their children are at night, who allow them to run wild at pleasure. These parents have the deep responsibility of rearing their children along safe and sound paths until they reach the age of discretion—how are they living up to that responsibility?

Were the parents true to their duty in watching the comings and goings of the children, the evils of the moving picture place, the dance hall, etc., would be minimized, and no governmental action in restricting them would be necessary. But the irresponsibility of the parents—involving such serious results to the children—has forced the government to step in. A law that will prohibit school children from attending moving picture theatres except with a grown up person, is necessary for the good of the coming generation—and it is coming.

The complaint of the Board of Education is a timely one, and we hope that it will be heeded. Your boy or girl, Mr. Parent, will condemn you in later days, when years bring wisdom, if you neglect to so guide their young and thoughtless lives that they will reach manhood or womanhood well prepared and well qualified for the struggle that awaits them to earn a livelihood. Are you doing your duty?

PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS

The Toronto Saturday Night makes some very pertinent remarks on the question of some check on the bank head offices in the interest of the public, on the ground that banks are very largely institutions, being the trustees of a vast amount of public money, and the public is entitled to inspection as a measure of protection.

At the time the Farmers' Bank affair was fresh in the public mind the Review more than once iterated this view, and it is a sound one. Since that time the shareholders of the Traders Bank, at the annual meeting passed a resolution favoring external inspection, and the expression of opinion all over the country has been generally in favor of stringent measures to safeguard the interests of the public. No more Farmers' Bank affairs the people.

Toronto Saturday Night very aptly says:—It is rather incongruous that a dozen general managers have the power to do pretty much as they wish with an enormous proportion of the finances of this country, and that their power should be almost absolute from one end of the Dominion to the other. According to the last bank statement, the savings entrusted to our twenty-eight banks amounted to nearly $550,000,000. Most of us are contributing a portion of this. It is not our intention to present the bank with this amount. We merely place it with them for safe keeping. It seems to me we have some interest in the matter, and that it is not the height of impudence to ask for the right to send our deputy or our appointed accountant to look over the premises occasionally, and check up the assets to see if our $550,000,000 is there. This concentration of power in the hands of a few general managers is enormous, though quite possibly it is unavoidable. The general managers are usually chosen from amongst the very best available; but there have been mistakes. However, their character is not up for question. It is only a question of business. With remembrances of the banking experience of the past few years refreshed by recent events, I think it is not too much to expect that, in the Bank Act now in course of preparation, the Government shall take into consideration the causes of failure and withhold its hall mark of reliability where it cannot also provide a means of assuring that the value is there.

DANCING

In reference to the school trustees' assertions last night on the evil effects of dancing and moving picture shows on the children, the following by G. Stanley Hall, LL.D., president of Clark University, will be of interest;

"Dancing is perhaps, not excepting music, the completest language of the emotions and can be made one of the best schools of sentiment and even will, inculcating good states of mind and driving out bad ones as few other agencies have power to do. Right dancing can cadence the very soul, give nervous poise to basal and finer muscles, and also between feeling and intellect, body and mind. It can serve both as an awakener and a test of intelligence, predispose the heart against vice, and turn the springs of character towards virtue.

Its utilization for and influence on the insane would be another interesting chapter."

THE WATER COMMISSION

The report which the water commissioners rendered to the city council on Monday night, of the work on the new dam, and the installation of an efficient pumping service, was a document that should commend itself to the people of Peterborough. There has been a disposition in some quarters to criticise the water commissioners for exceeding the original intentions as regards as the building of the dam, and also for having exceeded the expenditure authorized for the purpose. But the commissioners, in undertaking such a big project, were compelled to meet contingencies which no one looked for at the inception of the scheme, and that they have carried the matter through to a highly successful issue, in spite of these obstacles, should be a matter of great compliment to them.

It is true that the cost will be over $150,000, or $30,000 more than was provided for. But the commissioners were wise in not stopping the work, in order to go to the people for more money when it was seen that there would be an over-expenditure. Such a course would have delayed the work to no purpose, since when the work was well under way, it would have meant a great loss to stop it. The commissioners have provided for a big expansion of the city, and years from now Peterborough will be enjoying the benefit of their courage and labor on this project.

We believe that the people of Peterborough will feel that the work, as explained by the commissioners, has been thoroughly well done, and that the criticism of the board before the full facts of the actual difficulties were known, was a little premature. In all engineering work of this nature, unforseen obstacles are bound to creep in, and very often they are practically insurmountable. In this case, though upsetting first calculations in some respects, they were conquered, and now Peterborough has a dam and a water supply station as good as any city in the Dominion up to 50,000 population.

First cost is not always a true index to the real cost of an article or a utility. In such a vital matter as water supply, it is most justifiable to have as strong and well equipped a plant as is possible, and money to this end is always money well spent, meaning a saving to the city and citizens, as well as increased assurance of a proper supply for many years. Let us compliment the water commission on its work.

RECIPROCITY IN 1854

In 1854 Canada had a reciprocal trade arrangement with the United States. It lasted for only a dozen years, but it lasted long enough to give a fair index as to what reciprocity means to the United States.

The immediate effect of the reciprocity treaty of 1855-6 was to switch over a large proportion of the transatlantic trade of Canada to United States ports. The exports from Montreal and Quebec fell from $12,200,000 in 1854 to $8,150,000 in 1855, a drop of 33 per cent. In the same period the imports at these two Canadian ports fell from $22,000,000 to $15,000,000, also a decline of 33 per cent.

At the expiration of that reciprocal arrangement, the exports and imports via Montreal leaped in one year from $31,000,000 to $36,000,000.

The reciprocity that Canada had in in 1854 cut a big hole in the development of Canadian trade. Even though to-day Canada is much stronger commercially, a reciprocal arrangement is bound to—is deliberately designed to—divert our trade to American channels. Do Canadians want to see that?

EDITORIAL NOTES

If the newspaper pictures of Miss Vivian Gould are good likenesses, Lord Decies would certainly need her millions as compensation.

Hockey being over in Peterborough now for this season, the fog-horn voice will not be so noticeable around the streets.

They have passed a by-law in Chicago limiting the sky-scrapers to 200 feet, which is quite sensible. Singer buildings are freaks of construction, not of nature.

Hon. Price Ellison, Minister of Finance in the British Columbia Ministry, says that Jim Hill is at the bottom of this reciprocity business. We wonder where the customary woman comes in!

Rudyard Kipling says that the reciprocity business looks to him like a whole battalion of "cullud pussons in the wood-pile." Mr. Kipling seems to take a rather dark view of the proceedings.

The Decies-Gould wedding cost $75,000. What a shame such extravagance is, when there are thousands of poorly-clad, hungry, weary sufferers in the same city—people who fight a desperate fight against the demon wolf that threatens at the door.

Col. Sam Hughes will reply, on Friday to the resolution of the Ottawa Ministerial Association condemning him for his attack on Rev. Mr. Milne, one of their number. The Ministers will find out sooner or later that it will be as well for them to let the irrepressible colonel alone.

Hon. J. R. Stratton's concern over how the farmers of Peterborough county can manage to see evils in reciprocity is really admirable. We imagine that Peterborough is far enough away from the border that the farmers of the surrounding country won't retire with automobiles from reciprocity profits to make them enthusiastic.

Hon. Prince Ellison says that Jim Hill financed the western reciprocity agitation with $50,000. This is denied by the grain growers' association officials, but the sudden agitation—springing up like a gust of wind—seems remarkable. It would have happened nowhere but in the west, and Jim Hill has a long and far-reaching hand. Is he at the bottom of the western agitation?

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Democratic caucus approval of reciprocity was a reason, according to some, why all grain and provisions fell off in price here to-day. There was an unusually large trade in wheat, but the market was weak almost from start to finish. Closing figures showed a net loss of ⅝c to 1⅛c to 1¼c. Corn and oats both finished ⅛c to ⅜c under last night, with provisions down 7½c to 10c to 25c.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 7.—The market opened with an undertone of steadiness with March unchanged and May ¼c lower. This decline was attributed to the lower American cables. Foreign crop conditions are generally favorable.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—There was an improved demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat and as bids in some cases were unchanged, sales of several loads were made for March shipment. The demand for spring wheat flour was fair and several sales were made for export account. Owing to the increasing scarcity of millfeed and the continued good demand a stronger feeling has prevailed in the market and millers in some cases have advanced prices $1 ton for bran and shorts. A fairly active trade is passing in all lines of provisions.

Zam Buk
"RUB IT IN"

HEALS QUICKLY
SAVES HOURS OF PAIN.

A few minutes after Zam-Buk is applied to a cut, a burn, a scratch, or any sore place, the pain is stopped. Mothers should never forget this, because it is one reason why Zam-Buk is the best thing for children's injuries. It stops their crying and gives them ease. Right from the instant of application healing begins, and Zam-Buk heals quickly. Note these statements from reliable persons, some of whom you may know.

Baby's Sore Healed.—

"My baby girl had a bad sore on her chin, which was very painful, and caused her to be very restless. We put on some ZAM-BUK, and in a wonderfully short time it gave her ease. In a few days the sore was completely healed."

MRS. E. COOKER,
Yorkton, Sask.

Rusty Nail Pierced Finger.—

"I ran a rusty nail under my thumb nail while at work. The pain was terrible and I feared blood-poisoning from the dirty, rusty nail! I melted some ZAM-BUK and ran it into the wound, and it stopped the pain almost instantly. It kept away inflammation and in a few days the wound was quite healed."

MR. A. H. ORTH,
Shipley, Ont.

A Bad Burn.—

"In moving some wood in the stove, I burned my thumb very badly. In a few minutes it was covered with a big white blister, and the pain was very bad. ZAM-BUK was applied, and in quick time it gave me ease!"

H. E. JENNER, Organist, Carman, Man.

Take this advice!

If you have some sore place, some skin disease, some cut, or burn or ulcer, why continue to suffer pain? Every hour you suffer is an hour wasted. You cannot do your best work in pain; you cannot enjoy your leisure. ZAM-BUK saves far more than it costs, by saving you time in this way.

ZAM-BUK is a "short cut" to skin healing. There is nothing which acts so quickly and so surely. Use it for all skin injuries and diseases, Eczema, Ulcers, Blood Poison, etc., and for Piles. All druggists and stores, 50 cents a box, or post free from ZAM-BUK Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"This man must disappear, but in silence, whether we move him by our entreaties or bribe him or kill him. But the first condition of his disappearance is to keep the fact that he has reappeared at all a secret. Above all—and I am speaking of the heartfelt wish of Mme. Darzac as well as my own—M. Stangerson must never know that we are menaced by the blows of this monster."

"Mme. Darzac's wishes are commands," replied Rouletabille. "M. Stangerson shall know nothing."

Rouletabille arose and exchanged through the window a signal with Bernier, who was standing erect upon the threshold of the square tower. Then he came back to us and sat down again.

"Larsan probably is not far off," he said. "Bernier is on the most friendly terms with these worthy people, and I am going with him to talk to them. The Italian customs officer speaks only Italian, but the French officer speaks both languages as well as the patois of the country, and it is this man, whom Bernier tells me is called Michael, to whom I look to be of the greatest use to us. Through his means we have already learned that the two revenue posts are much interested in the maneuvers of the boat belonging to Tullio, the fisherman, whom they call 'the hangman of the sea.' Old Tullio is an acquaintance of the customs men—the most skillful of smugglers. He had with him this evening in his boat an individual whom the revenue officers had never seen. The boat, Tullio and the passenger all disappeared at the Pointe de Garibaldi. I have been there and found nothing. However, Larsan must have landed. I am sure that Tullio's little boat is anchored near the Pointe de Garibaldi."

"Larsan certainly landed," repeated M. Darzac. "He is at Rochers Rouges."

"In any case, if the boat has been left at Rochers Rouges, he has not come back here," exclaimed Rouletabille. "The two revenue posts are placed in such a manner that no one can pass by, whether by day or by night, without being seen. The sentinel passes between the rocks and the sea. The rocks are steep and form a terrace sixty meters high."

"That is true," said Arthur Rance. "It is not easy to scale the rocks."

"He will have hidden himself in the grottoes," said Darzac. "There are some deep pockets in the terrace."

"I thought of that," said Rouletabille, "and I went back alone to Rochers Rouges after I left Pere Bernier. I had some things to say to Larsan which I did not wish a third party to hear. Well, I went back to Rochers Rouges and called Larsan's name through all the caves. But, whether it was that he heard me and saw my white flag or not, he did not answer."

"Perhaps he was not there," I suggested.

"Perhaps not. I don't know. But I heard a noise in the grotto."

"And you did not enter?" demanded Arthur Rance.

"No," replied Rouletabille quietly. "But you do not think that it was because I was afraid of him, do you?"

"Let us run!" we all cried in one breath, rising at the same moment. "Let us go and finish up the business immediately."

"I don't think that we shall ever have a better chance of meeting Larsan," said Arthur Rance. "We can do what we like with him at the bottom of Rochers Rouges."

"Doubtless," replied Rouletabille, "my promenade to Rochers Rouges produced no result because I was all alone, but if we all go I can assure you that we shall find some results on our return."

"On our return?" echoed Darzac, who did not understand.

"Yes," replied Rouletabille, "on our return to the chateau, where we have left Mme. Darzac all alone and where perhaps we may not find her. Oh, of course," he added as a general silence fell upon his companions, "it is only a hypothesis. But at this time we have no other means of reasoning than by hypothesis."

We looked at each other, and this hypothesis overwhelmed us.

"You see, tonight there is nothing that we can do except to barricade ourselves. It is only a temporary barricade, for I want the place put in an absolutely unassailable state tomorrow. The vigil will be hard tonight because we are not yet organized. Tomorrow we shall draw up a set of rules for our little garrison, a list of the trustworthy domestics upon whom we may depend with security.

"You will bring here to this cell all the arms which you can gather—rifles and revolvers. We will divide them among those who do guard duty. At 7 o'clock every night the iron doors will be closed. Tomorrow morning M. Arthur Rance will send for builders. Every person on the place will be counted and no one allowed to pass the door of the second court. Before 7 o'clock in the evening every one will be counted again and the work people allowed to go out. In one day the men must finish their work. After that I shall be tranquil, and, Mme. Darzac, who is forbidden to leave the chateau under the new order, having been placed in security, I may attempt a sortie and enter seriously into the search for the camp of Larsan. Come, M. Rance, to arms! Bring me some weapons to pass around this evening. I have lent my own revolver to Pere Bernier, who is keeping guard before the door of Mme. Darzac's apartments."

CHAPTER VII

A Keen Rogue and a Quaint Crank.

AN hour later we were all at our posts, passing along the parapets in the moonlight, keeping close watch. Mme. Edith, who said that she could not sleep, came out and talked to Rouletabille at his postern. He called me, placed me in charge of his postern and of Mrs. Rance and made his rounds. The fair Edith was in the most charming humor.

"It's the funniest thing I ever heard of," she exclaimed. "How I wish I knew your Larsan! I'm sure I should adore him."

I shuddered at the words she uttered so lightly. Ah, if the unhappy girl had only realized what was to come!

I spent two delightful hours with Mme. Edith, during the greater part of which I related to her some facts regarding the history of Larsan-Ballmeyer, some of which had been sufficient to make it doubtful whether he still lived at the time that he appeared to play so unexpected a part in "The Mystery of the Yellow Room." As this man's powers will now be seen to extend to heights which some may believe inaccessible, I judge it to be my duty to prepare the mind of the reader to admit in the end that I am only the transcriber of an affair the like of which never has been known before and that I have invented nothing. I will refer those who believe in actual records to the stenographic reports of the trial at Versailles. And it must not be forgotten that before destiny had brought Larsan-Ballmeyer and Joseph Rouletabille into contact the elegantly mannered bandit had given considerable trouble to the authorities. We have only to open the files of the Gazette les Tribuneaux and to read the account of the day when Larsan was condemned by the court of assizes to ten years at hard labor to be assured on this score. Then one will refrain from smiling because Joseph Rouletabille placed a drawbridge between Larsan-Ballmeyer and Mathilde Darzac.

Ballmeyer did not become a criminal because driven to evil doing by poverty and misery. The son of a rich broker in the Rue Molay, he might have chosen any vocation, but his preferred calling was to lay hands upon the money of other people. He decided to become a swindler, just as another lad might have decided to become an engineer. His debut was a stroke of genius. Ballmeyer stole a letter addressed to his father containing a large sum of money. He took the train for Lyons and wrote his parent as follows:

> Monsieur—I am an old soldier, retired and with a medal of honor. My son, a postoffice clerk, has stolen in the mails a letter addressed to you and containing money to pay a gambling debt. I have called the members of the family together. In a few days we shall be able to raise the sum necessary to repay you. You are a father. Have pity upon a father. Do not bring me down in sorrow and shame to my grave.

M. Ballmeyer willingly granted the petition. He is still waiting for his first remittance, or, rather, he has ceased to expect it, for the law apprised him ten years ago of the identity of the culprit.

While he was doing military duty Ballmeyer stole his companion's box and accused the captain. He committed a theft of 40,000 francs from the Maison Furet and immediately afterward denounced M. Furet as having stolen it himself.

Ballmeyer appropriated a draft for 6,000 livres sterling from the messenger of Messrs. Furet Bros., who were notebrokers in the Rue Poissonniere and who allowed him desk room in their offices.

Cobwebs in the Morning.

Cobwebs in the head on rising in the morning is the result of a Lazy Liver, one or two mornings in succession and sick headache follows.

Father Morriscy's Liver Pills will clear the Brain.

These Pills are a purely vegetable compound prepared with great care, and are without doubt the very best pills for general use, on the market. The greatest care has been given to selecting the ingredients, and being entirely vegetable, they act upon the liver and bowels in such a manner as not to disturb the other functions of the body as many pills do.

As a Liver Invigorator, Blood Purifier and General System Renovator, they are unequalled. Sick headache is invariably brought on by a sluggish liver, constipation or irregular bowels; these pills are a cure for sick headache in any form.

Pimples, eruptions and yellow skin are often caused by a lazy liver; one pill three times a week, will soon clear the complexion.—Price 25c. per box.

Wreck at Gorham, N.H.

Gorham, N.H., Feb. 8.—To the thick snow yesterday was due a wreck in the Gorham yards of the Grand Trunk Railway. While a locomotive snowplow and van were engaged in clearing the sidings, a freight train, bound from Portland to Montreal, came along and crashed into the van. The van and plow were broken up, fire from the Portland engine completing their destruction. Roadmaster J. W. Shilling, who was in the van, had his skull fractured and hip broken. He died an hour later. The freight train did not leave the rails. The accident was caused by thick snow and smoke which obscured the signals.

No Race News by Telegraph.

New York, Feb. 8.—A special despatch from Washington printed here yesterday afternoon, says:—

The Mann bill, to prohibit the transmission by telegraph companies of horse racing intelligence, will be reported favorably from the House Committee on Interstate Commerce.

The effect of the bill, if passed, will be to strike at racing in seven states where it is now allowed—Montana, Maryland, Florida, Nevada, Oklahoma, Virginia, and Kentucky.

No More Toll Gates.

Kingston, Feb. 8.—Reeve A. M. Rankin, Kingstown Township, sold two old toll houses on the Kingston-Storington road by auction. The houses will be removed as soon as possible and then there will be no more toll gates.

Chosen Rhodes' Scholar.

Kingston, Feb. 8.—Honor came to a student of Queen's University, Stanley Scott, son of W. Scott of Strathcona, Alberta, having been chosen 1911 Rhodes' scholar for the western province. Scott was born at Lancaster, Glengarry.

Flee In Scant Attire.

New York, Feb. 8.—Six hundred men, women and children, living in the Williamsburg district of Brooklyn, fled from their homes in scant attire yesterday during a fire in the six-storey tenement at 104 Hopkins street. Louis Rapport and his wife, who were asleep on the first floor, narrowly escaped being burned to death.

Scattered Coals on Fire.

Kingston, Feb. 8.—While Edward Draper and family of Point road, Pittsburg Township, were away, someone entered and stole a number of tools. Before departing they scattered live coals from the coal stove over the floor. Had not the family returned in time their home would have been destroyed.

Only the Premiers.

London, Feb. 8.—The Canadian Associated Press has high authority for stating that the only persons in the Dominion who will receive official invitations to the coronation will be the Premier of the Dominion and the Premiers of the several provinces.

B. F. Ackerman moved, and R. Fair seconded the motion, that the report be adopted. It was carried.

Dr. Morrison read the report of the Supervision Committee given herewith.

SUPERVISION COMMITTEE

Gentlemen,—Your Supervision Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows—

That after consultation with the principal of the Collegiate Institute, the inspector of public schools and other teachers, this committee views with alarm the many counter attractions that detract the child's mind, and injure the body physically, rendering them unfit to do their school work, we particularly refer to such indulgencies as late parties on evenings of school days, excessive sports, small boys and girls attending five-cent shows, and boys on the street till late selling newspapers, etc., and we therefore recommend that this Board take some action to try and lessen these evils.

Your committee has had under consideration the matter of text book fees paid by the Public school pupils.

During the year 1910 a large number of new text books were authorized by the Education Department and introduced into the schools. This caused a small deficit in the fees account for the past year.

For the year 1911 the actual average cost of supplies will be as follows;

(a) Primary Grade—juniors and seniors, 50c per pupil.

(b) Book I. Grade—juniors and seniors, $1.00 per pupil.

(c) Book II. Grade—juniors and seniors, $1.20 per pupil.

(d) Book III. Grade—juniors and seniors, $2.00 per pupil.

(e) Book IV. Grade—juniors and seniors, $2.00 per pupil.

The fees paid by the pupils of these grades are 50c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 and $2.00 respectively per year. It will be seen that the fee for Book II. pupils is slightly in advance of the cost of the supplies used by them. The others get full value for their fees.

The actual amount of supplies used by each and every pupil is carefully recorded by the teachers.

The retail prices of the supplies furnished each pupil is much in excess of the fee charged. A detailed statement of the amount and retail cost of the supplies furnished each pupil of the Jr. III. grade is appended and well illustrates the advantage of the fee system.

The retail price of the supplies furnished each pupil of this grade is $4.70, while the fee charged is but $2.00. In the other grades a less but considerable saving is effected.

In justice to the Book II. pupils, your committee would recommend that beginning with March 1911, their fee be reduced from 15c. per month to 10c per month.

W. A. MORRISON,
Chairman.

JUNIOR III. GRADE.

Supplies furnished each pupil per year with retail price of same—

One arithmetic, 40c, 1 geography 65c; 1 dictionary, 15c; 1 reader, 14c; 1 physiology, 25c; 1 composition book 15c; 1 ruler, 1c; 5 unruled work books at 3c each 15c; 5 ruled work books at 5c each 25c; 5 dictation books at 3c each 15c; 2 note books at 5c each 10c; 2 copying books at 2c each 4c; 2 drawing pencils at 5c each, 10c; 10 work pencils at 2 1-2c each, 25c; colored crayons, 2c; mucilage, 2c; 1 penholder, 5c; 20 pen points, 10c; 150 sheets foolscap, full size, 60c; 100 sheets foolscap, half size, 20c, 3 rubber erasers at 3c each, 9c. Brought forward, $2.57; work paper, 10c; 150 sheets of drawing paper, 15c; paint box and paints, 25c; 1 paint brush, 5c; ink, 5c; blotting paper, 3c, cover paper, 5c; supplementary reader, 15c; music books, 30c. Total, $4.70.

In moving its adoption Dr. Morrison made some remarks regarding a question that has been brought home to the Principal of the Collegiate and to the members of the Board rather strongly of late. He referred to the practice of so many school children allowing amusements and social functions to draw them away from their studies. He thought that the blame might be partly attributed to the parents for the condition of affairs. While he was aware that a certain amount of out-door sport and recreation was necessary for the children to keep them in healthy normal condition, and was not at all inclined to deprive them of the same, still he did not countenance such practices being carried to the extreme. If parties and social functions were held, they should be on Friday night, if possible, the children not then having to come to school next day with tired minds and bodies.

TEXT BOOKS.

He made reference also to the cost of text books and fees, which it had been found impossible to place on a more satisfactory basis than at present. It was moved by Dr. Morrison and seconded by Col. Miller, that this report be adopted, and the same carried.

Several members of the Board, however, felt the same as Dr. Morrison about the practice of children tiring themselves, unfitting them for study by being out late at night.

"There is no use," said W. H. Hill, "in blaming the teachers, for the fault lay at the parents' door. Children who are slow at school are often found to be most given to the practice, and it should be discarded."

"Children ought to be at home and in bed by midnight," said Mr. Hill. "The Board was taking a right attitude in the matter."

V. Eastwood at this point asked Mr. Hill if he was going to refer to the five cent shows. "Do you recommend the Board to ask the council to raise the license on moving picture shows?" asked Mr. Eastwood. Mr. Hill did not reply definitely about it.

Col. Miller also said that the Board was doing its duty in bringing up the question.

"While a little article in the newspapers was some help, it was not prominent enough," said the colonel. "A good strong article would be more satisfactory. It was astonishing and alarming to see so many children patronizing the moving picture shows and other amusement places late at night when they should be at home.

Regarding the custom of small boys of tender years being compelled to sell papers and stand around these cold nights, Col. Miller stated that it was a condition practically unavoid-

"IL TROVATORE" THE WORLD'S FAVORITE OPERA

So much has been said of the great artists that comprise the Sheehan English Grand Opera company, and so well known is the opera of "Il Trovatore" that it seems almost useless to go into details, however, as there are many who have a mistaken idea in regard to Grand Opera, it may not be amiss to say a few words on the subject.

Of all the world's operas "Il Trovatore" is the most popular, picturesque and tuneful. Many of the best airs in the leading comic operas are taken from its tuneful melodies. Almost every street organ depends upon "Il Trovatore" for its melody.

The "Anvil Chorus" is one of the most beautiful numbers ever put on any stage. This setting represents a Gypsy camp in the mountains surrounded by rocks and ruins on all sides. In the clearing are numerous anvils, with their electrical effects, used in making the armor for the soldiers before going to the wars.

The famous "Miserere," in the tower scene, is beyond description. It must be seen and heard to be appreciated. The tower of the prison overlooking the rocky coast of Spain is a most impressive sight. As for the music, when one recalls the great trio at the end of the first act, the world-renowned "di Quella Pira," said to be the greatest tenor solo ever written, the fine baritone solo, "Il Balen," the great duet between the soprano and baritone and dozens of others, it is easy to realize why "Il Trovatore" has been for fifty years the most popular opera the world has ever known.

The Sheehan English Grand Opera Company comes to the Grand Opera House Tuesday, Feb. 14th, for a single performance of "Il Trovatore," with its all star cast.

The Trades and Labor Council will meet to-night in their hall, Simcoe St., at 8 o'clock.

DROVE TO APSLEY IN GOOD TIME

Mr. H. C. Stapleton made good time in driving to Apsley on Sunday, going a distance of forty-four miles in four and a half hours, this time, considering the condition of the roads, being worthy of note. It was necessary, however, that he should make good time as his errand to Apsley was urgent. Mrs. Bell, wife of Dr. Bell, of Apsley, was taken suddenly ill on Saturday, and a telegram was dispatched to Ogdensburg, N.Y., notifying her two sons to return home immediately. Mr. Stapleton met the boys at the train on their arrival and drove them to their home in Apsley in the fast time mentioned above.

Mrs. Bell's condition is somewhat improved now.

FRONTENACS FOUND STRONG OPPOSITION IN WORK OF GRILLERS

Fast Game Went to Visitors by 11-4.

HALF TIME 5-1

Classy Exhibition by Junior Champions of Canada.

The Kingston Frontenacs have come and gone again, and the Grillers were seven goals behind in the game last night. The count at half time stood 5—1, and at the end of play, 11—4.

Yet, it's some satisfaction to be beaten by a better team, even if it is on your own little sheet of ice. The visitors delivered the goods as advertised, and there is no kick coming. After watching their work of last night it is easy to figure out how the team has taken the big end of the score in all of its games this season. Every man has all kinds of speed, is able to hold his head, and plays with his mates at every opportunity.

WINNERS HAD TO WORK HARD

But the Limestone City boys had to extend themselves all the time. They soon found out in the first half that it was not going to be easy picking. Captain Reynolds and his braves held them safe for the first fifteen minutes, and with a little better luck would have counted. The opposition tendered to his team had Jimmie Sutherland guessing as to what the outcome would be. But his youths worked steadily in the pinches, not on all occasions, but sufficiently so to make the likely-looking winners in the long run.

FAST HOCKEY.

It was fast hockey, and the kind that keeps the spectators on edge every minute. The speed of the invaders was much more noticeable than that of their opponents. When one or two of the line would get away, it was at a fast gait, and, coupled with this was clever stick work and rapid passing.

STRONG DEFENCE.

The defence, too, could break away, and when McCammon started there was always something doing. The doubtful looking youth is big and strong, and was a hard proposition for the light forwards of the local team. The nifty work of Boyer at left wing was pretty to watch, his style of getting around a man being effective, and his shooting quick and generally on the nets. He was fed on passes long and short, and in many cases was waiting unchecked for the puck.

GRILLERS NOT FAR BEHIND.

Every man, from Patterson between the nets to Anderson at right put up a strong fight against their visitors. The former stopped long and lone shots time and time again, when a score looked likely. His support in Reynolds and Hefferman was very strong, both relieving and rushing in grand style. Jerry Coughlin was again in the limelight at rover, and when he was going was not equalled by any other player on the ice. His stick handling was superior to that of any of the Frontenacs, but bumps and the hard pace told on him. Anderson, playing his first game, did to look after Boyer, the star of the Penitentiary team. He showed evidence of developing into a winning shooter. Hall and Hunt had a lively tussle at centre, and broke about even, while Matthews had it on his check and got away with a lot of effective work, although he did miss a couple of chances to beat Marchand with the rubber.

RETURN GAME.

The return game will be played in Kingston Friday night. The ice area on which the Grillers will have to face the Frontenacs is larger than that of the Brock street rink.

The teams were—

Frontenacs.		Grillers.
Marchand	—Goal—	Patterson
Davidson	—Point—	Reynolds
McCammon	—Cover—	Hefferman
Brouse	—Rover—	Coughlin
Hunt	—Centre—	Hall
Millan	—Right—	Anderson

Owing to lack of space a fuller account of the game cannot be given today.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

Yesterday evening the junior game tournament, which has been going on for the past four weeks, was brought to a close. There has been very keen rivalry throughout the contests, which were won by K. Knapman and G. Matthews.

Another tournament starts to-night when twenty-four boys will fight it out in the crokinole contest. There promises to be some good sport, as there are now quite a number of good players in the department.

Entries for the tournament close to-night.

A special meeting of the educational executive is called for Saturday evening at 7.30 o'clock, in connection with the boys' hobby exhibition.

PERRYTOWN

Perrytown, Feb. 8.—The Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, Pride of Hope, No. 76, Perrytown, held a very successful oyster social at the residence of sister Mrs. Henery Robson, Canton, on the evening of Feb. 3rd.

About 8 p.m. Mr. Wilson, Deputy County Master, L.O.L. and Port Hope's favorite auctioneer, was called upon to take the chair, which he did very creditably. After a choice program of vocal and instrumental music, readings and recitations was concluded, the large gathering of 160 sat down to well provided tables beside an abundance of oysters, served in the best of style. After the ladies had picked up their belongings and the most of them had taken their departure, the young men engaged the house to trip the light fantastic until daylight with their best lady friend. The Canton Band was in attendance to the number of 20. They always draw a bumper house.

Miss Emma Fair, who has been ill, is improving.

Miss McMurtry, and Mr. S. F. McMurtry have the la grippe.

Mr. Frank Irwin has been ill the past week, but is recovering under the care of Dr. Forrest, of Port Hope.

Mrs. Gould, of Port Hope, has been a recent visitor in our town.

Mrs. Walsh entertained the Woman's Institute last Thursday. There was an attendance of sixty two.

Mrs. Hillard Caldwell spent a day with her sister, Mrs. Dunbar, last week.

We regret to hear of the death of an old friend in these parts in the person of Mr. Wm. Boyd, of Kendall, who passed away last Saturday morning.

Two large loads of our citizens went to Canton last Friday night to the L. O. B. A. oyster supper and a good time is reported.

Rev. Mr. Lowe was unable to take his service in St. Paul's last Sunday owing to la grippe.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilson drove to Port Hope last Saturday.

Wm. Purcell, our popular postmaster, is suffering with a heavy cold he caught while cutting wood in the woods.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO BE RECEIVED

For Relief of the Sufferers From the Plague in China

At the last meeting of the Ministerial Association it was decided to take action whereby contributions could be taken for the assistance of plague stricken people of China, and Mr. John Crane, manager of the Dominion Bank, will receive and forward any contributions to the officers at Toronto who have been appointed for that purpose.

The bubonic plague has already claimed six thousand victims, and is even more serious that the Black Death which swept through Europe in the seventeenth century. The situation is daily growing worse, and it is necessary that steps be taken to stop the spreading of the disease.

It has cost the Great Northern Railway $9,000 to keep open from snow a stretch of 60 miles in Manitoba.

THREE SPEAKERS FOR MEETINGS

Program for Farmers Gatherings in Peterborough County

Arrangements have been completed for the series of farmers' meetings that will be held in Peterborough county next week. The principal speakers will be E. C. Drury, of Crown Hill, Ont.; W. L. Smith, the editor of the Weekly Sun, Toronto, and H. B. Cowan, editor-in-chief of Farm and Dairy, Peterborough.

Mr. Drury is the leader of the farmers' movement that is attracting so much attention. He has been the main spokesman for the farmers' in answering the arguments of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and in the course of his address will describe how the farmers of the west are organized. W. L. Smith has been for many years an outspoken champion of the farmers.

The meetings will be held as follows:

Warsaw, Wednesday, Feb. 15, 2.30 p.m.

Lakefield, Wednesday, Feb. 15, 8 p.m.

Stewart's (Otonabee), Thursday, Feb. 16, 2 p.m.

Central Smith, Thursday, Feb. 16, 8 p.m.

Monaghan Town Hall, Friday, Feb. 17, 2 p.m.

Norwood, Friday, Feb. 17, 8 p.m.

Peterborough (Court House), Saturday, Feb. 18, 2 p.m.

Central Smith and Norwood will be under the direction of the officers of the Farmers' Clubs at those points. By holding a Saturday afternoon meeting in Peterborough, an opportunity will be given many farmers to hear these speakers who could not otherwise do so.

KEENE NEWS

Special to the Review.

Keene, Feb. 7.—While driving home to Keene from Mr. J. O'Keefe's with a horse and cutter on Wednesday night last, Fred Burnham and John B. Doris had a bitter experience. After driving for a short distance the heel of the horse came in contact with the runner of the cutter, and the animal being of a spirited disposition at once commenced to kick and run. Doris pulled on the lines and finally succeeded in controlling the animal. After getting horse and cutter righted they again proceeded on their homeward journey, but had only gone a short distance when the horse acted unruly and ugly. Doris handed his companion one of the lines, and they both used all their strength to conquer the steed. Unluckily one line broke and Doris fell backward out of the cutter, injuring his head. The horse was finally quieted and the remainder of the journey made in safety.

A DEATH.

It is with feelings of regret that we chronicle the demise of Mr. Richard Hope, who expired on Thursday, the 2nd inst., at the age of 80 years and two months. The deceased was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a Presbyterian in religion and a staunch Reformer in politics. He leaves a family of seven to mourn the loss of a loving father, namely, Mrs. J. Elmhirst, Mrs. W. Wood, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. W. Clary, Mrs. F. Keon, Mrs. D. Moore and John, all of Ontario. The remains were followed to the Keene cemetery by a large concourse of friends and neighbors on Saturday afternoon, and were laid in their last resting place. We tender our sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives.

Robert Fair was in accordance with the recommendations of the Supervision Committee. He personally knew of several cases where boys and girls have gone out and been forced to accept inferior positions in life owing to neglecting their studies for pleasure.

A circular letter personally addressed to the parents outlining the complaint, in Mr. Fair's opinion, would be a good move.

At this juncture V. Eastwood advised the Board of Education to petition the council to raise threefold the license fee on moving picture stands.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate, was present, and had a few suggestions to make, which, if acted upon, would add to the appearance and efficiency of the Collegiate Institute. He asked for a grant of $50 for the library of the school, the grant to be annual until the library is in good shape. A new case for the museum was required. The executive of the Literary also want a couple of bulletin boards. The Collegiate commencement exercises, which take place at the end of the month, will require printed programs, and Mr. Kenner requested that he be given power to obtain them. The matter of securing the bulletin boards was left to the Property Committee, and the program demand in the hands of the chairman of the Board.

Mr. Eastwood moved, seconded by Mr. Hill, that a grant of $50 be made for the improvement of the Collegiate Library.- Carried.

RE-APPOINTED.

Mr. Hazen Ritchie was re-appointed to the Public School Board for a term of three years, commencing Feb. 1st.

APPRECIATION.

A vote of thanks was also tendered to Dr. Burnham who so generously and kindly donated a handsome contribution to the Collegiate Library.

DEFECTIVE WIRING.

Mr. Robert Fair called the attention of the Board to the defective wiring in several schools of the city. He estimated that it would require $140 to have them rewired, acceptable to the Underwriters' Association.

NECESSARY CHANGES.

A new class room was also required at the King Edward school, he remarked, and a new heating system for the old Collegiate building. More comfortable and convenient sanitary conditions are also required at the East City school immediately. It was suggested that the Property Committee investigate regarding the accommodation especially the lavatories which at present are so situated as to be injurious to the health of the children.

Dr. Morrison suggested the disbanding of the kindergarten at the King Edward school and turning it into a class room. "There are five kindergartens in the city now," said he, "which is more than the majority of cities in Ontario have of the size."

Mr. Hill, however, could not see the advisability of it. The matter was left in the hands of the Property Committee.

A NEW SCHOOL.

Both the West and East Ward schools are crowded, and the question of putting up a new building in place of the latter came in for considerable discussion. It was suggested that the needs of the schools be presented to the council, who might refer them to the ratepayers.

Finally Mr. Hill moved, seconded by Mr. Morrison that the whole matter be referred to the Property Committee, who are to report fully at the next meeting.

REPORT ON COLLEGIATE

The following was Mr. Spotton's report of the Collegiate Institute—

"I am compelled, under the regulations, to lower the grading of the class rooms, in the absence of sufficient decoration. If, however, the Board undertakes to supplement what has been done by an expenditure of, say $100, before the Easter holidays, the grading will be restored for the present year.

"I note that the top lights of a good many of the windows have been permanently closed up by opaque blinds. The top lights are of great value in lighting the opposite side of the class rooms and their usefulness should not be destroyed as at present. The most that should be done would be to frost them or cover them over with light blinds.

Commenting on the equipment, he said, "The library reference needs building up. I strongly advise the Board to appropriate grants from year to year till a good standard has been reached. The same remark applies to the scientific apparatus."

More wall cases are needed for the safe keeping of the museum. These specimens are valuable and are sure to deteriorate if kept exposed, as at present. He also stated that the time tables had been judiciously constructed.

Miss Alford's certificate has been made permanent.

The grading of the subjects was reported good, except drill and calisthenics, and Mr. Spotton classed this latter as fair, giving the following reason:—

"There is no gymnasium belonging to the school and the arrangements for physical culture cannot be considered at present as entirely satisfactory."

PUPILS' WORK.

Out of 33 pupils examined in reading in Form I B, 20 were good, 14 fair and 4 poor. In Form II B 28 were examined, 13 were good, 12 fair and 3 bad.

Those examined in writing in Form I. made only a fair average, while those in Forms II. and III. made a very satisfactory average.

In spelling, out of 124 examined 50 proved good, 48 fair and 26 poor.

In bookkeeping sets both Commercial Forms made satisfactory showings.

Work of art showed a good beginning and note books in science proved satisfactory.

Mr. Spotton expressed his pleasure at reporting that the school had improved for the current year.

In general remarks Mr. Spotton said, "It has given me a great deal of pleasure to revisit this school under its greatly improved conditions and equipment. The new principal is administering with marked ability the affairs of the school, so long and so successfully conducted by Mr. Fessenden. The staff in general is a very strong one and the tone of the school is distinctly high.

GYMNASIUM NEEDED.

"It is my duty to again call the attention of the Board to the necessity of action in the matter of a gymnasium. The present arrangements for physical culture cannot be regarded as satisfactory. The school should have a well equipped gymnasium of its own.

Deficit of $4060 in Chapman Alexander Evangelistic Campaigns

At the close of the Chapman-Alexander evangelistic campaign in Toronto, the deficit in the funds amounted to $4,060, according to an announcement made recently. The total expenses reached approximately, $18,000, and the cash received from offerings at meetings and special contributions reached $8,940.

It is expected that a considerable portion of this deficit will be received from the co-operating churches. All the churches that co-operated in the campaign were expected to give a contribution or take up a collection for the expenses, and only a few of them have yet responded.

TO MARKET EGGS FOR COUNTY FARMERS FROM ONE CENTRE

Organization Formed as Co-operative Poultry Association—Crate Fattening Establishment Also Proposed—Directors Elected—How the Scheme Works.

The farmers of Peterborough County are setting an example to the farmers of all Canada, in marketing their poultry produce. The members of the local egg circles formed in Peterborough county last June, yesterday organized themselves into one central association to be known as the Peterborough Cooperative Poultry Association. Representatives from all of the local circles except Lakefield, gathered in the office of "Farm and Dairy" to form this central organization. Lakefield would have been represented had it not been for the bad condition of the roads.

H. B. Cowan, editor in chief of Farm and Dairy was requested to take the chair. All of the representatives present expressed themselves as much pleased with the progress which had been made in the marketing of eggs through the local circles and expressed their desire to go further and combine all of the circles under one organization, which should look after the marketing of all eggs produced by circle members in the county and make reports of the sales of the same to circle members.

A contitution was submitted defining the duties of the central organization and on the motion of Mr. McGregor of Central Smith, and seconded by T. B. Young of Monaghan, the constitution was adopted. The following officers were elected:

President—C. E. Moore, Central Smith.

Vice-President—W. A. Rosborough Zion.

Secretary—W. Scott, Central Smith

Directors—Wilbur Bennett, Monaghan; and S. Matchett, Stewarts.

THE BUYER TALKS

John I. Brown of Montreal, representing the buyers, Gunn, Langlois & Co., said that while at present they were maintaining and paying the man at the central warerooms in Peterboro, his firm was looking forward to the day when the farmers should take over this central warehouse, and ship their eggs directly to the firm's headquarters at Montreal. The constitution of the organization does not bind its members to ship to Gunn, Langlois & Co., or to any other firm. They will sell where they can get the most money. Mr. Brown was quite confident however, that so long as good eggs were put up, they could compete with any other firm in offering the price that would get the eggs and poultry.

The interest which this firm takes in promoting the production of better eggs and poultry was evidenced when Mr. Brown offered to put pure bred stock in the hands of our farmers at cost price or less. Mr. Brown also submitted to the meeting a resolution passed by the Montreal Produce Exchange, making it a criminal offense to knowingly sell bad eggs. Members of the Peterborough egg circles have nothing to fear from legislation of this kind, and the resolution was passed unanimously.

CRATE FATTENING ESTABLISHMENT

Gunn, Langlois & Co., with the aid of Wm. Scott of Peterboro propose to establish in the city this spring a modern crate fattening establishment. Birds delivered by the farmers in a thin condition will be given a couple of weeks of feeding in the establishment and will then be marked as first class dressed poultry. Mr. Scott has visited crate fattening establishments in various parts of Canada to become familiar with the work and it is anticipated that Peterboro county farmers will be enabled to market their live poultry to much better advantage than heretofore when this finishing station is gotten in running order.

A vote of thanks to Messrs. Cowan and John I. Brown for the splendid work which they have done in forwarding the organization of both the local circles and the central association was moved by T. D. Young, and seconded by W. A. Rosborough. The appreciation of the meeting of this movement was expressed in the usual manner.

THOSE WHO WERE THERE

The representatives of the various circles present were: C. E. Moore, Alex. McGregor and W. Scott from Central Smith; T. D. Young and Wilbur Bennett, Monaghan; Mr. Matchett and Bert. Deyell, Stewarts; W. A. Rosborough from Zion. Mr. A. Knox of Norwodo was present for the Norwood Egg Circle, which is working independently of the other egg circles in the county. H. C. Duff, district representative of the Department of Agriculture was also present and took part in the discussion.

The farmers of Peterborough have the distinction of being the first in Canada to get together and market their eggs cooperatively on a large scale thus cutting out a large part of the middle man's profit, and at the same time guaranteeing to the consumer the quality of the poultry which he buys.

SHE SCORED A BIG TRIUMPH

Barbara Tennant's Recital Greatly Appreciated

She Demonstrated Her Ability to a Large Audience

That Peterborough people take a great interest in the dramatic triumphs of Barbara Tennant, (Mrs. Harold Wadely) was evidenced most strongly last night at the recital in the Grand Opera House. The audience was large, and most sympathetic and appreciative of the gifted reader's work. The recital was given under the auspices of the King's Daughters but much interest attached to the performance, through Miss Tennant's connection with Peterborough. Another feature of the performance, adding a distinctly local touch, was the appearance of Mr. Wadely, who is manager of the Brinton Carpet Company in the sketch called "Cinders."

The repertoire of Miss Tennant was broad enough to include every branch and phase of the reader's art. From grave to gay, humor to seriousness, playfulness to pathos, meekness to indignation, the whole gamut of human passion and feeling was run in a manner so delicate and subtle that the transitions themselves went unmarked, and only the responsiveness of the audience remained.

The selections by Miss Tennant alternated in character so impressively that one was compelled to admire the great versatility of her remarkable gifts. Distinguished by personal charm and magnetism of no mean order, Miss Tennant has the added gift of a fine voice, flexible as the summer wind. There was none of the declamation that marks the efforts of so many elocutionists, but a winning, subtle, intensive projection of personality into every sentence and every suggestive motion that distinguishes the real actress.

What greater transition could one wish for than in the rendering of Gunga Dinn, Kiplings well known army poem, and Ella Wheeler Wilcox's "My Ships" The Lesson With the Fan was light, delicate, coquettish, while Miss Tennant's next, 'The Ballad of Splendid Silence,' was the story of awful tragedy. Choice among these will vary with temperament. It must be said that the presentation lacked nothing to bring out the true interpretation, the most sympathetic and penetrative rendering of each selection.

In "Cinders" Miss Tennant showed her powers of sustained action. As the daughter of a cockney char woman falling in love with the briefless penniless barrister for whom she was charring, she demonstrated beyond the show of a doubt, her ability to take a comic role. The sketch on a vaudeville stage would capture a house. Mr. Wadely's presentation of the barrister was good, being a very quiet, self contained sort of individual too depressed to be more than cynical. The whole performance was very enjoyable indeed, and as far removed from ordinary elocutionary efforts as Lake Ontario is from Peterborough.

Maclean Borthwick assisted with several solos. He has a pleasing baritone voice, and was given a good reception. The program was:—

Overture—"Midsummer Dreams," Mendelssohn, orchestra.

Prologue—To Opera "Pagliacci," Leoncavello, Mr. Maclean Borthwick.

Selection—Oberon's speeches to Puck, "Midsummer's Night Dream" Shakespeare.

"Gunga Dinn"—Kipling.

"My Ships"—Wheeler Wilcox.

"The Lesson with the Fan"—Anonymous, Barbara Tennant.

"Long Ago in Alicala"—Messager Mr. Maclean Borthwick.

"The Ballad of Splendid Silence"—Nesbitt.

"The Pin"—Wheeler Wilcox.

"Little Boy Blue"—Field.

"The Hindoo's Paradise"—Anonymous, Barbara Tennant.

"Two Grenadiers"—Schumann, Maclean Borthwick

Potion speech from "Romeo and Juliet"—Shakespeare, Barbara Tennant.

"Midsummer's Night Dream" Scherzo, Mendelssohn, orchestra.

"Cinders"—An episode of London life.

FARMERS' BANK CHARTER AFFAIR

Is Summoned to Appear in Court Next Week to Answer Serious Charge---It is Said He Got the Farmers' Bank Charter Through by Misrepresentation at Ottawa---Latest Sensation in the Big Case.

Special to The Review.

TORONTO, FEB. 9.—AN INFORMATION WAS LAID AT NOON TO-DAY AGAINST HON. J. R. STRATTON, CHARGING HIM WITH OBTAINING BY FALSE REPRESENTATION A CHARTER FOR THE FARMERS BANK. HE WILL BE SUMMONED TO APPEAR IN POLICE COURT A WEEK FROM TO-MORROW.

Probably no person in the police court at the hearing given the four provisional directors, Ferguson, Lown, Fraser and Watson, suspected for a moment that the blue papers sticking out of Inspector Duncan's pocket were summons against the Hon. J. R. Stratton, of Peterborough, charging him with conspiring with others to obtain by deceit a charter for the bank. As the magistrate read out the following information charging Mr. Stratton there was breathless silence in the crowded court. The information was:

"That the said J. R. Stratton with others did conspire, confederate and agree together to obtain by false representation, deceit and fraud through the treasury board of the Dominion of Canada, a certificate required in order to enable a bank to open for business under the provisions of the Bank Act to the detriment of the public."

ANOTHER CHARGE

A second information has been sworn out as follows: "That Hon. J. R. Stratton in the months of June and July, 1910, did accept, receive or take on pledge assignment or hypothecation notes of the Farmers Bank of Canada from W. R. Travers, general manager of said Bank."

It is understood that the charges against Mr. Stratton have relation to the negotiation of certain notes by the Trust and Guarantee Company of which Mr. Stratton is president, the said notes of shareholders having been discounted to obtain the necessary cash deposit of $250,000 to obtain a charter.

The charge arises, it is thought, out of the charge of hypothecation against Fred Crompton, who has been committed for trial.

The first information is also against the provisional directors and J. J. Warren, who was general manager of the Trusts and Guarantee Company.

HON. J. R. STRATTON.

EDITORIAL

The startling news from Toronto that Hon. J. R. Stratton has become involved in the Farmers' Bank trouble, being charged with having secured the charter of the bank at Ottawa by false mis-representation, is indeed regrettable. Let us express the hope that he will be able to clear himself of the charge, and thus save his name from being connected with the odious management and thievery proven to have existed in the management of the bank after its birth.

The Examiner, a week or two ago, said that the story which Toronto Saturday Night published, connecting Mr. Stratton with the procuring of the charter was an impudent lie and falsehood. Now that official action has been taken in the matter, we hope Mr. Stratton will be able to prove to all the people, in the courts, that the denial of the Examiner was indeed correct.

IS KINDNESS TO CANADA

U.S. Congress Showed More Consideration in Killing Dam Proposals.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—When the House of Commons is in need of a subject the Long Sault power development scheme is revived. The Opposition held a post-mortem discussion on the matter yesterday, and the House did not reach the orders of the day until seven minutes before adjournment. The intention was to give the Verville eight-hour bill its third reading, but as it was only referred to for a moment, the psychological moment has probably passed, and it is unlikely that the bill will be reached again this session.

Mr. Borden precipitated the discussion by moving for a copy of all correspondence and documents dealing with the proposed damming of the St. Lawrence at the Long Sault Rapids. He referred to the proceedings at Washington Tuesday, and was grateful that the United States Congress had "saved Canada from itself," but he did not think that the interests promoting the measure would be satisfied with this reverse.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier expressed himself as happy to comply with the request, promising to bring down full information from the time of the Ashburton treaty until the present.

The Opposition speakers would not let the matter rest there, and Dr. Sproule claimed that the defeat of the bill in Washington was the result of the "stand we took here."

Mr. Foster thought the Minister of Justice had given Canada's case away.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) was fearful because the corporation had threatened to spend $2,000,000 to put the legislation through.

Mr. Borden argued that it was better to have all the papers in the case brought before Parliament in the event of the proposal being renewed in the United States or in the Canadian Parliament. He said that he would not care to associate himself with the view expressed by Sir Alan Aylesworth in the House last Thursday, that if the works on the United States side of the international boundary did not raise the level of the water in Canadian territory, the Dominion would have no grounds for a protest. Under the provisions of the Ashburton treaty the position of Canada was well defined. The channels in question were to remain open to navigation of both countries forever. He took this occasion to protest against the view of Sir Alan Aylesworth.

Sir Alan Aylesworth said, from the standpoint of international rights, supposing there were no treaties, Canada would have no right to object to the damming of the southern channels. This was what was meant by his statement last Thursday. According to the treaties, navigation reigned supreme, and everything that interfered with navigation could not go. If navigation were not interfered with, under the existing treaty, Canada had no cause for complaint.

Mr. Doherty (St. Anne's) said that the channel could not be free and open if it was to be obstructed. It was an extraordinary position on the part of the Government charged with the protection of the interests of the country. The Congress of the United States appeared to be more careful of Canadian interests than the Canadian Government.

A sensational episode, which came on the verge of turning the proceedings of the public accounts committee into an unseemly riot, took place yesterday, and a scene of disorder followed of an unparalleled nature, Mr. Crocket of York, who has been camping on Mr. Pugsley's trail all the session, had concluded his examination of Geoffrey Stead, the resident engineer of the department at Chat-

Winnipeg Teachers' Salaries Raised.

Winnipeg, Feb. 9.—The salaries of all the teachers, with the exception of the principals in the public schools, have been voluntarily raised. The new schedule places the schools of this city on a basis as high as that in any other city in America. The minimum for inexperienced teachers has been raised from $450 to $500. Regular teachers will be paid $650 to $800 for the first year, instead of $650 to $725. The maximum is to be reached at the end of the eighth year, instead of the ninth as before, and it will run from $900 to $1,000, instead of from $800 to $950.

Nickel Companies to Bring 5,000 to the Pacific Islands.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 9.—Advices were brought by the steamer Zealandia that much excitement was occasioned in Australia and New Zealand by the report that arrangements had been made by the French Nickle Mining Companies in New Caledonia, to bring 5,000 Japanese to the South Pacific Islands.

Mr. Fisher, Premier of Australia, in an interview, said the arrival of thousands of Japanese at Noumea was a matter of grave importance to Australia, owing to the danger of New Caledonia being made an intermediate settling ground for hordes of Japanese with Australia as the final destination.

Noumea correspondents state that the arrival of the first ship load of Japanese is causing disturbances. The bringing of the Japanese was arranged in France.

ENGINEER SAYS HE FORGOT ABOUT PASSENGER TRAIN

Had Trouble With His Own Engine, a New One.

Both He and Conductor Blamed for the Wreck at Rockwood.

Brantford, Feb. 9.—After a three hours' session at Princeton yesterday, the coroner's jury, empaneled to enquire into the cause of the Grand Trunk wreck near Richwood on Saturday night last, returned a verdict fixing the responsibility for the wreck on Conductor William Meecham and Engineer Robert Earith. The verdict was returned at six o'clock. It said:

"The jury is unanimous that Conductor William Meecham and Engineer Robert Earith, in charge of engine 629, were responsible for the wreck, in colliding with the regular train, No. 39, which caused the death of Peter McFarlane and others."

The jury heard the story of a terrible omission from Robert Earith, the engineer who was carried into Princeton from a farm house near the scene of the wreck, in order to give his testimony. Earith admitted to Coroner Staples that he had forgotten all about the passenger train when he passed through Drumbo, and evidently his conductor had also forgotten, as they did not exchange a word from Tavistock down.

The inquest was held in the Stroud Hotel, where the famous Benwell inquest was held, and a big throng of people gathered. Representing the Grand Trunk Railway Co. were two solicitors, Messrs. Foster and Platt of Montreal, Assistant Supt. Bowker and Trainmaster Forrester. The solicitors merely watched the proceedings. There was no one present representing the crown interests. R. N. Ball, crown attorney for Oxford, was to have been present, but failed, it is said owing to the county not meeting his expenses, outside of the usual fee. Coroner Staples conducted the examination of the witnesses.

Earith said he knew the timetable of the train in question. When he left Stratford he thought he had time enough to reach Paris Junction five

STEEL MEN TURNED DOWN

Fielding Gives Little Encouragement to Deputation.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, in replying to the demands of a deputation from Morrisburg, asking for a bounty on sheet steel, did not hold out very much encouragement that steel bounties will be renewed in any form. He said that, while the request would receive the serious consideration of himself and his colleagues he could not give any definite reply at the present time.

"You come to us," he said, "at a time when we are not anxious to extend our bounties, but are rather engaged in a noble effort to get rid of them." He went on to say that some of the iron and steel bounties had already expired, and that the majority of the members of the House were disposed to be hostile to the idea of the Government giving bounties of any kind. He added that the Government would not grant a bounty on goods for export. Should Canada do so the United States would immediately place a countervailing duty on such products going into that country. The Government in the past had been obliged to decline to grant increased protection to the sheet steel industry because its product was the raw material of other manufacturers.

What the deputation asked was for a bounty of not less than five dollars a ton on sheet steel made in Canada, in view of the fact that the duty of five per cent. will be removed by the reciprocal agreement recently arrived at between Canada and the United States. It was pointed out by the members of the deputation who were introduced by Andrew Broder, M.P. for Dundas, that it was the aim of the town to establish a group of industries whose raw material is sheet steel. If a bounty were granted for five years the desired result would be attained.

YOUNG GIRL DISAPPEARS

Friends Believe She Has Committed Suicide.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—One of the strangest disappearance cases with which the German police have had to deal in many years has them completely baffled to-day. It is that involving the disappearance of Miss Margaret Damm, a young musical student from Omaha, Neb., who has been mysteriously missing since Jan. 24. Some of her friends believe that she has committed suicide, but as her body has not been found, the authorities are inclined to doubt this.

When Miss Damm left her lodgings on Jan. 24, she informed her landlady that she was going to Westphalia to visit her father, who was staying there then. However, she told different stories to various persons as to destination. Her last words to her landlady upon leaving her lodgings were: "I will write to you and the letter that you receive will astonish you."

Miss Damm was 26 years old, tall, pretty and of striking stature. While her father spent most of his time in Western Germany the rest of the family reside in Omaha.

BILL FOR PROTECTION OF WORKMEN ON SCAFFOLDING

One of Two Measures Brought in by Premier Whitney.

Chinese Laundries to be Under Regular Inspection.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Sir James Whitney introduced three bills at the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon, two of especial interest to labor organizations. The Prime Minister has given the question of accidents caused by defective scaffolding personal attention, and while in England last summer was a close observer of the methods for the protection of workmen.

One of his bills yesterday related to the protection of scaffolding. Sir James stated that after its second reading it would go to a special committee, before which employes and labor bodies will have an opportunity to discuss its provisions.

The other bill, which will be welcomed by labor organizations, moved by the Premier, provides that in future all laundries, including those run by Chinese, shall be open to inspection by the regular Factory Act inspectors.

W. H. Hoyle's bill to amend the Voters' Lists Act, gave rise to animated discussion. It contains two clauses. The first clause appeared to meet with approval. It provides that "the clerk shall forthwith, after posting up the list of appeals, deliver or transmit by post by registered letter, one copy of the list to each of the persons described in section 2," i.e., the official persons to whom ten copies of the voters' lists have to be sent.

The second clause was designed to change the word "may" to "shall" in the present law with respect to the reception of affidavits respecting appeals to be placed on the voters' list.

Hon. A. G. MacKay, Opposition leader, spoke favorably, stating that at present some judges accepted such affidavits as evidence, while others refused.

Sir James Whitney pronounced himself firmly opposed to the proposal as one which would compel a judge to accept as evidence affidavits made up by possibly unknown persons, and which, as evidence were utterly worthless.

Hon. W. J. Hanna said that in his constituency, in consequence of arrangement between the political parties, the judge accepted affidavits, while personally opposed to doing so. There was possibly a middle course which could be worked with in committee.

On that understanding the Government assented to the second reading, and a reference of the bill to the municipal committee.

A. Studholme, East Hamilton, moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act. He stated that the bill expressed the views of the City Council of Hamilton, but its clause to have controllers hold office for two years, two retiring annually did not meet with his approval.

The bill also provides for elections of city councils and boards of education on New Year's Day in cities of 50,000 and over.

Mr. Studholme said that when outlying districts were added to a city, it was often found that the streets were mapped out in an irregular manner. "For this reason the bill provides that no plan of any survey or sub-division of any land, situated within two miles of the limits of any city having a population of 50,000 or over, shall be registered until such plan shall have been approved by the council of such city.

In the event of the said council not approving within 15 days after a copy thereof has been served on the clerk of said city, the judge of the county court, in the county in which said lands are situated, may, after notice to the council of the said city, make an order allowing the said plan to be filed.

The proposal of A. E. Donovan of Brockville to amend the Municipal Act to change the date of municipal elections from New Year's Day to the third Monday in January, was given its second reading and went to the municipal committee.

Mr. Donovan said he had written to 75 mayors and 67 reeves, and 98 per cent. were favorable. Also he had received letters from nine premiers of other Canadian provinces and all had replied that the proposal was a sound one.

Premier Whitney said the idea was good, but Mr. Donovan was wrong as to the time. If a change were to be made, December would be better than January. There was no time of the year as undesirable as the time proposed. However, the Government

CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM

NOW IN PERFECT HEALTH THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

VANCOUVER, B.C., Feb. 1st. 1910.
"I am well acquainted with a man, known to thousands in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, who for nearly a year was practically a cripple from Rheumatism. He was so troubled with the disease that he found it difficult to even turn over in bed. His heart appeared so weak that he could hardly walk up stairs.

Last June, he received a sample of "Fruit-a-tives". He used them and dates his recovery from that time. To-day, there is no man in Vancouver enjoying better health.

He was building a house this fall and shingled a good part of the roof in a driving rain, without suffering any bad effects". JOHN B. LACY.

THE RECIPROCITY

This week will see the beginning of the parliamentary debate on the reciprocity question. Speculation as to the stand on the question to be assumed by the various members has been rife, and the introduction in of the matter in its present form, certainly offers some peculiar conditions Mr. Fielding has stated that the agreement may not be amended even in one clause, and the opposition to it or approval of it must be complete in itself.

There are clauses which many members would like to support, even though against their political principles, or to oppose. The tariff matter is local politics as a rule, for what will affect one district will pass over another entirely. There are Liberals, like Mr. Sealey of Wentworth, who are strongly opposed to reciprocity in fruit. Conservatives representing farming constituencies and western ridings particularly, view some of the clauses favorably, while opposed to others.

The Conservative party will oppose the agreement as a whole, believing that while it offers some opportunity for the expansion of Canadian trade, it will be detrimental to Canadian national life as a whole, and that a few years will demonstrate it to be a penny wise and pound foolish policy.

A great deal of rot is being printed about the agreement—just as Mr. Stratton's editor says on behalf of his chief—but a great deal of it comes from the Liberal organs which feel it their duty to bolster up the agreement. A few Conservative papers have taken the view, that the agreement is a good one, and Liberal papers such as the Ottawa Free Press regard the proposition as one that will militate against our British connection.

The issue is one of supreme importance to Canada and to her status as the biggest support to the Empire in potentiality. It is the parting of the ways and the members of the commons must take their stand on it. Those of the Liberal side of the house are loyal to Canada, as they think. They are placing the gain of a little more trade for Canada as the objective point of increased greatness But the cost will be great, and they who follow first instincts frequently come severely to grief.

It is not for Mr. Stratton to say that Canada is helpless in the matter, that the same condition of things can be produced merely by the United States making free our natural products. It is quite true that Canada would have no control over such action, but it is highly improbable that the United States would make such a tremendous sacrifice for nothing. If Canada did not make concessions to the United States, Canada would be faced by the exclusiveness that has marked international relationship so long. American sentiment is so strongly Americanized that nothing is given without a quid pro quo, and sometimes with interest compounded. Canadian sentiment is not so strongly tinctured with Canadianism but that some Canadians are willing to hand over much of our natural resources to the United States, for advantages of doubtful value nationally.

A tremendous fight will be waged against the conclusion of the agreement. It is not denied by us, or any fair-minded critic, that the agreement on the face looks like a good thing for Canada. It must be said, however that nationally the consequences promise to be startling. Reciprocity with the United States, restricted or unrestricted, is not a good thing for Canada. Canadian sentiment is strongly opposed to the introduction of any lever by which the American gets a free foothold in this country. The border must constitute a strong national wall. This trade agreement promises to demolish that wall, and with a fine "howdy you-do" invite Uncle Sam to step over and take what he wants.

SOME ONE LIED

In the House of Commons that eminent statesman, Hon. Sir Allen Aylesworth, gravely informed the House in reference to the Long-Sault power fight in the United States Congress, that Canada had no grounds for protest in the matter. A few minutes previously Sir Wilfrid Laurier had, in reply to a question, said, that the British embassador had been advised of Canada's position, and had been instructed to protest against the project on behalf of Canada.

Inasmuch as either one of the two statesmen was telling what was not true—probably it was Mr. Aylesworth—it would look as if a few whispers behind the scenes occasionally would stand them in good stead. A break like this in European foreign affairs would laugh a Minister out of the Cabinet.

MR. GRIFFIN'S OPINION

The Canadian Century, of which Watson Griffin, formerly editor of the Review, is editor, says, very appropriately:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier has said that the twentieth century belongs to Canada. Why should we share this great heritage with the United States? That was the country of the nineteenth century, and the only way Canadians could get a chance to share in its great prosperity was by crossing the boundary. If Americans wish to share with Canadians the country of the twentieth century let them cross the boundary into Canada. They will be gladly welcomed. They will make good Canadian citizens and help to make our Dominion "the greater half of the continent." But to pool the interests of Canada and the United States in any kind of reciprocity agreement that will permanently satisfy the United States Congress will mean to divide our heritage and allow the great Republic to dominate the twentieth century.

Does anyone believe that the United States Congress would endorse the reciprocity agreement if it were not regarded as an entering wedge to secure a larger market for American manufacturers and larger use of our raw materials in their factories?

If they get what they are aiming at Canadian manufacturers will be greatly injured, the movement of American capital across the line to establish branch factories in Canada will be stopped, and raw materials that should be reserved for the benefit of future generations of Canadians will soon be exhausted.

On the other hand, if they don't get what they want the reciprocity arrangement will soon be terminated by Congress.

Temporary reciprocity in natural products would disorganize Canadian and British business arrangements that it has taken twenty-five or thirty years to establish. It would take time to reestablish the old connections if the reciprocity arrangement should be suddenly abrogated by the United States.

MATHESON'S STAND

The attack on Provincial Treasurer Matheson by Liberal newspapers and correspondents, over his declaration on reciprocity, has been more venomous than the occasion seems to warrant. Why this should be is hard to imagine. If Col. Matheson had said the reciprocity agreement was all right, and distinguished it with his approval his remarks would have been quoted from one end of Canada to the other as conclusive evidence that it was a good thing.

The newspapers opposed to Col. Matheson's views of the matter seem to think that he exceeded his scope in attacking the reciprocal measure. Holding that it is a Dominion affair and not a Provincial, they say that the honorable colonel should not meddle. But are these prophets and censors justified? Very probably not. Col. Matheson is the provincial treasurer. He is concerned over the financial welfare of Ontario, the banner province of confederation, the greatest asset of the Dominion. Reciprocity affects Ontario, and affects it mightily. What is going to hurt Ontario financially concerns the provincial treasurer, and Col. Matheson's remarks, coming in so timely a manner, certainly carry much weight among the thoughtful people. Reciprocity is the business of the Ontario Government, though it has no power to deal with such trade matters, inasmuch as it affects the province.

Ontario is the manufacturing province of Canada. It does the great bulk of the shipping of wares to the west. The effective working of the agreement means the loss of much western trade to Ontario, and Ontario will lose more than it can gain by it. Col. Matheson was perfectly justified in taking cognizance of the reciprocity business in his budget speech.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Col Sam Hughes and the Ottawa Ministers" is the title of a serial story, to be continued in the House of Commons on Friday.

The Dominion Cattle Breeders' Association could adopt no resolution on reciprocity, because of differences of opinion. It is sure that in a multitude of opinions there is no safety.

The Toronto Globe says that the pride of Canadians in the Dominion and their loyalty to the world's greatest empire are not to be sold with their wheat and their bacon. But our national greatness is sold with the sale of our natural resources to the United States.

There doesn't seem to be much use in that deputation of a thousand fruit growers to Ottawa on Friday. Laurier has his mind made up. The agreement will be passed at the Canadian end through the aid of the party lash. The only redress the people will have is at the polls.

We do not hear anything more about the Pugsley grafts and scandals, the National Transcontinental bungles, the extravagance and corruption of the Laurier administration. The reciprocity business has drawn a herring across the track.

Sir John Macdonald in 1891 placed his back against the wall when he declared that as long as breath lasted he would oppose any policy of reciprocity with the United States, which meant commercial union. Sir John knew whereof he spoke. His words stand good to-day as they did twenty years ago.

Sir Allan Aylesworth thinks that we should adhere to the old English style of spelling. Not much. Take, for instance, the name Peterborough. Doesn't it make you tired every time you have to add that "ugh!" It is entirely unnecessary, and outside of the city is never used. While "Peterborough" is the official name of the place, it certainly would be a great help to have it shortened the three letters.

GRAND NEWS FROM NEW ONTARIO

Mr. G. W. Todd Tells How He Got Rid of His Rheumatism

Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills brought him the long looked-for relief—How Rheumatism is cured once and for all.

Wah-Tay-Beg, New Ontario, Feb. 8 (Special)—Every person who suffers from rheumatism wants quick relief and a sure cure. That's the reason they will be all interested in the statements of G. W. Todd of this place. Listen to it.

"After suffering with Backache and rheumatism for twelve months and trying several so-called remedies and getting no relief, I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. Two boxes brought me the relief I had looked for so long."

Are you looking for relief from your rheumatism. Are you also looking for a cure that will banish its aches and pains so that they will never return?

You will find both in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood That uric acid is in the blood, simply because disordered Kidneys are not doing their work. With healthy kidneys, all the uric acid will be strained out of the blood and there cannot possibly be any rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to make the kidneys healthy. Ask your neighbors about them.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—There was an active demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, but as bids were 3d to 4½d lower the volume of business worked here only amounted to 50,000 bushels. The local demand for oats was fair at steady prices. The trade in flour was quiet, while the demand for bran and shorts is heavy at firm prices. The demand for dressed hogs is good and prices for abattoir fresh killed have advanced 25c per cwt. Potatoes strong: Green Mountains, in carlots, selling, at 90c per bag.

Dressed hogs—Country dressed, $9 to $10; abattoir, $10.75 to $11 per cwt. Beef—Plate, half bbls., 100 lbs., $8.75; barrels, 200 lbs., at $17; tierces, 300 lbs., at $25. Lard, compound-tierces, 375 lbs., 10¾c; boxes, 50 lbs. net (parchment lined), 10⅞c; tubs, 50 lbs. net, grained, two handles, 11c; pails, wood, 20 lbs., net, 11¼c; tin pails, 20 lbs. gross, 10¾c. Pork—Heavy Canada short-cut mess, barrels, 35 to 45 pieces, $25; half barrels, $12.75; Canada short-cut and back pork, 45 to 55 pieces, barrels, $25; Canada clear pork, barrels, 30 to 35 pieces, $24.50; bean pork, small pieces but fat, barrels, $20.50. Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 39½c to 40c, car lots ex-store; extra No. 1 feed, 39½c to 39c; No. 3 C.W., 38½c to 38¾c; No 2 local white, 37½c to 38c; No. 3 local white, 36½c to 37c; No. 4 local white, 35½c to 36c. Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.60; seconds, $5.10; winter wheat patents, $4.75 to $5; strong bakers', $4.90; straight rollers, $4.35 to $4.50; in bags, $1.90 to $2. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $4.45; bag of 90lbs., $2.10. Feed barley, car lots, ex-store, 49c to 50c. Corn, American, No. 3 yellow, 56½c to 57c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $20; Manitoba, $20 to $23; middlings, Ontario, $22.50 to $23; shorts, Manitoba, $22 to $25; mouillie, $25 to $30. Eggs—Selected, 28c; fresh, 32c; No. 1 stock, 25c; No. 2, 21c to 22c. Cheese—Westerns, 11⅞c to 12c; easterns, 11¼c to 11⅝c. Butter—Choicest, 24½c to 25c; seconds, 22c to 23c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—The railways reported 44 carloads of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 721 cattle, 994 hogs, 262 sheep and lambs and 68 calves.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree, who bought 98 cattle, quoted prices as follows: Good to prime steers and heifers, $5.65 to $6.25; cows, $3 to $5.20; bulls, $3 to $5.20.

Milkers and Springers.

Milkers and springers sold at $40 to $65 for the bulk, $70 being reported for a very few.

Veal Calves.

Prices firm, at $3.50 to $8.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn reported prices as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4.25 to $4.75; rams, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; lambs, $6 to $6.90 per cwt.

Hogs.

Hog prices were unchanged, at $7.40 for selects, fed and watered at the market, and $7.15 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points. This means that the farmer would get $7 per cwt. for his hogs.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—At the Montreal stock yards, West End Market, the offerings of live stock this morning were 300 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 100 calves.

Owing to the heavy snowstorm which prevailed thruout the country yesterday the returns of live stock were delayed in arriving, and in consequence supplies of cattle on the market were small, which created a much firmer feeling, but there was no actual advance in prices. The demand was good and a fairly active trade was done. Choice steers sold at 6½c; good, at 6¼c to 6½c; fairly good, at 5¾c to 6c; fair, at 5¼c to 5½c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5c per lb.

The trade in sheep and lambs was very quiet on account of the limited supplies offered and prices ruled firm. Sheep sold at 4¼c to 4½c and lambs, at 6¼c to 6½c per pound. The market for hogs opened stronger, $8 per cwt. for selected lots, weighed off cars, but as supplies turned out to be much larger than was generally expected the impression was that the above figures would not be maintained, as packers showed little disposition to operate freely, having sufficient on hand for their requirements for the balance of this week. The demand for calves was good and sales were made at prices ranging from $3 to $15 each, as to size and quality.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Cattle—Receipts, 17,000; market steady; beeves, $5 to $6.85; Texas steers, $4.10 to $5.50; western steers, $4.60 to $5.70; stockers and feeders, $3.85 to $5.80; cows and heifers, $2.65 to $5.80; calves, $6.75 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 34,000; market slow, weak, 10c lower; light, $7.50 to $7.75; mixed, $7.35 to $7.70; heavy, $7.15 to $7.60; rough, $7.15 to $7.30.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

He went to the Rue Poissoniere, into the house of M. Furet and, imitating the voice of M. Edouard Furet, asked over the telephone of M. Cohen, a banker, whether he would be willing to discount the draft. M. Cohen replied in the affirmative, and ten minutes later Ballmeyer, after having cut the telephone wire to prevent further communication and possible explanations, sent for the money by a companion named Rigaud.

Ballmeyer kept the lion's share for himself. Then he rushed to the court to denounce Rigaud and, as I have said, M. Furet himself.

A dramatic scene took place when accuser and accused were confronted with each other in the cabinet of M. Bepierre, the judge.

"You know, my dear Furet," said Ballmeyer to the amazed broker, "you must tell the justice the truth. You need not fear serious consequences. Why not confess? You needed 40,000 francs to pay a little debt incurred at the race track, and you intended to pay back the sum. It was you who telephoned?"

"I! I!" stammered M. Edouard Furet, almost breathless with rage and astonishment.

"You may as well confess," said Ballmeyer. "No one could mistake your voice."

The bold thief was detected within eight days and was caught, and the police furnished such a report upon him that M. Cruppi, then attorney general, now minister of commerce, presented to M. Furet the most humble excuses of the department of justice. Rigaud was also tried and condemned to twenty years at hard labor.

One might go on relating this kind of stories about Ballmeyer indefinitely.

Known at various times as the Count de Motteville, Comte de Bonneville, etc., he frequented the summer resorts and watering places—Biarritz, Aix-les-Bains, Luchon, losing in play at the club as much as 10,000 francs in one evening. In his regiment he had made a conquest—happily platonic—of the colonel's daughter. Do you know the type now?

Well, it was with this man that Joseph Rouletabille was going to fight.

I thought that morning that I had sufficiently informed Mme. Edith in regard to the personality of the bandit.

The night passed without any event. When the day dawned I saluted it with a deep sigh of relief. Rouletabille was already in the midst of the workmen, laboring actively in repairing the breaches of the tower B. The work was done so expeditiously and so promptly that the strong Chateau of Hercules was soon sealed as hermetically close as it was possible for a building to be. Seated on a big bowlder in the bright sunlight, Rouletabille began to draw upon his notebook the plan which I have submitted to the reader, and he said:

"You see, these people believe that I am fortifying the place to defend myself. Well, that is merely a small part of the truth, for I am fortifying the place because reason bids me do so in order that Larsan cannot get in."

When I heard a knock at my door about 11 o'clock in the morning and the voice of Mere Bernier told me that Rouletabille wanted me to get up I threw my window wide open and looked out in delight.

Never had nature appeared to me more sweet. The serene air, the beautiful shore, the balmy sea, the purple mountains, all this picture to which my northern senses were so little accustomed, evoked in my mind the thought of some tender, caressing human being. As these thoughts passed through my mind I noticed a man who was lashing the sea. I could not understand what had excited his wrath in this tranquil spot, but he evidently felt that he had some serious cause for vexation, for he never ceased his blows.

At this point I was interrupted by the voice of Rouletabille, who told me that breakfast was nearly ready. Rouletabille appeared in the garb of a plasterer, his clothing showing fresh mortar. I asked him whether he had seen the man who was beating the water, and he told me that it was Tullio who was frightening the fishes to drive them into his nets. It was for this reason, I realized, that Tullio had obtained the nickname of the "hangman of the sea."

Rouletabille went on to tell me that he had asked Tullio that morning about the stranger whom he had rowed about in his boat the night before. Tullio had replied that he had no knowledge whatever of whom the man might be; that he was a crazy sort of fellow whom he had taken in as a passenger at Mentone.

I dressed myself quickly and joined Rouletabille, who told me that we were to have a new guest at luncheon in the person of Old Bob.

Old Bob made his appearance. And—let me say it; let me say it here—it was not this apparition which could have turned our thoughts toward anything dark or gloomy. I have rarely seen anything more droll than Old Bob walking in the blinding sun of the springtime in the Midi, with a tall hat of black beaver, his black trousers, his black spectacles, his white hair and his rosy cheeks. Yes, yes, we sat there and laughed in the Tower of Charles the Bold. And Old Bob laughed with us, for Old Bob was as gay as a child.

What was this old savant doing at the Castle of Hercules? Why did he quit his work and precious collection in Philadelphia?

At the time of his infatuation for the daughter of M. Stangerson, Arthur Rance was regarded by American scientists as the rising anthropologist. His subsequent marriage to Edith Prescott revived his enthusiasm for research, which she shared. When they visited the region of Rochers Rouges the leading scientists of France were moving the government to promote their work, which was yielding great results. Discoveries in the private grounds of M. Abbo, owner of the restaurant of the Grotte of Barma Grande, proved that primeval man had lived there before the glacial epoch, 200,000 years ago.

The Rances eagerly entered into these antiquarian researches. Mrs. Rance, being of a romantic turn, took a violent fancy to the ruined castle and persuaded her husband to buy it. While it was being made habitable Rance telegraphed and wrote to her uncle, Old Bob, who was then bone digging in Patagonia. These messages never reached him, for Old Bob, who had previously promised to join his nephew and niece after they had been married for awhile, had already taken the steamer for Europe. Evidently report had already brought to him the story of the treasures of the Rochers Rouges. A few days after the cable had been dispatched he landed at Marseilles and arrived at Mentone, where he became the companion of Arthur Rance and his wife in the Chateau of Hercules, which his very presence seemed to fill with life and gayety.

The gayety of Old Bob appeared to us a little theatrical, but that feeling arose without doubt from the effects of our apprehensions of the evening before. The Old Bob had the soul of a child. He was as much of a coquette as an old woman.

To Consider Graft Charges.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Sir James Whitney stated yesterday afternoon that the Ontario Government expected to take up and consider the report received on Monday from Judge Snider, upon the investigation into the charges of graft in North Oxford.

The Prime Minister stated that owing to the pressure of public business he had personally not had time to read the judge's review of the investigation himself.

The question whether the report will be made public before the formal presentation to the House will be decided to-day if the report is, as expected by the Premier, at the forenoon Cabinet Council.

German Spies In Bermuda.

New York, Feb. 9.—A cable from Hamilton, Bermuda, says: The German scare has extended to Bermuda. It synchronized this week with the arrival from the West Indies of the German cruiser Hansa. There was much firing of cannon and official visits were paid and returned.

An unfortunate termination to the festivities was brought about by the fact that certain of the crew were detected in an endeavor to obtain photographic views of the fortifications and approaches of the navy yard, and the situation of lights and bearings.

Wet and Dry Hotelman.

Brockville, Feb. 9.—T. E. Connor, proprietor of the Nevens' House, Jasper, has purchased the Fitzgerald Hotel there, and will conduct them both. The Nevens' House is in Wolford Township, which carried local option and in consequence, after May 1 the hostelry will be deprived of a license. The Fitzgerald House, which is directly across the street, is in Kitley, which is not a "dry" township, and Connor will hold the unique position of being proprietor of two hotels in the one place, one of which will be a local option house, and the other will not.

A Fatal Stairway.

Guelph, Feb. 9.—At the inquest held Monday evening to enquire into the cause of the death of Richard Porter, who was found lying in a dying condition at the foot of the stairs leading to the lavatory of the Victoria Hotel, the jury found that death was caused by a hemorrhage, but were unable to state whether this was caused by the fall or superinduced by it. As this was not the first fall down this stairway the jury called the attention of the proprietor to its dangerous condition.

Feet and Hands Frozen.

Shelburne, Feb. 9.—A boy from Dr. Barnardo's Home, Peter street, Toronto, had a trying experience from Thursday until Sunday last, during which time he lay buried in the straw mow in Thomas Murphey's barn, a Melaycthan farmer, just west of here. His feet and hands were terribly frozen.

Earl Cawdor Dead.

London, Feb. 9.—Frederick Archibald Vaughan Campbell, the third Earl Cawdor, and the greatest railway authority in Great Britain, died yesterday after a long illness. He was one of the two or three men blamed for the failure of the veto conference.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleriver, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. EMMA CHATEL, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y.—I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for womb trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did more for me than the doctors did. I have gained five pounds. I hope that every one who is suffering from female trouble, nervousness and backache will take the Compound. I owe my thanks to Mrs. Pinkham. She is the working girl's friend for health, and all women who suffer should write to her and take her advice.—MISS TILLIE PLENZIG, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

ENGINEER SAYS HE FORGOT

minutes clear of the passenger, as provided by the rules.

Earith said he was thoroughly familiar with the rules, as they had been read by Trainmaster Forrester to the jury. These rules provided for the priority of trains of first, second and third class, the trains of superior class having the right of way. The rules provided that in case of single track, the inferior train should take to a siding. This was an absolute duty, not dependent on any despatcher's orders. The rules also held conductors and enginemen equally responsible for the safety of their trains.

The order received by Meecham and Earith from the despatcher at Stratford was as follows: "Run as extra from Stratford to Paris Junction," the rules providing as to how an extra should be run.

Engineer Earith said that his engine, which was a new one, gave him a lot of trouble coming down, the cylinders blowing open and requiring him to stop. The engine lost time, and as the troubles bothered the engineer, he forgot all about the passenger train and the human life on board. Had his engine been in perfect order, he would have made Paris Junction before there was the possibility of an accident.

When, however, he saw the approach of the opposing engine, he first applied the emergency brakes and reversed the engine, giving one sharp, one long and six short whistles, all as different danger signals. By that time the crash was imminent, and he believed his engine was backing up from the passenger train. He yelled to his fireman to jump, and jumped himself, just in time.

When the verdict was returned, Coroner Staples stated that he would immediately report the same to the crown authorities at Woodstock. Warrants for the arrest of Earith and Meecham will likely be made out. Earith is unable to be removed at present.

As to the report of Conductor Meecham being overworked, Trainmaster Forrester submitted a statement of hours on and off duty by Meecham from Jan. 28 to Feb. 4. It showed an average of nearly 14 hours off duty. Engineer Earith denied the report that he was overworked. The company had made every effort to locate Meecham for the inquest, but had failed to do so.

CAVAN NEWS

Special to the Review.

Cavan, Feb. 8.—The dress carnival, which was held on the rink last Tuesday, Jan. 31st, was a complete success, a large gathering of residents from near and afar being either spectators or performers, which reflects great credit upon the most able managers, who undoubtedly must have worked like Trojans to obtain such a high degree of perfection. The scene was one that pleased the eye and was enhanced by the various costumes adopted by the skaters.

The Methodist church, or rather the Ladies' Aid of the church, is to be congratulated over the remarkable results which attended their efforts in providing such an interesting and enjoyable program as was given last Monday. Both oyster supper and entertainment were fully appreciated by the large gathering that were present on this most auspicious occasion.

We regret to hear that there is much sickness abroad. Among those who are sorely afflicted is Miss Lulu Stewart a victim of pneumonia.

Miss Staples, of Cobourg, is home on a visit, and intends staying till Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Mounteer, of Cannington, delighted the congregation both morning and evening last Sunday by his sermons, which were of an uplifting nature.

Miss McGill, of the Peterborough Conservatory, ably assisted the talented artists in last Monday's program.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Eight white men and two negroes were killed and four injured yesterday by the explosion of a freight locomotive boiler at Smithville, Texas.

Ald. Judge, representing St. Paul's Ward in the City Council, Montreal, was yesterday unseated as a member of the council on charges of corruption.

The immense five-storey St. Anne convent and school in the north end of Montreal was totally destroyed by fire, which broke out shortly before noon yesterday.

The scarcity of dry fish in Nova Scotia is alarming and the great problem is how the consumer is going to get along until the spring catch is marketed, which will not be for three or four months.

Twenty-five hundred students of the university of St. Petersburg voted to go out on strike until Easter. The police made forty arrests. The action of the students followed repressive measures by the Cabinet.

The Liberal candidate for the Legislature, George W. McPhee, defeated the Conservative candidate, John H. Burton of Rustigo, by 33 votes in the King's County bye-election. A reversal would have meant a general election.

Family In Suicide Pact.

New York, Feb. 9.—Rather than let their children starve to death because their father was penniless and out of employment, Frank Barnard, formerly a trainer for the 23rd Regiment in Brooklyn, entered into a suicide pact with his wife, Mamie, by which they killed their two little ones by gas and at the same time ended their own lives.

The four bodies were found yesterday lying on a bed in the scantily furnished apartment which they had occupied on the third floor of 780 Fulton street, Brooklyn. The bodies of the children were between those of the parents. The husband left a brief note stating that poverty prompted him and his wife to enter into the pact.

Persons living in the Fulton street building smelled gas yesterday. At the same time it was noted that nothing had been seen of the Barnards. The children, George four years old, and Daniel two, usually were heard playing about in the apartment. Getting no response to knocks, the neighbors summoned a policeman and he discovered the tragedy.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Sun Life Assurance Co.
OF CANADA

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

BOARD OF MANAGEMENT FOR ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Mayor Morrow, Ald. Duncan and a Physician to be Members

His Worship Mayor Morrow, Ald. Duncan, chairman of the Property Committee, and a representative of the medical profession of the city, yet to be elected by that body, will constitute a Board of Management of the Isolation Hospital. So decided the Property Committee at a meeting held yesterday afternoon.

Ald. Duncan suggested that this step be taken, he being of the opinion that various matters could be discussed and adjusted without the council having to deal with them.

Dr. McPherson, M.H.O., submitted a list of goods necessary for the hospital. The list is made up of beds, furniture, kitchen utensils, etc. The amount to be expended is about $1,485, and the local merchants will be patronised. The chairman, Mayor Morrow and Dr. McPherson are to do the purchasing.

In regard to nurses for the institution, Dr. McPherson and Mayor Morrow will interview the Nicholls Hospital Board, and the authorities of St. Joseph's Hospital and find out what arrangements can be made.

Applications for the position of caretaker have been received since the date expired, and when one of the committee referred to a belated application, Ald. Duncan expressed himself as being opposed to the receiving of such. He held that it would not be fair to those who had applied for the position within the prescribed time.

No action was taken as to an appointment.

Ald. Brown wanted to know what was doing in regard to the garbage system. He thought something should be done, but when it was mentioned that the cost of such a system would be added to the general tax, which is now 22 mills, there was a lull in the discussion. Ald. Morgan thought a great opportunity stood in the path of some one to make a good profit by undertaking to collect the garbage. Such a person could be licensed to do the work.

BISHOP O'CONNOR TO PROVIDE FOR THE SUCCESSOR

For the Vacancy in Kingston Metropolitan See.

The Catholic Register says: Rt. Rev. Richard A. O'Connor, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough, is the senior Bishop of the Kingston Province, and now that the Kingston Metropolitan See is vacant it is his function to make all the provisions for its being filled. It is said that none of the Bishops in the Province will consent to a promotion to the Archiepiscopal seat; Bishop O'Connor would not go fourteen years ago, and he has stronger objections to the change to-day. Therefore, it is more than probable that some prominent cleric will be promoted from the priestly ranks and elevated to the Metropolitancy of the Province.

When interviewed to-day by the Review with reference to the matter, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor stated that the item was mainly correct. It will be his duty to selected quietly three bishops of different dioceses, together with all information regarding their suitability and forward their names to the Pope at Rome for his consideration. In the interval, which may be a year, the duties of the office of the Kingston Metropolitan See will be discharged by an administrator. His Lordship was unable to state definitely when the office would be filled.

Boys! Boys! Come to the opening of our new music building, Charlotte Street, on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 00 p.m. You will receive a musical instrument free. The J. M. Greene Music Co., Limited. 2d

CONCERNING THE FINAL SETTLEMENT

A thoroughly up to the minute drama of American social life, "The Final Settlement" will be the attraction at the Grand on Saturday matinee and evening. The play is by an author of many successes, and is considered to be one of the best of his many compositions.

In the play, the hero, an ambitious young workingman, rises to be the president of a great iron mill corporation. Then comes his ambition to shine in the social world. To do this he divorces his faithful first wife and marries a beautiful actress, thinking her talent and social graces will open to him the doors of society. The final settlement between love, ambition, wealth and sentiment forms a startling denouement. It is from this climax that the drama gains its name.

Broad questions are raised by the drama, which holds up business and social success in sharp contrast with domestic happiness.

A strong company will present the play here. Seat sale opened this morning.

INCREASED FINE TO $100

Against Proprietor of the Albion House

The fine of $20 recently imposed on Patrick Hogan, proprietor of the Albion Hotel, east city, has been increased to $100 by Magistrate Dumble, the latter amount being the minimum fine. Hogan disposed of more than one quart of liquor, and His Worship held that in so doing he was selling without a shop license, which permits of the sale of this amount.

OF INTEREST TO S. S. TEACHERS

Organization Meeting at Y.M.C.A Parlors Friday Afternoon

For the past few weeks the Young Men's Christian Association has been conducting a Normal Class for Sunday school teachers, but with its membership confined to young men. There have been numerous inquiries for a similar class for the ladies, but it was a question in the minds of the officers, whether such a move would be acceptable to the Sabbath School Association. At the last meeting of the executive of the latter association the question was brought up and it was unanimously decided that such a class would be acceptable and the general secretary of the Y.M.C.A was appointed to conduct a Teacher Training Class for the Sabbath School Association of this city.

The organization meeting of this class will be held in the parlors of the Y.M.C.A on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It is hoped that every teacher in the city who can attend this first meeting will do so.

The first half hour will be occupied by a discussion on the subject "The Sunday School Teacher's Qualifications" and the balance of the hour will be devoted to a study of the lesson for next Sunday in the Sunday schools.

Let it be distinctly understood that all teachers of Sunday school classes, both male and female, are cordially invited to attend this class. Bring your note books with you and be prepared to take notes for home study.

LAID AT REST

The funeral of the late James Grady took place at 9 o'clock this morning from his late residence to Sacred Heart church, and hence to St. Peter's cemetery. Among the many floral designs was one of a beautiful cross sent by the P. C. I. pupils.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Frank and Willie Grady, Frank and Leo Cassidy, cousins of the deceased, Cecil Wolfe and James Millroy, two P. C. I. students.

Rev. Father McCauley sang requiem high mass and Rev. Father O'Brien officiated at the grave.

FINE WAS VERY HEAVY

$50 and Costs for Violating Liquor Act

A fine with costs amounting to $53.75 altogether was imposed on Geo. Lipsett, proprietor of Lipsett's Hotel, East City, this morning by Magistrate Dumble, for violation of the liquor act.

G. N. Gordon, who defended Lipsett, objected to such a heavy fine, but his Worship over-ruled his objection, stating that the facts of the case warranted it.

In the event of his not paying the fine, Lipsett will spend a month in jail at hard labor.

IT'S THE OWNERS AND NOT THE DOGS

Who are Blame Says Ald. Morgan During Discussion on the Animals

The prospects are promising for further wrangling over the dog by-law.

As the situation stands now it will not be lawful for the city to issue dog tags this year, but more light on the subject will be forthcoming when the Legislature takes up the matter regarding the rights of cities to deal with the question.

All kinds of dogs were discussed by the members of the Property Committee yesterday afternoon, Ald. Brown taking the initiative when he asked what was going to be done this year.

Ald. Morgan was of the opinion that the dogs were all right, but the trouble was with the people who owned them.

Ald. Duncan and Bradburn were very much against the present conditions, in which the canines run at large, frightening horses, tearing cutter robes and being in general a big nuisance.

association. This lecture will be free to men and will be given in the back parlor of the association at 8 o'clock sharp. At the close of the travel talk the annual sale of magazines will be held, when those present will have an opportunity to buy magazines, the very best of them, at ridiculously low prices. Many of these magazines come off the tables in as good condition as when they come from the stores, and are obtainable at half the price. Those wishing to look over the list may do so at the office of the general secretary. The travel talk will be given to the boys in the afternoon.

K.'S OF C. HAD A SOCIAL EVENING

In the T.A.S. Hall—Progressive Euchre and Dancing

About two hundred of the Knights of Columbus, with their lady friends were entertained in the T.A.S. Hall last evening. Those present say it was the most enjoyable evening the society has held for a considerable time.

Progressive euchre occupied the attention of those present for the first part of the evening, after which dancing held sway, the Opera House orchestra supplying excellent music.

The lady's prize in the euchre contest was won by Miss A. Gordon and the gentleman's by John Carroll.

CO-OPERATIVE UNION STORE MAY BE OPERATED

Proposition Discussed by Trades and Labor Council.

Want the Signs Bearing Name of Street Attended to

At the regular meeting held last night, this matter was brought up and discussed. The shareholders would be members of the various unions of the city, and only union goods would be handled. Other cities smaller and larger than Peterborough have these stores, which command a large custom. The proposition is only in its infancy, but it is understood the scheme will be proceeded with.

It was decided that a deputation wait upon the City Council to advocate the repainting and repairing of all signs on the street corners, marking the name of the street.

The meeting discussed this matter at some length. It was pointed out that the present system of working the name of the street on the pavements was not satisfactory during the winter months, the letters being hidden from view under the snow, and as a consequence visitors to the city, in many cases complained of the difficulty met by them in endeavoring to find their way about.

It was also decided to ask the Council to take up the matter of milk and meat inspection for the city.

Plans for the big celebration to be held by the Trades and Labor Council on Labor Day were also discussed.

This city may have a large co-operative store, if the plans of the Trades and Labor Council mature.

RELIEF OFFICER GETS FEW CALLS

No Appeals for Charity Immigrants Have Made Good

A statement by the Relief Officer to-day indicated that there is a very small number of people in the city this winter who are in need of help.

He remarked that he receives practically no appeals of a needy character and the proportion this year is very small when compared to other years.

Many of the immigrants who came out here several years ago, when times were hard, have made good, and Mr. Miller personally knew of many of them having bought homes of their own since coming here.

DISTRICT CURLING CHAMPIONS HEARTILY CONGRATULATED

By Their Fellow Curlers—Have Won Cup for Third Consecutive Year—Reception and Supper With Speeches at the Curling Rink

The two rinks of local curlers, who by defeating Palmerston in Toronto yesterday, thereby winning for Peterborough the district championship, arrived home on the C.P.R. local last evening. They were given a rousing reception.

SUPPER AT THE RINK.

At the train they were met by a jolly crowd of local curling enthusiasts and a portion of the 57th Regimental band, which played merrily as the winners were driven to the curling rink. Tables were spread with good things in the room above the rink, and the hungry curlers were the guests of their fellow-curlers at an informal supper. About twelve altogether partook and the conversation for a while at the tables was all about "how the games were won."

CONGRATULATED THE CURLERS.

When appetites were satisfied, P. Connal acting as chairman, in a few words congratulated the curlers on winning such signal honors for Peterborough. "There was nothing," he remarked, "could advertise the city and the curling club better than winning games like the curlers had, as it was the third time the club had won the cup. He hoped, next year to see the tankard cup come this way. There were also a lot of young curlers out this year, which was a favorable sign. The teams had practiced faithfully, and their reward, that of winning the district championship, was the result of it. He proposed a toast to the winners in which all joined heartily.

SPLENDID WORK OF RINKS.

Skip "Pete" Lang, of one of the winning rinks, in responding, assured the curlers that he was unprepared for such a reception, never even anticipating one. However, he felt it compulsory to state that the win for his rink was due more to the players themselves than to his work. He felt that he could not have had better players, and each and every man played the game of their lives. Concluding he said, "that he hoped yet to help bring more honors to the club.

Skip T. E. B. Yeates, of the second rink, said when asked to speak, that he had felt himself incompetent to skip a rink that was striving for the district championship, but fortunately he had a competent rink behind him. He had good men working for him, they kept their nerve and that was all he could say. His words were enthusiastically applauded.

MAYOR MORROW.

Mayor Morrow was also present and spoke. "He had great pleasure," he said, "in congratulating the district champions on their winning the cup for the third time, and great credit was due to Skips Yeates and Lang. It was a great pleasure for him on behalf of the citizens to congratulate the winners.

J. S. Knapman, R. Neil, Archie Moore and others also said a few congratulatory words.

SHOULD BE NO KNOCKING.

The chairman, Mr. Connal, made a a short address in which he remarked that he was pleased to say that there were no grouchers in the club and friendliness existed between all the members. In curling one thing that should be cultivated was a friendly feeling for fellow players. Do away with knocking, often too prevalent in games. Harmony was the soul of the game, and players should pull well together. Instead of blaming the skips they should be helped and stimulated.

A great laugh was created by Archie Moore, who during his speech, said that "while he wasn't giving any taffy, yet the playing of the winners was simply beautiful, with the emphasis on the last word.

The enjoyable affair broke up shortly after ten o'clock.

The two rinks who comprised the winners were ;—W. Reid, R. Cameron, A. Moore, W. M. Laing, (skip.)

W. Adamson, W. Campbell, E. L. Bowes and J. E. B. Yeates, (skip.)

DENISON ON T.C.S. LINEUP

Port Hope College Team Won From St. Andrews 11-4

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Trinity College School defeated St. Andrew's College by a score of 11 to 4 yesterday afternoon. This makes T.C.S. winners of their section in the junior Intercollegiate series.

T.C.S. showed superiority throughout. In the first half T.C.S. scored seven goals to St. Andrew's one, but the second half was much more evenly contested. Macaulay and Denison were the best for T.C.S., while for S.A.C. Munro and Cotton showed up well.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

The second game in the championship bowling competition was rolled off last night when the Midgets and Millionaires met to decide who were the better team. The Money Kings romped off with the first game by nearly 100 pins. The Midgets struck their gait in the second game and gave the Money Kings a real good drubbing. This putting the teams on equal terms, the large crowd waited to see what was going to happen, and sure enough, something did happen, for the Millionaires landed back on earth in time to pull the game out of the fire by a brilliant finish. Score, Millionaires, 1,211; Midgets, 1,198.

The games scheduled for Friday night are Strikers vs. Millard.

There will be a meeting on Friday night of those interested in a city basketball league. Any club in the city wishing to enter a team are requested to send a representative Friday, Feb. 10th, to the Y.M.C.A.

Indoor Baseball

Eagle Band and No. 7 Company will play a practice game of indoor baseball at the Armouries to-night. The final game to decide the winner of the schedule will not be played until after the close of the Hardware convention.

NO PRO HOCKEY FOR PETERBORO

Nothing in Rumor That Pro Team Will Be Brought Here

The rumor about the city to the effect that professional hockey would be placed on the program for the balance of the season has reached Toronto. To-day's Globe says—

In spite of the sad experiences of several Ontario towns there are others willing to become "goats" in the professional herd. There is a rumor current that Peterborough would like to relieve Belleville of the burden of the pro. team.

But there is nothing to it. Pro. hockey didn't find favor at the first of the season and when Peterborough has to take the leavings, such as are now mentioned, the elements that go with true sport will have forever passed away from this earth.

Peterborough has played and lost in the O.H.A. but its representatives died game, and while one certain individual may have inspirations—that lets him out.

Honest men marry young; wise men never.—Proverb.

AT HOME HELD BY WEST END CLUB

Enjoyable Evening Spent by the Members and their Friends

The West End Club "At Home," held in their spacious club rooms last night was the most enjoyable of its kind held by the club. The committee in charge, Messrs. Jack Oldham, H. Kirn, W. Pratt, Norman Laing and Fred McGibbon, are to be congratulated upon the satisfactory manner in which every detail was arranged.

Progressive euchre was played and the conclusion of the contest saw a four-cornered tie for first place between Messrs. Thornton, Giroux, Banks and Milburn. After the play-off the winners, Messrs. Thornton and Banks, "cut" the cards for the prize and Mr. Thornton won.

A dainty luncheon was served, those in charge being Messrs. Fred Haskill and Tommy Reilly, after which a programme was given in the parlor as follows;

Chairman's address—Jack Oldham.
Piano solo—Walter Bell.
Vocal solo—Norman Laing.
Vocal solo—Herb Callaghan (encored)

The president of the club presented the first prize for the euchre contest, a box of cigars, to Ernie Thornton.

Mr. Morphet received the much-coveted "booby" prize, which was also a box of cigars.

Vocal solo—Fred McGibbon.
Vocal solo—Mr. Morphet.
Scotch song—"Harry Lauder" Milburn
Vical solo—Mr. Daly.
Song—West End Special, "Baseball," Mr. Calendar.
Vocal solo—Norman Laing.

Walter Bell acted as accompanist.

The "At Home" was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

PUCKLAND

Roscoe Kendrey, who holds a position in the office of Galt's Limited, Winnipeg, plays on the line for the hockey team which is entered in the Mercantile League under the name of "Galts" The team who have not lost a game during the season, are running an excursion to Carman, the Saturday, to meet the seven of that place.

CURLING

At the Oshawa bonspiel yesterday Skip Giroux was defeated by Skip Luke in the first round primary, but won against Pratt, of Cobourg, by nine shots on the consolation. In the second round the local rink was eliminated from the spiel by one shot.

Skip Flavelle, of Lindsay, lost his first game at the Winnipeg bonspiel.

And so Palmerston and Peterborough are playing the final this morning. Peterborough are changed considerably from last year, most of their winners then having figured on their Tankard rinks this year. But they evidently have plenty of curling material down that way. They look good, but they'll have to be right in form to beat the boys from the north. They know the game and have the heart to play it.—Telegram.

Only two schedule games were played at the curling rink last night on account of the reception to the winners on their return from Toronto.

The rinks and scores were:

SPORT TALK

Smashing two world's records and three American records, the Chicago Athletic Association swimmers defeated the Nationals of Northwest University in the dual swimming meet by a score of 49 to 34. In the plunge for distance George Johnson, of the association, went through the water in the sixty tank in 24 3-5 seconds, beating the world's record by 2 1-5 seconds.

Two records went by the boards when Michael McDermott won the 100 yards breast stroke match race in 1.12 1-5. The Chicago star clipped 4 3-5 seconds off the American mark and 2 seconds off the world's mark of Holman, of England.

Khuragh, of the C. A. A., clipped one-fifth of a second off the American record held by Daniels for forty yards, winning the event in 19 3-5 The Chicago relay team also established a new American record of 1.47 3-5 in the 16 yard breast stroke event.

HER HOMEMADE HAT.

It Brought a Proposal That She Promptly Turned Down.

The bohemians were making merry in the dim lit studio discussing the latest novel that one of their number was trying to write, the brutal editor who had refused the best article ever written—a masterpiece of the host—bemoaning the nonintelligence of the art critics, execrating the mercenary theatrical manager and utterly repudiating the general public—the vast horde of the Philistines. By way of diversion the painter of pastel portraits said to the bachelor maid:

"That's a charming hat you have on. Who else would know enough to combine turquoise and old rose? You have a genius for color. What a pity you only write!"

"Glad you like my hat, anyway. I made it myself. I trust it will only enhance its merit in your eyes to know that it cost me but 50 cents."

"Impossible!" screamed all the bohemians with one breath, ceasing their arguments in order to take notice of the vastly becoming creation which capped the bachelor maid's brown hair.

"Fifty cents, did you say?" asked the man who once wrote a poem—aye, and had it published. Then rising, placing his hand above his heart, bowing low and solemnly, he said: "Fair one, will you be my wife? All my life I have been looking for a woman who could trim her own hats for nothing. Pray be mine."

"Nixie!" scoffed the bachelor maid cruelly. "All my life I have been looking for a man who would be willing and able to pay $50 for my hats."—New York Press.

"I think I'll propose at the party to-night."

"No, you won't."

"Why won't I?"

"My sister knows the young lady in question, and it has been arranged for you to propose at the ball next week."—Kansas City Journal.

NEWS NOTES FROM NORWOOD

Special to The Review.

Norwood, Feb. 6.—The annual meeting of the Norwood Board of Education was held on Wednesday evening, February 1st, at the High School. The following members signed the declaration of office, Thos. Burkell, Geo. H. Niebel, E. C. Squire, J. R. McKelvie. The other members present were, C. E. Pakenham, E. P. Cuffe, F. Anderson, Wm. Webster, J. F. Elliott, D. MacNaughton. The secretary took the chair and called for nominations for chairman.

Moved by Messrs. Webster and MacNaughton, that Mr. Cuffe be chairman. Moved by Messrs. Cuffe and Pakenham, that Mr. Finlay be chairman. Moved by Messrs. McKelvie and Elliott, that Mr. Pakenham be chairman.

The vote resulted in Mr. Pakenham being appointed chairman for the present year.

The minutes of the last meeting were read, corrected and adopted.

Mr. Cuffe reported that the Board would require to purchase 64 books at a cost of $19.20, in accordance with the request in the P.S. inspector's report.

Moved by Messrs. Anderson and Burkell, that the books required be purchased.—Carried.

The following accounts were passed—Norwood Register, printing, $14.15; W. H. Tucker & Bro., supplies, $10.65; J. W. Bork, account, 1910, $39.57; A. T. Thompson & Co., for Agricultural School, $4.50; H. C. Duff, for Agricultural School, $5.00.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were then read and committees for the present year appointed as follows—

Executive Committee—Messrs. Pakenham, Finlay, Anderson, Doherty, Niebel, Squire and Cuffe.

Finance Committee—Messrs. Finlay, Elliott, Cuffe, Webster and Squire.

Property Committee—Messrs. Doherty, MacNaughton, McKelvie, Burkell and Cuthbertson.

Supply Committee—Messrs. Cuffe, Niebel, Anderson.

Agricultural Committee — Messrs. Elliott, MacNaughton, Cuthbertson.

Mr. Cuffe reported that the Supply Committee had purchased five cords dry hard wood at $4, and five tons hard coal at $7.50.

The following motion was then passed by a unanimous standing vote of the Board, Mr. Cuffe made the motion and Mr. Webster seconded it. That a vote of thanks be tendered to Mr. J. L. Squire for his faithful services on the Board for the past sixteen years, six years of which he was regularly elected as chairman, and during which time, by his tactful and fair management, a most harmonious feeling has existed, and many important matters have been brought to a successful issue.

On motion it was decided to hold the Board meetings for 1911 on the first Monday of each month.

Mr. Duff, district representative of the Agricultural Department, was present and addressed the Board. He was anxious that a short course in seeds and stock judging be held here some time in March for which purpose a suitable tent could be procured from the Farmers' Institute. The Board assured Mr. Duff that they would co-operate with him. Certain matters in regard to the financing of the affair were left in the hands of the Agricultural Committee to report to Mr. Duff and also to the Board at its next meeting.

CARNIVAL AND RACES.

A grand carnival was held at the Norwood skating rink on Friday evening, February 3 under the management of Mr. McClean. The judges were Dr. N. F. Sutton, Rev. B. J. Kelly and Walter Sedgwick. was not going to take sides as a Government at all.

C. A. Browser, East Elgin, introduced a bill to amend the Public Schools Act. The bill has but one clause, which reads:

"The school year should consist of two terms, the first of which shall begin on the first day of September and shall end on the 22nd of December; and the second of which shall begin on the 3rd of January and end on the 29th of June."

Hon. Dr. Pyne introduced the private bill of the Chartered Stenographers Association.

R. T. Shillington, Temiskaming, introduced the private bill for the Town of Cobalt, and G. W. Neely, East Middlesex, that for the Town of Petrolea.

A Rough Passage.

Halifax, Feb. 9.—"The worst experience I ever had in crossing the North Atlantic." This was the remark of the veteran Captain Rennie of the Allan Liner Corinthian, which got into port yesterday afternoon, from Glasgow via Liverpool. The steamer lost one of the boats and a steward had his knee dislocated when thrown down by a sudden lurch of the ship

BLOOD-POISONING AFTER A CUT

Zam-Buk Saved His Finger

Mr. Albert Brennan, butcher, of 421 Lindsay Ave., Toronto, has good cause to be thankful for Zam-Buk! While at work, he cut the middle finger of the left hand rather badly, but did not think that any serious consequences would follow. Some disease germs—of which the air is full—entered the wound, however, and next day the finger was swollen and painful. He bathed it in hot water and applied some ordinary ointment, but the pain got worse, and the swelling continued. Not only so, but the area of the inflammation extended, until from the finger to the elbow it was inflamed and sore, and he knew that blood poisoning had set in. He had to give up his ordinary work, and suffered acute pain.

Finally he decided to enter St. Michael's Hospital, but just before doing so, having mentioned the intention to a friend, the latter advised him to try Zam-Buk. Mr. Brennan acted on his advice, and soon proved Zam-Buk's great value. He says, "It cured the pain almost as soon as applied and within a day of first commencing the Zam-Buk treatment, I was back at work! Of course, I don't mean that in that time the wound was healed, but the pain had gone, and the danger from blood poisoning was averted. After that, healing was only a matter of a short time under the beneficial operation of Zam-Buk. I have no hesitation in saying that Zam-Buk saved my finger, and I am very glad to let you state these simple facts publicly, in the interests of other workers, liable to similar accidents."

Zam-Buk is equally effective for piles, ulcers, abscesses, eruptions, ringworm, children's rashes, scalp sores, chapped hands, frost bite, and cold sores. Every housewife should keep a supply handy, and no mother should be without it in the home. Sold by all druggists and stores, 50c box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse substitutes.

A Great Railway System

Hardly a town, village or city in Ontario that does not receive daily benefit from the operation of the Grand Trunk Railway System, and considering the net work of branch line connections, it is wonderful with what regularity trains are run—not only is a good service provided between points in Ontario, but this line also reaches nearly all the important cities of Michigan, viz., Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Lansing, Battle Creek, Jackson, Grand Rapids and Muskegon, South Bend, Ind., and the second city in America, viz., Chicago, Ill., the gateway to the North-West, West and South, bringing Ontario in close connection. On the east, the Grand Trunk connects Ontario with Montreal, Quebec, the Maritime Provinces and Boston, Mass.

With a double track line all the way from Chicago to Montreal, and also to Niagara Falls, connecting with Lehigh Valley for New York, the Grand Trunk reaches out in all directions for your patronage, and well deserves it, for its vestibule coaches, parlor and dining cars and modern Pullmans give the service desired.

Consult your nearest Grand Trunk agent for information regarding your next trip.

BETHANY

Special to the Review.

Bethany, Feb. 6.—The large attendance on Friday at the oyster supper is conclusive evidence that the interest of the people is not waning in the least. The supper was a great success, as all who partook testified. The most delicious and inviting viands were provided for all tastes and fancies. The members of the lodges under whose auspices the supper was given are certainly to be congratulated for the able manner in organising such an enjoyable event. The grand demonstration meeting held in the town hall after supper was very well attended, both by the villagers and by those who travelled miles to be present on so auspicious an occasion. The chairman expressed his regret at the absence of Col. Sam Hughes, which was unavoidable.

The Messrs. Graham brothers, having leased their farm, are intending putting in steel stalls and stanchions, also a litter carrier. Their future home will be on their farm to the west of the present one, where they erected a fine commodious residence last summer.

Richard Wright has been laid up for the past few weeks with a bad attack of pneumonia of the lungs, but under Dr. J. J. Hamilton's care we soon hope to see him back to good Werry is being treated for mumps and pneumonia by Dr. Brereton, who is an expert in these diseases.

Jos. Hickson, our present reeve, had a close run with T. A. Kelly, reeve of Cavan township, for the Wardenship of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, getting the same number of votes as did his opponent. Both gentlemen are held high in the esteem of both townships, and therefore the voting was pretty even, nineteen votes being cast for both. The deciding ballot was cast by the Reeve of Darlington. We people of Manvers therefore have again to yield the palm of victory to our Cavan neighbors, but there's a better day coming.

Guy Tripp has recently gone extensively into the lumbering industry. He has made another addition to his supplies by purchasing from Henry Hart a large tract of timber near Fleetwood, and is busily engaged in hauling same to his large and commodious yards. He expects to sell the major portion of timber to the C.P.R., who are building a new double track line.

ham, N.B., over the unauthorized dredging at Dalhousie, and the committee was on the point of breaking up when F. B. Carvell got into a heated wordy argument with Mr. Crocket and wound up by deliberately calling his fellow member a liar.

At once there was an appeal to the chair, but in the excited hubbub nothing could be distinguished for a moment except the violent gesticulations of a number of angry men shouting at the tops of their voices.

During the melee A. B. Crosby of Halifax and Mr. MacKenzie, the former North Sydney judge, got into such a serious argument that Mr. Crosby threatened to thrash the former member of the judiciary for an alleged offensive expression. A personal encounter was imminent, when some of the cooler heads stepped in between the would-be belligerents and prevented the exchange of anything more serious than verbal blows.

When comparative quiet was restored, ex-Judge Warburton, the chairman, ordered Mr. Carvell to withdraw the offensive word "liar," which Mr. Carvell did, declaring he did so with mental reservation, and the excited crowd thronged out of the room after one of the most tempestuous scenes in the history of this committee.

Think Government Should Pay.

Kingston, Feb. 9.—Portsmouth Village Council has had to pay for registration of deaths at Rockwood Asylum and the penitentiary. Council believes this expense should be met by the Government, and will petition the Government to do so. Last year there were seven deaths at the penitentiary and 49 at Rockwood.

'Frisco Gets the Exposition.

Washington, Feb. 9.—San Francisco yesterday won the unanimous vote of the Senate committee on industrial expositions for the Panama Canal exposition.

Blaze in a Hospital.

Brockville, Feb. 9.—The matron and nurses of the General Hospital proved fire-fighters yesterday. An over-heated smoke pipe of a hot water furnace caused a blaze to get deep-seated in the window casing beneath the sun parlors. After ripping away the casing with improvised tools, the the ladies applied the chemical extinguishers recently installed by the governors. The whole thing was so neatly and quietly done that no alarm was caused among the patients of the institution.

Shot His Neighbor.

Vancouver, Feb. 9.—For a reason yet unexplained, J. Follett, a city laborer, living in a cabin in Fairview, yesterday morning shot and killed M. Norris, a well digger, who lives in a cabin next to his own. Follett then shot himself and was rushed to the hospital, where he lingered until yesterday afternoon, when he also died. When asked if he had done the shooting, Follett, although unable to articulate, nodded his head in the affirmative.

Ferry Crew Arrested.

Windsor, Feb. 9.—Practically the entire crew of the C. P. ferry Ontario, six in all, with the exception of the captain and mate, were placed under arrest yesterday, for robbing bonded freight cars in transit eastward.

FIGHTING LIFE'S BATTLE.

Of Things That Must Be Done Tackle the Hardest First.

I know a very successful man who early in life resolved that no matter how hard anything might be or how seemingly impossible for him to do he would do it if the doing would prove of value to him, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. He made this the test and would never allow his moods or feelings to stand in the way of his judgment. He forced himself in the habit of promptly doing everything, no matter how disagreeable, if it would further his advancement.

People who consult their moods their preferences or their ease never make a great success in life. It is the man who gets a firm grip on himself and forces himself to do the thing that will ultimately be best for him who succeeds. The man who goes through life picking out the flowers and avoiding the thorns in his occupation, always doing the easy thing first and delaying or putting off altogether if possible the hard thing, does not develop the strength that would enable him to do hard things when necessity forces them upon him.

It is pitiable to see young men and women remaining far below the place where their ability ought to have carried them just because they dislike to do disagreeable things until compelled to. The best way always is to tackle the hardest things first.

Too Public For Him.

He was a mild mannered little man, short, with gray hair and spectacles. It was noon on Washington street, and, as usual, the crowds were shoving and pushing to get somewhere. The little man was trying to worm his way through the crowds.

A well dressed woman, accompanied by a small boy, was mixed up in the crowd. She wanted to cross the street. The boy stopped to look in a window.

The lady reached down and grasped a hand, saying, "Take my hand, dear."

"Not right here on the public street." she was startled to hear some one reply.

Looking down, she saw that she was clasping the hand of the very inoffensive little man, who seemed to be much confused and embarrassed.

"Sir," she said haughtily, "I don't want you. I want my son."—Boston Traveler.

The New and Old Geology.

In its early history geology presented two schools—one insisting on a doctrine of "catastrophes," the other on a doctrine of "uniformity." The former regarded the changes which have manifestly taken place in our planet as having occurred at epochs abruptly, while the other school, reposing on the great principle of the invariability of the laws of nature, insisted that affairs had always gone on in the same way as they do now. It is hardly necessary to say that the latter theory has driven the old theory of catastrophe completely from the field.—New York American.

PETERBOROUGH DISTRICT TO BE A DAIRY RECORD CENTRE

Commissioner Ruddick Will Establish Information—Procuring System for Dairy Results in This Vicinity.

(To The Editor of The Review.)

Many farmers in the vicinity of Peterborough have expressed a desire to have the district selected for one of the "Dairy Record Centres" which it is proposed to establish this spring as a further step in the cow testing movement. This evidence of interest in the matter, and the knowledge that the dairymen of the Peterboro district are always wide awake and enterprising, has decided us to meet this request, and the work will be started as soon as the details can be arranged. The plan of operation is as follows:

It is proposed to include an area of six to ten miles radius from the city. As may as possible of the farmers in that territory will be persuaded to keep records of the individual cows in their herds by weighing the milk and taking samples on three days each month. The samples will be sent to the local cheese factory or creamery to be tested. The department will pay the maker 5 cents per test and furnish the acid and preservatives. The department will also provide the blank forms for recording weights of milk. The farmers will be required to provide only the spring scale, a small dipper for sampling, and a sample bottle for each cow to be tested. These may be procured from local dealers in dairy supplies.

An expert who will be provided with a horse will spend his whole time in conection with the Peterborough centre. He will supervise the testing of the samples, and investigate abnormal cases. It will be his business during the season to procure a full description of every herd, so as to have a complete record at the end of the season. In cases where farmers do not take samples or weigh the milk, the average record may be obtained from the factory books. All herd records will be published under numbers instead of names, so that no one will be able to identify the figures published as representing a particular herd.

Of course, if anyone objects to giving information about his herd for the purpose of comparison, his wishes will be respected, but we do not expect to meet many people of that kind.

It is proposed to continue this work for several years, and with a complete record of the herds year by year, a mass of valuable information will soon be obtained.

Those who desire to take part in this plan for the general improvement of their herds should prepare at once by securing the necessary outfit and sending their names to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa, until a local office is opened.

This plan will not involve any change for those already belonging to the cow testing associations. The aim is to extend that work and make the records more complete.

Meetings will be held in the various localities in the near future, and it is expected that a general meeting will be held in Peterborough on March 1st, particulars of which will be announced in a few days.

If the farmers of the district will join us heartily in this movement and will agree to act promptly on the information which the records give them concerning their individual cows we will undertake to increase the general average yield of milk by 25 per cent in 3 or 4 years. Is this not worth while?

Dairy and cold storage commissioner

G.T.P. OPENING UP GOOD LAND

The Grand Trunk Pacific General Passenger Department have been advised by the Department of the Interior at Ottawa that there are approximately 10,000 quarter sections surveyed in the Grande Prairie, Peace River District, which are now open for homestead entry. In addition to this, it is the intention to subdivide 27 more townships, nearly 4000 quarter sections during the present season making in all about 15,000 quarter sections for free homestead entry in 1911 in the far famed Peace River country.

A new wagon road has been constructed, partly by the Government and partly by the merchants of Edson, Alta., through to the Grande Prairie Country, a distance of 165 miles from Edson, which is all practically completed and is reported to be remarkably level, with no heavy hills and over which heavy loads may be drawn with ease. Road houses have also been established along this wagon road and the settler will be able to travel in comparative ease and at slight expense from Edson on the Grand Trunk Pacific this year in the course of a week where the former routes via Edmonton and Lesser Slave Lake occupied several months and very great cost. The whole distance to be traversed being over four times as long as the new route.

It is reported that there are thousands of prospective homesteaders especially in the northwestern United States who have been waiting eagerly for the opening of the Peace River country to homesteading, and when the announcement reaches them there will be the greatest land rush into the Peace River and Grande Prairie country that has ever taken place to any section of Canada. The Grand Trunk Pacific is accordingly taking means to have an adequate transportation facilities between Winnipeg, Edmonton and Edson to provide for the very large traffic expected.

Reprobate's Disturbed Slumber.

Dr. Armstrong Robinson, Dean of Westminster, who has been transferred to the Deanery of Wells, Somerset, a position which will not entail such a strain upon his health as life in the Metropolis, was the last canon appointed by the late Lord Salisbury, and the first dean to gain preferment under Mr. Balfour's regime as Prime Minister.

Dr. Robinson is a scholar of the first rank, and is an impressive preacher. He does not mince his words when he wishes to drive home a point, and beneath a somewhat austere appearance there lurks a refreshing capacity for humor.

One of his best stories is about an old reprobate who had decided to repent, and announced to everyone that whatever wrong he had done should be made right. So one of the villagers to whom he owed a big sum of money, went round to his cottage at midnight to demand it. "But what did you come at this hour for and wake me up? Why not wait until to-morrow?" asked the old sinner. "I came early," said the other, "to avoid the crush!"

Left Suddenly.

Montreal, Feb. 9.—Fred. Krutzberger, foreman of a branch store of Davies, Ltd., pork packers and butchers, left Montreal very suddenly on Sunday morning, Jan. 29. On Sunday evening Mr. Charles H. Binnels, the local manager, had the safe in the shop opened. It had been cleaned out. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Krutzberger, who, it is believed, is in the western States or the Canadian west. The amount that is missing is said to be $5-5.

Presentations to Archbishop.

Kingston, Feb. 6.—In order to prepare for the ceremony of his enthronement as head of the capital soon, Archbishop Gauthier will leave Kingston Feb. 15. On the evening of the 14th, at St. Mary's Cathedral, the congregation of the parish will present him with an address and $2,000 in gold. A pectoral cross in gold will be presented by the priests of the diocese.

BENSFORT BRIEFS

Bensfort, Feb. 9.—A very pleasant dance was held at the home of Mr. Geo. Nurse, Long Island, Rice Lake, last Wednesday night, owing to the good time and travelling on the ice it did not break up till morning. It must not be inferred that these gatherings are purely sectarian for they are not, but to the contrary, are being held as being considered in accordance with the principles of church union.

Clover threshers are busy in the neighborhood. The yield is comparatively small.

Mrs. S. Blakely, of Ida, has been visiting and renewing acquaintances around Bensfort Bridge.

Lionel Waterman had quite a runaway last week. No serious damage was done.

Everett Wood had the misfortune to get kicked by one of this horses last Thursday, though his injuries are not considered serious, he will not be able to attend his daily duties for some time.

The Turner telephone system is considering an extension of the line from Hallieboro east on the lakeview road. Some advise the union of the two companies as under present conditions it is sometimes rather difficult to make satisfactory connections.

While hauling grain to Port Hope B. Myers of Lakeview farm was detained two or three days owing to one of his horses taking seriously sick.

It is not every man's fortune to find coons and honey all in one day, a short time ago Wm. Deyell was falling timber and in one tree he found two coons, as the coon tree was falling it struck a maple which broke off and in it was a swarm of bees with a goodly supply of honey. But William's luck is not confined to coons and honey, as he is very lucky on both sides of the Otonabee river.

Peter Dodds is seriously ill. Dr. Turner, of Millbrook, is in attendance.

WHY THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ourselves. There are Optometrist and Opticians who do a smaller, but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our work. We are ever adding to our facilities and studying the latest methods. This is why we succeed.

MR. BORDEN'S WARNING VOICE AGAINST RECIPROCAL TRADE

Splendid Speech in the House by Leader of Opposition.

He Points Out the Great Dangers to Canadian Nationality in It.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—The first round of the reciprocity debate showed the Conservatives counselling for delay. The Monk amendment to the motion to go into committee was rejected by a majority of 26.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is said to have received a petition from 46 Liberals asking for delay.

Mr. Monk thought the matter was too serious to be received with the "shrieks of approval" which greeted it from the Government benches. Mr. Fielding said the agreement was a virtual repetition of the treaty of 1854 and was not new. Mr. Foster charged the Minister of Finance with having no mandate to Washington, and declared the Canadian delegates had treated Canadian interests like gamblers. Canada had bartered away her authority.

The House was well filled at all times during the debate. There was a large concourse in the galleries, and not the least interested was Henri Bourassa. The debates will be resumed next Tuesday.

The debate started when, on a motion by the Finance Minister that the House go into committee to consider the tariff resolution Mr. Monk (Jacques Cartier) brought up an amendment regretting that the Government had not given the "necessary time or occasion to ascertain the opinion of the people of Canada in that regard and to study more carefully the effect the new fiscal regime will have upon the various industries thereby affected."

Mr. Monk instanced the case of conventions between continental nations which always contained a clause that ratifications could be exchanged within six months. He had no desire to place any obstacle in the path of the Government, but said that the members wanted an opportunity to consult with their constituents.

Giving his reasons, Mr. Monk said the House expected something less considerable. The agreement covered the whole field of agriculture. It imperilled the forest wealth of Canada, at a time when Canada should "bring to the conservation of her natural resources all that care which has been found wanting in other countries."

The tendency of the agreement was to make trade lines run generally north and south. It nullified the sacrifices Canada had made for twenty years to develop a great transportation system. The agreement came to Canada with a suddenness, after forty years of isolation, during a time when Canada had established markets and created large industries.

While criticizing the House for the "aoclaim" with which Mr. Fielding's report had been received, Mr. Monk declared, "We should be ready to trade and conclude treaties with all nations where our interests are concerned."

Mr. Fielding disclaimed any desire to rush the matter through the House. It was not a new question, reciprocity had been before Parliament for the past forty years. The surprise which the hon. gentleman opposite felt was a surprise that the Government had been able to come to such a good agreement, which would revive faith and hope in every industry and undertaking in Canada, and would make permanent the prosperity of the contry. He declared there would be abundant opportunities for discussion.

He had strong hopes that President Taft would overcome the opposition in Congress, and in the event of rejection by Congress and acceptance by the Dominion Parliament, Canada would be in a much stronger position in future negotiations. In the bill to be brought down there would be a clause declaring that no part of the arrangement would come into operation until corresponding legislation would be passed by the United States.

On the division which followed the amendment was lost on a party vote, the smallness of the Government ma-

WIRELESS ACROSS THE PACIFIC

San Francisco, Feb. 9.—The wireless operator at the station in this city held conversation for an hour on Monday night with the operator at Chosi Shimosa, on the coast of Japan, 5,700 miles away. The messages were passed across the Pacific with one relay. It is stated that the performance establishes a new record for wireless work in this quarter of the globe.

The operator got into communication with two of the Pacific mail company steamers, the Manchuria, which was 3,295 miles away bound from Hong Kong and the Korea, which was on her way to this port and about 70 miles nearer. Both vessels took his message to the Japanese station, asking for the weather report at Chosi Shimosa, and both received the reply and relayed it.

MR. STRATTON SAYS THAT HE PERSONALLY WAS NOT IN IT

Farmers' Bank Affair Related to Trusts & Guarantee Co., of Which He is President.

Mr. Stratton Goes Over Books of the Company With Inspector of Detectives Duncan.

In an interview in Toronto with the Toronto World, Hon. J. R. Stratton had something to say as to the Farmers' Bank cheques. Mr. Stratton says he will be able to prove he was not connected with the affair, except as an officer of the Trusts and Guarantee Co. He said—

"I have been in Toronto all day, but I have not yet received the summons, which I believe is out. Personally, I had nothing to do with the Farmers' Bank; the Trust Company, of which I am president had dealings with the bank through its officers, and at the first opportunity these things will be fully explained. The general manager, Mr. Warren, left a fortnight ago for British Columbia on important business previously arranged. As far as we can learn, he is now in the Okanagan Valley, but I expect he will arrange to return to Toronto immediately and the authorities here have been satisfied in this respect."

Mr. Stratton spent some time with Inspector of Detectives Duncan in going over books and documents at the office of the Trust Company during the afternoon. This was when he was served with the summonses. He declared that the company would give the Crown free access to all books and papers pertaining to the case,

A TARIFF BOARD

Washington, Feb. 9.—By a strictly party vote all of the Democrats in opposition, the senate committee on finance today voted to report favorably the bill passed by the House to create a permanent Tariff Board. Several important amendments were adopted.

TOMB WAS VIOLATED

Body of Erie, Pa., Woman Stolen From Mausoleum

Erie, Pa., Feb. 10.—Body snatching that may equal the daring grave ghouls who stirred the country more than a quarter of a century ago, when the body of A. T. Stewart, New York's pioneer merchant, was stolen, has stirred this section of Pensylvania in indignation at its daring as nothing has since the sensational kidnapping which occurred in this vicinity a few years ago.

The mausoleum of one of the most prominent families of this section of the state was desecrated sometime between Monday and Wednesday afternoon. A body is missing from the vault of the family of the late Congressman William L. Scott. The police of neighboring cities and communities within 400 miles have been notified of the crime.

The discovery was made by two women walking through the Erie Cemetery. The family was immediately notified, and a watch was placed in the cemetery at midnight after all assurances were made that the missing body was not in the vicinity.

Details of Erie police kept watch at the tomb during the night to greet the body-snatchers should they return. The only disturbance they met was from newspaper men early in the morning, who were ordered from the cemetery at the point of revolvers.

While the police have been informed of the grave-robbing no name is attached to the missing body of them. The first information to the public come from the family, but again no name is given. It is known, however, that the body taken by the ghouls is that of Mrs. McCollum, a sister-in-law of the late Mr. Scott. The police believe the body is being held for ransom, and that the vandals also intended to carry away the bodies of the millionaire and his wife.

Investigation showed that the casket containing the body of Mrs. McCollum had been carried away. The caskets are sealed in a wall and a chisel had been used in breaking the seals, before the metallic box could be carried away. This casket was the first on the lower tier at the north side of the mausoleum, and directly opposite it on the second tier is the caskets containing the bodies of Mrs. Scott and the millionaire, who built the mausoleum.

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET

Whitney Government Challenges Opposition to Prove Charges

Same Old Attempt to Make Capital Out of Financial Statement

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Vigorous criticisms of the Government marked the budget debate in the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon, but the charges were a repetition of those of preceding speeches, and were met by challenges to quote one misspent dollar. R. J. McCormack's criticism contained such an admixture of commendation that he was frequently applauded by the Ministerial members.

The veteran Liberal from East Lambton, received two genuine ovations when he rose to express his opinions in the budget debate, and when he sat down. It made his Irish blood boil, he said, to hear the Tory members saying that the Liberals had done nothing. He felt very friendly towards the present Government and he was willing to vouch that the 18 members of the Opposition were willing to do everything in their power to help the Government to make good laws. He had taken a ride over the new railroad the Government had built up north and it was a splendid thing.

Mr. McCormick hoped that the Government would make a further grant of $25,000 to the Fall Fair Association.

J. H. Howitt, South Wellington (Con.), made his initial bow as a debater. He pointed out that it was not good bookkeeping for Mr. McEwing to have given no credit for the results of the heavy expenditures made by the Hydro-Electric Commission to be found in the outlay on the transmission line.

There was no doubt much to be said on both sides in respect to the question of reciprocity. Some would suffer severely and some interested will gain, but it was a bad policy to make so great a change at a time of such great prosperity.

D. Reed, Liberal for South Wentworth, brought up the Gillies' limit again. There never was a transaction put through by the old Government that had such a shaky appearance. (Cries of "Oh! oh!" from the Government.)

Hon. Frank Cochrane piped up: "The timber on the limit did not bring a cent."

"Your timber dues are coming from there now," persisted Mr. Reed.

"No, you're wrong."

Mr. Reed added that practically all the limit was sold.

"No," declared Mr. Cochrane, "three-quarters of it is not sold."

"I insist that nearly all of it is sold."

Mr. Cochrane—"That is absolutely untrue."

It was a disgrace to the province that a hireling from the United States came to live in hotels up north and beg and coax a man to break the law. It was a shame, too, that seized liquor should be peddled into an unlicensed district by the Government's hirelings.

Hon. Mr. Hanna declared that the man who had re-sold the liquor was not in the employ of the Government, but a man whom a Government agent had enlisted to assist him. The Provincial Secretary promised to produce the verbatim evidence of those trials.

J. A. Ross of Monck (Con.), pointed out that the new school books which had been criticised by the Opposition were considered worthy of adoption by other provinces.

The "poor old Financial Post" fumed against the Hydro-Electric Commission and efforts had been made to show that property owners had been treated unfairly in respect to the right of way. The reverse was the case. In the much-talked of Felker instance, Mrs. Felker was paid $500 for the site of two towers, which was almost half the original price of her whole farm.

When the House resumed at night, J. C. Elliott, West Middlesex, criticized the Provincial Premier for introducing a Dominion issue into the budget debate. The Government members, being unable to adduce reasons against reciprocity, had been compelled to resort to their old tactics of waving the old flag.

He claimed that the annual expenses of the provinces had increased by nearly 14 per cent. over that of Liberal administration.

The Provincial Treasurer here interrupted that the extensive Government works that had been undertaken would go a long way towards making up the difference.

W. D. McPherson, Toronto West, said that the Opposition members appeared to consider it right to attempt to set class against class by commending everything that was done on behalf of agriculture, and condemning aid for any other profession. Instead of the Government discriminating against the agricultural students at Guelph, the per capita aid to Guelph College was $149, compared with $128 per student at Toronto University.

Vaentine Stock, South Perth, criticized the increased expenditures as being attributable to increases of "the great army of officials."

IRISH ELECTION DECLARED VOID

THREE OXFORD MEN ARRESTED RESULT OF GRAFT INQUIRY

Two ex-Wardens, Buchanan One of Them, Are Put in Jail—Prompt Action by Police.

Woodstock, Feb. 10.—The Oxford police net was thrown out yesterday afternoon and gathered in some of the leading figures in the Oxford graft investigation. The authorities yesterday morning received word from the Attorney-General's Department at Toronto instructing them to take quick action in apprehending M. T. Buchanan, Byron McCarty and Jno. Youngs. McCarty was arrested by Constable Fred. Hill at Thamesford late yesterday afternoon. Ex-Warden John Youngs of Brooksdale was in town during the afternoon, and was placed under arrest by Constable Oston. Chief Killings went up to Ingersoll and brought back Buchanan on the three o'clock street car. They were all taken to police headquarters and after an hour or so's conference the three were admitted to bail, furnished by their friends. Youngs, it will be remembered, was accused of offering money to the late jailer, Cameron, for his job.

M. T. BUCHANAN.

The arrests were startling in their suddenness, although it was generally believed that the fact that the commission's finding was being withheld until the Cabinet met portended some drastic movements by the Attorney-General's Department.

It was believed that the keeping back of the report indicated the Government's decision to make a sudden move and land the men wanted before they had a chance to get out, if they had any intention of doing so.

McCarty of Thamesford was not taken before the magistrate, his bail being arranged in the office of his solicitor, S. W. T. McMullen. M. T. Buchanan walked half a block behind the chief from the car to the police office, where bail was given for $2,500 cash and sureties of a like amount, similar bail being demanded of Youngs. There are several charges against Buchanan, but these have not been formally made out yet. The men wanted have simply been arrested on a general warrant of graft from the county, issued under instructions by the Attorney-General's Department.

Constable Hobson is out in the county at present, and will probably bring in another man from Zorra.

Will Hold Back Report.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Judge Snider's report on the Oxford County investigation was considered yesterday by the Ontario Government, but it is doubtful if it will be either presented to the House this session, or be made public until the prosecutions are concluded.

Sir James Whitney said last evening, that in view of the report of the arrests, it was not certain when the judge's report would be made public. Certainly not at present.

AGED LADY WAS BURNED TO DEATH

Body Was Terribly Charred About Head and Shoulders

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Dropping a lamp from her aged hands in the little cottage where she has lived alone since the death of her husband in December, Mrs. Matilda Andrews, 65 years, was burned to death in her home at 162 Sheridan avenue. Not till the flames had laid hold of the interior of the little roughcast cottage and were bursting from the front door was the fire discovered.

Lieuts. Hamilton and Coulter forced an entry and found the body of the old woman lying on its face in the little dining-room. Nearby lay a broken coal oil lamp, which she is believed to have dropped and started the fire. The body was severely charred about the head and shoulders and the clothing on the upper part of the body was burned off.

Coronation Contingent.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—It has been decided that there will be forty-eight officers, and altogether a force about 700 strong on the Canadian contingent to the coronation. This will mean that each regiment of cavalry and infantry will have about four representatives, and each brigade of artillery the same number. The non-commissioned officers and men will be recommended by the officers commanding the different units. The men will wear the uniforms of their respective corps on the contingent.

Certificates Withdrawn.

Kingston, Feb. 10.—Two Kingston captains who have held United States marine certificates, have had them withdrawn in accordance with the recent order from Washington that all captains and engineers serving on United States vessels, must not live abroad.

The Daily Review

FRIDAY, FEB. 10, 1911.

HOW DOES HE STAND?

We notice the following dispatch sent out from Ottawa, in regard to the Liberal caucus on reciprocity:

"The Liberal caucus was addressed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Fielding, Mr. Paterson, Sir Richard Cartwright and others.

"In the general discussion which followed some views adverse to the proposals were expressed. There are some who oppose reciprocity on the principle involved and who object to making any commercial alliance whatever with the United States. Others express opposition because the agreement stands to affect particular industries in their constituencies, and consequently imperils their political welfare.

"Mr. Sealey, of Wentworth; Mr. Gordon, of Kent; Mr. Stratton, of Peterborough; Mr. Macdonald, of Pictou, and Mr. Harris, of Brantford, are mentioned as criticizing the terms of the undertaking, while the Montreal members have been reminded forcibly of open hostility there to reciprocity.

"It took a great deal of persuasive talk to get things in running order in the caucus to-day, but the pretence is that there is no "substantial" division of opinion.

AMERICANISING CANADA

The Washington Star, the Republican organ at the United States capital, says:

The broad question is whether Canada should be commercially assimilated and put in this respect, approximately on the basis of a State or States. . . . If we were ready and anxious to annex the Dominion and to attempt the task of absorbing into the Republic as a State unrepublican Quebec . . . we might try to force Canada into annexation as the price of enjoyment of our markets. There is not at this time any strong desire either in Quebec or in any other Province of the Dominion to be annexed. But the Dominion may be and is being Americanized. The English Provinces are assimilating themselves to the Republic. The tone of the press and the tendency of public thought and action is American rather than European. The native Canadian is by birth an American. . . . He feels that he is alienated from the tendencies and aspirations of the continent of his birth, that he is merely a despised colonist, a species of political outcast, like the man without a country. In time the thoughts of the Canadians may turn toward annexation as the most to be desired of all political boons. The isolation and humiliation of the colonial position will not be forever endurable. Meanwhile full reciprocity in exchange of citizens and product and steady Americanization.

THEIR'S TO SAY "AYE, AYE!"

The Hamilton Spectator says, in discussing the "open your mouth and shut your eyes" manner the Liberal members are to swallow the tariff agreement—

The private member is to have no freedom. Personally he may be strongly opposed to the reciprocity agreement; his constituents may be even more strongly opposed to it. But under the Laurier government system, this is a government measure, and, as the government must not, under any circumstances, be defeated, for the poor, docile private member it is a case of

His not to make reply,
His not to reason why;
His just to shout "aye, aye."

And this is the sort of thing men call representative government, of the people, by the people, for the people.

THE NATIONAL PRECIPICE

Much is being said about the tariff fight of 1891 over unrestricted reciprocity. This was the election when Sir Wilfrid Laurier made his battle cry "Unrestricted Reciprocity." It was the main plank of the Liberal platform, and fervid were the speeches that he and his supporters made in support of it. They did not hesitate then to declare that unrestricted reciprocity would give to Canada a market of sixty-five million people, uniting the country commercially to the continent to which it belonged.

The value of the British market was minimized, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier made his famous declaration that he preferred the Yankee dollar to the British shilling. There were communications between the Liberals of Canada and members of the National Continental Union League of the United States and at least some Liberals were ready to receive United States money to help finance their campaign in Canada.

The belief that reciprocity was necessary between the two countries, to promote their progress had been cultivated by both parties, but at this stage of the proceedings Sir John Macdonald drew back, and he said that if unrestricted reciprocity meant commercial union, then down with it. "A British subject I was born; a British subject I will die," said the old chieftain.

The late Edward Blake, in bolting from the Liberal party, over unrestricted reciprocity, sounded the alarm over the proposed obliteration of Canadian industrialism. He said in his letter:

> "No manufacturer looking to the continental market, would fix or even enlarge his capital or his business in the country of five millions at the risk of being cut off from this country of sixty-five millions. Our neighbors, instead of manufacturing here, would take our markets, with goods manufactured there, and, our raw materials, instead of being manufactured on the ground, would be exported to be finished abroad. Uncertainty would alarm capital and paralize enterprise."
> Then Mr. Blake went on to say that the more successful the plan of unrestricted reciprocity was the stronger would be the tendency to political union with the United States, "both by reason of the community of interests, the intermingling of populations, the more intimate business and social connections and the trade and the trade and fiscal relations, amounting to dependency, which it would create with the States, and of the great isolation and divergence from Britain which it would produce."

Mr. Blake did not want to have Canadians look to Washington in the control of their political and commercial affairs. He did not believe that unrestricted reciprocity could have any result but the alienation of Canada from Britain, and the merging of its commercial life into that of a large state, a part of the United States.

The measure which Sir Wilfrid Laurier is presenting now is not unrestricted reciprocity. It is restricted reciprocity. But it is a step towards the same ultimate goal, and a seven league one at that. It is the beginning of international relations, which will end in Canada being commercially assimilated by the United States. You may not live to see it, we may not, but if a measure of unrestricted reciprocity is put through, the day will come when it will be but the preliminary to a wider measure, and thence on to that day of Waterloo for Canadian nationality; the day of continental free trade.

We do not claim that the present agreement will bring about this condition in a day, or perhaps a year. It will prove an incentive to the United States,—not to let us alone as her policy has been—but to further break down our wall of national pride and spirit. The important results of this agreement are not those of immediate consequence—such as the gain in trade to a few Canadians—but the tendency it initiates to seek continental freedom to break down the barriers that have permitted Canada to go her way in peace.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1891 was an unrestricted free-trader. He favored—not direct annexation—but a union through the assimilation of our commercial life. He favored a policy that meant the ruin of our manufactures, the basis of our prosperity. When he assumed office in 1896 he had to preserve the National Policy, but in 1911 he is making his first big break towards his first ideal. He is retrograding towards the old policies which obtained when Canada was in the slough of despond, and at a time when the Dominion is at the height of her prosperity.

It is a slide down hill to which he is about to plunge the country. He will not go as far now, in 1911, as he did in 1891, in his advocacy of continental free trade, but he will go as far towards that Niagara cataract as the stern temper of the people will let him. Where shall Canada find another Sir John A. Macdonald, another Edward Blake in the day of her need? In Mr. Borden? We believe that in the Parliamentary discussion now taking place, Mr. Borden will enunciate the principle of imperialism in Canada's national life, to the exclusion of every trade reduction, as the one principle of Canada's future greatness.

It is a great question, needing a wise and comprehensive handling, needing the exercise of statesmanlike handling of the highest order. No petty political policy will do. We hope that Mr. Borden will deal with the question nationally, and we feel sure that he will obtain the support of all the loyal and patriotic people of this great Dominion.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Ethel LeNeve has sailed for Canada. Now let our navy get busy and defend our shores.

If you want to be an American, why not go across the border? If you want to remain Canadian and British, exert your influence against the assimilation of Canadian trade with the United States!

Dr. Henry Tanner, aged eighty-one, proposes to celebrate his birthday by beginning an eighty-day fast. While not at all speedy in his age, Dr. Tanner believes in trying to be a little faster.

A British army captain, the son of Lord Esher, has been forced to resign from the Coldstream Guards for marrying an actress. The Guards do not believe in the elevation of the stage.

Another man in London has confessed to the murder of Ethel Kinrade, the Hamilton girl. If it was as easy to capture Beattie Nesbitt as it is to find a man who committed this murder, the provincial police would have an easy job.

Eleanor Glyn, the author of a well known book, says that she has identified fifty varieties of red hair in women. If the heads of these women are as much red as the book Eleanor Glyn wrote, fifty varieties (not fifty-seven) ought to produce a burning sensation.

Would you put all your eggs into one basket? No! Would you put Canadian trade eggs all into the continental basket? If it fails, then what? What is the conclusion, the natural result of the trade agreement with Washington but putting Canadian eggs into the American basket?

Some of the newspapers and politicians regret that the tariff agreement is to be made a party football. Gracious! What is the tariff but a party affair at any time? Is not such a thing, affecting most deeply the general welfare of the people, the concern of the people composing the two parties? The National Policy, which has done so much for Canada was a Conservative party affair. Why take this reciprocity pact out of the same realm? The people must be the judges, first and final, on any question such as this, through their representatives.

THOUGHT IT WAS CANCER

Sores Spread From Eye to Neck

Miss Mary Conley of 181 Colborne St., Montreal writes: "Over a year ago I became bothered with an unsightly sport on my right cheek. The sore spread until the whole cheek was covered from the eye to far down on the neck, below the ear. It was so noticeable that people asked me if I had cancer, and I began to feel I had. I fully expected the sores would heal some day, and I tried numerous highly recommended salves and ointments but nothing did any good.

"I was about to consult a specialist when a lady friend spoke of Zam-Buk and advised a trial of it first. Acting on her advice I procured a box and was surprised to notice the immediate effect the balm had on the sores. I used three boxes only, and as I kept applying it each evening before retiring I could see how the sores were being cleaned and dried up. This improvement continued until my face was cleared of sores completely. Zam-Buk is certainly a marvellous balm."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bites, ulcers, blood poisoning, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations and substitutes. Queen's Naturalists

An occurrence of much interest to lovers of nature was the exhibit of the Naturalist's Club, held last week in the Queen's Botanical Laboratory. The Naturalists' Club of the University does a great deal of useful work in a quiet way, and has done much to explore the by-ways of Canada's nature world. The exhibit in question consisted of a specially fine display of natural history specimens recently acquired. There was a very complete collection of the smaller animals of Ontario, and especially a wide range of Aphides of many species. A valuable feature was that the labels attached to each specimen have short notes of the interesting features in each case.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Improved domestic call for cash wheat strengthened the option market to-day and caused slowly rising prices from the start. Closing figures were at a net advance of ½c to ⅝c. The day's business left all other leading staples, too, at a level above last night: Corn, up ⅛c to ⅜c; oats, ⅛c to ¼c, and hog products, 10c to 20c. There was said to have been much buying of Canadian wheat for export account. Local sales of cash grades reached a total of 55,000 bushels in small lots. Primary receipts were short of a year ago and there was a noticeable let-up in country offerings. Closing prices were almost the top for session, with the final tone firm. May fluctuated from 94⅝c to 95⅛c, with last sales ⅝c up, to 95c.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ⅛d to ¼d higher than yesterday; corn futures were ⅛d to ¼d lower. At Berlin wheat was ¼c lower; at Paris, unchanged; at Buda Pest, ⅝c higher, and at Antwerp, unchanged.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat was good and a fair volume of business was worked at an advance in bids of 1½d. The feeling in oats is steady, but the volume of business doing is small. There was considerable enquiry for spring wheat flour and sales of some round lots were made for shipment between now and June. Provisions are fairly active and steady. There is an easier feeling in the market for potatoes and sales of carlots (Green Mountains) were made at 90c per bag. A few cars of American potatoes have been imported which cost 95c, duty paid.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—The railways reported receipts of 70 carloads at the City Market, consisting of 802 cattle, 1688 hogs, 1497 sheep and lambs, 41 calves and 6 horses.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers' cattle sold at $6 to $6.25; loads of good $5.75 to $6; medium, $5.40 to $5.60; common, $5 to $5.30; cows, $3.50 to $5.40; canners, $2.25 to $3; bulls, $4.50 to $5.50.

Milkers and Springers.

The bulk of the milkers and springers coming on the market are common to medium, and are easier in price at $40 to $55 each. Good to choice cows are scarce and sell readily at $70, $75, $80 and occasionally one reaches $100, which occurred to-day.

Veal Calves.

Good to choice veal calves are scarce. Common, sell at $3.50 to $4.50; medium at $5 to $6; good at $7 to $8, and choice new milk fed calves, $8.50 to $9.50, but there are very few of the latter class, some weeks none at all, at least we seldom see them.

Sheep and Lambs

The market is firm for sheep and lambs. Wesley Dunn, who does the bulk of the trade, reports prices as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4.25 to $4.75, rams, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; lambs, $6 to $6.50.

Hogs.

Selects fed and watered sold at $7.40 at the market, and $7.15 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points. Thick fat heavy hogs are not worth as much by 25c per cwt., and are being culled out at that reduction in price. Drovers are warned to go easy on heavy hogs if they don't want to lose money.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Cattle—Receipts, 7000. Market, steady. Beeves, $5 to $6.80; Texas steers, $4.35 to $5.50; western steers, $4.60 to $5.70; stockers and feeders, $3.85 to $5.90; cows and heifers, $2.65 to $5.80; calves, $7.65 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 24,000; market active; light, $7.45 to $7.75; mixed, $7.25 to $7.65; heavy, $7.05 to $7.60; rough, $7.05 to $7.25; good to choice hogs, $7.25 to $7.60; pigs, $7.45 to $7.80; bulk of sales, $7.45 to $7.60.

Sheep—Receipts, 20,000; market, weak; native, $2.50 to $4.40; western, $3.00 to $4.40; yearlings, $4.50 to $5.50; lambs, native, $4.25 to $6.25; western, $4.50 to $6.25.

Two Aviators Killed.

Douai, France, Feb. 10.—Two more names were added to the death roll of the aeroplane yesterday. The aviators Noel and Delatorre, were killed while conducting a trial of a military aeroplane before experts from the War Department, previous to its delivery to the army. Noel was the pilot and Delatorre a passenger.

The aviators were planing down from a height of about 250 feet, when suddenly the wings folded up and the machine fell headlong to the earth.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

Mrs. Rance presented him to us, and he uttered a few polite phrases, after which he opened his wide mouth in a great hearty laugh. He was jubilant, and we were soon to learn the reason why. He had brought back from his visit to the Museum of Paris the certainty that the skeleton of the Barma Grande was no more ancient than the one which he had discovered in his last expedition to Tierra del Fuego.

Mme. Edith had the unkindness to interrupt the jubilations of her uncle by announcing to him that Prince Galitch, who had purchased the Grotto of Romeo and Juliet at Rochers Rouges, must have made some sensational discovery, for she had seen him the very morning of Old Bob's departure for Paris passing by the Fort of Hercules, carrying under his arm a little box, which he had touched as he went by, calling out to her, "See, Mrs. Rance, I have found a treasure!" He walked on, laughing, with the remark that he would have a surprise for Old Bob on his return. And later she had heard that Prince Galitch had declared that he had discovered "the oldest skull in the history of the human race."

Every vestige of gayety fled from Old Bob's face and manner. His voice was husky with passion as he exclaimed:

"That is an infernal lie! The oldest skull in all history is Old Bob's skull. Do you understand me? It is Old Bob's skull."

"Mattoni, Mattoni! Bring my trunk at once!" he cried.

Almost as soon as the words were spoken we saw Mattoni crossing the Court of Charles the Bold with Old Bob's trunk on his shoulder. Old Bob took his bunch of keys, got down on his knees and opened the box. From this receptacle he took a hatbox, and from the hatbox he drew out a skull, which he placed in the middle of the table.

"The oldest skull in the history of humanity!" he echoed. "Here it is! It is Old Bob's skull! Look at it! Oh, I can tell you, Old Bob never goes anywhere without his skull!"

CHAPTER VIII.

Wonderful Finds — and Vanishings.

OLD BOB took up the frightful object and began to caress it, his eyes sparkling and his thick lips parting once more in a broad smile. Rouletabille and I were unable longer to control ourselves and nearly split our sides with laughter—all the more because Old Bob every few moments would interrupt himself in the midst of a peal of merriment to demand of us what was the object of our mirth.

Suddenly Old Bob grew serious. He lifted the skull in his right hand and placed the forefinger of the left hand upon the forehead of his ancestor.

"When one looks at the skull from above one notices very clearly a pentagonal formation which is due to the notable development of the parietal bumps and the jutting out of the shell of the occipitals. The great breadth of the face comes from the exaggerated development of the zygomatic proportions, while in the head of the troglodytes of the Baousse-Raousse what do we find?"

I shall never know what it was that Old Bob found in the head of the troglodytes, for I did not listen to him, but I looked at him. And I had no further inclination for laughter. Old Bob seemed to me terrifying, horrible, as false as the father of lies, with his counterfeit gayety and his scientific jargon. My eyes remained fixed upon him as if they were fascinated. It seemed to me that I could see his hair move, just as a wig might do. One thought—the thought of Larsan, which never left me completely—seemed to expand until it filled my entire brain. I felt as if I must speak it out when all at once I felt an arm locked in mine, and I saw Rouletabille looking at me with an expression which I did not know how to read.

He drew me away from the table, and we walked toward the west boulevard. After he had looked closely on every side and made sure that no one was near us he said:

"You are in the right in seeing him everywhere around us. If he were not there a little while ago he is perhaps there now. Ah, he is stronger than the stones! He is stronger than anything else in the world. I fear him less within than without, for, Sainclair, I feel that he is here."

I said to Rouletabille, scarcely daring to put into words what was in my mind:

"Old Bob?"

He did not answer. At the end of a few moments he said:

"Hold your left hand in your right for five minutes and then ask yourself, 'Is it you, Larsan?' And when you have replied to yourself do not feel too sure, for he may perhaps have lied to you, and he may be in your own skin without your knowing it."

With these words Rouletabille left me alone in the west boulevard. It was there that Pere Jacques came to look for me. He brought me a telegram.

I was not in much of a hurry to open the dispatch which Pere Jacques had brought me, and in this I was wrong, for as soon as I cast my eyes over the words which it contained I realized that it was of the deepest importance. My friend at Paris, whom I had requested to keep an eye upon Brignolles, sent me word that the said Brignolles had left Paris the evening before for the Midi. He had taken the 10:35 train. My friend informed me that he had reason to believe that Brignolles had taken a ticket for Nice.

What should Brignolles be doing in Nice? I kept Brignolles to myself all alone and so well that when, assuming my most indifferent air, I rejoined Rouletabille in the Court of Charles the Bold I never mentioned the subject.

SENATOR SHERMAN IN U. S. SENATE

The future of Canada should have followed the fortunes of the Colonies in the American Revolution.  THE WAY TO UNION WITH CANADA IS NOT BY HOSTILE LEGISLATION, NOT BY ACTS OF RETALIATION, BUT BY FRIENDLY OVERTURES. This union is one of the events that MUST COME IN THE FUTURE. ***

THE TRUE POLICY OF THIS GOVERNMENT IS TO TENDER FREEDOM IN TRADE AND INTERCOURSE AND TO MAKE THIS TENDER IN SUCH A FRATERNAL WAY THAT IT SHALL BE AN OVERTURE TO THE CANADIAN PEOPLE TO BECOME A PART OF THIS REPUBLIC.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD HIS PATRIOTIC PLEA

"As for myself, my course is clear. A British subject I was born; a British subject I will die. With my latest breath will I oppose the 'Veiled Treason' which attempts by sordid means and mercenary proffers to lure our people from their allegiance. During my long public service of nearly half a century, I have been true to my country and its best interests, and I appeal with equal confidence to the men who have trusted me in the past and to the young hope of the country, with whom rests its destinies in the future, to give me their united and strenuous aid in this my last effort for the unity of the Empire and the preservation of our commercial and political freedom."

HOW RECIPROCITY KILLED OUR SHIPPING TRADE IN 1854

Article by Business Man Who Went Through it All Personally—Geo. Griffin, of Toronto, Writes With Exact Knowledge of the Situation.

Canadian Century.

The following article was written in the 86th year of Mr. George D. Griffin, of Toronto, who at a very early age was at the head of important Canadian manufacturing interests.

The effect upon Canada of the new proposed reciprocity with the United States may be adjudged by a consideration of our actual past experience of reciprocity with that country.

The Toronto Globe, March 10th, 1910, in its leading editorial stated that the reciprocity treaty of 1854, and abrogated in 1866, "was practically an unmixed industrial and commercial benefit to both countries, and only those whose memories recall clearly the conditions of forty-four years ago are in the position to appreciate the real changes that have taken place since the abrogation of the treaty."

In its discussion of the question, it will be observed, the Globe does not take us back farther than forty-four years, that is to the termination of the treaty. It does not seem to know about the actual origin of the treaty nor its industrial and financial effect in operation, nor does it indicate in any way real knowledge as to whether the treaty was a benefit or the reverse to either country. The Globe ignores the life of the treaty itself, and fails to give a single industrial or financial fact to prove its statement as to "unmixed benefit." It apparently bases its declaration on mere theory without consideration of facts. When a question is one of fact, theory is out of place and denotes ignorance of the facts. Therefore, when the editor of the Globe asserts that the reciprocity treaty of 1854 was an "unmixed benefit" to both countries he tacitly admits ignorance as to the conditions of Canada during the time of the treaty, as to the industrial and financial conditions before the treaty, and the facts that led to the desire of some Canadians for the treaty. Those Canadians who did desire the treaty only saw the actual prosperity of the United States, and did not grasp the fact that such prosperity was the natural result of the high tariff adopted by the United States in 1842 at the suggestion of President John Tyler to overcome the ill-effects of the reduced tariff of 1832, the fruit, of which, as described in Hunt's Merchants' Magazine, New York, for December, 1857, was the disastrous financial crash of 1837-38, which, like the crash in Canada at the same time, originated in imports in excess of exports to pay for them, in giving employment to foreign countries in place of to their own people. In the United States it was much more severe than in Canada, every bank in the United States being seriously affected, and besides small debts and wreckage of factories, "four hundred and forty million dollars went into bankruptcy, and of this not over one per cent was ever collected." With the increase of tariff, which the President recommended, the closed and semi-closed manufacturing establishments started afresh, and by 1844 every industry was prosperous, for as President Tyler had forecast, business for manufacturers, work for labour and a permanent home market for the farmers, was secured, and still continues.

RECIPROCITY EXHIBITS.

The following reciprocity exhibits from the Government returns prove absolutely that the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854 was at least a hundred million dollars benefit to the United States and a widespread curse to Canada, costing from first to last a loss of at least two hundred million dollars to our Dominion, and a duplication of it now would be even more beneficial to the United States and disastrous to Canada.

Through the manufacturing industries of my father, who, with his store, mills and factories, founded the village of Waterdown in 1828, and from 1848 in my own woollen mills, foundry and flour mill and other industries, down to the present time, I have a clear memory of the industrial and financial condition of Canada from 1838 to the treaty in 1854, and of the conditions during the treaty, and the conditions from its termination to this present time, that is seventy-two years.

My memory is fortified by a large amount of statistics, which I commenced to publish in my Canadian Quarterly Review in October, 1863, with some of the ruinous effects of the treaty at that time, and later more of it in my Dominion Watchman, in 1876-7-8-9, to promote national industries and to furnish employment to Canadians in place of work to the wage earners and farmers of other countries, and in which the Government returns prove that the Reciprocity Treaty was most disastrous to Canada, industrially, commercially and financially.

PRELIMINARY FACTS.

1. No theory of the conditions that prevailed through said seventy-two years unsustained by Government returns, is worth the paper it is written on.

2. When we purchase goods from foreign countries, we get the goods and the producer gets the cash.

3. When we make our own goods we have both the goods and the cash, and thereby increase in national wealth, one hundred per cent. faster than when we purchase from other countries. For example, last year, 1910, we bought of the United States two hundred and twenty-three million dollars and sold them one hundred and ten millions. The one hundred and thirteen million dollars required to make up the difference was borrowed in Britain, and we are now paying the interest thereon. This hundred and ten million dollars was surplus products of the United States, and therefore was added to their national wealth,—not a cent to that of Canada! This is Ottawa legislation for the United States—an impoverishing legislation for Canada.

LOSS OF SHIPPING.

The Canadian carrying trade on the St. Lawrence, our great highway to the ocean and over-sea countries, was in 1854 $33,683,128, and in 1855, the first year of the treaty, it decreased to $15,208,600, or in round numbers a decrease of eighteen million dollars. The decrease in canal tolls was $35,000, or thirty-two per cent.

The Government records show that in 1854 there arrived at Quebec from the sea 1416 vessels rated at 618,926 tons, and manned by 20,391 sailors. In 1855, the first year of the treaty, the number of vessels decreased to 742, and the tonnage to 318,800 tons, and the sailors to 11,902.

The tonnage of sea-going vessels arriving at and departing from the four leading St. Lawrence ports in 1854 was 1,487,097 tons; in 1855 it was only 870,794 tons.

The total value of the exports and imports at the ports of Montreal and Quebec in 1854 was about $42,000,000; in 1855 it was only about $28,000,000. These amounts give the decrease in shipping the first year after the treaty went into force, as shown in Government reports published at the time. I have not the figures for later years. Remember this was the loss in traffic; the excess of goods imported from the United States was another matter, and will be dealt with further on.

Thus the first year of the treaty the Canadian Government gave the United States about one half of our carrying trade from Sarnia to Quebec,—gave it to the canals, railroads, villages, towns, cities and seaports of the United States.

The natural result was the complete wreckage of about one-half the capital invested in steamers, propellers, vessels and other craft, and of half the value of the wharves, warehouses and contingent outfits of the carrying trade of our great St. Lawrence route.

RECIPROCITY BALANCE SHEETS.

The Government has not as yet furnished either the voters or the members of Parliament as they should have done, with a Reciprocity Treaty Balance Sheet, to show to Canadians that the last treaty was the "unmixed benefit" to both Canada and the States, that the Globe states, and without which no rational industrial and financial judgment can be given. The voters should be informed by such balance sheet of the loss of tonnage to Canada, loss of passenger traffic, loss of employment, direct and indirect, to all engaged in the traffic, loss of market for wood by steamers and other craft (coal was not used), the loss of home market for farm produce, loss in respect of all other merchandise at calling points.

Three Aylmer, Que., men have been arrested on a charge of stealing a prize ox, butchering the animal, and disposing of the carcass to a butcher.

Rev. Canon Almon of Halifax, one of the oldest minister of the Anglican communion, died last night. He was the youngest brother of the late Senator Almon.

The home of the Earl of Crewe, Secretary of State for India, caught fire yesterday. The greatest alarm was felt because of the fact that on Tuesday a son was born to Lady Crewe. The blaze was soon put out.

Sheriff Lemieux, while wandering about the excavations of the Montreal jail, stumbled on an old section of the building that had been buried and forgotten. It contains a number of cells where the prisoners of '37 were confined under sentence of death.

A Double Standard.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—Two weights and two measures is the way "L'Action Sociale" of Quebec sizes up the recent anti-reciprocity sermon delivered in Quebec by Rev. Fred. Scott, and while the clerical organ says no one should dispute the Anglican clergyman's right to speak as he did on Sunday last, it wants to know what French-Canadian politicians would think or say if a Roman Catholic priest got up into the pulpit and expressed himself so plainly on political subjects as did Rev. Mr. Scott.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Sun Life Assurance Co.
OF CANADA

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

The Opening of the New Music Building at Charlotte St.

The first piano sold at the opening of the new warerooms of the J. N. Greene music Co. Ltd., on Charlotte Street, was a beautiful upright Louis in mahogany; a Louis XV design which was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. R. Routley, of Peterboro.

The city is to be congratulated in being able to number among its prominent stores a wareroom, that for its size equals in artistic display any piano wareroom in the Dominion; not excepting those found in the very largest centres.

Sound work backed by fair dealing and the best value for the money is the foundation upon which the J. M. Greene Music Co. Ltd., business has been built.

A MISTAKE ABOUT GRAND OPERA

"It is indeed gratifying," said Joseph F. Sheehan, the famous tenor, who is coming to the Grand Opera House, Tuesday, Feb. 14th, for a performance of the world's favorite opera, "Il Trovatore," "to see that gradually the general public are beginning to realise that Grand Opera does not mean something intended only for the musicians. During the past three years I have given special attention to those operas which are interesting to the average play-goer as well as to the musician, and of these none quite so well fills the bill as 'Il Trovatore' It is for that reason that I have secured the foremost artists in the country each one particularly fitted for his or her role, and am playing that one opera only this season.

Given in English, as we do, 'Il Trovatore' is as interesting in story and plot as any drama ever staged, and seldom has a drama been staged with such a cast of stars as are in my company this year.

Besides the strong dramatic side there is the most beautiful and tuneful music, from a standpoint of melody alone, no comic opera can compare with it. What comic opera has such beautiful numbers as the picturesque 'Anvil Chorus,' the wonderful 'Miserere' in the Tower Scene, the famous trio at the end of the first act, the duel and sword fight at the close of the Convent Scene, and others too numerous to mention. It is no wonder, then, that at every performance I have people tell me who have never heard a grand opera before, they would not have missed it for anything.

You can put this down as gospel truth, everyone who hears 'Il Trovatore' sung in English by such a company as the one I have the honor to lead this season will mean an additional convert to grand opera.

The seat sale opens to-morrow (Saturday) morning.

HANDSOME NEW QUARTERS FOR J. M. GREENE MUSIC CO.

Splondidly Appointed Premises on Charlotte Street Opened To-day—A Description of Interior.

There was thrown open to the public to day, one of the most up-to-date and thoroughly fitted out departmental music stores probably in the province, and certainly one in which there seems to be nothing lacking for catering to the wants of music lovers.

The building which has been erected by J. M. Greene, with whom others are associated is situated on Charlotte Street, in a most advantageous location. It has a frontage of fifty-four feet, is two stories high, and glass is used extensively in the front.

Above the first story is a display window stretching the full width of the building, which gives it the appearance of an additional storey There are three doors leading into the structure from Charlotte Street, two into the music department and one opening into the western wing which will be rented.

FINELY-FINISHED INTERIOR

On entering the ground floor, one is immediately impressed with the strictly clean and finely finished appearance of the interior. On one side of the store, in the window, stands a splendid Heintzman-Louis grand piano which has already been purchased. Behind it a portion of the room will be converted into a reception and waiting apartment. Convenient facilities for writing and reading are to be installed and the room will be an ideal place of rest for tired shoppers. To the right of this section are the glass cabinet display counters containing instruments, music, and the innumerable other musical sundries.

MUSIC ARRANGEMENT

The vocal and instrumental sheet music is arranged conveniently and alphabetically on a music rack beside the counter. This alphabetic arrangement greatly adds to the celerity of finding any piece of music desired. The office is in the back ground of the store and is reached by a flight of stairs. It is roomy, well lighted, and ventilated, and commands a view of the entire floor. Just below the office is the phonograph record room which has accomodation for about 3700 records for Edison and Berliner machines. From the booth opening into the individual talking-machine sales rooms, are two sliding windows The salesman here demonstrates the various records to the Prospective buyer, the latter however only seeing the mouth of the horn on the instrument through an orifice in the wall. The individual salesrooms are two in number: they are sound proof, and fitted with double glass. Two machines may be in operation, one in each room, at the same time, and yet not be heard, in the next room.

PHONOGRAPHIC EXHIBIT

There is also a talking machine exhibit room, which contains Victor, Edison and Berliner machines. They are all mounted on stands. The room is large and well lighted and the instruments are arranged in a manner calculated to show them off to their best advantage. Mention at this point must be made of the elevator which is placed in a convenient positon just inside the rear entrance door. It is well protected by doors and a rail, from liability to accidents to customers.

"COMMODIOUS RECITAL HALL

The second floor is fitted up elaborately. A large room in the centre is used for pianos. It is called the piano sales room and recital hall, for which it is admirably adapted. Palms and other decorations add to its attractiveness, and this room bids fair to be in great demand for concerts, etc. It is capable of accomodating one hundred and fifty people, and there are that number of folding chairs available, owned by Mr. Greene the proprietor of the store. The floors are of hardwood and the woodwork is of finely varnished and glossy Georgia pine. The woodwork of the whole interior is of the same material, and the clean neat appearance is one of the most praiseworthy and noticeable features of the store.

THREE TEACHING STUDIOS.

On the right side of the piano sales room are four doors. These doors open into apartments, three of which are used as teachers' studios, and one as the piano player exhibit room. One of these studios is to be used by a leading musical instructor of this city, and the other rooms may be rented only by musical tutors whose reputation and ability is reliable.

EXCELLENT ILLUMINATION

The lighting of the building is another commendable point. It is known as the low voltage system fitted with economizers, which give, what is considered now to the most serviceable and satisfactory illumination known. The lights are of the tungsten make.

On the left side of the recital hall is the organ and sewing machine sales room containing the best of these articles on the market.

GOOD FIRE PROTECTION

For protection in case of fire, each room contains a bucket of water, with six pails. As soon as the top pail is lifted up, the one below rises to the surface also full and ready for use.

The cellar is large and laid with concrete; its dimensions are 48x22, and it is fitted with a Gurney furnace steam heating the entire building.

FAVORABLE OPINIONS

Some of the well-known music store owners of Toronto, have stated to Mr. Greene, that they considered the store to be one of the best music houses they had ever inspected, and the president of the Williams Piano Company regarded it as the most conveniently arranged store it had ever been his pleasure to look over.

VISITORS FROM TORONTO

Several visitors from outside places were in attendance at the opening today including officails from the R. S. Williams and the Heintzman piano companies of Toronto. Some antique violins and bows from the R. S. Williams collection including one known as the "Amati" valued at $3000 were on exhibition and attracted the curio loving visitors. The store has been thronged all day, and many expressions of delight and praise were heard.

From now on this store will doubtless be the Mecca of music lovers of the city and vicinity.

NICHOLAS AMATI VIOLIN VALUED AT $3500

On Exhibition at the J. M. Greene Music Co. Ltd.

Mr. R. S. Williams, the renowned Canadian violin expert, has kindly consented to place on view a number of violins from his famous collection, also some rare old bows by celebrated makers.

Among the instruments which will be on exhibition are exceptionally fine specimens of Nicholas Amati, Peter Guarnerius, Pietro Antonio Landolphi Raffaele Trapani, and also a number of fine specimens from the French, English and German schools that will be interesting to the advanced students, as they will be offered at reasonable prices by the J. M. Greene Music Co. d3

Fire did $2,036 damage to the new J. B. Farrell block at North Bay.

Mrs. Fred. Lingham, of Belleville aged 60, founder of St. Agnes School, dropped dead at her home.

Samuel Graham, a financial agent who left Montreal some time ago, left unpaid bills totalling $10,000.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

THE FARMER BOY WHO "STUCK"

Once upon a time, there lived in Tuscarawas County, Ohio, a farmer's boy who had a dream that was with him sleeping and waking—a dream of greatness.

When he went for the cows, with the frost-diamonds glistening on the little cobwebs in the grass, with the crows cawing on the old stump in the back lot and the rising sun painting long lines of gold or blackness through the woods, he would often rout a cow up from a fence corner, sit down, put his bare feet in the warm place where she'd lain, and dream that dream.

Almost always at night, when the rain pattered on the shingles and the mice rustled in the seed corn hanging from the rafters he'd compose himself on his husk matrass, and dream that dream of greatness.

He was a big, strong boy and, some said, pretty thick headed, but inside of him he had a mighty purpose and a mulish obstinacy; an obstinacy that means much, sometimes for good, sometimes for evil.

Well, this farmer's boy had found that he could throw a ball with great speed and curve it around the other boys' necks after a fashion that made them blink, and his dream was that he would become a great pitcher; that he would become a premier in a great sport, at a great salary; that he would hear the applause of great crowds—all this, if he stuck at what he went at, and took good care of himself.

When Denton T. (Cy) Young entered the big baseball league at Cleveland 21 years ago he was raw material sure enough. You could almost hear the clover in his hair grow, and he came near fainting over his first pay-envelope. But he had unswerving determination to stick to it. He has incorruptible resolution to live right.

He learned all he could about what he was at.

He turned aside from brothel and bar, and spent his spare days down with the woods, the grass, the brooks, the chickens, the woodpile, the farm doings in old Tuscarawas, while the others wintered among and succumbed to the temptations of the city.

"Cy" stuck at it.

His dream came true. He became loved, honored, successful, great in the career he had chosen. No man does more than this, even in statesmanship, literature, law, commerce, finance or anything else. The green farmer's boy who could throw a ball won in the race of life because he stuck at it and lived tight.

And now age may retire "Cy," as it surely will the youngest of us, and he will go back to the farm with "Success" written opposite his name on the great ledger. And blind is he to us, young or old, who cannot read the lesson given in the life-story of a humble farmer's boy.

FRONTENACS MAY NOT HAVE BROUSE

For Home Game With Grillers To-night

The Grillers left this morning for Kingston, where they will play the return game with the Frontenacs to-night. The line-up may be changed at right wing, McMartin and Anderson being taken along.

The Frontenacs may be without the services of Bouncer Brouse, and once again the unexpected may happen.

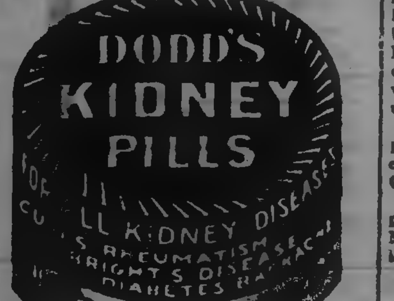
TO TRY NEW PLAN ON RUBE WADDELL

"Rube" Waddell is certainly in for a glorious season at Minneapolis. They have everything nicely planned for the eccentric one, and, according to a close friend of Joe Cantillion, the plan of campaign to keep the southpaw hiking along the straight and narrow path has been carefully mapped out.

The scheme is for Cantillon to allow his "Rubelets" full swing during the training trip and for Joe to fill him full of the "bull" stuff until he believes he is the only individual on earth who ever knew anything about pitching. Then when the Millers return to Minneapolis and during the summer seasions at home, Waddell is to be a visitor at the Cantillon cottage at Lake Minnetonka.

The pitcher will not be allowed to go to the city only on the days he twirls, and just as soon as the battle is over he'll be escorted back to the wilderness. On the road it is planned for Waddell to room with Joe, so that the manager can keep the slabber under cover, morning, noon and night.

Oh, my, what a beautiful scheme, If attempted it will be the richest thing ever pulled off in baseball. Keeping "Rube" close to nature, where the crickets clack and the mosquitoes hum, where there are no bright night lights or the merry clank of the stein, is a charming picture. It will be a great summer for Waddell. The gentle lapping of the waters of the Minnetonka and the soft falling pine needles should be sweet music to his ears. But he won't be there. He'll be down at Andy's, where they sell the largest in the northwest



HACK FAILED TO THROW THE POLE

Zybsko Stayed With the Russian for Ninety Minutes

New York, Feb. 9.—In ninety minutes of wrestling Geo. Hackenschmidt, the Russian Lion, failed to throw Stanislaus Zybsko, the Pole, at Madison Square Garden to-night, and the match went to the Pole. Hackenschmidt had undertaken to throw Zybsko twice within an hour and a half. Hackenschmidt was the aggressor in the early part of the bout and was the faster and cleaner wrestler of the two.

The weights were given on the program as Hackenschmidt 210, Zybsko 270. In spite of his huge bulk, Hackenschmidt twice heaved Zybsko over his shoulder and slammed him to the mat with all his force. The shock shook the Pole heavily but did not lessen his strength. For the most part Zybsko chose a chance hold and Hackenschmidt found trouble in working free from it. At other times the Pole tried Frank Gotch's favorite toe hold, but Hackenschmidt, with his tremendous strength, repeatedly broke it by driving his leg back like a piston.

Whenever Hackenschmidt got a half nelson Zybsko broke it, by flipping a back somersault. Towards the close of the bout Zybsko, who had been on the defensive, took the aggressive and continued to show stronger to the end. His work was rough and sometimes drew the disapproval of the crowd. He butted with his head and punched with his elbows. No purse was announced, and there was no clear proof of superiority. Technically the Pole is the winner.

PRO GAME AT BELLEVILLE

Sample of Hockey Which is Said Will be Seen Here

Belleville, Feb. 9.—Consequent on the disbanding of the Picton professional team following last night's game three of their players were on Belleville's line-up against Port Hope to-night namely—S. Burgoyne, Dusty and Crossett. The game was fast but rough, several of the players being laid out, finalyl resulting in a farce insofar as fine hockey was concerned. Dusty and Randall were laid out, probably for the remainder of the season. Port Hope won the game by a score of 10 to 6. In the last period there were but four players a side. The line-up was as follows:

Referee—W. Lane, of Belleville.

Men should keep their eyes wide open before marriage, and half shut afterwards.—De Scudery.

TRIMMED ON HOME ICE

Whitby Won Handily at Trenton With 9-3 Score

Trenton, Feb. 9.—One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the first series of the home-and-home games played here to-night between the Whitby intermediates, winners of Districts 2 and 3, and Trenton, winners of No. 1. The play was decidedly swift throughout the game and ended in a score of 9 to 3 in favor of Whitby. The line-up:

Referee—Lawson Whitehead, of Toronto.

BOYS INTERESTED IN EXHIBITION

Information for Those Wishing to Enter Exhibits at the Y. M. C. A.

The Boys' Hobby Exhibition which is to be held on February 17th, promises to be a great success. Entries will be received February 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th.

While the executive of the exposition will take every reasonable precaution to ensure the safety of exhibits it must be understood that the owners are required to assume all risk and should an exhibit be accidently injured lost or stolen, the executive will render all the assistance in their power for the recovery of the same, but will not recognize any claim for payment of the value of any portion thereof.

Boys themselves must transact all business connected with their exhibit. Parents will not be allowed to take any more liberties with their son's exhibits than an entire stranger.

Exhibitors may have every confidence that each judge is an expert in his work.

The executive reserves the right to close all entries in every class when the limit of accommodation has been reached.

Those who have consented to act as judges are Mr. Scrigley for penmanship; Mr. Hedgson, for natural history; the Misses Alford and McCrea, arts; Mr. Royl, photography; and Mr. Gilchrist, miscellaneous.

The management hope to secure Mr. Hagerman for judge of manual training.

The general public as well as the the parents of the boys are invited. Some of the members are already hustling around with tickets, and report good progress.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—The election of officers at the concluding session of the Association of Fairs Convention yesterday, resulted in a board much the same as that of the previous year, Mr. H. J. Gould, the president, retiring, and the others each moving upward one step. Dr. J. U. Simmons, of Frankford, formerly vice-president, is now president, and the other chief officers are:—John Farrell, Forest, first vice-president; R. H. Leary, Peterborough, second vice-president; Alex. McFarlane, Otterville, treasurer; Lockie Wilson, Toronto, secretary and editor; R. Agnew, Meaford, and Wm. Collins, Peterborough, auditors.

COMING HERE TO TAKE POSITIONS

G. H. Howson Has Many Enquiries From the Old Country

G. H. Howson, the immigration officer, has received several communications from parties in the Old Land who state that they are coming to Canada next month. The immigration officer in Glasgow recently forwarded a couple of references for cooks, and one from a general servant with the request that a position be secured for them. The references speak very highly of their value and competency, and little difficulty should be encountered in placing them.

A widow lady, forty years of age, named Elizabeth Phips sails on the 17th of March and arrives here on the 27th. She stated in a letter that she would be willing to go on a farm. Two sisters, 18 and 27 years of age respectively would like employment together if possible. They sail on March 17th.

Mr. Howson advises farmers to apply early for their help and thus enable him to reply favorably to inquirers for positions.

MR. BORDEN'S WARNING VOICE

jority being due to the absence of a large number of French-Canadian Liberals.

When the House went into committee, Mr. Borden arose to the accompaniment of Conservative cheers.

"These proposals are too grave for partisanship," he said. He desired to take a reasonable and moderate view of the trade arrangement without making an attack on the Government or anybody else. He would devote himself either to the conditions in the House, and show that these were proposed which should not be entered into lightly by the people of the Dominion at the present time.

Mr. Borden reviewed Canadian national progress and said prosperity was an assured fact.

There was no doubt that a section of the people in Canada would immediately profit by the proposed tariff; there was less doubt that it would spell ruin for a much larger number. But as to the far reaching effect on Canadian trade, no one could speak with authority, beyond saying that it reversed the work of forty years.

Dealing with the argument that one good result of the agreement would be to provide a wider market for Canadian products, Mr. Borden said that if the national issue was to be disregarded, and wider markets in the United States, from which the Empire was to be excluded, were to prevail, the conclusion was logical and evitable that the part of reciprocity, as proposed, would lead to commercial union, and from that to political absorption.

Mr. Borden then went on to say that the proper fiscal policy for Canada to adopt was not which would provide in the event of a necessity for tariff reduction, for a revision upon a reasonable and scientific basis. He would recommend such a tariff as would aim at the development of the country, the employment for our labor, the increase of our population and the utilization of resources. It would aim at giving producers reasonable opportunities by equalizing the cost of production. It would have been well if a Parliamentary commission had been named, so that the effect would not be made by rule of the House. The problems of transportation and terminal elevators were of more vital importance to the West than the tariff question.

In conclusion, Mr. Borden said: "I trust that the Canadian people will not lightly relinquish the task to which their energies and the energies of their fathers have been consecrated for so many years. I trust that the standard will not be thrown aside and the retreat sounded when the battle is more than half won.

Hon. Wm. Paterson, speaking after recess, said Mr. Borden in remarking upon the progress made by Canada during the last forty years, had failed to notice that particular progress had been made during the last fifteen years. One of the acts of the present Government which tended to increase our trade, was the making of trade freer with the whole world, particularly Great Britain and the United States.

Referring particularly to Mr. Borden's speech, he said he could not make up his mind whether the Opposition leader was for or against the agreement. At any rate he was not so hostile as a section of the press of Canada.

Mr. Paterson continued his argument by instancing the development of the West, and declared that the export of a hundred millions of bushels of wheat every year would keep the railways busy. He thought Canada could do better even than she had been doing, and would progress more in the next five years than in the past ten.

"This agreement will, I believe, give trade a greater stimulus than the British preference gave it." He appealed to the patriotism of the Opposition to share with the Government the credit of the great thing they were doing. He argued it would help the miner, the lumberman and the fruit grower. If the Opposition would not help, the Government would press the measure alone.

Mr. Foster returned to his old time virility in an attack on the Government. He declared that the present was a crisis in Canadian history. It was a situation of great gravity. The Government should heed the lesson of history. It was valuable to tell them what they should avoid. The volume of reciprocity had been completed in 1891. A heresy remained with the Liberals until 1897, but subsequent to then both parties had cast it aside. The mandate of the people on four successive occasions had been to leave the question alone, and there had been no compelling impulse to make the Government think differently.

The C. P. R. "ready made farm" scheme will be extended to British Columbia.

BANK DID IT.

Peterborough, Feb. 10th.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Public opinion should be very careful in ascribing improper motives to Dr. Beattie Nesbitt and Mr. Travers, formerly officials of the Farmers' Bank. These gentlemen were acting in their capacity as officials of the bank and therefore it is quite clear, it is the bank that did wrong and not the men.

P. NUT.

MR. DENHAM OBJECTS.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I wish to correct the impression created by the article appearing in the Examiner last night under the caption "Name Omitted," which was evidently the product of someone who has more time than brains. I should, no doubt, have enjoyed the company of the gentlemen who were in the party, but did not have that pleasure. What I cannot understand is how the pilot failed to land them at Indian Village, unless he felt that they had enough Indians there without importing any from Peterborough.

A Late Easter

Easter is somewhat late this year, coming on April 16th. Easter day is one of the movable feasts, its date depending upon a phase of the moon. It is always the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the 21st of March. If the full moon comes on a Sunday, Easter day is the following Sunday. It never can be earlier than March 22, nor later than April 25. It is a common notion that spring is early or late, according to the coming of Easter. Those who believe this, tell us that we will have a late spring this year. Good Friday falls on April 14th and Easter Monday on the 17th.

TENDERS FOR MACHINERY FOR THE PUMPING STATION

Compressed Air System to be Used

Business Transacted by the Board of Works.

At a meeting of the Board of Works, last evening, W. E. Chipman, C. E. was present and submitted a number of tenders for the machinery to be installed in the pumping station and it was decided to leave the matter of placing the order, with the Mayor, Ald. Metheral, City Engineer Hay and Mr. Chipman.

The tenders were:

Canadian Fairbanks Co., vertical [illegible] engine and compressor, belted $1,170.

Canadian Fairbanks Co., gasoline engine and compressor combined, one machine, $1,290.

Vandeleux & Nicholls, vertical gasoline engine, geared to Reavell compressor $1,557.

Canadian Rand Co., vertical Fairbanks horizontal compressor, belted, $1,712.

Canadian Foundry Co., horizontal engine horizontal compressor, Peerless chain drive, $9.75.

Vandeleux & Nicholls, 10 h.p. motor Reavell compressor, $1,350.

Canadian Rand Co., 10 h.p. horizontal compressor belted, $1,263.

Canadian Foundry Co., 10 h.p. horizontal compressor Peerless chain drive, $1,246.

Lancashire Dynamo and Motor Co., 10 h.p. motor, geared to Sentinel vertical compressor, $1,092.

Mr. Chipman stated that it was advisable to order the machinery as soon as possible. He explained that some time ago he had undertaken to find the cost of the machinery, and heard from manufacturers who did not make all the machinery. Their prices ranged from $4000 to $6000. The present tenderers were from companies who made all parts of the necessary machinery and this meant a saving at least of $1,000.

He reported the walls of the pumping station to be practically completed. The work had at one time appeared to be a hopeless task. All the important work of the bottom, too, was finished.

A compressed air system will be used, and a gasoline engine for emergency cases installed. Should there be a shut off in the electric power for the operation of the compressors by electric motor, the gasoline engine can be put in commission without any great delay being caused. There will be two compressors, alternately giving a continuous operation of the system. The sewage will be discharged by ejectors, working in connection with the compressor, the valves being of a sufficient size to do away with the possibility of plugging.

Ald. Buller suggested the use of a storage battery in the place of the gasoline engine. The committee will consider that point.

OTHER BUSINESS

On motion of Ald. Graham and Anderson it was decided to take no action in regard to the request of J. J. Turner, jr., on behalf of those merchants displaying overhead signs, that they be excluded from responsibility in case of accident to citizens. As the by law now stands, the merchants pay an annual fee of $2 for the inspection by the city engineer, and are responsible for accidents to the public.

The city engineer was instructed to do what work he thought advisable on Sherbrooke Street, west.

Those householders who have been using the Park Street drain, will be notified to connect with the sewer in cases where the main runs on their street.

The McDonald estate is occupying a portion of Crescent Street, and the City Solicitor will ask for an acknowledgment from the estate, to the effect that the property rightfully belongs to the city.

The chairman was given authority to supply rubber blankets for the city team.

The Otonabee Navigation Company will be asked to remove the tool house at the Government wharf at the end of Mark Street.

City Engineer Hay may have two weeks holidays when he cares to take his intended vacation.

SOME NEWSPAPER LAW—READ IT

If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages or the publishers may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made.

Any person who takes a paper from the post office, whether directed to his name or another, or into his his home, or whether he has subscribed or not is responsible for the pay. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post office, removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

CANADIAN CLUB DINNER TO-NIGHT

Sir George Gibbons, K.C., of London, to Speak on International Relations

It is expected that there will be a large turnout of members of the Canadian Club at the Hotel National this evening to meet Sir George Gibbons, K.C., of London, Ont., and to hear his address on "International Relations." Such a subject is sure to be particularly interesting. The speaker of the evening is chairman of the International Waterways Commission.

Another Rhodes Scholarship has come to a Queen's student. The committee of Selection for the [illegible] of Alberta have recommended Stanley Scott, of Strathcona, as holder of the Scholarship of the province. Mr. Scott is a student in third year Arts at Queen's, and is well known for his sterling qualities.

St. John's A.Y.P.A.

The St. John's Young People's Association is arranging for a sleigh drive on Monday evening next. The members will drive around the country roads, returning to Mrs. J. Bell's, Park street, south, who will entertain them with an oyster supper.

Those members and friends who intend to go should notify the secretary or phone.

Funeral Notice

The funeral of the late Reginald George Greenland, who passed away at Toronto on Wednesday, will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from 480 Sherbrooke street, to Little Lake cemetery. Members of Court Chemong, No. 539, I.O.F., will attend the obsequies. The late Mr. Greenland came to this city with his father about four years ago. After working some time at the Canadian General Electric Company he went to Orillia, and it was at that place he contracted the illness which brought about his death.

Dr. Gilchrist, the I.O.F. physician at Orillia, attended him at the Gravenhurst institution, and later had him removed to the Western Hospital at Toronto.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY AT HOME

Twelve New Members Added, Making Total of Sixty

The Ladies' Aid of Knox church held a very successful "At Home" yesterday in the church parlors, for the purpose of welcoming strangers. About sixty-five ladies were present. Twelve new members were added to the role, making a total of sixty.

At the conclusion of the general business the entertainment was of a social nature. A vocal duet was given by Mrs. Keith and Miss Williamson, after which Mrs. Keith gave a humorous reading on "A Ladies' Aid Meeting."

A dainty luncheon was served in the basement by the ladies.

DEPUTATION TO GO TO OTTAWA

East Peterboro Agricultural Society Propose Erecting Large Building

Norwood Register—The members of the County Council leave next Tuesday evening for Ottawa as a deputation to interview the government with regard to the maintenance of Buckhorn and other bridges along the Trent Valley Canal. A deputation from the East Peterborough Agricultural Society will probably accompany them to bring before the government a proposition to erect a building on the grounds here, to be used as an armory and drill hall for the local company of militia and the cadet corps, and by the Agricultural Society as an exhibition hall. Since the fire last May, No. 2 Company of the 40th Regiment, whose headquarters are at Norwood, have been without a place to store their arms and accoutrements.

G.T.P. OPENING UP GOOD LAND

The Grand Trunk Pacific General Passenger Department have been advised by the Department of the Interior at Ottawa that there are approximately 10,800 quarter sections surveyed in the Grande Prairie, Peace River District, which are now open for homestead entry. In addition to this, it is the intention to subdivide 27 more townships, nearly 4000 quarter sections during the present season making in all about 15,000 quarter sections for free homestead entry in 1911 in the far famed Peace River country.

A new wagon road has been constructed, partly by the Government and partly by the merchants of Edson, Alta., through to the Grande Prairie Country, a distance of 165 miles from Edson, which is all practically completed and is reported to be remarkably level, with no heavy hills and over which heavy loads may be drawn with ease. Road houses have also been established along this wagon road and the settler will be able to travel in comparative ease and at slight expense from Edson on the Grand Trunk Pacific this year in the course of a week where the former routes via Edmonton and Lesser Slave Lake occupied several months and very great cost. The whole distance to be traversed being over four times as long as the new route.

It is reported that there are thousands of prospective homesteaders especially in the northwestern United States who have been waiting eagerly for the opening of the Peace River country to homesteading, and when the announcement reaches them there will be the greatest land rush into the Peace River and Grande Prairie country that has ever taken place to any section of Canada. The Grand Trunk Pacific is accordingly taking means to have an adequate transportation facilities between Winnipeg, Edmonton and Edson to provide for the very large traffic expected.

There is something pathetic in the sight of a big, handsome fellow in dancing pumps and a Prince Albert coat.—U. E. Holden.

Dress Making and Ladies' Custom Tailoring

We take pleasure in announcing that in response to repeated requests we have arranged to resume our Dressmaking and Ladies' Custom Tailoring department.

For this purpose we have been particularly fortunate in securing the services of an exceptionally competent head for this department in Miss H. Krueger who has had a long experience in the best class of Ladies Tailoring and on Street, House and Evening Gowns. Miss Krueger brings with her some of her own expert assistants and has also engaged well skilled local operatives, so that all orders will be filled with superior care as to workmanship and fitting.

Our Dressmaking rooms will be opened March 1st. In the meantime orders will booked and executed in rotation in which received.

Ladies are cordially invited to call and avail themselves of Miss Krueger's thorough acquaintance with the new Spring Styles in Material and Models.

Our New Spring Stock of Suitings, Dress Goods, Dress Trimmings and Silks will be fully up to the standard and in which the Golden Lion has always enjoyed a well deserved reputation for excellence.

"JACK THE HUGGER" CAUGHT AND WAS HEAVILY FINED

Followed Young Girl to Her Home in Auburn

Many Complaints of a Similar Nature.

Charles Brindle, a well known local young man, was arraigned before Magistrate Dumble this morning, charged with assaulting a young English girl, who resides at 5 Dunlop street, near Auburn.

He was found guilty and given the alternative of a fine of $20, to be paid forthwith, or a month in jail at hard labor.

He was unable to pay the fine.

WAS ON HER WAY HOME.

The victim of the assault is a girl of nineteen. In the witness box she said that while on her way home from the Salvation Army meeting, shortly after nine o'clock, she was accosted by the prisoner, who had been following her from the Royal theatre. He came up and said "Hello." She knew him by sight, having seen him one night last summer on Hunter street.

The prisoner said to her "Do you mind the time you said you would meet me on Saturday night."

She replied, "No; and my father and mother will be with me; and I want nothing to do with you."

TRIED TO DETAIN HER.

The young man persisted in following her, and they proceeded in that manner nearly three-quarters of the distance. Just at the bridge he laid hands on her in an attempt to detain her.

"Did you try and get away from him?" asked his Worship.

"You just bet I did," was her reply.

The prisoner had then said "Well, don't go away mad" as she ran home. She went in and told her father and mother.

HER FATHER'S STORY.

The girl's father took the witness box and said that his daughter came in the house about 10.50 and told him that there was a man outside who tried to keep her from entering the house. He and his son immediately went outside and when the prisoner saw them coming he commenced to run.

They chased him down to McDonnel street, riding part of the way down on a cutter. Here they caught the prisoner, who made a show of fight.

"What did you do with him?" asked the magistrate.

"Well, we held him for a while; then I sent my son for the police," said witness. "A crowd had gathered and was agitating the prisoner to make a break and get away. When I saw P.C. Adams coming I said to the prisoner, 'If you want to get away I'll let you, before the police come,' and then released my grip on him. P.C. Adams, however, gave chase and caught him."

The son's evidence agreed with his father's.

When asked if he had anything to say, the prisoner replied that he had spoken to the girl three times previous to last night—once down at the Grand Opera House, and again on Hunter street, when he had asked her to meet him on a Saturday night last summer. The girl, however, didn't show up.

In passing judgment his Worship said that he believed the girl's story. There was no doubt that the prisoner had been guilty of forcing his attentions on the girl, which were distasteful to her.

During the trial the chief remarked that he had received numerous complaints of late of cases of a similar nature.

SECRET COUNCIL OF VIGILANCE STIRS FARMERS OF OTONABEE

Deputation Goes to Toronto to Protest Against Present School Statute as Regards Teaching of Religion — What Was Said and Done.

A deputation consisting of Messrs. James Thompson, Lewis Hatherly, Henry Crane, Richard Thompson, Mark Manly and John Gillespie, representing the Protestant ratepayers of P.S.S. No. 8, Otonabee, waited upon the Minister of Education yesterday. Mr. J. H. Burnham appeared with them as spokesman. The deputation was joined by two members of the Legislative Committee of the Grand Lodge of Orangemen. The deputation was received by Hon. Dr. Pyne, with him being Inspector Seath and Deputy Minister Colquhoun. Mr. Burnham said that the teaching of religious dogma usually described as "religion," upon the premises of a state or public school, led to much apprehension and actual undesired results. It was this that the deputation wanted remedied. The statute permits the teaching of catechism, etc., after school hours, but it also permits something vastly more important, viz: clergymen to go into a school at any time and say to the scholars whatever they deem expedient, the actual wording of the statute being "and give such advice to the teachers and pupils and any others present as they deem expedient." It is manifest that this immense power opens the door to a great deal of "influence" that in some schools would be offensive to Protestants and in others to Catholics. All the heartburning and ill-feeling arising from the religious influence slowly but surely created over the little children could be obviated by restricting all reference to religion to a simple invocation, or if necessary, less still. There was still another section of the statute that bore directly upon the matter. The duties of a teacher are described to be amongst other things, "to inculcate by precept and example respect for religion and the principles of Christian morality." This did not appear to mean much, but it could be made, and in some instances was made, to mean a very great deal. Experience had actually shown that Protestant children, when in a small minority, were so under the religious influence dominating a school that they actually became estranged from their parents, and, as children will, whether through fear or preference, clung to the religious sentiments and customs that in all cases where, especially the Catholic religion is looked closely after, pervade and rule the influence that makes or unmakes the child in its religious future.

Mr. James Thompson also spoke and said that they always got along well with their Catholic neighbors, and had no fault to find with the teacher, Miss O'Connor, but they wished undesired religious influences to be kept away from their children, and thought that in a purely non-sectarian public school it was not too much to ask. The deputation was well satisfied with its reception. Mr. Burnham also called attention to the desirability of giving the local inspector more extended powers to hear complaints, and also to the necessity of amending the statute so as to provide for regular meetings of the Board. It was possible under the statute for the majority of a school board to ignore the business of a section altogether if they chose, or put it at the beck and call of others than the ratepayers themselves, and at present there was no appeal. The deputation afterwards met Sir James Whitney. After the deputation left the buildings it was freely stated that the increased activity of the Roman Catholic clergy, together with their newly-created "secret council of vigilance" was a danger to the faith of Protestant children in a school, especially where they were in a small minority, but it would not be fair to ask for relief for Protestants in respect of religion, and not provide for it in cases of Catholics also. Therefore, the complete secularization of public schools was hoped for. Dr. Pyne remarked that this was the policy of the U.S., and asked if the deputation wanted the American public school. It is likely that this question will become a leading one at the next general elections throughout the province.

WHY THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ourselves. There are Optometrist and Opticians who do a smaller, but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our work. COL. HUGHES ANSWERS THE CRITICISMS OF CLERGYMEN

Member for Victoria Occupies the Limelight.

Reiterates His Charge Against Rev. Mr. Milne.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—The chief incident of the Commons' sitting yesterday was an attack by Col. Sam Hughes on an Ottawa clergyman, Rev. J. W. H. Milne, and the Ottawa Ministerial Association. A fortnight or so ago, Col. Hughes, in the House, accused Rev. Dr. Macdonald of The Globe of being in the pay of a peace society in Boston, whose propaganda was reciprocity, and the colonel declared that Dr. Macdonald had advocated that doctrine for the association. Col. Hughes objected to this as being inimical to the best interests of Canada. Mr. Milne was alleged to have preached in his church, in Ottawa, a sermon condemnatory of Col. Hughes, although he did not mention him by name. However, Col. Hughes stated that many members of Mr. Milne's congregation had assured him that the sermon was directed against him. Accordingly he retaliated.

He described Mr. Milne as a Liberal party-heeler, that after declaring in 1905 that the Ross Government of Ontario should be defeated, he appeared on the Ross platform in Ottawa; that just before the provincial elections he invited Rev. Dr. Macdonald to preach in his church, but the leading members of his congregation refused to allow him to occupy the pulpit; that Mr. Milne had supplied to the officials of the Liberal Association a list of his congregation with their political faith designated.

The Ministerial Association took the matter up and passed a resolution declaring that every statement made by Col. Hughes was false, and expressed implicit confidence in Mr. Milne.

This resolution was the cause of Col. Hughes' statement to the House yesterday. He re-affirmed all he had previously said, and offered to produce affidavits in support of his charges against Mr. Milne. He demanded that the Ministerial Association take the matter up again, and in order that there should be the fullest enquiry, he offered to sign the Hansard report of his speech, so that they could proceed against him.

Towards the end of his speech, which lasted for over an hour, Col. Hughes made a somewhat general attack on the clergy of various denominations, particularly the Roman Catholic Church. He said of course he excepted the many noble men in all branches of the Christian Church.

This provoked a warm rejoinder from the Conservative benches.

A. C. Macdonnel (South Toronto), who said he had no concern with the comment that had been made upon Mr. Milne's conduct, but he could not sit and hear the attack upon clergymen generally. Col. Hughes had gone out of his way to do so, and his references to Roman Catholic clergymen were unnecessary and gratuitous. He could permit him to state without challenge that humanity had been cursed by them, and he entirely disassociated himself from the remarks made by Col. Hughes.

David Henderson (Halton), Conservative, concurred in the sentiments expressed by Mr. Macdonnel, and declared that he was not in sympathy with discussions of this kind in the House of Commons.

On the Liberal side, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and H. H. Miller of South Grey, also spoke in condemnation of the general attack on the clergy made by Col. Hughes. Mr. Miller talked sarcastically of Col. Hughes' work in South Africa, to which the colonel replied that it was the privilege of every coward to sneer at every man who went to South Africa. There the incident ended.

Shortly before adjournment a contretemps occurred between J. W. Maddin (S. Cape Breton) and D. D. MacKenzie (N. Cape Breton.)

Mr. Maddin stated that Mr. MacKenzie had been responsible for the appointment of a large number of fisheries officers in his county, who received pay for the supervision of that did not exist.

TALKED A BLUE STREAK

New York, Feb. 10.—Telling of her married life, Mrs. Alice L. Lemon talked so fast to-day on the witness stand that Judge Hadley ordered a recess of three hours to give his fagged stenographer a rest. Mrs. Lemon is suing for divorce from her second husband, William C. Lemon. She began talking at 4 p.m. yesterday. Even her attorney found it almost impossible to get in a word. The witness easily maintained a high velocity of language which never flagged.

"I used to sit up nights till twelve o'clock darning my husband's socks," she raced along. "Often I did not have clothes to keep me warm. Once he told me to come down town with me and he would buy me $100 worth of clothes. When we got to the store he handed me $15 and strolled away.

And so it went on and on. At 11 a.m. to-day the stenographer threw up her hands. Her fingers were blue and cramped with fatigue.

TOO LATE WITH THE PROTEST SAYS LAURIER TO FRUIT MEN

Sir Wilfrid Holds Demand of West for Free Fruit Reasonable.

Some Sacrifices Must be Made for Common Good.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Fully 1,500 fruit and vegetable growers flooded the House of Commons yesterday to present their memorial in opposition to the proposed lowering of the tariff barriers against American products. They represented widely separated parts of Ontario.

Although the largest contingent hailed from the Niagara peninsula, there were many representatives also from Halton, Essex and the vicinity of Toronto. The Quebec farmers were also represented.

The deputation was introduced by W. O. Sealey, M.P., and in addition to the Premier and Hon. W. S. Fielding, Mr. Borden and Hon. G. E. Foster with many other members of Parliament were present.

The memorial was read by Mr. Johnston, and after several "whereases," it said:

"We would, therefore, most earnestly and respectfully request that your Government may, after due consideration of the points we have ventured to bring to your notice, and after full enquiry into all the conditions, reconsider the clauses referring to the interchange of fresh fruits and vegetables, and that you may then be enabled to place our industry on a commensurate footing with its great importance to the development of this country."

It seemed, said Mr. Johnston, that, though the interests of the grain growers had been looked after, those of the fruit growers had somehow been overlooked. The agreement as it stood would mean the ruin of this industry.

In his reply to the deputation, Sir Wilfrid said it was impossible to frame a tariff that would please everybody in the country. The western provinces demanded free fruit, and their demand was a reasonable one. All classes and industries had to be prepared to make some sacrifices to the common good. He was afraid the fruit growers had come too late to have anything done.

LIBERALS TO HAVE RALLY

Convention May be Held Early in March.

Toronto, Feb. 11. According to some of those who are discussing the matter, the arrangements are well under way for an Ontario Reform convention at Massey Hall, early in March, says a Toronto morning paper. The promoters expect an attendance of 2,500 accredited delegates.

H. M. Mowat, K.C., president of the Ontario Reform Association, and F. S. Mearns, president of the Toronto Reform Association, are taking an active part in the arrangements, backed by Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways, and Hon. A. G. MacKay, Opposition leader in the Ontario Legislature.

If the views of the progressive element among the young Liberals are crystalized into form and adopted, the planks of the new Ontario Reform platform will be:

Grouped constituencies.

Proportional representation.

Local option by municipalities respecting the taxation of improvements.

Abolition of the three-fifths clause.

Extension of the present municipal woman's suffrage.

Great activity is being manifested at the new offices of the Toronto Reform Association, in the Forum Building. This has been accelerated by the likelihood of an early dissolution on the reciprocity issue.

A. E. Hacker, organizer for the Toronto district, has a clerical staff busily employed, and there is an evident determination on the part of the association to be ready to put up a stiff fight in the Toronto ridings.

HAVE REPORTED McCALL BILL

Reciprocity Agreement Forwarded to Congress.

Special to The Review

Washington, Feb. 11—The ways and means committee of the House of Representatives to day voted to report to the House the McCall bill, embodying the Canadian reciprocity agreement. It will appear in the House next week.

Carload of Liquor Seized.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—The biggest single seizure of liquor ever made in Northern Ontario was made by the provincial police near Cochrane, early yesterday morning. It consisted of a carload of the forbidden goods, 150 cases of whisky and the rest beer. The shipment was obviously intended for distribution among the blind-piggers in the district. The constables had a tip that a large shipment was coming and to get it they had to lie in the woods for two nights with the temperature at about forty below zero.

Word of the seizure was sent to the Provincial Secretary yesterday morning, and he immediately conferred with his deputy, S. A. Armstrong, Eudo Saunders, chief license officer, and Joseph Rogers, superintendent of Provincial Police. The Department is putting up a strong fight against the importation of liquor into the prohibited districts and every possible device has been adopted to evade the police. Liquor has been shipped in as gasoline and every other commodity. The idea of sending in a whole carload, which would be sealed, is a new idea. Only the bare report of the seizure has been sent to headquarters and it is not known where the car was shipped from. Sealed cars like that cannot be examined by the T. & N. O. officials, and it is now the work of the license department to find out who the shippers were.

The Battle Song of Reciprocity.

(F. G. Scott.)

Lord God, rise up in Zion, rise up at Thy people's cry.
For blindness has fallen upon us and the doom of our land draws nigh.
Lord God, rise up and save us; they have put a strange song in our mouth.
For our rulers would barter our birthright for the gold of the Kings of the South.

Lord God of our fathers, be with us,
rise up at Thy people's cry,
For blindness has stricken the nation and the doom of our land draws nigh.
Rise up, ere it falls, Lord, and save us, and blast with the fire of Thy mouth
The Treason that barters our birthright for the gold of the Kings of the South.

FIFTEEN MINERS MEET DEATH

Four Bodies Have Been Removed and Five More Discovered.

Trinidad, Col., Feb. 11. The bodies of four shot-firers had been removed from the Cokedale Mine wrecked by an explosion on Thursday night, five more bodies had been discovered and six were still unaccounted for last night. A. E. Suton, assistant superintendent, in charge of the rescue work, was overcome with gas and was carried to the surface. He probably will die.

Supt. Batless declared yesterday he believed the explosion was due to the accidental discharge of blasting powder. Little hope is entertained of finding the remaining six men alive. All the dead and missing are foreigners.

Could Smuggle Diamonds.

Portland, Me., Feb. 11. An indictment charging Theodore F. Abildgaard of Washburn, a U. S. customs inspector, with scheming to defraud the U. S. Government by a plan to smuggle diamonds from Canada, was reported by the grand jury of the U. S. District Court, which arose yesterday. It is alleged Abildgaard wrote a Chicago mail order jewelry firm suggesting that he could get diamonds across the Canadian border into the United States free of duty. He pleaded not guilty to the indictment, and the case was continued until April.

New Hospital.

Berlin Ont., Feb. 11.—The report of Dr. Bruce Smith, read at the meeting of the Berlin-Waterloo Hospital Board last night, recommended the erection of a new wing in order to provide proper accommodation for the increasing number of patients. Dr. Smith also stated that the operating room was one of the poorest in Ontario. Steps will be taken immediately to have a new wing erected. Berlin Council will be asked to issue debentures to the amount of $10,000; Waterloo Town $3,000, and Waeterloo County $3,000. There is at present $1,230 in the bank bequeathed by the late Dr. G. S. Bowlby, to be used in the erection of a new operating room, and $3,300 raised during the last two years, to be used towards financing the new wing.

ROTHSCHILD IS DEAD

Death of Austrian Financial Baron To-day.

Special to The Review

Vienna, Feb. 11.—Baron Albert Rothschild the wealthiest man in Austria died to day. He had never fully recovered from the shock of the death of his son, who suicided a year ago. He was one of the famous family of bankers, and had been ill for some time.

CONTRACTOR IS ARRESTED

Another Move in Graft Investigation.

Buchanan to Face Charge of Perjury.

Woodstock, Feb. 11.—A further arrest in the Oxford graft enquiry took place yesterday afternoon, when Jas. Vance, bridge contractor from near Tavistock, went into that village and gave himself up to Constable Frick.

A warrant was issued for his arrest at the same time as the others, and given to Constable Hobson to execute. The constable could not locate him on Thursday, but hearing he was wanted, Vance went to Tavistock and gave himself into custody.

The village constable and his man came to Woodstock yesterday afternoon, and before Magistrate Ball bail was given to $2,500 cash and $2,500 security. It is charged that Vance gave a county councillor $50 to get a bridge contract.

The charge upon which M. T. Buchanan was arrested on Thursday was perjury in the recent investigation before Judge Snider, the information against the others being for various grafts.

Byron McCarty is accused of accepting a rake-off, while councillor, from a firm in London in Oxford County purchases.

These three, with Youngs, will have preliminary hearings on Feb. 17 before Magistrate Ball.

KAISER IS QUITE ILL

Old Trouble Affecting Brain is Recurring.

Special to The Review

Berlin, Feb. 11—There are alarming reports in circulation here to day concerning the Kaiser's health. Although it is reported that he has influenza, it is believed that he is suffering from a recurrence of the old ear trouble which threatens to affect the brain.

Attempted Murder Is Charged.

Sherbrooke, Feb. 11.—S. Guillemette of Lake Woron was brought to Sherbrooke jail yesterday charged with an attempt at murder. He was trying, it is alleged, to force an entry into a store, and when disturbed by Mr. Brier, the proprietor, shot at the latter with a Snyder rifle. The bullet just grazed his head. The burglar then entered the store and carried away a quantity of flour.

Wants Treaty Cancelled.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Claiming that Russia has violated the treaty of 1832 with the United States, by denying Jewish citizens of this country the privileges extended to other American travelers, Representative Herbert Parsons of New York introduced a resolution in the House yesterday calling on President Taft to declare the treaty void.

SCHOOL BILL WITHDRAWN

After T. E. Bradburn Moved its Second Reading.

Praise From Mr. Hanna for His Measure to Amend Municipal Act.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Rural municipal and school trustee election difficulties were discussed by the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon.

T. E. Bradburn, West Peterboro (Con.), moved the second reading of his bill to amend the School Act in the direction of stiffening the conditions of the nomination proceedings.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, said that while the present regulations allowed some latitude, it would be unwise to change them as suggested owing to the difficulties in many rural school districts of securing ratepayers who were willing to take the position of school trustees.

Mr. Bradburn, in deference to Hon. Dr. Pyne's views, withdrew his bill. He, however, fared better with his bill to amend the Municipal Act, which elicited a few words of commendation from Hon. W. J. Hanna.

The Provincial Secretary said that Mr. Bradburn's motion contained about half a dozen suggestions which might be considered in the municipal committee. The clause which provided that some officer other than the mayor should be qualified to sign debenture coupons was worthy of consideration, as it certainly was a big task to sign innumerable debenture coupons several times a year.

A. B. Thomson, Centre Simcoe, moved the second reading of his bill to place township elections on the same basis as other municipalities.

Hon. A. G. MacKay, Opposition leader, objected to the bill as too drastic for present conditions in many parts of the province, especially in sparsely settled sections.

Sir James Whitney said that he agreed with his honored friend, the leader of the Opposition, with respect to the bill for what might be very nice for the city and town might be very inconvenient and uncomfortable out in the country.

Mr. Thomson said that he did not introduce the bill with any idea of forcing it upon the rural municipalities, but had brought it in at the request of several municipalities in his riding.

Sir James Whitney said that the great Judge Richards once said that "the hard cases make bad laws." Lawmakers were but human, and it was impossible to make a law which would work to perfection absolutely in all cases without exception, but in view of Mr. Thompson's explanation the bill might go to the municipal committee for a consideration of the difficulty complained of.

W. T. Nickle, Kingston (Con.), moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Public Health Act. The bill places the control of locations for the storage of rags and bones in the hands of the municipalities. An outbreak of smallpox appeared to be traceable in one instance to the improper storage of infected rags.

Sir James Whitney said that the bill might be reported upon to see whether or not the matter was already covered by the Public Health Act.

When Hon. J. S. Duff's bill respecting veterinary surgeons was read a second time, Hon. A. G. Mackay repeated the criticism that it raised the witness' fee of veterinary experts to one dollar in excess of other experts.

The Minister of Agriculture said that this would all be adjusted as the other statutes were revised.

Several incorporation bills were on the motion of Hon. I. B. Lucas given their second reading, also Hon. Frank Cochrane's aid to drainage bill.

Sir James Whitney's Factories Act amendment bill was read a second time.

Power For Kingston.

Kingston, Feb. 11.—In a week's time, Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, hopes to have a proposition ready for cheap power for Kingston. This is the encouraging report Ald. Toye, who was sent as a delegate to interview Hon. Mr. Beck in Toronto, brought back with him yesterday.

Changed Their Time.

Paris, Feb. 11.—The Senate yesterday passed a bill modifying the legal time in France and Algeria, which now is nine minutes 21 seconds slower than that in use in Western Europe. This action is to be taken so as to bring France within the same time section as England, Belgium, Holland and Spain.

ARNOLD CASE

Special to The Review

Philadelphia, Feb. 11—The Inquirer to-day prints a story that Dorothy Arnold, the missing heiress has been located by the family, and also that she was married to George Griscom six months ago, and that the wedding would have shortly been announced.

BODY REMOVED FROM TOMB MAY BE THAT OF CONGRESSMAN

Police Unable to Find a Clue to the Identity of Robbers.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 11.—While the police and detectives were working desperately to discover a clue to the identity of the ghouls that robbed the Scott mausoleum in the Erie Cemetery, new mystery was thrown about the case by a report that the body taken was not that of Mrs. Anna M. McCollum, as at first reported, but that of the late Congressman Wm. L. Scott.

The main hunt for the ghouls is now being directed in Black Hand channels as a result of a conference between detectives and Charles H. Strong, brother-in-law of the late Mr. Scott. Men who attempted to blackmail the Strong family two years ago by means of Black Hand letters are now in the Washington penitentiary, and it is believed that their friends or companions may have been responsible for the grave robbery.

Mr. Scott, who was a wealthy railroad man, was a close personal friend of the late Grover Cleveland, during the latter's first term.

Cleveland, Feb. 11—Two hundred thousand miners in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, will strike on Wednesday, unless an increase of wages is granted to a section of the organization.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

BATTLE CRY OF ANIMOSITY.
(With apologies.)

God of our fathers, hear us—
Give ear to Thy people's cry;
There is big Bill Taft to betray us—
While Willie stands grinning by;
Oh, save us from our statesmen, who
At Ottawa are holding forth;
They are plotting to hand them over—
Icicled from the frozen north.

What though we call them cousins,
Our friends of the southern clime?
(Arise in Thy might, O Lord, and keep us,
From indulgence in awful rhyme)
O, blast with the fire of Thine anger,
The traitors be whom they may,
Who would help to open our peepers,
To the sins of Laurier!

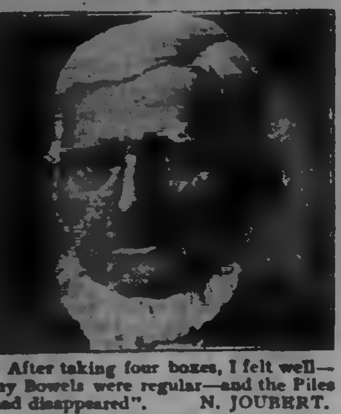
A GRAND MEDICINE FOR OLD PEOPLE

"Fruit-a-tives" Restores The Health and Strength of Youth.

GRANDE LIGNE, QUE., Jan. 2nd, 1910.

"I heartily recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to all who suffer from constipation and the painful consequence, Piles. I am now over 80 years of age and suffered for more than 10 years with Constipation and Piles. I tried all kinds of remedies, but nothing cured me.

About four years ago, I received a sample of "Fruit-a-tives". After taking a few doses, I felt that "Fruit-a-tives" were doing me good. As "Fruit-a-tives" were not sold here then, I wrote to Ottawa for several boxes.



After taking four boxes, I felt well—my Bowels were regular—and the Piles had disappeared". N. JOUBERT.

By taking one "Fruit-a-tives" tablet half an hour before meals—or one or two at night—old people can correct all Stomach, Liver and Kidney Troubles.

"Fruit-a-tives" the famous fruit medicine is mild and gentle in action—pleasant to the taste—yet no other remedy has been found to be so effective in keeping old folks in good health.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

NOW IS THE TIME

J. J. Hill in an address at St. Paul on Thursday is reported to have said by the press dispatches:

> "Now is the only time to get the measure through, as Imperial federation will forestall any future move. If action is taken now it will mean a terrific expansion of the entire Western portion of America."

Mr. Hill could not have voiced the opinion of many Canadians better if he had tried. The putting through of the reciprocity agreement means that it will be impossible for Canada to make any further move toward Imperial commercial federation without abrogating the agreement with the United States.

It ties us to the United States chariot in such a way that our ability to further assist in tightening the bonds of empire is frustrated. It is a step which deprives Canada right now, of her power of furthering empire schemes. It means that we become involved in the destinies of the United States, in its political and commercial fortunes. It means that we will be doubly subject to the panics, to the operations of the great trusts, to the financial earthquakes that so frequently shake the economic fabric of the south of us.

If we are to separate ourselves from British schemes of closer and warmer imperialism—if we are to seek the Yankee dollar instead of the English shilling—then let us do it on a vote of the people fully expressed. And if ratified, then let Mr. James J. Hill fatten the coffers of his American railroads with the proceeds of the freight he will carry to and from the Canadian west, to the detriment of our own institutions.

MR. BORDEN

Mr. Borden's utterance on the question of the reciprocity agreement in the House of Commons on Thursday was a most statesmanlike presentation of the situation. We do not say this because the Review happens to have Conservative leanings, nor to follow the system pursued by the Globe and others of its ilk of idolizing a leader, in reason or not.

A careful reading of what Mr. Borden has to say shows a wide comprehension of the national aspect of the situation. Mr. Borden does not hand out bally rot in his speech. There is no great flourish of trumpets. He sizes up the situation in a tone so markedly fair and judicial, that one is led to wonder if he is not indeed too statesmanlike in his attitude.

Mr. Borden is a leader has the respect and good will of every member of the House of Commons. He does not say caustic things; he does not inveigh bitterly, with a lack of justice, against that to which he finds himself opposed. He points out what he conceives to be the weak points. He loses no chance to poke holes into an argument; but his every statement is marked by moderation and restraint, that indicates a sound and sober judgment. He criticises like a man bearing the responsibility of office, who has to carefully weigh his statements, rather than like a reckless destructionist. Mr. Borden would, by his very high order of attainments, make a greater success as Premier, than as leader of the opposition.

TAFT'S ARGUMENT

President Taft made the first of his reciprocity speeches at Columbus, yesterday. He spoke with great energy and animation, declaring to the farmers whom he addressed, his entire conviction that the agreement was going to unite two countries, with kindred people, tying them together across a wide continent, in a COMMERCIAL and social UNION. He prophesied that after six months of the working of the agreement the whole country would be strongly in favor of it. President Taft predicted that the price of wheat would not be reduced by the free admission of Canadian wheat, but an immense amount of business for American transportation systems would be created. He said:

> "Open up the markets of Minneapolis and Chicago, give the transportation and warehousing facilities of our North-West, and the Canadian farmer will get for his wheat practically what the American farmer gets, less the higher freight charges, due to greater distance from market. In other words, the advantage we give the Canadian farmer will not hurt our farmer, for the price will remain the same; but by patronising our elevators, our flour mills, our railroads, he will secure admission to the world's market at a less cost to himself, while we will secure the advantage of increased trade for our elevators, our mills, our railroads, and our commission men."

Dispatches indicate that the Senate of the United States is swinging into line, and will pass the agreement. It is scarcely likely, however, that the bill will pass both houses before adjournment, and indeed it is probable that before it goes into effect there will be a Dominion election. In this case, the people will have the opportunity of asserting their opinion at the polls, which is as it should be. The last three Dominion elections, those of 1900, 1904 and 1908, were not fought on the fiscal question at all. The tariff was not the predominating issue. In such a radical retrogression toward free trade principles, it is vastly important that the voice of the people shall be expressed. If the people declare for freer trade—for continentalism at the expense of imperialism—well and good. It is the people who shall rule.

To pass through such a measure in the Canadian parliament, to railroad it through with the lash of the party whip, without giving the members any chance for amendment, or discussion that is not practically wasted time, is an enormity of which our constitution is capable only by stretching it to the limit. In such an important matter as the abandonment of our policy of promoting trade within the empire, the seeking of the completion of our national life in alliance with an outside people, Canadians should assuredly voice their sentiments before their government makes it effective.

If Laurier is not the Czar of Canada, we would like to know what his action in rushing through this agreement indicates him to be?

EDITORIAL NOTES

Hon Bill Pugsley is a "doctor". The latest is "doctor of telegrams."

When the fruit growers laid their case before Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday, he told them it was "impossible impossible" to help them. Perhaps the fruit growers will begin to grasp what that conveys by a thorough study of the situation!

The Liberal majority in the House of Commons on the reciprocity vote was 25—one of the smallest on record. Forty Liberal members in Ottawa, sidestepped that vote. Is this the "remarkable unanimity" the Liberal papers would have us believe exists in the Government camp?

W. R. Travers travels around Toronto on street cars, gets shaved in a barber shop, eats his breakfast in hotels, and enjoys his cigarettes after dinner just as if he were a free, unconvicted criminal. The way of the transgressor doesn't seem to be so hard after all—in some cases.

Sir John Macdonald said that commercial union with the United States meant annexation. Some of the American newspapers are saying the same now. Will reciprocity lead to commercial union? Human nature is the same now as twenty years ago. If we get the habit, why not?

The C. P. R. "ready made farm" scheme will be extended to British Columbia.

SURE SIGNS

Of Kidney Trouble

If your back is constantly aching and if you experience dull, shooting pains, your kidneys are out of order. If your urine is thick and cloudy or your passages frequent, scanty and painful, your kidneys and bladder are out of order. Neglect brings on rheumatism, diabetis, lumbago, sciatica, and etc.

Mrs. John Wagner, of 110 Hollis street, N.S., says: "Dull shooting pains would catch me across the small part of my back and extend into my shoulders and neck, often causing me to suffer with severe headaches and spells of dizziness. Spots would dazzle before my eyes and everything would turn black. I would fall to the floor and be unable to get up again without assistance. A friend told me of Booth's Kidney Pills and I began their use. The first box gave me relief and I am now well and strong."

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 10.—The market was firm at the opening with offerings light and values were ½c higher and following opening there was good support in May. Buying was due to the light shipments from Argentine and especially to the United Kingdom, no increase in the Argentine visible, firmness in Buenos Ayres at the close yesterday and the fact that Plata offers are 3d dearer. Receipts for three days are light and spot markets firm with an improved demand. The continent is making enquiry for cargoes off coast. The firmness in Winnipeg was also a factor for the steadiness.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Advices to the effect that the reciprocity agreement could pass the senate on a forced vote depressed the wheat market to-day. Flattening out of cash demand further discouraged the bulls, and so did poor trade in flour. Closing prices were weak at a net decline of 1⅛c to 1⅜c to 1½c. Corn finished ⅛c to ⅜c, to ⅝c to ⅜c under last night, oats off ⅜c to ⅝c, and provisions 12½ to 30½c down.

Decline to Release Him.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 11.—Unconvinced that Edward E. Grimmell, a third term convict in Clinton prison, has been cured of his criminal tendencies by surgery, the State Parole Board has refused to parole him, although Governor White, before retiring from office, gave the board the authority by commuting his sentence.

Grimmell's skull was fractured when a boy of 14 during a quarrel with a playmate, and the claim was made that the injury was a potent factor in developing his criminal career. In March, 1909, Dr. Dewitt G. Wilcox of Buffalo, with an assistant, went to the prison and performed an operation with a view to restoring Grimmell to his normal state of mind.

Frequenters Will Be Fined.

Hamilton, Feb. 11.—Hereafter when hotel bars are found open after hours, the men caught will be prosecuted as well as the proprietor.

Yesterday morning the magistrate fined Edward Duffy of the Northern Hotel $20, and a dozen men found in his bar by the police last Sunday $10 each.

"I am making the fine in the proprietor's case as low as possible, and raising it on the frequenters, because if they did not patronise these places the law would not be broken," said the magistrate.

Bowman Sentenced Again.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Continuing to collect money in Berlin after his employer, R. L. Joee, had warned him to stop, and pocketing $46.50, Levi Bowman will go to the Central for five months. He was brought up from Kingston, where he still has some months to put in, and sentenced yesterday by Magistrate Denison.

A Poet In Prison.

Chatham, Feb. 11.—Thos. G. Morehead, now in Kent County jail waiting trial on three charges of fraud, is a poet. He is busy writing all the time in his cell, and sends out contributions to a number of American magazines.

Coal Results

We sell the very best quality of hard coal, as good as we know how to buy.

¶ Are you getting results from the coal you are now using? Are you sure it is good? Are you burning it the right way?

¶ There is a deal of difference in how you handle the range or furnace. Our long experience tells us that fact and we are ready to advise any in doubt as to the best way to make use of coal as fuel.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

His brow was dripping with perspiration; his arms were bared, his collar thrown off; a heavy hammer was in his hand. It seemed to me that he was devoting considerable time and energy to a comparatively simple task, and, like a fool who does not see beyond the end of his own nose, I could not refrain from telling him so. But, no! I was only able to understand that, half an hour later, when I came upon him lying beside the ruins of the chapel, murmuring in his dreams the one word which betrayed the sorrow of his heart—"never." Rouletabille was dreaming of the Lady in Black! After having relieved his overcharged heart with that one word he left nothing more to be heard except his heavy breathing. He was completely exhausted. I believe that it was the first time he had really slept since we had come from Paris.

I left the chateau unseen, and soon, my dispatch in my pocket, I took the train for Nice. On the way I chanced to read this item on the first page of the Petit Nicois: "Professor Stangerson has arrived at Garavan, where he will spend a few weeks with M. Arthur Rance, the recent purchaser of the Fort of Hercules, who, aided by the beautiful Mme. Arthur Rance, will dispense hospitality to his friends in this mediaeval stronghold. Professor Stangerson's daughter, whose marriage to M. Robert Darzac has just taken place in Paris, has also arrived at the Fort of Hercules with her husband, the brilliant young professor of La Sorbonne."

At Nice, hidden behind the blinds of a buffet, I awaited the arrival of the train from Paris by which Brignolles was due to arrive. And the next moment I saw him alighting from a car. I knew that there must be some strange reason for this journey of which he had not informed M. Darzac beforehand. And I knew that the trip was a secret, one when I saw that Brignolles was bending his head as he hurried along, gliding rapidly as a pickpocket among the passengers. But I was behind him. I followed him. These maneuvers seemed to me more and more ambiguous. Finally Brignolles' carriage came out upon the Road de la Corniche, and I directed my coachman to take the same way. The numerous windings of this road, its accentuated curves, permitted me to see without being seen. Finally we reached the Beaulieu railway station, where I was astonished to see Brignolles' carriage stop and the man himself get out, pay the driver and enter the waiting room. He was going to take the train. For what purpose? He got into a passenger coach which was bound for the Italian frontier. I realized that all his movements were bringing him nearer to the Fort of Hercules. I got in the car behind his.

Brignolles did not get off until we reached Mentone. I saw him alight. He had turned up the collar of his overcoat and pulled his hat down over his eyes. He cast a stealthy glance around the quay and then mingled with the other passengers. Once outside the train shed he got into a shabby old stage which was standing by the sidewalk. I inquired of an employee, who told me that that carriage was the stage to Sospel.

Sospel is a picturesque little city lost between the last counterforts of the Alps, two hours and a half from Mentone by coach. No railroad passes through there. It is one of the most retired and quietest corners of France, the most dreaded by revenue officers and by the Alpine hunters. Why was Brignolles going to Sospel? I must find out. I hired a carriage from the station, and in a few moments I, too, was climbing over the rocks to the valley of Carei. How I regretted not having spoken of my telegram to Rouletabille! The strange behavior of Brignolles would have given him ideas, useful and reasonable, while for my part I had not the slightest idea of how to reason. I only knew how to follow this Brignolles as a dog follows his master. I reached Castillon ten minutes later than Brignolles. Castillon is at the highest point of the road between Mentone and Sospel. I descended from the carriage, and at the entrance of a tunnel through which it was necessary to pass to reach the opposite turn of the mountain I beheld Brignolles and Frederic Larsan.

I stood staring at them, my feet as helpless as though they had taken root in the soil. I could not utter a sound nor make a gesture. I had been the only one to guess that the companionship of this devil of a Brignolles had been of the gravest danger to Darzac. If they would have listened to me he would have got rid of the creature's presence long ago. Brignolles, the tool of Larsan, the accomplice of Larsan—what a discovery! Why, I had known all along that those accidents in the laboratory had not happened by chance! They would believe me now.

COL. HUGHES ANSWERS THE CRITICISM

fisheries on streams that did not at least during a part of the season

Mr. McKenzie, replying, said that the statement was false, and a lie.

In less time than it takes to relate the circumstance, the few members in the House were roaring at the top of their voices. When the Deputy Speaker called upon Mr. MacKenzie to retract, he said that he would not do so were he outside the House. Subsequently the Opposition members expressed their disapproval of Mr. MacKenzie's form of retraction, and various points of order was raised and debated with heat.

Finally Mr. MacKenzie satisfied the House that he had withdrawn the remark, and peace was restored.

Don't Want Foreign Funds.

Pekin, China, Feb. 11.—Indications are not wanting in these days of the growing hostility throughout the country, not only to the granting of foreign railway concessions, but even to obtaining money from abroad for the construction of those lines which the Government is anxious to build.

The student body of the Province of Sinkiang has issued what amounts to a proclamation practically threatening the Government with war should further loans be arranged with foreigners.

In No Danger.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The crew and cargo of the British bark Caithnessshire, which is stranded off San Salvador, are in no danger, according to a wireless telegram received by the Navy Department yesterday from the scout cruiser Birmingham, which went to the assistance of the vessel. It will be impossible to save the hull of the ship, however, the despatch added.

ENTERTAINED BY YOUNG PEOPLE

Pleasant Evening Spent by Members of Guilds

The Knox Church Young People's Guild entertained about one hundred of the Springville Young People last evening in their spacious lecture hall. The visitors gave a delightful program consisting of a mouth-organ quartette, vocal solos, instrumental selections, recitations and a dialogue entitled "The Mechanical Man."

Rev. Dr. Marsh made a few remarks respecting the friendly relationships which always existed between the two guilds. Mr. Sanderson, president of Springville Guild, occupied the chair in a very acceptable manner.

After the program the visitors were served with refreshments by the young ladies of Knox.

EXPLOSION IN MAN-HOLE

Two Employees of Machine Telephone Co. Burned

Blow-Pot Ignited Natural Gas

The local manager of the Machine Telephone Co., D. E. H. Lee, has received word from Brantford, that E. J. Adams and W. Trout, two employees of the company and wellknown here, were terribly burned by an explosion of natural gas, while at work in a manhole yesterday morning.

Both men were severely injured about the face and hands. Adams was removed to the hospital and Trout to his boarding house.

The men were laying underground cables and a blow-fire used in the work, ignited the gas which found its way into the manhole.

Adams was a cableman and with Trout, was employed with the local company, while in this city.

MISS WARNOCK AT NORMAL SCHOOL

Miss Warnock (Katharine Hale) delighted a very large audience in the auditorium of the Normal school last evening with the manner in which she dwelt on Victorian poets. Miss Warnock spoke entertainingly and instructively on the life and works of each.

MAKE TEETHING PAINLESS
Teething time is always a time of anxiety to mothers. At this time baby becomes cross, restless and nervous. His gums pain him, he is troubled with constipation or diarrhoea, spasms colic, or convulsions. His little life is in danger unless a medicine is given him to keep his stomach sweet and pure and his bowels regular. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. Nothing can equal them during the teething period. They have lessened the worries of thousands of mothers. Among them is Mrs. W. A. Yeadon, Halifax, N.S., who writes:—"I have used no other medicine for baby but Baby's Own Tablets and I would not be without them. Last summer baby was greatly troubled with his teeth until I gave him the Tablets. They helped him and now he is a big healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cts. a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What Do You Think of This ?
How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.
OF CANADA
issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.
Is not this the Climax of Liberality?
The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."
Investigate this proposition before insuring.

HOLDUP ON AYLMER ST.

Wm. Dunlop Fined $14.15 for the Offence

William Dunlop was fined $14.15 at police court this morning by Magistrate Dumble after being found guilty of a bold hold-up on the night of February 6th.

The prisoner paid the fine in court.

On that date, Dr. Cameron was returning from a sick call in the country. Percy Castle, who resides at 129 Chamberlain street, had been up to Dr. Leach's and was on his way back when he met Dr. Cameron and was given a ride in his cutter; not knowing, however, that it was the doctor.

Two men came out from Head's hotel on Aylmer street. Dunlop caught the horse by the head and threw an onion, striking Dr. Cameron in the eye. Castle jumped out and knocked both of the young fellows down.

Not till then did he discover the identity of the doctor.

In imposing the fine His Worship said that he would deal leniently with the prisoner as it was a first offence.

Dunlop's companion was not arrested.

Concert in the George Street Church on Monday night. Admission 10 cents.

THE LOTTERY MAN

Many situations have been resorted to in plays to prevent the happy culmination of a marriage vow. In "The Lottery Man" Rida Johnson Young has hit upon an entirely new plan.

The hero is Jack Wright, a newspaper reporter. He is single and unloved, save for the devotion of his mother. He plans to make money for both himself and his paper by conducting a lottery with himself as the prize. Coupons, printed in the paper, are sold for a dollar each. Most of them are bought by old maids. Wright promises to give himself up to a loveless marriage to the woman who gets the lucky number. Meantime, he falls in love with a charming young girl.

Imagine his predicament. As he explains the first woman he meets on the street has a right to claim him as her husband. As a matter of fact fate is so unkind to him—and his sweetheart—that—that the winning number falls into the hands of an old maid, a most unattractive person who gloat over her victory. It develops, however, that the spinster has stolen the ticket and with the threat of prison she disgorges.

"The Lottery Man" was first produced in New York last fall and has the distinction of having remained there at one theatre for practically the entire season. The Messrs. Shubert are now sending it on tour with the same company, which will appear at "The Grand" next Wednesday, Feb. 15th.

BIGGEST CHIMES IN CANADA

To the Editor of the Review.

On behalf of the Chimes Committee we are privileged to make certain announcements which we feel sure will be interesting to our citizens generally.

After placing the order for eleven bells, we corresponded with the chime-masters of some of the largest chimes in the United States with a view to finding out whether by any chance there was any deficiency in our chime which it would be possible to remedy now, while under construction. We were advised that for really effective work, and to secure a large range of tunes, two more bells were highly desirable. While considering which of these was more important to attempt, a generous citizen gave the larger of these two as a memorial bell thus earning the gratitude of all citizens. We consulted with the three representative music leaders of the city, and with prominent citizens, as far as time allowed. As the remaining bell required an extra expenditure of only some $200, it was unanimously determined that we were not only justified, but actually called upon in the public interest to risk this outlay and complete the chime. Others have since warmly endorsed this action, which will, we feel confident, be welcomed by Peterborough people generally.

The situation now is as follows. Peterborough is to have installed next June, a magnificent chime of 13 heavy bells, the largest weighing 3,000 pounds. This will be by far the largest and most complete chime in the whole of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and will be unique, not only for its size, but also for the multitude of subscriptions of all classes and creeds, and from the fact that by resolution of St. John's Vestry it will be operated for the benefit of the public and the trust, and its full advantage shared in by all citizens.

The name "The People's Chime" first suggested by the press of the city, has been stamped upon the largest bell, and we may confidently expect that it will prove a bond of union between all citizens, as well as bringing happiness and cheer to all; in fact it will be a public piano for expect that it will prove a bond of people. The chime should further exercise a strong influence in developing a healthy national and religious sentiment in the city. The lines of public use have not yet been fully worked out, and this can only be gradually done with the help and suggestions from all interested person.

Believing that the magnitude and importance of this enterprise will commend it to all,

Yours truly,
J. C. DAVIDSON,
Chairman Chimes Com.
G. C. WAINWRIGHT,
Treasurer Chimes Com.
Peterborough, Feb. 11, 1911.

ANOTHER ONE NEEDED

Rev. Canon Davidson,
Chairman Chimes Committee,

Dear Sir,—Your enquiry as to the advisability of adding an E bell to complete the Peterborough chimes admits of only one answer, and that answer decidedly in the affirmative. Such a bell, weighing probably 100 pounds would be of great value in chiming, as well as giving greater scope for patriotic airs and hymns. In short, if any bells above the octave are added the higher E becomes an essential and as we understand that C sharp and D are decided upon the addition of upper E will make the Peterborough chime the finest in Ontario, if not in Canada.

Yours faithfully,
JOHN CRANE,
RICH. J. DEVEY,
R. GLIDDON,

A DROP IN THE PRICE OF EGGS

Is Down to Twenty Five Cents—To-day's Market

To secure the cream of the market produce this morning, the ancient expression, "the early birds gets the worm," applied well. The absence of eggs at eleven o'clock was very noticeable. They have dropped in price to twenty-five cents. Butter was quite plentiful, as were also chickens. Beef and pork, as usual, kept up their end, ranging at the usual prices.

One farmer exhibited a fine batch of turkeys, averaging sixteen pounds, which sold at $2.50 each. The price of apples was also more reasonable today. Some of the prices asked were:

Potatoes—80 cents a bag.
Apples—$1 a bag for greenings and russets.
Pork—8 and 9 cents.
Beef—13 to 13 cents.
Lamb—12 to 13 cents.
Chickens—$1.25 a pair (40 and 50 cents a piece.)
Geese—$1.50.
Turkeys—$2 and $2.50
Turnips—25 cents a bag.
Eggs—25 cents.
Butter—25 cents.

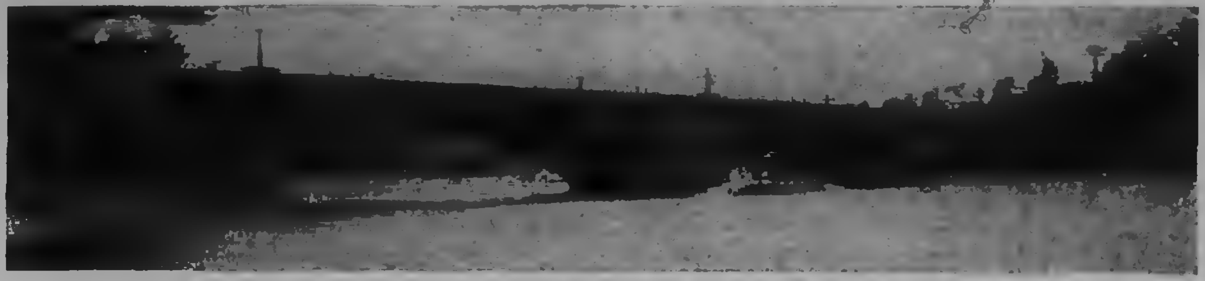
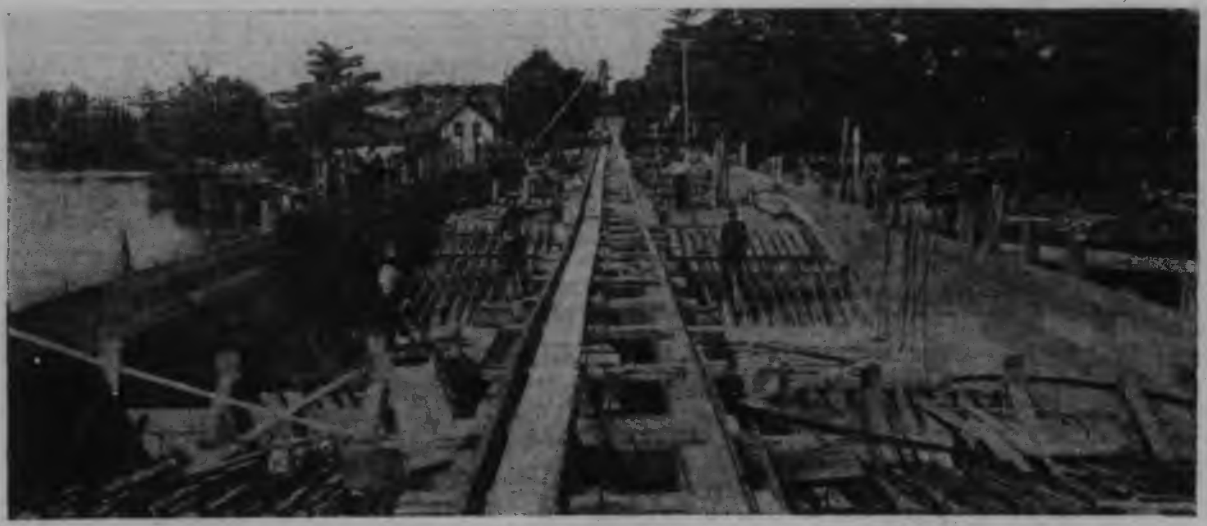
PETERBOROUGH'S FINE BRIDGE AT INVERLEA IS A BEAUTY

Contract Record's Illustrated Article by City Engineer Hay Partially Reproduced--All Constructional Details Are Given--Photos Were Taken Lately--One of the Handsomest Concrete Bridges in Ontario.



Inverlea Bridge, Peterboro, Now Practically Finished. Photo Taken on January 7, 1911.



Constructional View of Inverlea Bridge from the East End on July 30, 1910.

The following article by T. A. S. Hay, city engineer of Peterborough, appears in the Contract Record for this month. (The illustrations are from the same publication.)

This bridge spans the River Otonabee in the line of Smith street, in the city of Peterborough, Ont., and replaces a wooden Howe truss bridge.

It consists of three arched spans of reinforced concrete, 100 feet centre to centre, or 94 feet clear, with abutments reaching well into the river banks, on both sides, and beyond the shore lines, making a total length of structure of 385 feet.

The arches were designed to sustain a maximum live load represented by a 15 ton-road roller. The clear width between railings is 31 feet, sidewalk 5 feet wide on south side, a space of 10 feet wide for single track street car line on north side, and 16 feet roadway between. The centre line of the bridge makes an angle of 72 degrees with the channel of the river. The intrados of arch is a two centre curve or 3 feet 9 inches, 120 feet radi and a rise of 12 feet. The extrados is a segment of a circle of 170 feet radius. The arches have a radial thickness of 22 inches at crown to 48 inches at the point of lesser radius, 45 feet from crown.

The west abutment rests on a compact mass of boulders and heavy gravel. The two channel piers and east abutment rest on a heavy bed of limestone rock. The footings of abutments and wing walls are carried up to 3 feet below normal level of water, and those of channel piers, to 5 feet. The width of footings of the wing walls is 5 feet 3 inches, of the abutments 12 feet, and of the piers 9 feet 8 inches.

The piers above footings are battered 1 in 8 to 8 feet wide at top, with belt course extending 3 inches; bullnosed ends protected with 5-16 inch plate iron. Owing to the depth of water (6 to 16 feet) and speed of current, unwatering for foundations was not attempted, but the beds for footings were cleared of all loose materials and to a satisfactory bottom. Cribs of 10x10-inch close fitting timbers lined with 3-in. vertical matched sheathing, were lowered into position, weighed down and filled with concrete, deposited through a tube in 6-in. layers, well rammed in which stone from 6 to 10 pounds weight were embedded.

The footings have been brought up to proper level, permission was obtained to lower the water sufficiently to set the forms and build up to belt course. Owing to inconvenience to power plants by loss of head, this part of the work had to be carried on as quickly as possible, as the time allowed for low of level water was limited to 14 days. The concrete in footings consists of one part cement to seven parts gravel and sand, and generally in all parts above footings the composition is the same.

The false work of arches consisted of bents of 10x10 timber placed transversely with centre line of bridge and spaced 8 feet apart, centre to centre, with longitudinal stringers 4 feet apart on top, forming a deck level with spring line of arches. On this deck the centering was erected, consisting of laminated rings of 2-inch plank, bolted together with a section of 10x10 inches, supported on posts braced in both directions. On the rings was laid the lagging of 3-inch pine plank dressed and scribed to the radii of arches, all joints being calked. The concrete in arches consists of one part cement to six parts gravel and sand, built in voussoir sections, full width of bridge, commencing at springs of arch and working towards the centre and maintaining full depth.

The concrete in spandrel walls is composed of one part cement to seven parts gravel and stone. They are 18 inches thick at top, battered inside 1 in 4 and panelled outside 2 inches deep. The concrete wing walls is of the same composition as spandrels. They are 18 inches thick at top, increasing by 6-inch steps at every 3 feet vertically.

The hand rail is composed of concrete one part cement to six parts gravel and sand. The part over arches is a balustrade of 6x8 inch balusters, with 6-inch spaces. That along the wing walls is solid, 8 inches thick. The base of railing is 16 inches wide by 15 inches deep. The cap is 12 by 8 inches. The railing is divided into sections by panelled pediments 2 feet wide by 1 1-2 feet long, projecting 4 inches beyond faces of railing, one over each abutment and peir. The rail is terminated at outer ends of wing walls with posts 18x18 inches.

The faces of walls are relieved by a sailing course on the line of intrados of arch and projecting 2 inches beyond face. The forms for all parts above water, except arches and hand-railings, consisted of 2-inch pine plank, dressed, tongued and grooved, and painted with soft soap, posts and braces being of 4x4-inch pine, 30 inches apart.

All concrete above water was mixed and run as liquid as practicable to ensure filling. Expansion joints, tongue and groove, were made in spandrel walls and railings over each arch.

The reinforcing adopted throughout the structure consists of the Kahn System, manufactured by the Trussed Concrete Steel Company, of Canada, Limited. The design conforming to the usual formula for parabolic arches (although more eliptic than parabolic as designed) each arch is computed to have a rise of only one-tenth of span or 9.40 feet from springing line to the intrados at the crown. The actual rise, however, is 12 feet, thus giving an additional factor of safety which more than takes care of the difference in assuming the arch to be parbolic.

The horizontal component of thrust of one arch is neutralized by that of the adjoining arch and the effect is a downward thrust on the piers. This result is only obtained when the spans are equal and under the same conditions of loading.

Owing to the length of span it would have been practically impossible to have made the longtitude steel reinforcing bars continuous throughout each arch. It was therefore important to inquire into the best position for splices in such members. Although it would be possible to splice two bars to be embedded in concrete so that the joint would be as strong as the bar, this is seldom done in practice. For this reason splices should be placed where the tension is least.

The severest loading of an arch of this type occurs when one half (from centre to abutment or pier) is under full load, while the other half is not loaded. Under these conditions the maximum tension occurs in the extrados at a distance of about one-third of the span from abutment (or pier) at the unloaded end. This, therefore is a point where the longitudinal reinforcing bars in the extrados should not be spliced. Under a central load, tension may be produced in these bars in the intrados of the arch which is a point where no splicing should occur. In the design of this bridge the splices have been kept as far from these points as possible.

Owing to vibration caused by heavy moving loads and the variations in stresses under varying conditions of loading the danger of the reinforcing bars becoming loose in the concrete is provided against by the use of "Khan" trussed bars. These form a perfect anchorage, having the long shear prongs bent into the body of the arch and attached rigidly to the main tension members.

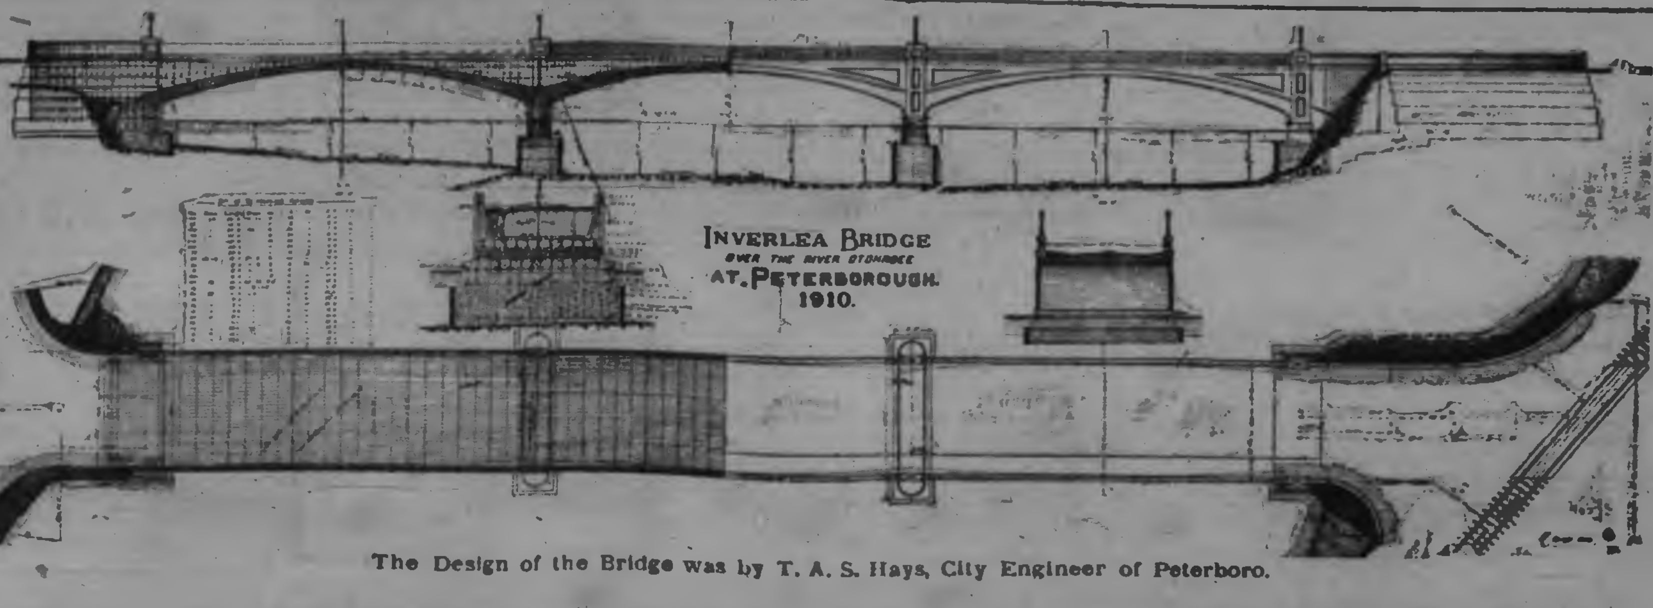
The total weight of reinforcing steel in bridge is 70 tons. The upper surfaces of arches were painted with asphalt paint laid hot. The total amount of concrete in structure is 2754 cubic yards. The cement used was "Monarch" brand manufactured by the Lakefield Cement Company.

The contract prices were $9.30 and $11.22 per cubic yard for reinforced concrete in place, including forms, false-work and removal of same. The centering was struck 60 days after last of concrete (below hand rail) was laid. The gravel used in concrete was first grade clean gravel, with 35 per cent. of coarse, sharp sand, hauled three-quarters of a mile, costing 75 cents per cubic yard delivered.

Gravel filling for roadway was carried up to sub-grade before the centering was struck. This will be topped with crushed stone next season. This gravel was procured from the corporation gravel pit and was of a coarser grade than that used for concrete. Cost for loading, hauling and spreading was 36 cents per cubic yard, hauled three-quarters of a mile.

Drainage for road is provided for by six-inch tile running from surface down through gravel filling and discharging vertically at each side of piers. The sidewalk has not been laid yet as it is intended to lay mains, for water and gas, and ducts for wires beneath it next season. The bridge is lighted by eight lamps on cast iron posts set on the pediments, the wires for which are conveyed in galvanized iron ducts built into base of railing.

The actual time occupied in erection was ten months, which included the removal of old bridge. The total cost when completed will be $35,000. The bridge was designed by T. A. S. Hay, city engineer, and built by Messrs. Conroy Bros., and the construction was superintended by Inspector W. J. Martin, all of Peterborough, Ont.



The Design of the Bridge was by T. A. S. Hays, City Engineer of Peterboro.

DENIES SHE WAS 'BABBLING BROOK'

Countess of Warwick Writes Letter of Protest to the London Times

London, Feb. 9.—Lady Warwick, in a letter to the Times recalling her experience with scandalmongers, says:

"Twenty-one years ago, at a Doncaster race party, occurred what was termed 'the Tranby Croft scandal.' The American press without exception published my portrait beneath the heading, 'The Babbling Brook,'—my father-in-law being then alive—accusing me of having at this house party revealed the facts of the scandal to the public, and saying that but for my indiscretion this affair might have been kept secret.

"I have never been at Tranby Croft in my life. At the very time of this party was held I, with all the members of my family, was in Scotland at the deathbed of my stepfather. The subsequent funeral and our deep mourning prevented me for a long time from joining in any social gatherings, so I was among the last to hear of what at that time set society agog.

"Nevertheless American newspapers persisted in this story whenever my name was mentioned, and when written to they replied that the facts had been sent to them by their correspondent in London—a lady moving in the best society.

"From time to time during the 21 years that this story has been reprinted, and when in New York three years ago my having managed to elude an interviewer did not prevent the reappearance of the inevitable portrait and the inevitable tale.

"In course of time, if my obituary notice is mentioned in the American press, I have no doubt the latest edition of a story for which there was not even a foundation will figure for the last time."

WHO PAYS THE DUTY?——
You or our foreign competitor

You pay. About that there is no room for doubt.

And it's more than likely you believe in the necessity of the tariff.

But of what earthly good is it if you pay the duty?

The foreigner laughs at duties imposed by our government as long as you are willing to cash up. Take beer, for instance.

"Salvador"

The Famous National Drink

is the purest and best beer brewed on this continent.

The formula and entire process of brewing "Salvador" is a secret and absolutely controlled, on this side of the Atlantic, by Reinhardts' of Toronto.

Beer, almost as good as "Salvador," is brewed by the big American brewers and sold in the States at exactly the same price as "Salvador" in Canada.

But—when you order an American beer in Canada there's 34% extra to pay—the duty—plus extra freight charges.

Is it rational to pay that duty—when you can get a better beer at the normal price? "Salvador" beer is rich in flavor, sparkling and charged with invigorating properties.

LADY CURLERS AT BELLEVILLE

Local Rinks Made Good Showing in Their Games

Two rinks of local lady curlers went to Belleville yesterday and with rinks from Kingston were entertained at the Hotel Quinte by the members of the Belleville Ladies' Curling Club. The local rinks lost their games to Kingston and Belleville. The scores were:

Belleville.	Peterborough.
Miss C. Wallbridge	Miss Hall
Miss Black	Miss Davidson
Miss A. Wallbridge	Mrs. O'Connor
Miss K Stork, 15	Mrs. Coulthard, 6.

Kingston.	Peterborough.
Mrs. W. A. Mitchell	Mrs. Goodwill
Mrs. Hooper	Miss Sherry
Mrs. H. Macpherson	Mrs. Matthews
Miss Ada Birch...11	Mrs. Travers...4

GRILLERS MADE A GOOD SHOWING

In Return Game With Kingston Frontenacs Who Won 7-1

Kingston, Ont., Feb. 10.—By a score of 7 to 1 the junior Frontenacs won their group here from Peterborough to-night. The game was fast and exciting. Owing to an injury to his eye, Brouse, of Frontenacs, did not play, but was replaced by Leo Williams, a brother of the famous Jack.

It was a gruelling contest, and the Frontenacs had to work hard for all they got. Davidson Millan and Boyer played the game of their lives. Reynolds starred for Peterborough. The half-time score was 3 to 0.

The line-up—

Frontenacs—Goal Marchand; point, Williams; cover, McCammon; centre, Hunt; rover, Davidson; wings, Millan and Boyer.

Peterboro—Goal, Patterson; point, Reynolds; cover, Heffernan; rover, Coughlin; centre, Hall; wings, Matthews and Anderson.

Referee—Ed. Wettlaufer, Berlin.

PUCKLAND

Toronto Star:—Whitby O.H.A. intermediates, who won at Trenton last night, haven't lost a game this season and have tripled the score in every match, a rather remarkable record. The scores:

Whitby vs. Oshawa, 3 to 1.
Whitby vs. Bowmanville, 22 to 0.
Whitby vs. Oshawa, 9 to 3.
Whitby vs. Markham, 6 to 2.
Whitby vs. Markham, 3 to 1.
Whitby vs. Trenton, 9 to 3.

The game last night at Trenton showed the superiority of team play over individual work. Whitby had the combination and bombarded the Trenton goal from all angles. They led at half time by 5 to 1, and at the finish by 9 to 3. It was a big surprise to Trenton people who expected to dispose of Whitby handily, and offers of 3 to 1 on the game went abegging.

Ben Dusty, of the Picton professional hockey team, is in the city.

CURLING

Two games were played at the rink last night. The scores were:—

GRAND OPENING OF MUSIC STORE

New Premises of J.M. Greene Co. Attract Large Crowds

From five to six hundred people passed through the splendidly furnished and up-to-date new departmental music store of the J. M. Greene Company, which was thrown open to the public yesterday for the first time. The number of visitors in the evening, which was remarkable and decidedly encouraging, shows that the public is appreciative of an earnest endeavor to supply their wants in the musical line.

This morning the proprietors, as they previously announced, gladdened the hearts of the youngsters who visited the store, by giving to each child flageolets and bags of chocolates, so eager were the kiddies, and so many applied that the large stock laid by for the purpose was rapidly exhausted.

The pleasure of a stroll through the sumptuous rooms will be increased this afternoon and evening by the presence of Halpany's orchestra, which has been engaged to play continuously.

The antique and expensive violins on exhibition in the player-piano room attract large numbers of visitors.

H. Y. Claxton, manager of the small goods department, of the Williams Company, arrived in the city this morning, bringing with him the genuine "Amati" violin, valued at $2,500, and also a $1,000 violin with the accompanying old genuine bows valued at $100 each. The piano-player room deserves special mention, as the visitors find these instruments to be of very great interest.

The reputation of the New Scale Williams piano is too widely and favorably known to require elaboration in this article. The J. M. Greene Company are handling this excellent instrument extensively, and in addition the Baby Grand New Scale Williams and the Heintzman pianos.

Several pianos have been sold since the opening.

Among the out-of-town prominent musical men present are Mr. Pike, representing the Heintzman Company; Charles Bender, general manager of the Heintzman Company; F. W. Bull, secretary-treasurer of the Williams Company, and C. H. Bull, travelling representative of the same company.

The construction and carpenter work of the new building was done under the direction of R. S. Trew, and reflects great credit on his ability.

RECITAL WAS PROFITABLE

King's Daughters Delighted — Vice-royalty to Hear Barbara Tennant

The King's Daughters reaped a substantial sum from the Barbara Tennant recital last Tuesday. This is pleasant news for the Kings' Daughters, with Mrs. Hazen Ritchie at their head, are doing a splendid work in alleviating the distress which abounds even in this prosperous city of Peterborough. Miss Tennant is also to be congratulated for the use to which she has put her splendid talents in helping on the work. It will be of interest to the people of Peterborough that the Governor-General and Countess Grey have given their patronage and will honors with their presence a recital at Ottawa which will be given at an early date.

TRIED TO ENTER GROCERY STORE

Thieves at Work on Aylmer St. —Broke Glass in Window of Door

Thieves endeavored to force an entrance into the grocery store of H. W. Loudry, 618 Aylmer street, about 2 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Loudry was the first to become aware of the fact, while attending an inmate of the house, who was ill. She heard the sound of some person or persons trying to raise the side window. Failing in this, they broke the pane of glass in the front door large enough to allow of a hand being inserted, presumably to unlock the door from the inside. Becoming alarmed, however, they hurriedly made off.

Mr. Loudry 'phoned to the police station with the result that P.C.'s McGinty and Adams were quickly on the spot. By the aid of a lantern, footprints were discovered in the freshly fallen snow, which led down Aylmer street.

The police have the matter in hand.

How A Clever Girl Helped Her Mother

EXAMPLE FOR ALL TO FOLLOW

If Miss Eleanor Barr had not taken things in her own hands, her mother might have been a helpless invalid. But Miss Barr is a very capable little lady. As a result, her mother is now well and strong again after being almost disabled.

MY MOTHER.

DELORAINE, MAN.

"I must tell you about my mother. She thinks there is no other medicine as good as GIN PILLS, for Backache. She tried a lot of other medicine for her back. Sometimes she would get a little better, and then be as bad as ever.

Then a friend advised me to get GIN PILLS. Mother tried them and has not been troubled with backache since. She always keeps GIN PILLS in the house and recommends them to everyone as the best pills for Kidney Trouble."

ELEANOR BARR.

Backache is the surest sign of Kidney Trouble—and GIN PILLS are the surest cure for weak, sick Kidneys. If you are troubled with backache, don't hesitate a moment but get GIN PILLS and you will get relief. If GIN PILLS do not do all that we say they will—let us know, and we will cheerfully refund you your money. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. ENTERTAINMENT AT ST. ANDREW'S

Splendid Program by the Sunday School Scholars—The Honor Roll

The annual entertainment held by St. Andrew's Sunday school last night was a great success. The school hall was filled to the doors by an enthusiastic audience and a splendid program was given, and all those who had any part in the preparations for the entertainment deserve much praise. Among the numbers one deserving special mention was a solo by Miss A. Robinson, who sang "Annie Laurie," and for an encore "Ye Banks and Braes."

The last number was a camping scene by the Boy Scouts.

Miss Curry was the originator of this number, and it was one of the most pleasing of the evening.

Mr. R. Lees, superintendent, gave a list of scholars of honorable mention for general proficiency in 1910. The list is as follows:—

Miss Gillespie's Class—Nora Vinegaut.

Mr. E. Wegg's Class—J. Batten, H. Martin, F. Wegg, H. Evans, J. Eaton.

Miss Curry's Class—K. McClellan, V. Thorndyke, J. Freeman.

Miss Lee' Class—Annie Cowan, Rose Cowan.

Miss R. Langford—Olive Kennedy, H. Brodie.

Miss Mawat—Myra Evans, Lizzie Thompson, Eva Tremain.

Mr. Allan—Charles Gardiner, G. Henry, M. Saunders, S. Henry, G. Stevens, G. Hill, G. McClelland.

Mr. Gerrard—E. Armstrong, H. Batten, M. Carter, E. Sharpe, H. Eaton.

Miss Allan—A. Grant, M. Kennedy, G. Stevens, M. Atkinson, M. Henry.

Mrs. Stevens—F. Saunders, H. Clarke, Miss Shannon, A. Sharpe, H. Gillespie, E. Wegg, D. Robertson.

Miss Lundy—B. Henry, J. Stevens, L. Grant, M. Rae, M. Eaton.

Those attending 52 Sundays in the year were:—Myra Evans, Lizzie Thompson, J. Batten, H. Evans, F. Wegg, H. Gillespie.

Those attending 51 Sundays:—E. Armstrong, A. Grant, E. Wegg, Laura Grant.

Those attending 50 Sundays:—Miss E. Sharpe, H. Brodie.

Those attending 49 Sundays:—V. Thorndyke, H. Henry.

Those attending 48 Sundays:—M. Saunders, S. Thorndyke, J. Eaton, A. Sharpe, Jessie Stevens.

The program was as follows:—

Chairman's remarks—Rev. Mr. Rollins.

Instrumental Duet—Misses Stevens and Grant.

Chorus—Miss Laing's class.

Solo—Miss B. Hill.

Doll Drill—Ten little girls.

Butterfly Drill—Jessie Rollins, Alice McFarlane, Olive Kennedy, Eva Innes, Grace Cox, May Reid, Bessie Mathers, Helen Brady.

Solo, "Annie Laurie," (encore) "Ye Banks and Braes"—Miss A. Robinson.

Chorus, Swing Song—Twelve girls.

Instrumental Duet—The Misses Kennedy.

Chorus, "Johnny Smoker"—Masters G. McClelland, G. Henry, S. Henry, G. Hill, Jack and Harry Gillespie, H. Devey and E. Wegg.

Songs of Merry Boys—Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy.

Rainbow Drill—Misses H. Henry, J. Rollins, G. Stevens, M. Atkinson, M. Evans, A. Wade, R. Cowan, A. Cowan, E. Tremain, A. Speneely, L. Thompson, M. Shearer, B. Henderson, A. Wingate, H. Eaton, E. Rae, E. Young and M. Kennedy.

Child Impersonations—Mr. Kennedy.

Midsummer Fairies—A number of girls.

Vocal Solo—Mr. Gamble.

Boy Scouts, Camping Scene—W. Miller, Scoutmaster; Alex. Fortye and K. McClelland, sergeants; N. Patterson, A. Sharpe and M. Patterson, buglers; Jack Gibson, J. McClelland, J. Gillespie, V. Thorndyke, W. Evans, O. Moore, J. Batten and G. Henry, privates.

The first scene opened with the scouts at their evening duties. The buglers played a couple of calls and the boys prepared to retire. In the second scene W. Miller played "Napoleon's Last Call," and the scouts gathered around the camp and sang "The Maple Leaf" and "Rule Britannia," after which Mr. Miller sang "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," in a very acceptable manner.

The very pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

HERE'S A SECRET FOR EVERY WOMAN

Madame Joseph Lavallee Tells of Her Health and Happiness

Was troubled with aches and pains and anxiety till she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills — Now well and healthy.

Notre Dame de Buckland, Bellechasse Co., Que., Feb. 10 (Special) — "I am sixty-six years of age and I owe my good health to Dodd's Kidney Pills." That's the answer Madame Joseph Lavallee, the kindly, cheery old matron, makes to all who enquire how and why she is so energetic and active at her advanced age.

"Before using Dodd's Kidney Pills" Madame Lavallee continues, "my head and back ached. I was always troubled with my heart, too, and that made me anxious. Then I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I sent for six boxes, which did the work. I am well and healthy as you see."

Madame Lavallee simply discovered the secret of health for women. For every woman's health depends on the Kidneys, and there is only one sure cure for diseased kidneys—Dodd's Kidney Pills. Thousands of Canadian women are healthy and happy because they have used them. Thousands of other women are weak and suffering simply because they have neglected to do what Madame Lavallee has done.

WEDDING BELLS

WALKER—McCUTCHEON

The Vancouver Saturday Sunset has the following items in a recent issue. Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Trotter were former residents of Peterboro and are now living in Vancouver. "On Thursday evening, Miss Eliza J. McCutcheon, sixth daughter of the late Mr. Hugh McCutcheon, was quietly married to Mr. W. J. Mackenzie Walker, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles L. Trotter, 1125 Eigth Avenue west. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. A. McConnell, of St. Columbia Church, Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Walker have gone to California, where they will remain for the rest of the winter, after which they will make their home in this city."

ABOUT THE BOOKS AT THE LIBRARY

Reasons Why They Have Not Been Given Out

There have been many enquiries during the past week relative to the time when the books will be lent to the public. The delay so far has been occasioned by the non arrival of the borrower's cards and certain other material connected with the system of distribution. The cards have now arrived but not the rest of the subsidiary matter, so that the public will unfortunately have to wait for a short time longer. It is hoped, however, that by the end of the coming week those who are anxious to avail themselves of the full advantages offered by the library will be enabled to do so.

The library committee intends very shortly to spend a considerable amount of money on books, more particularly on the reference, technical and juvenile departments, which it is their intention to place in a thoroughly efficient and up-to-date condition. Attention will also be given to purchasing the best of the latest fiction. Former patrons of the library have been responding very willingly lately to the request of the librarian in regard to returning missing books. There are some very valuable works still out however and it is hoped that these will be returned without further delay.

WHY LITTLE EVA NEVER MARRIED

Only Headliner of Her Age Who Never Dallied With Orange Blossoms

New York, Feb. 9—Eva Tanguay was asked to day why she had never married. She said: "I'm single because being single enables me to put one over on my host of imitators. You can't really imitate a single actress when you've made a trip to the License Bureau, you know, and I'm the only headliner of my age that has never dallied with the orange blossoms. Do you get it?"

"But don't you believe in marriage Miss Tanguay?"

"Yes for my friends, but not for myself. No I am not wedded to my art, but I am awfully attached to it."

"But you are not a man hater?"

"Goodness no; I believe that if all the men in the world were put on one side of the ocean, and I was on the other side, I'd swim it in fifteen minutes."

"But now I suppose I will have to tell you why I don't marry. Well I'll tell you. I enjoy the men's friendship too much to play such a mean trick on them—and besides the right man has never asked me. Another reason I do not marry is that I do not believe in divorce."

"What do you do with your big salary?" was asked.

"Save it," came the prompt reply. "The public may tire of me some day, and then little Eva will be glad she was not a spendthrift.

"I don't believe in being a tight wad, though. Gracious no! I believe in the generous distribution of money, and that's why, when I sing my 'Money song', I throw handfuls of pennies out into the audience. But the return comes back to me a hundredfold, for every penny is worth a smile, and I get lots of them."

Ford Motor Cars For 1911

The automobile buying public is waking up to the fact that if they want Ford Motor Cars they must get in their orders early.

The Company report that the day after Christmas they received at one mail, orders for 706 cars, all model "T." While the touring car, selling at $975.00 fully equipped, was the most popular car, having the largest number of orders out of 706, the other models of cars were by no means slighted and the rumble seat Roadster, new Runabouts and Coupe came in for a large number.

Think of it!—$688,350 worth of business in one day.

So fast have the orders been coming in since the first of the year, that the Company have increased their output for 1911 from 25,000 cars to 37,500.

A satisfied Ford owner breaks into verse and gives expression to his views:—

A SATISFIED OWNER

The Ford car is the best car yet,
I'll tell you again so you won't forget.
It glides along with a contented purr
Open the throttle to use the spurs
She is off and away, like a thoroughbred—
Read the number behind, she's always ahead.
I have driven mine for two years past
Run well the first trip, but better the last.
All I have done is give her gas and oil,
Never in the road have I had to toil.
A turn of the handle—the trick is done,
Away on the pleasure of a country run.
She is always ready and willing to use,
Is my Ford, the best car, the Model T.
The calamity howlers put up a great spiel.
The country's going to hell in an automobile.
The bankers said, "Why do you want this loan?
You are acting unwise, you will lose your home."
This kind of talk would do a few years back,
When to purchase an auto took all of your stack.
To prove to you this people have lied
A few fact here I have supplied.
I've run two years on the same set of tires,
Had no engine trouble, not changed a wire.
Get 25 miles on a gallon of gas,
The juice costs nothing so let that pass.
Things have changed especially the price,
To own an auto, don't cut much ice,
I give you my oath, and take it from me,
You can't do better! Purchase a Ford, Model "T."

Dress Making and Ladies' Custom Tailoring

We take pleasure in announcing that in response to repeated requests we have arranged to resume our Dressmaking and Ladies' Custom Tailoring department.

For this purpose we have been particularly fortunate in securing the services of an exceptionally competent head for this department in Miss H. Krueger who has had a long experience in the best class of Ladies Tailoring and on Street, House and Evening Gowns. Miss Krueger brings with her some of her own expert assistants and has also engaged well skilled local operatives, so that all orders will be filled with superior care as to workmanship and fitting.

Our Dressmaking rooms will be opened March 1st. In the meantime orders will booked and executed in rotation in which received.

Ladies are cordially invited to call and avail themselves of Miss Krueger's thorough acquaintance with the new Spring Styles in Material and Models.

Our New Spring Stock of Suitings, Dress Goods, Dress Trimmings and Silks will be fully up to the standard and in which the Golden Lion has always enjoyed a well deserved reputation for excellence.

WAR IS IMPOSSIBLE UNDER THE PRESENT ARRANGEMENT

Existing Treaty Safeguards Canada—International Commission Settles All Disputes—Eloquent Address by Sir G. C. Gibbons at Canadian Club.

Those who heard Sir George Gibbons' address to the Canadian Club last evening at the Hotel National, unanimously conceded it to be one of the finest pieces of oratorical elegance delivered here for some time, and more than that, a lecture filled with information concerning a subject which the majority of Canadian citizens are lamentably unfamiliar with, namely, the agreement between Canada and the United States, for the settlement of all boundary disputes, both of land and water or in other words, our international relationship.

In prefacing his address Sir George stated that he felt it to be a distinct honor to speak to the Canadian Club of Peterborough. He had been the president of the Canadian Club of London at the time of its formation, and his sympathy would always lean towards the spirit of toleration, of which the club was emblematic. It was in the club that one learns to value other people's opinions besides his own and he felt he would be lacking in courage if he did not speak his sincere convictions. Certainly he would not say anything offensive or partizan, but would try and be of some service to the club.

A BROAD QUESTION.

In introducing his subject "International Relationship" the speaker remarked that the question was one of great breadth.

"Strictly speaking," he said, "Canada is not a nation yet to all intents and purposes she is."

While possessing all the attributes of an independent people, time did not permit him to trace her evolution. Canada has had a responsible government now for many years. She has made her own tariffs and controlled her own militia, and evolved almost unconsciously into an independant country. She has negotiated with the mother country and Japan, and was even now delineating on the maps the boundary between the Great Lakes.

All this Canada has been doing on her own initiative and yet during it all she has not drawn away from the mother country, but wound herself more closely.

CANADA DECIDES FOR HERSELF.

"Canada has grown now that she has to deal with international relationship," the speaker said. "There is the United States to the south of us, and also in Alaska, but there has been no war. If war were to come to Canada it would seem more imminent, because of the nearness of the people to the south of us. But, fortunately, this can never happen. No, the treaty now existing between the two countries precludes all possibility of it."

It was in the interests of the mother country that Canada should deal with Canadian affairs, and one fundamental thing that was necessary for the carrying on of negotiations was self-respect. Without this it was impossible. In any dealings in connection with Canada's affairs they should be done directly. England respected her more for it, and was quite willing to be relieved of the responsibility.

At this point of his address the speaker dwelt at some length on the controversy which was carried on in connection with securing power from the head of Lake Superior and which was finally settled by the International Waterways Commission. The question came before the commission of which Sir George was a member, and it was unanimously decided that there would be no more diversion of the waters allowed. When the extreme value of the waters was evident everybody was in a hurry to seize it, and all kinds of applications were sent in but the United States government, relying on the fairness of the commission left it for them to decide before allowing any of it to be used. The interests of navigation were paramount, and it was the main duty of these waters to carry freightage to the sea. If they were divided it must be equally.

COMMISSION NEVER DIFFERS

The speaker pointed out that the commission has never yet differed in its opinion and it has always decided against the injury of private interests in Canada.

"The great thing about the commission," he said, "is that it is a permanent judicial board, and in its dealings everything is fair and above board. It has dealt fairly with this country in every deal."

DECISIONS ARE IMPARTED

One of the most praiseworthy features in connection with the commission was that in all its decisions it was fair and impartial, treating both countries alike. The waterways were evenly divided and vessels of either country had satisfactory rights. One of the provisions in the treaty arranged at Washington was that the channels in the St. Lawrence river and in the several passages and channels in the St. Clair should be openly free to the vessels of both countries. Boundary waters were declared to be boundary waters from main shore to main shore, and under the treaty vessels had a right to navigate everywhere. No longer was it necessary for a Canadian or an American vessel to stop at the Straits of Mackinaw. Either flag flying was sufficient to allow her to pass.

Neither can there be any injudicious obstruction or divergence of the waters, either temporary or permanent made, except by the United States and Canadian governments, and these with the approval of the International Joint Commission. The joint commission makes the law independent of political or newspaper influence.

In regard to the division of power at Niagara Falls the speaker referred to it briefly.

"The Americans are desirous of saving the scenic effects of Niagara and they say that if it becomes necessary to use Niagara Falls for power purposes the scenic effects will have to be sacrificed. However, a vast amount of power can be secured at Niagara, without injuring or affecting its beauty in the least."

DISPUTES REFERRED

So reliable and efficient is the International Commission that for the first time in the history of the world it is possible, when any dispute arises, for either nation to say "We don't know anything about it, send it to the International Commission, and they will report and say what we ought to do."

War is thus made impossible. This arrangement however, should not be mistaken as a settlement brought about by arbitration.

IS PURELY JUDICIAL.

"The coming arbitration" continued the speaker, "will be purely judicial, not partizan or diplomatic. Everything will be settled in a conscientious way and every game will have to be played fairly. Parties to a dispute are bound to get the advice of the board and their decision. To state the condition plainly the treaty makes it impossible for trouble to exist between this country and the one to the south of us.

SHOULD CULTIVATE FRIENDSHIP

"What necessity is there for England to retain supremacy. She can build ten Dreadnoughts to Germany's one, but if there is a menace from Germany then it is all the more important that we should endeavor to be good friends with the nation to the south of us. That man is no Imperialist who talks war between these two adjoining countries. We do not ask for anything but our rights, but we should cultivate friendship with our southern friends with whom we must associate. It is a well known fact that the great administrative leaders at Washington are all disposed to be friendly to Canada and Great Britain, and the President of that Republic is kindly disposed toward us also."

A JOINT COURT OF JUSTICE.

"A movement is even now going on at Washington under capable direction for the formation of an International Court of Justice—a court in which every nation represented pledges itself to enforce its decisions even if their armies and navies are necessary to do so. Everybody admires soldiers but there is a day coming when peace shall reign on earth, when every man will be his brother's keeper, and the beat of the war drum shall be eternally silent. Surely there are braver things for men to do than to kill their fellow-men.

INDUSTRIAL WORLD FRIENDLY

"The industrial world of Germany has no quarrel with industrial England. They are not seeking to destroy each other. Let us respect the militia and soldiers, but surely there is a way whereby we may prevent the horrors of war and the enforcing of rights by brute force and blood.

HUMANITY FORGING AHEAD.

"What glory is there," the speaker asked in concluding, "in human life when the bigger man strikes the weak? In the matter of the agreement between Canada and the United States, the glory of the latter has played the game fairly. The world is closing together more; the millionaire getting nearer to the workingman. Humanity is coming to the front. Our treaty is an example in a small way of the fact that no possible difficulty can arise under its provisions between Canada and the United States."

VOTE OF THANKS.

At the conclusion of the distinguished speaker's address Judge Huycke, in a short, eulogistic manner, moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer, thanking him on behalf of the club for his enjoyable and instructive address. He remarked the lecturer was widely known and the order of knighthood, which had been conferred upon him was a token of the prominent and estimable sphere he occupied in public affairs.

E. A. Peck seconded the vote of thanks in a [illegible] congratulatory address.

The speaker for the next meeting has not yet been decided on.

A. S. K. Class of Knox Church Went to Lakefield

The A. S. K. class of Knox Church held its annual sleigh drive last night. The members and their friends, nearly forty in all, left the city about 7 o'clock and proceeded to Lakefield, where an enjoyable hour was spent on the rink. After skating hours, the girls and boys played a game of hockey. Those who played for the girls team were Misses G. Edmison, E. Lapunesse, M. Evans, F. Bartley, M. Penrose and Messrs. W. Sheppard and R. S. Thompson. For the A. S. K. class Messrs. M. Williamson, W. Rusk, W. Buyers, A. Robertson and F. Beard played.

The score was 3-2 for the girls team and H. Browett proved a satisfactory referee.

After the game the party went to the Lakefield House where a dinner had been prepared.

They returned home at an early hour this morning, all having had a very enjoyable time.

WHY THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ourselves. There are Optometrists and Opticians who do a smaller, but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our work? We are ever adding to our facilities and studying the latest methods. This is why we succeed.

TAFT ON THE TARIFF BILL

Says it Will Give U.S. Control of Wheat Market.

Will Help Get American Manufactures Into Canada.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 13.—President Taft defended the proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada in an address before the Illinois Legislature here Saturday as the "logical conclusion" of the protection plank in the last Republican national platform.

He defined the protection theory as one that should impose a tariff not exceeding the difference in the cost of production in the United States and abroad, and allowing a fair margin of profit for the home producer. He argued, therefore, that inasmuch as the conditions of production from the United States and Canada, "were substantially the same, the widest latitude was given Secretary Knox and the commissioners who represented the United States in offering to Canada a reduction of duties on goods, and products coming into this country from Canada, in consideration of the establishment of the same duty, or freedom from duty, on similar goods going into Canada."

The President explained that it was thought wiser on behalf of both Governments not to make a formal treaty, "but to make an agreement between the executives by which each, exercising his constitutional power in his Government, should submit the agreement in the form of a statute to be enacted and to go into force on condition that a similar statute was passed by the Legislature of the other country."

"It will give the United States much greater control of the wheat market than it has ever had before. It will enable its milling plants to turn Canadian wheat into flour and send abroad the finished product, and it will stimulate the sale of manufactures and other things that we have have to sell to Canada."

The President further asserted that in removing the artificial barriers between the northwestern part of the United States and the Canadian provinces, the agreement would result in the bringing over of live cattle to feed on the corn of the American farmer. He added that the rapid increase of population in the United States required "a source of food supply like Canada, right at our doors."

"We shall be blind indeed," said the President, "if we reject this golden opportunity to add to the strength and virility of our country by thus increasing our self-supporting capacity."

The President asserted that "no step could be taken more in the interest of a reasonable policy of protection than the approval of the treaty" and that insistance on too much protection would rouse an opposition in this country "that will know no moderation." He said that was his reason also for favoring the creation of "an expert tariff commission or board."

He suggested that the tariff board might re-examine and modify other schedules if necessary, "but that a reciprocity agreement with Canada is not a revision of the tariff, and in the nature of things cannot present the balance and the adjustment of all duties against foreign countries which a consideration of the tariff as a whole would involve."

"We have taken up those things that are involved in a Canadian reciprocity treaty because opportunity offered," declared President Taft, in conclusion. "Now is the accepted time. She is at the parting of the ways. Shall she be an isolated country, as much separated from us as if she were across the ocean, or shall her people and our people profit by the proximity that our geography furnishes and stimulate the trade across the border that nothing but a useless, illogical and unnecessary tariff wall creates?"

No Abatement of Epidemic.

TWO DEAD FROM FIRE IN A MONTREAL BOARDING HOUSE

Smoke Suffocated the Inmates, and Three Failed to Get Out.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—An overheated stovepipe caused a fire yesterday morning in the boarding-house kept by Joseph Phillips, aged 70, on Prince street, and Phillips, with one of his boarders, Michael McMahon, aged 47, lost their lives. John Quinlan, who had retired to rest fully dressed, was almost suffocated when he awoke to find the house in flames. The heat was so intense and the smoke so thick that Quinlan made a hurried escape through one of the windows on the stairway, and raised an alarm. Quinlan's face and hands were badly burned. When the brigade arrived the fire was quickly extinguished. Groping their way through the house, the firemen discovered the dead bodies of Phillips and McMahon, and also the body of Mrs. Phillips, aged 70, who was lying unconscious on the dining-room floor. She was taken to the General Hospital, where last night her condition was considered serious.

ROUTE OF THE C.N.R. LINE IN ONTARIO TAPS NEW DISTRICT

Will Run Close to the Georgian Bay Canal—A Fine Route.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—The survey of the main line of the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, extending from Ottawa to Port Arthur, has been completed, and the exact location of the road, as decided upon by the company, was given the press on Saturday night. It is believed that the work of construction will be commenced this year, and that the road will be open for traffic at the end of three years.

The Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, which name is given to that portion of the C.N.R. transcontinental line running through the Province of Ontario, commences at Rideau Junction on the Toronto-Ottawa branch, now under construction, and crossing the Ottawa River at Fitzroy Harbor, will continue along the Ottawa Valley on the Quebec side, and runs through Pembroke and Petawawa to North Bay. Continuing, it will pass up the Vermillion Valley and great clay belt of the Algoma district to Lake Nipigon, and thence to Port Arthur, where it connects with the C.N.R. proper.

Taking the Ottawa Valley as its route, it will run in close proximity to the proposed Georgian Bay Canal at many points. At first it was believed these two highways would work in opposition to each other, but upon further consideration of the industries and utilities served by each, the C.N.R. decided that far from interfering with one another, they will be complementary, and both necessary to the full development of the district through which they pass.

The Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, although exploiting a new country, will make five crossings of other roads, and in every case overhead.

The new line will leave Rideau Junction some six miles southwest from the point of entry into Ottawa, and will run directly west through the Village of Bells Corners, through the rich and comparatively undeveloped country in March and Torbolton Townships, unserved by any existing road, and cross the Ottawa at Fitzroy Harbor to the Quebec side of the river. By taking this route the company hope to encourage manufacturing establishments at the magnificent water-power at Chats Falls, such as have

ARCHBISHOP RYAN DIES

After Making Plucky Struggle to Live.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—The gallant struggle of Archbishop P. J. Ryan for life has failed. The venerable prelate of the Roman Catholic diocese of Philadelphia passed away at the archiepiscopal residence at 4.08 o'clock Saturday afternoon, after an illness that became serious nearly two weeks ago.

Weeping relatives and priests surrounded the bed when the famous church leader breathed his last. They had been hastily summoned when the patient's heart began to fail at 11 o'clock. The physicians knew that death was near and the last rites for the dying were administered.

In the words of one of the attending physicians, the aged prelate's heart had "practically worn out."

An indefatigable worker, he never had spared himself, and the illness that prostrated him shortly after Christmas was the result of over-exertion. From the first his attendants recognized that the gravest danger lay in the probability of heart failure, and stimulants to keep that organ strong were almost constantly administered.

Had Archbishop Ryan lived until the 20th of this month he would have been 80 years old.

The funeral will be held on Thursday and it is expected to be attended by practically all the prominent clergy in the American hierarchy who can reach Philadelphia in time. The body will lie in state at the cathedral and will be entombed back of the altar of the great church, beside those of Bishop Egan, Bishop Conwell and Archbishop Wood, who were his predecessors in the diocese. This was his wish.

Until Archbishop Ryan's successor is appointed Rev. Prendergast, D.D., V.G., titular bishop of Scillio and auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia becomes administrator of the archdiocese.

Patrick John Ryan was born in Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland, Feb. 20, 1834. His family was distinguished in Irish history, being descended from the O'Ryans, prince of Irdone. He came to America at the age of 21, and became a professor at Canondelet Seminary.

When the failing health of Archbishop Kenrick demanded a coadjutor's assistance, Ryan was appointed to that position in 1872.

In January, 1884, he was appointed archbishop of Salumis, and on Aug. 18 of the same year archbishop of Philadelphia. He was formally installed Aug. 20, 1884.

McCALL BILL IS REPORTED

Majority in Committee Was Five—The Wood and Pulp Clause.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The Canadian reciprocity agreement was reported favorably, 12 to 7, to the House on Saturday by the committee on ways and means.

The committee adopted an amendment proposed by Mr. Mann of Illinois providing that wood produced in Canada may be brought into the United States free, and that products of wood, as specified in the bill, up to valuation of 4 cents a pound, may be brought in free.

The committee in its final vote to report the bill stood: For—Payne (New York), McCall (Mass.), Hill (Conn.), Boutell (Ills.), Needham (Cal.), Longworth (Ohio) Republicans; Clark (Mo.), Underwood (Ala.), Pou (N.C.), Randell (Texas), Harrison (N.Y.), and Brantley (Ga.) Democrats—12.

Against—Dalzell (Penna.), Calderhead (Kans.), Fordney (Mich.), Gaines (W. Va.), Dwight (N.Y.), Ellis (Oregon); Republicans, and Broussard (La.) Democrats.—7.

Acting Chairman McCall was authorized to make the report immediately and bring it up in the most feasible and expeditious way. It is probable that a rule will be reported from the rules committee limiting debate and preventing the adoption of amendments, although as a measure of the highest privilege a rule is unnecessary. The present expectation is that the bill will be considered by the House early next week. All reference to wood pulp and paper was first taken out of the McCall bill and combined in the following:

"Pulp of wood mechanically ground, pulp of wood chemically bleached or unbleached, news print paper and other paper and paper board manufactured from mechanical wood pulp or from chemical wood pulp or of which such pulp is the component material of chief value, colored in the pulp or not colored, and valued at no more than four cents per pound, not including printed or decorated wall paper, being the products of Canada, when imported therefrom directly into the United States, shall be admitted free of duty on the condition precedent that no export duty, export license fee or other export charge of any kind whatsoever (whether in the form of additional charge or license fee or otherwise) or any prohibition or restriction in any way of the exportation (whether by law order, regulation, contractual relation, or otherwise directly or indirectly) shall have been imposed upon such paper, board, or wood pulp, or the wood pulp used in the manufacture of such paper or board."

The committee's action upholds in its entirety the agreement negotiated with Canada, but changes the phraseology of the McCall bill, which was drafted as an administration measure to put that agreement into legislative shape.

Let us hear from you. Subscriber's poem is;

RECIPROCITY.

We ought to know, if we should go reciprocity trade,
High is the cost, and freedom's lost if reciprocity's made.

We know Yanks well, for we can tell what they have done before,
Beware of them, they're crafty men on the lookout for more.

We yet can brag, we have a flag, emblem of country grand
We now are free and want to be;
in this we firmly stand,

Our flag shall wave, we will it save,
high in the air shall be;
We'll guard it well; to all will tell,
Canadians must be free.

TO TAKE VOYAGE IN A BALLOON

Sporting Editor of Montreal Paper Going up in the Air.

Special to the Review.

Ogdensburg, Feb. 13.—Emile Barthere, the sporting editor of the Montreal LaPresse, expects to start today as soon as the wind conditions are favorable, on a balloon trip from this place to Montreal. He will be accompanied by his wife.

The weather is around zero, but he is of the opinion that this will not delay the voyage in the air.

PRICE OF FLOUR GREATLY REDUCED

Pittsburg Wholesale Men Announce Drop of Twenty-Five Cents.

Special to the Review.

Pittsburg, Feb. 13.—Wholesale flour dealers have announced a reduction of twenty-five cents in all grades of flour, in the belief that the reciprocity bill will pass Congress. The whole sale men expect that a great amount of wheat will be dumped on the Northwest markets, with reciprocal trade.

PREPARE FOR CORONATION

English Court Busy Getting Ready for Pagent.

This One Will Surpass all Others—Million Visitors.

London, Feb. 13.—Since the beginning of the winter the chief functionaries of the British court have been busily absorbed with preparations for the coronation of George V., which will surpass in pagentry and in historical interest all former ceremonials of the character. While the ceremony of crowning the King and Queen in Westminster Abbey on June 22 will be almost identical in form with that of which has been followed in the investiture of British sovereigns since William IV. and Queen Adelaide, the auxiliary functions are expected to exceed in pagentry and magnificence anything that the nation has witnessed in the past.

These will include the progress of the court through London on the day after the coronation, and a visit to the Guildhall with a reception of the King and Queen by the city authorities, a great naval review, a gala performance at the opera with minor celebrations and pageants, among which will be a "festival of Empire" at the Crystal Palace.

Business men and transportation companies count on an influx of something approaching 2,000,000 visitors to London during the coronation season. A considerable proportion of these will be foreigners, Americans and colonials probably predominating. Hotels are receiving many orders for accommodations, but expect to be able to cope with the invasion. The best places are being reserved for the regular patrons, and managers say that prices for the coronation week will not be more than double the regular rates for the best hotels. Boarding housekeepers are likely to be less reasonable in charges to visitors who have not made arrangements for accommodations in advance.

There is every indication that the erection of the stands for witnessing the procession to the abbey, and the progress through London will be on a scale more extensive than for the coronation of King Edward in 1902. Owners and tenants are asking the highest prices ever quoted for building sites and windows. Rates to the ordinary applicants for seats, which usually are held at the highest possible mark until a few days before the event, are apt to go down witharush on the eve of the coronation when speculators find they have frightened away the public.

A lively insurance business has begun at Lloyds against the death of the King or any event necessitating postponement of the coronation and against bad weather.

Dr. Davidson, the present Archbishop of Canterbury, will officiate in the abbey, in succession to the aged Archbishop Temple, who crowned King Edward.

THREE WOUNDED IN A BRAWL

One Italian May Die From Bullet Wounds.

Special to the Review.

Buffalo, Feb. 13.—As the result of a drunken brawl at an early hour this morning, Loretto Lobu is dead and his brother Vincenzo Lobu, is severaly wounded. Larmarto Cucco, will probably die from bullet wounds. All three are Italians.

MANY ARRESTS IN STUDENTS' RIOT

University Rules Were Objected to by the Rioters.

Special to the Review.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 13.—Fifteen hundred students, were arrested here to-day for indulging in a riot. The students objected to certain university rules, and broke out in rebellion.

Engraved Visiting Cards

Why not use your plate and have some cards engraved. Bring us the plate and the order and we will have them done for you just as well as sending them out of town yourself. The Review.

The Great Northern Railway depot in Winnipeg will be within a few blocks of the C.P.R. station, and trains will be running into the city within a year.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

The Frontenacs are going to "come back." They aren't in the Jeffries class.

When the tariff question induces a man to write a battle hymn, its time for the politicians to sit up and take notice.

Earl Grey, a month or two ago, referred to childish bad manners in Ontario. He might now look for some closer home—around the parliament buildings, to wit.

Nothing more is heard of the knighting of the mayors of the Canadian cities at the coronation—but Sir George Morrow would sound real attractive.

King George will use finger bowls now. The water will, we opine, feel rather tipsy after the royal touch.

PEAT AS FUEL

Dr. Eugene Haanel is busy telling Canadians of the great value of peat as a fuel. He describes successful experiments in Germany with a product known as peat powder. It is a magnificent fuel for steam raising, and is the equivalent of the best English bituminous coal.

Dr. Haanel says that peat powder blown under a boiler, burns with a long, hot, smokeless flame, leaving no unburnt residue. The fuel is specially adapted to cement, glass and clay industries, where intense local heat is desirable. Dr. Haanel figures that if the peat were used in Ontario in a gas producer plant it would cut down the coal bills to less than one-third of the present cost. The government has installed a producer of 100 h.p. for lignite and soft coal, to be operated by peat, and if the experiment is successful, the department will recommend installation of such producers at peat-bogs for the production of power.

GREAT COMMOTION

In the House of Commons Public Accounts Committee a few days ago, one honorable member had the pleasure of calling another honorable member a "liar." Other honorable members intervened and called on the honorable chairman to order a retraction. The honorable member makes retraction, but, true to the traditions of the House, he adds—as others have done before him—"but I believe it all the same." Perhaps he says he retracts it, but he does it with a "mental reservation" (apparently having some hidden thought concerning the other honorable member which he values too highly to give to the rude ears of the other honorable members).

The incident causes a slight dislocation of the serenity of the members of the committee, especially as the honorable chairman, whose hearing varies in acuteness considerably, did not catch or comprehend the awful expression. But, having heard the retraction by the honorable member who hurled such a deadly dart of venomous hatred—even with his mental reservations—the chairman accepts it for the other honorable member, and business goes on until the next!

A LEADING EDITORIAL

The leading editorial in The New York American says that now is the end of the British Empire in America. Here is a remarkable utterance;

On the opening day of the British Parliament the Conservative leaders of both Lords and Commons forgot for the moment their critical and distressing domestic difficulties and uttered a loud cry of protest against trade reciprocity between Canada and the United States.

Lord Lansdowne exclaimed in the House of Lords: "The whole history of the British Empire will be changed if the great Dominion is encouraged, by agreement with the United States, to develop itself not on imperial lines but in accordance with geographical conditions."

In this outcry of an alarmed British Toryism we have the strongest of arguments—strong because of its testimony against the interests of the speaker—for the unhesitating ratification by Congress of the momentous trade compact with Canada.

Lord Lansdowne speaks for a powerful political party that is moving heaven and earth to draw the commerce of Canada exclusively to the mother country. On the other hand, he would erect high tariff walls in Great Britain to keep out the vast tides of our exportation to the United Kingdom—which now amount to more than $10 a year for every British man woman and child.

Let Congress pass the Canadian reciprocity bill and all the plans of the English reactionaries for killing American trade will crumble to the ground.

Those plans are against nature and history, and deserve to crumble.

The British scheme of a close-knit trade federation with Canada that shall shut out the United States is a political device of English imperialism.

While, on the contrary, the free exchange of commodities between Canada and this country is—in Lord Lansdowne's own words—"in accordance with geographical conditions."

In ratifying this trade agreement we should understand, therefore, that we are settling a world problem, and settling it right.

British imperialism will wane in consequence. But American trade routes will run along the lines that were ordained by nature. And the prosperity of the western continent will receive an immense impetus through a definite, a final disentanglement from the intrigues of European politics.

British imperialists dream wildly of creating, by artificial devices, an oversea commerce with Canada, through its ice-locked ports, that shall be greater and more important than the easy and inevitable flow of exchanges through the open plains and valleys of the American continent.

The truth is that, in spite of the high tariff wall along our northern boundary, we sent to Canada last year more than twice as much in merchandise as Great Britain did.

In the year that ended last March we sent goods to Canada to the value of $223,502,000, and imported from that country $95,128,310.

We now supply nearly 60 per cent. of the whole bulk of Canada's IMPORTS, while the United Kingdom supplies only about 25 per cent.

However, in the matter of Canadian EXPORTS we have been losing ground as compared with Great Britain.

Canada now sends half its exports to the British islands—while to us she sends only a third. We made a better showing twenty years ago.

THUS WE ARE POURING RIVERS OF MONEY INTO THE CANADIAN TARIFF COFFERS. BUT CANADIAN EXPORTERS STOP AND STAGGER AT OUR CUSTOM HOUSES AND PREFER TO TRADE WITH THEIR BRITISH COUSINS ACROSS THE SEA.

The Canadian custom houses are faring much better than ours—under the shadow of the existing high tariff wall.

When all is said, the natural exchange between the United States and Canada is of immense scope, in spite of all artificial barriers.

It will be something prodigious—like the sweep of tides—when the new reciprocity agreement shall breach the tariff walls and give disappointed nature half a chance to have her way.

EDITORIAL NOTES

At least one Liberal M.P. will oppose the tariff agreement. He is W. M. German, M.P. for Welland. He says that it is an injury to Canada.

Sixty-one oil companies incorporated at Edmonton in 24 hours. They should get Hon. Bill Pugsley on the directorates.

There being no reciprocity on confectionery, Hon. Willie Paterson finds himself able to champion the trade agreement.

What the imperial statesmen have to say about Canada is oftentimes highly amusing to us Canucks—as amusing as the learned comments in Canadian newspapers on British politics must be to them!

The Quebec Legislature is considering a cocaine bill, by which the drug may be sold by druggists on a physician's prescription being needed each time. Doctors may dispense it in their practice, of course. This is a right move. Quebec may be French, but it isn't behind us in some things.

If all indications are to be believed, Henri Bourassa will shortly re-enter federal politics. He has not made much capital out of the Gouin administration, and Henri thinks he would do better at Ottawa. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will please accept this intimation. No flowers necessary.

Compact to Die Together.

Oxford, Me., Feb. 13.—In fulfilment of a compact alleged to have been made with her husband during his lingering illness, which death ended Saturday, Mrs. Linwood S. Keene, took her own life yesterday, after fatally shooting her 14-year-old son Gerald. The compact, dated about a month back, was found by the coroner in a sealed envelope in the woman's room.

Keene was formerly a prosperous farmer, but, according to the compact, the family had become impoverished and discouraged during his long sickness.

Husband and wife wished to be buried in a double casket, and asked that their son's coffin and theirs be placed in the same box for final interment. So it has been arranged, and the triple funeral will be held here on Wednesday.

Albany Also Approves.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 13.—The Canadian reciprocity agreement was approved in resolutions adopted by the directors of the Republican League of Clubs of the State of New York at their annual meeting here on Saturday.

Blenheim, Feb. 13.—J. R. Muckle, aged 24, was struck by a Pere Marquette train at Blenheim Junction on Saturday night and seriously injured. He was walking on the track.

No New C.P.R. Stock.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—Although rumors have been floating about St. Francois Xavier street to the effect that a new issue of C.P.R. stock is at hand, it is believed that there will be no new issue in the near future. The rise in the stock is partly due to short interests in London, and also to the splendid outlook generally. In fact, there is no need of an issue just now, as the company has already sixty millions in the bank, or quite enough to provide for any new expenditure that may be contemplated this year.

A Terrible Trip.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 13.—Eighteen days out from Harbor Breton, Nfld., during which time she drifted hundreds of miles off her course, from biting winds of the bleak Newfoundland coast, to the warm breezes of the gulf stream, the schooner Cardinio arrived in port yesterday, after one of the longest trips on record, for a sailing vessel, between Halifax and Newfoundland. Capt. Carroll says it was the worst trip in his 25 years' experience on the North Atlantic. It was a series of gales from the time the schooner left the Newfoundland port, and she was driven nearly 200 miles off her course to the south. For five days she lay to, riding out the gale 30 miles south of Sable Island. The sun was not visible during the entire voyage and Capt. Carroll had to run on dead reckoning.

Forty-seven barrels of herrings were swept from the deck into the sea.

Within 24 hours, 61 oil companies were incorporated at Edmonton. It is-

Restores Prince to Favor.

Berlin, Feb. 13.—Prince Alfonso of Bourbon-Orleans, who incurred the displeasure of King Alfonso of Spain, his cousin, by marrying Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg in July, 1909, has recently been fully restored to royal favor at Madrid.

The princess remains a Protestant, but Prince Alfonso is now again in full enjoyment of all his titles and privileges at the Spanish court. His official residence, however, is still Coburg. The prince is 25 years of age and his wife is 27. Their marriage took place secretly, with the consent of the bride's mother. The prince and princess have since spent much time in England. Princess Beatrice is first cousin to King George.

No Advance in Tourist Rates.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—The Grand Trunk Railway has given definite notice to the other eastern roads of its intention to stand pat on the reduced summer tourist rates, which have been in force during the last two years. In the opinion of many eastern passenger officials, the action effectually puts a stop to the plans of some of the roads to advance the rates this year.

Fined for Importing Aliens.

St. Catharines, Feb. 13.—For assisting an alien to enter Canada, Paul Mungarten, a Toronto merchant, was fined $50 by Magistrate Rathbun at Bridgeburg. Mungarten brought Samuel Goldman of Buffalo across the river, it is understood, in order to have him work at tailoring in Toronto. Goldman was let off with a $5 fine.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

I had seen with my own eyes Larsan and Brignolles talking and consulting together at the entrance of the Castillon tunnel. I had seen them. But where were they gone now? For I saw them no longer. They must be in the tunnel. I hastened my steps, leaving my coachman behind me, and reached the tunnel in a few moments, drawing my revolver from my pocket. My state of mind was beyond description.

But where were they? I walked through the dark tunnel. No Larsan, no Brignolles! Not a living creature! But upon my left, toward ancient Castillon, it seemed to me that I could perceive two forms that hastened. They disappeared. I ran after them. I arrived at the ruins. I stopped. Who could say that those two figures were not lying in wait for me behind a wall?

The old Castillon was no longer inhabited, and for a good reason. It had been entirely ruined—destroyed by the earthquake of 1887. What a silence there was all around me! With a thousand precautions I searched through the ruins, contemplating with horror the depth of the crevices which the earthquake had opened in the rocks.

Had I been the victim of an illusion? I could no longer see my two shadows. Was I also the plaything of my imagination when I stooped and picked up from the road a bit of letter paper which looked to me singularly like that which Darzac used at La Sorbonne?

Upon this bit of paper I deciphered two syllables which I believed Brignolles had written. These syllables seemed to be the end of a word the beginning of which was missing. All that it was possible to make out was "bonnet."

Two hours later I re-entered the Fort of Hercules and told my story to Rouletabille, who placed the bit of paper in his portfolio and entreated me to be as silent as the grave in regard to my expedition.

Astonished at having produced so different an effect from the one which I had anticipated at the discovery which I believed so important, I stared at Rouletabille. He turned his head away. His eyes were filled with tears.

"Rouletabille!" I exclaimed.

But again he motioned me not to speak.

They had waited dinner for me. It was late. We scarcely attempted to hide the deep anxiety which froze our hearts. One would have said that each one of us was resigned to the blow which was threatening. At 10 o'clock I went to take up my station at the tower of the gardener. While I was in the little room where we had consulted together the night before the Lady in Black and Rouletabille passed beneath the arch. The glimmer of the lantern fell on their faces. Mme. Darzac was greatly excited. She was urging Rouletabille to something which I could not hear. The conversation between them looked like an argument, and I caught only one word of Rouletabille's, "Thief!"

The two entered the Court of the Bold. The Lady in Black stretched her arm toward the young man, but he did not see it, for he left her immediately and went toward his own room. She remained standing alone for a moment in the court, leaning against the trunk of the eucalyptus tree in an attitude of unutterable sadness; then, with slow steps, she entered the square tower.

It was now the 10th of April. The attack of the square tower occurred on the night between the 11th and 12th.

CHAPTER IX.

The Creepy Luncheon and Invisible Guest.

THE day almost from the rising of the sun was intolerably hot, and the hours on guard were almost overpowering. At 9 o'clock I came down from my room and went to the postern and entered the room which we had styled "the hall of council" to relieve Rouletabille of his guard. Darzac appeared, announcing that he had something important to communicate. He said that he intended to quit the Fort of Hercules at once, taking his wife with him. This declaration left Rouletabille and myself dumb with surprise. Mme. Edith had had a nervous attack. We understood the reason at once, for there was no doubt in the mind of either Rouletabille or myself that Mrs. Rance's jealousy of Mme. Darzac was increasing every hour and that each act of courtesy performed by the husband toward the former object of his admiration was positively insupportable to his wife.

Rouletabille implored Darzac to endure the situation. He assured him that he agreed with his feeling that the stay of himself and Mme. Darzac must be made brief, but that the security of both depended on their remaining in their present quarters for the time being. If they were to go away Larsan would know on the moment how to overtake them and when they expected him the least. Here they were forewarned, they were upon their guard, for they knew. Elsewhere they would be at the mercy of every person that surrounded them, for they would not have the Fort of Hercules to defend them. Certainly this situation could not endure very long, but Rouletabille asked M. Darzac to wait eight days longer, not a single one more.

Darzac left us, shaking his head doubtfully. He was angrier than we had ever seen him. Rouletabille remarked:

"Mme. Darzac will not leave us, and M. Darzac will stay if she does." And he started off on his rounds.

A few moments later I caught sight of Mme. Edith. She smiled at me coquettishly, but her gayety seemed a little forced as she jested at my "new trade." I answered her that she was uncharitable in her jests because she knew that all the trouble we were taking might be the means at any moment of saving the sweetest of women from untold misery.

She cried with a sharp laugh:

"Oh, surely! 'The Lady in Black!' She has you all under her spell."

"Perhaps there is a little truth in that speech," I returned.

"My husband is crazy about her!"

And she turned upon me that same curious look which had disturbed me before.

"And therefore," she continued, "I take very great pleasure in the conversation of Prince Galitch, who is more romantic than all the rest of you put together."

I asked her who was this Prince Galitch of whom I had heard so much. She told me that he was coming to luncheon, and she gave me a few particulars in regard to him from which I learned that Prince Galitch was one of the richest landholders in his own part of Russia.

He was called a hermit, a miser and a poet. He had inherited from his father a high position at court. He was a chamberlain to his majesty, and on account of the immense services rendered by the parent the emperor was supposed to regard the son with a great deal of affection.

I cannot tell why, but I felt a singular antipathy for the prince without ever having set eyes on him.

His relations with the Rances were those of friendly neighborliness. Having purchased two years before the magnificent property whose hanging gardens, flowery terraces and beautiful balconies had made it known at Garavan as "the Garden of Babylon," he had had the opportunity to be of assistance to Edith when she had begun to make the outer court of the Chateau of Hercules into an exotic garden. He had presented her with certain tropical plants. M. Rance sometimes invited the prince to dinner, and always after one of these functions the prince would send to his hostess a wonderful palm tree from Nineveh or a cactus fabled to have belonged to Semiramis. Edith said that she was interested in the young Russian because he dedicated such beautiful verses to her. After he had repeated them in Russian he would translate them into English, and he had even composed them in English for her, and for her alone. Verses—the verses of a real poet—dedicated to Mme. Edith! The prince kept no carriage nor motorcar. He used the street cars and often did his own marketing, attended by his servant, Ivan, who carried a basket for the provisions. Strangely enough, this avariciousness did not seem in the least distasteful to Mme. Edith, who appeared to consider it a mark of originality. And she finished by saying: "No one has ever set foot within his doors. He has never even invited us to come and see his gardens. Isn't it beautifully fascinating?"

Mme. Edith turned away, and I finished my guard duty.

The first stroke of the luncheon bell sounded. I hurried to my room to make a hasty toilet, but I paused in the vestibule, amazed to hear the sound of music. Who, under the present circumstances, cared or dared to play a piano in the Fort of Hercules? And, hark! Some one was singing. It was a voice at once soft and sonorous singing a strange song which sounded now plaintive, now threatening.

I opened the door and found myself face to face with a young man who was standing. I heard the footsteps of Mme. Rance behind me, and the next moment she was introducing me to Prince Galitch.

The prince was of the type that one reads of in romances—"a handsome, pensive young man." His clear cut and rather stern profile might have given a somewhat severe expression to his face if his eyes, as mild and clear as those of a child and with an expression of perfect candor, had not told an altogether different story.

I could find nothing to say to this beautiful youth who chanted foreign poems. Mme. Edith took my arm and led me away to walk in the perfumed gardens of the outer court while we waited for the second bell for luncheon.

At noon we seated ourselves at the table.

Those of us at the table, all wearing smoked glasses on account of the sun's glare, were M. Stangerson, Mathilde, Old Bob, Darzac, Arthur Rance, Edith, Rouletabille, Prince Galitch and myself. Rouletabille had placed himself in such a position that he could observe everything along the entire length of the fort. The servants were at their posts. Pere Jacques was at the entrance gate, Mattoni at the postern of the gardener and the Berniers in the square tower before the door of the apartments occupied by the Darzacs.

Prince Galitch was the first to make a remark. He spoke politely to Rouletabille, mentioning the fame which the young reporter had won. This appeared to embarrass him, and he made a confused reply. The prince went on to explain that he was particularly interested in the exploits of my friend for the reason that as a subject of the czar he knew that Rouletabille would shortly be sent to Russia. But the reporter replied that nothing had yet been decided, whereupon the prince astonished us by drawing from his pocket a journal of his own country announcing the fact that Rouletabille was soon to be in St. Petersburg. There was occurring in that city, the prince read, a series of events so inexplicable in governmental circles that the superintendent of police had decided to ask the Epoch to lend him the young reporter. Rouletabille replied dryly that he had never in the course of his short life done detective work and that the superintendent of police at St. Petersburg was an idiot.

Mme. Edith arose from her chair, speaking ecstatically of the beauty of nature. But, in her opinion, she declared, there was nothing more beautiful anywhere near than the Gardens of Babylon. She added mischievously, "They seem so much more beautiful because one may only see them from a distance!"

The prince said nothing. Mme. Edith looked vexed and a moment later said suddenly:

"I'm not going to deceive you any longer, prince. I have seen your gardens."

"Indeed!" inquired Galitch.

"I'll tell you all about it."

And she related, while the prince listened with an air of cold imperturbability, the story of her visit to the Gardens of Babylon.

She had come upon them inadvertently from the rear in climbing over a hillock which separated the gardens from the mountains. She had wandered from enchantment to enchantment, but without being in the least astonished.

The prince had scarcely time to reply before Walter, Old Bob's servant, brought a dispatch to Rouletabille. The latter asked permission to open it and read aloud:

> Return as soon as possible. We are waiting for you very anxiously. A magnificent assignment at St. Petersburg.

This dispatch was signed by the editor in chief of the Epoch.

"Well, what do you say to that, M. Rouletabille?" demanded the prince.

"I shall not go to St. Petersburg!" declared Rouletabille.

"They will regret your decision at the court," said the prince. "I am certain of that, and allow me to say, young man, that you are missing a wonderful opportunity."

Rouletabille opened his lips as though to answer but closed them again. Galitch went on:

"You would have found an adventure worthy of your skill. One may hope for everything when one has been strong enough to unmask a Larsan!"

The word fell into the midst of us like a bombshell, and, as if by a common impulse, we took refuge behind our smoked glasses. The silence which followed was horrible. Larsan! Why should this name which we ourselves had so often pronounced within the last thirty-eight hours and which represented a danger with which we were commencing to almost feel familiar cause unspeakable terror to creep through our bodies? The unbroken silence on every hand contributed to increase an indescribable state of hypnosis. Where had Old Bob's gayety vanished? And why did all the others sit so silent and so motionless behind their dark glasses? All at once I turned my head and looked behind me. Then I understood, more by instinct than anything else, that I was the object of a common psychical attraction. Some one was looking at me. Two eyes were fixed upon me—weighing upon me. I could not see the eyes, and I did not know from whence the glance fixed upon me came, but it was there. I knew it—and it was his glance. But there was no one behind me, nor at the right, nor the left, nor in front, except the people who were seated at the table, motionless, behind their dark glasses. And then—then I knew that Larsan's eyes were glaring at me from behind a pair of those glasses—ah, the dark glasses—the dark glasses behind which were hidden Larsan's eyes!

And then, all at once, the sensation passed. The eyes doubtless were turned away from me. I drew a long breath. Another sigh echoed my own. Was it from the breast of Rouletabille—was it the Lady in Black, who perhaps, had at the same time as myself endured the weight of those piercing eyes?

Old Bob spoke:

"Prince, I do not believe that your last spinal bone goes any further back than the middle of the quarternary period."

And all the black spectacles turned in his direction.

Rouletabille arose and made a sign to me. I hastened to the council room, where he was waiting for me.

"Well, did you feel it too?"

I felt smothered. I could scarcely articulate.

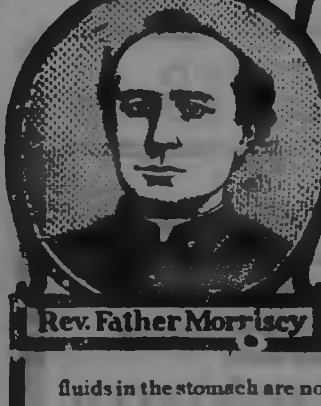
"He was there—at that table—unless we are going mad."

There was a pause, and then I resumed more calmly:

"You know, Rouletabille, that it is quite possible that we are going mad. This phantasm of Larsan will land us all in a madhouse yet! We have been shut up here only two days, and see the state we are in!"

All in a moment he seemed to grow perfectly calm.

To be continued.



Father Morriscy's "No. 11" Cures Stomach Troubles.

Rev. Father Morriscy

When your stomach is working right you never know it is there. But when it feels as heavy as lead—when you have Heartburn, Belching of Wind, Sourness, a gnawing hunger, with distress after eating—when you feel irritable and depressed — then you may know that the digestive fluids in the stomach are not sufficient to digest what you eat.

Father Morriscy's "No. 11" Tablets supply these fluids in concentrated form. Each tablet, dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1¾ pounds of food, which is more than an average meal.

Read what Father Morriscy's treatment did for Mr. Gosline, of Salmon Lake. He writes Nov. 30, 1908:

"I was troubled with indigestion, so severe that I really thought I had cancer of the stomach. I took much doctors' remedies, till I was forced to seek another resource, and this was the Rev. Father Morriscy. His treatments worked miracles, until I have been entirely cured, so that now I do not look to the quality of the diet but to the quantity."

What Do You Think of This?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

BADGES FOR BOYS SCOUTS

Provincial Secretary Approves of Organization Here

Word has been received from W. G. Hammond, Provincial Secretary of the Boy Scout Movement, approving most highly of the system of organization under way here, and further stating that efficiency badges, etc., must be obtained from the central office in Toronto, so that a record may be kept of each, and to whom awarded. These badges will be placed in stock in a week or ten days. In order to hurry matters the local committe will meet the last of this week, and each patrol leader is requested to furnish a list of the members of his patrol, who pledge themselves to act in accordance with the regulations as set down by this committee, to W. J. Neal, Chief Scoutmaster, on or before Thursday afternoon of this week. Mr. Wainwright, of the Bank of Ottawa, has kindly consented to deliver the next lecture to the Boy Scouts.

PROTESTANTISM AND NOT ROME ON THE WINNING SIDE

Rev. Jos. Northey Spoke to Large Congregation at Knox Church

That Protestantism and not Rome is on the winning side, was the kernel of the discourse delivered in Knox Presbyterian church, last night, by Rev. Joseph Northey, of Belfast, Ireland.

The attendance which included over two hundred members of the Orange Order, was so large that the accomodation of the church was taxed to its utmost many having to stand.

The speaker did not take up any of his time, in using harsh remarks towards the adherent of the Roman Catholic faith. What he did do was to deal with the life of Romanism during the past fifty years and show how Rome has steadily lost her power and was at the present time, according to authorities, facing a yearly loss of 500,000 of her followers. Some authorities placed the figures at 1,000,000.

The reason why Protestantism is on the winning side he held, was because it has as its foundation, the faith of Jesus Christ. Rome is Rome because of her error, and as error must go so must Rome.

In his opening remarks Rev. Mr. Northey dwelt on portions of verses 11 and 12 of Isiah, chapter 21, "Watchman What of the Night?" The watchman said "the morning cometh and also the night."

"There are two things that indicate trouble for Protestantism" said the preacher. One is the new theology movement and the other Romanism. Speaking in regard to the latter, he referred to the fact that Father Vaughan had been called to Belfast to contradict some startling statements which had been made to the effect that Rome was losing and had endeavored to show that Rome was sweeping the decks and going ahead. Some years ago the statement had been made by a Roman Catholic, that the object of Rome was to break the neck of the imperial race, by which England had been made. And she was trying to do this. It cannot be denied that she has a great power over the Press and the periodicals. Rome has been more or less successful in the higher class of society as a means of gaining the throne. Thousands of nuns have come to work for the subjection of England.

In Ireland if the Government do not yield to the wishes of the National party which are the wishes of the Vatican, the Government dies. And understanding this situation as it has been and now is, are Protestants to be blamed if they say that to Home Rule they can never submit?

In answering the question of what are the prospects for Protestantism, Rev. Mr. Northey gave an illustration of the position of Rome in Italy, Spain France, Austria, and Portugal of fifty years ago and the present time.

Fifty years ago, the Pope was King of Italy. He claimed to be able to depose kings, and also laid claim to the title of sovereign of the whole world. France, Spain, Austria and Portugal, were at the feet of Rome. Now, the Pope is no longer King of Rome, but a prisoner it is said, in his own city. Italy is free from his domination.

France, her favorite daughter, has closed schools and nunneries, and those in charge have had to leave. Spain recognizes Protestants. The overthrow of the Government in Portugal was simply a strike at the Vatican for liberty and progress. Out of 70,000 people in Austria, who have thrown off the allegiance to Rome, 50,000 have joined the Protestant church, and 15,000 have gone into the old Catholic faith. In France, thousands have left the priesthood and it is asserted that thousands of others would leave, were it not that it meant starvaion and suffering for those who depended on them.

And Protestantism is growing in other countries, in Germany, India, China, Japan, United States and Canada.

But here in Canada, Protestants must take notice to the marriage and school questions.

The hope of Rome is in Canada. Protestants may have many hard battles to fight but they must trust in God and move shoulder to shoulder, fighting of the faith.

A NEW YORK SUCCESS

At "The Grand" Next Wednesday

"The Lottery Man" which ran for six months at the Bijou Theatre, New York, will be Messrs. Shuberts' offering at the Grand Opera House next Wednesday, February 15, when Rida Johnson Young's comedy will have have its first local hearing. During the past season Mrs. Young has made rapid strides as a writer of comedy, having done the book for Lulu Glaser's success, "Just One of the Boys," one or two vaudeville sketches and "The Lottery Man," the most promising and refreshing comedy that New York has seen for many years.

Before bringing the play into New York the Shuberts devoted several weeks to the selection of a proper cast. It is believed that they have put together one of the best acting companies that has played in a piece of the lighter vein since the days of the Hoyt farces. In the list of players will be found such well known and popular names as Joseph Yanner, John W. Lott, Ernest Shield, Grant Clarke, Carolyn Lee, Lenore Halstead, Nettie Black, Clara Coleman and Helen E. Davidge.

Jack Wright a reporter, arranges a lottery with himself as the capital prize. The scheme is taken up by the paper, which is one of the leading New York dailies and coupons are sold at a dollar a piece. The demand for chances becomes so great that the contestants demand a sight of the victim. Wright enters into the game good naturedly. By and by he falls in love with a charming young lady. He realizes the impossibility of marrying the girl of his choice, unless, of course, he can get possession of the winning number. He uses every effort to this end. Even his aged mother pawns some family trinkets, in order to help her son. One of the amusing characters in the play is Lizzie, an old maid, who is employed by the mother of the proprietor of the paper. Lizzie is required to taste every new medicine, apply every kind of face cream—in fact, act as a sort of mechanical "dog" for her mistress. Lizzie hears the talk about winning a husband. It appeals to her especially, as she knows what a handsome man may be won for so small a sum. She steals a coupon from the cook, and it is the ticket which bears the lucky number—1323. When Wright and his sweetheart hear the news they set about to discover how Lizzie came into possession of the coupon. They learn of the theft and promptly threaten her with arrest, whereupon she disgorges and the play ends happily.

NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

The gathering at St. Paul's church next Monday night for the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the coming of the English Bible promises to be one of the most impressive meetings ever held in Peterborough. The people of all the city churches pledged themselves yesterday to waive all social and other engagements and to keep that evening free. The choir for the occasion is being trained by Mr. John Crane, and consists of four voices from each of the larger choirs, supported by the complete choir of St. Paul's church.

Rev. J. L. Gilmour, D.D., who is to be the only speaker, is an old Peterborough boy, and now a professor in McMaster University, Toronto, and one whose name will now command a large audience in any city in Canada. Arrangements will be made to increase the seating capacity of St. Paul's church, if necessary.

AN INVITATION FROM WINNIPEG

To Take Part in Earl Grey Competition.

A most cordial invitation to compete in the Earl Grey competition at Winnipeg has been received here from the officials in the western city. The project, while presenting as it does insuperable obstacles, owing to expense, is receiving attention from musical and business circles, and it may be that the city will be on the list of contestants. Unless, however, a really representative combination can be secured for the event, nothing will be done.

SUNDAY SCHOOL IS FLOURISHING

Rev. Canon Davidson Will Present Prizes to Scholars at St. Johns Next Sunday

St. John's Sunday school has up to date exceeded last year's average. Mr. Warren Dean has thrown himself into the work of secretary-treasurer in a thorough manner, and with the superintendent Mr. R. J. Devey, the equipment is steadily improving. Marking the 300th anniversary of the English Bible a splendid cash gift from the A.Y.P.A. has placed the supply of Bibles for Sunday school work so as to leave nothing wanting.

On Sunday next the prizes to scholars will be presented by the Rev. Canon Davidson consisting of Bibles and prayer books.

The library under the care of Mr. George Evans has been overhauled, and a large number of suitable books added.

On Sunday next the scholars are asked to contribute to the people's chimes fund, the subscription to read From St. John's Sunday School Teachers, Scholars and Friends. It is hoped to realize a goodly sum to help forward this scheme so dear to the heart of the rector and of all the citizens and children of Peterborough.

BAD FIRE AT MILLBROOK

Needler's Flour and Grain Mill Destroyed

Millbrook, Feb. 12.—At an early hour this morning Mr. George Needler's flour and grain mill, one of the oldest landmarks of the town, was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of about $12,000. The firemen worked hard, but the building was of frame and it was impossible to save it. The insurance carried was only $7,500. The mill was a three-storey building. The fire started on the second storey in an unknown manner.

ENJOYS LIFE IN SUNNY FLORIDA

Interesting Descriptive Letter From David Moore, of the Review Bindery

The following letter has been received from David Moore, of the Review bindery who is enjoying the ocean breezes at Boynton, Florida, recuperating after illness. Mr. Moore's letter describing Floridan conditions is very interesting. He says

This place is ideal, as far as location goes, for the ocean is right in front of us and the bathing in it, and the breezes from it, together with the tropical surroundings of the place, are the chief attractions. When we came here there were only about fifty guests at the hotel, but others have been arriving every day since, till now there must be over twice that many. There are some very nice people among them. Most of the guests are from Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, etc., but apart from my sister and her husband there are seven from Toronto. Mr. Murray, his wife and three daughters being of the number. They have been here twice before, I understand. About a dozen of us went in a launch on Lake Worth to Palm Beach yesterday, a distance of twelve or thirteen miles, and saw the wonderful hotels there, and the magnificent surroundings, the grounds being magnificently laid out, and the floral decorations a revelation to northern eyes. In the immediate vicinity is 'Whitehall,' the residence (or one of the many residences) of Flagler. Marble seats midway on the main walk seemed to invite us to rest, but marble signs a few feet nearer the massive gateway bore the legend, "private grounds." We had our revenge, however, for one of the party took a snap-shot of the gentleman himself as he passed us by with what seemed some disdain. We spent an hour on the beach in front of the breakers, watching the bathers, and incidentally studying the bathing suits, and admiring the wonderful gowns of the ladies on the promenades. We expected to see bigger crowds, but were told that we were a week too early, and that next week all the hotels were booked to their capacity. The 'Poinciana,' they say, has a capacity of 2,000, and to judge by the immensity of it, I guess the number is not over-rated. West Palm Beach is a lively little city on the opposite side of Lake Worth and easily reached by ferry and bridge. The sail on the lake was very enjoyable, and constantly afforded new pleasures. As we passed through some narrows we could see the wild foliage overhung with festoons of morning glories, while the glowing crimson of the hibiscus and oleander brightened the leafage in many places; myriads of wild fowl rose from the water at our approach, and the waters seemed teeming with fish, one variety, mullets, I think they called them, seemed to delight in springing five or six feet in the air, all along on the trip they could be seen leaping in the air. Add to this the sight the oyster men at work, and coming home a beautiful sunset over a shore line of palmettos and cocoa palms and "it was good."

As soon as I feel fit—sometime during the week, I hope—I am going down to Miami, about fifty-six miles to the south of here, and if the weather keeps good may try the sea voyage to Nassau. Some in the house are going to Cuba, but I am told it is not safe to go there unless you have arranged for accommodations. The rate from from Miami to Nassau is just the same as from Knights Key to Havana but the sea trip to Nassau is longer, which is what I want.

In glancing over my writing I would say I don't want you to think I am enthusiastic over this country. As a country it seems a fearfully undesirable place in many respects, but the climate seems to be simply perfect in places near to the ocean.

LOADED REVOLVER FOUND IN BED USED BY EGG THIEVES

Park Street Man is Charged With Receiving Stolen Goods

How the Police Rounded Up Youthful Trio

At police court to-day, before Magistrate Dumble, Robert Powell, 558 Park street, was charged with having unlawfully received one case of eggs, the property of W. Scott, East City, the eggs in question having been stolen by Bruce Roy, and others. Powell, it was alleged, knew that the eggs were stolen.

He pleaded "not guilty." Not being ready with his evidence, however, the case was enlarged till next Friday.

Powell having two sick children, was allowed out without bail.

The circumstances leading to the arrest of Powell and the three young men boarders, who are charged with the theft of the eggs, namely, Roy, Raymond and Lefienier, indicate good work on the part of the local police. Chief Thompson received information on the day after the robbery that a party was seen on Park street carrying some of the stolen goods.

On the night of the attempted burglary at S. W. Londry's store, Aylmer street, an account of which appeared in Saturday's issue of the Review, Sergt. Adams and P.C. McGinty, traced footprints leading from the residence of Mr. Londry to the Powells' home on Park street. In the house the three young men mentioned, were in bed, feigning sleep; Under the bed their boots, still wet with the snow upon them, were discovered.

In the pantry of the house was found a large quantity of eggs. The crate was missing, and later Powell admitted that it had been destroyed. The three young fellows all pleaded guilty to taking the eggs when arraigned on Saturday before the Magistrate.

Another indication that the trio are dangerous was brought to light when Powell brought three revolvers to the police station on Sunday with five boxes of cartridges, which, he said, he found on the ticking of the bed, in which all three young fellows slept.

One was an apparently new weapon, 38 calibre, and had never been used. One of the others was loaded.

OBITUARY

MRS. DAVID ANDERSON.

Mrs. Daniel Anderson, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William Moffatt, 648 Concession street, the death occurred yesterday at noon of Ann Jane Anderson, the wife of Daniel Anderson, of Douro. The late Mrs. Anderson, who was 76 years of age, had been ailing for the past two years, with rheumatoid arthritis. The deceased was born in Cavan and had resided in Douro since her marriage, over fifty years ago. She was highly respected in that community, where her many friends will regret to hear of her demise. To mourn her loss are her husband, five sons and three daughters. The sons are Messrs. Alexander, David, William and John of this city and James of Douro. The daughters are Mrs. Moffatt and Mrs. David Hamilton, of this city, and Mrs. John Quinn, of Douro.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery. Service at the house at two o'clock.

MRS. HENRY DUMMITT.

The death occurred this morning at five o'clock, of Gertrude Clifford, wife of Henry Dummitt, of lot 9, concession 13, North Monaghan.

Besides her husband the deceased is survived by her father, Robert Clifford, two brothers, Messrs. William and Hammond and one sister, Miss Maud Clifford, survive.

The time of the funeral is not announced.

JACOB ISBISTER.

Another highly respected resident of this city passed away on Saturday, when Jacob Isbister succumbed after a short illness at the family residence, 200 London street. The deceased came to this country in 1866 from the Orkney Isles. For some years he conducted a blacksmith shop at Fowler's Corners. About sixteen years ago he moved to this city, and for a long time followed his trade on Aylmer street. He was a member of St. Andrew's church, and a regular attendant. Surviving him are two sons, George and Lewis, of Nipigon, and five daughters, Mrs. A. Pearson, city; Nettie, who is a nurse in training at Barrie hospital, and Alice, Jane and Lizzie at home. Two brothers, David and Malcolm, reside in New Zealand and two sisters, Mrs. Ridpath, of Toronto, and Mrs. W. H. White, of Peterborough.

The funeral took place at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon from the family residence to Little Lake cemetery, Rev. James Rollins officiating.

The pallbearers were all nephews of the deceased. Among those from out of town were Mr. Harry May, a nephew, of Toronto; three nephews from Innersley and two nieces, the Misses Margaret and M. Isbister, of Toronto.

Died at Bridgenorth

The two-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gravelle, of Bridgenorth, died yesterday morning.

The funeral was held this afternoon to St. Martin's cemetery, Ennismore.

Died This Afternoon

Mrs. William Geary, of Ennismore, passed away at two o'clock this afternoon. Full particulars will be given to-morrow.

Lecture on Hon. John Wanamaker

The Rev. R. Pogue will deliver a lecture on John Wanamaker, Merchant Prince and Christian Layman, on Wednesday evening, March 1st, in St. Paul's church, at 8 o'clock. Business men and young men specially invited. Free will offering will be taken for Ladies' Aid Society.

LAID AT REST

The funeral of the late R. G. Greenland took place on Saturday afternoon from the residence of Mr. Fair, 460 Sherbrooke street, to the Little Lake cemetery. The floral tributes were numerous, including wreaths from the I.O.F. and friends from All Saints church. Rev. R. H. Trumpour, in conducting a very earnest and appropriate service at the house, referred to the exemplary life of the deceased. The funeral was conducted under the auspices of the I.O.F., the members of Court Chemong marching in a body. The pallbearers were Bro. E. Taylor, Bro. J. Jinks, Bro. O. E. Grose, Messrs. W. Reed, R. Fell and A. Flowers. On reaching the chapel at the cemetery a brief service was conducted by Rev. R. H. Trumpour. The Foresters conducted their impressive burial service led by Bro. F. C. Rooke, Bro. G. Metcalfe and Bro. F. Mullett and concluded by the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee." Much sympathy is expressed to Mr. E. Greenland, the father of the deceased brother.

STORY OF THE BIBLE GIVEN

Interesting History of the Revisions and Translations

The usual meeting of the St. John's Guild of Good Fellowship was held in the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon, when a large number of men were present. The subject announced was "A Wonderful Library."

Rev. C. Carpenter in his opening remarks reminded his hearers that this week, was being kept the commemoration of the issue of the authorised version of the Bible of 1611 that is the Bible as we know it to day. The address was a historical review of the progress of revisions and the circumstances which made them necessary.

The earliest known title for the whole Bible, he said, was "The Divine Library" which occurs in the writings of Jerome. The Greeks spoke of "The Books" and by the 12th century the word became singular "The Book" whilst the title "Bible" did not come into use until the 11th century. The first Bible contained only "The Law" that is, the five books of Moses. Hezekiah added to this certain other books without altering the name and Ezra and Nehemiah after the captivity collected all the books as we have them to day, and arranged them into three divisions, the Law, the Prophets and the Holy writings. This was about 400 years before Christ. About a century later the Hebrew scriptures were translated into Greek, and in this version, the Apocrypha first appeared Apocrypha, meaning hidden, or of unknown authority. In due time were added the books of the New Testament this completing in about 1600 years, the standard use of the Bible.

WAS A LIBRARY.

Thus the Bible was truly a Library composed of many books, by many writers, written at varying times, and under various conditions. The unity of the Bible as a whole, made it wonderful, and showed its Divine Inspiration, to say nothing of the hold which it has made on the affections of all peoples in all places. After referring to the old manuscript, the course of the Bible in England was traced from the 7th to the 11th centuries, and the most important versions mentioned. The Latin Bible was almost the only one used, until holy men were moved to translate it into the mother tongue. But the mother tongue itself was undergoing great changes during these centuries, hence the need of continual revision. Before the age of printing Wickliffe's Bible was the most important one, although it was never widely used as the expense of it was so great. After the invention of printing came Wm. Tyndale's Bible about 1525, which was condemned and ordered to be destroyed for unorthodox opinions. About the same time Miles Coverdale Matthew and Taverner brought out their revisions, and in 1540 was published the great Bible under the authority of Cranmer. From this Bible, are taken the Psalms, the 10 Commandments and other selections of the Anglican Prayer Book. In 1568 came the Bishop's Bible, which was the first to divide into verses.

AUTHORISED VERSION.

Then followed the so-called authorised version of 1611 put forth in the reign of James I. This was translated direct from the original languages by a body of 47 divines, who sought to make the revision as perfect as possible. It was appointed to be read in churches, but the only real authority it had was the loving consent of the public. This is the Bible which we use to day, and which has won its way solely by its merits. Its language is simple but dignified and can be understood appreciated by the ignorant whilst the more learned can find in it fullest satisfaction.

"The Holy City" was acceptably rendered by Mr. Green during the interval, after which a short discussion was held, and the meeting brought to a close in the usual way.

FIRE STARTED IN THE DINING ROOM

London Street Resident Acted Promptly

John Keenan, a painter, who resides at 111 London street, had his right hand painfully burned on Friday evening at his home, while extinguishing a blaze in the dining room.

Mr. Keenan stated when seen to-day that the blaze must have started from a match carelessly thrown to the floor, thus igniting the curtains and sofa. He was the first to notice the flames and sent in an alarm. The brigade responded but Mr. Keenan had the fire under control before its arrival. In his efforts he sustained the injuries to the back of his hand and a couple of the fingers.

KID McCOY SAYS WOLGAST DID NOT SHOW HIS OLD FORM

"Cadillac Wildcat" Did Not Have the Speed Against Brown.

Kid McCoy, the old fight master, has the following description of the Brown-Wolgast fight at Philadelphia on Wednesday:

"Ad Wolgast did not show his old time form. He was not the man last night that he was one year ago, when he whipped Battling Nelson in forty of the fiercest heart-breaking rounds ever witnessed inside the squared circle. That long lay-off showed its effects. He was tired at the finish. He showed that the lightning speed of former days was gone for the time being, perhaps, but gone, as far as last night was concerned.

"For two rounds the spectators were content when Wolgast did not show his former remarkable power of execution. They smiled and waited for the "Cadillac Wildcat" to begin. But he never started. He might have started, as far as he could, but that distance was not great enough to stop the headlong, onward and almost irresistible rushes of the boy from the east side.

"It was Brown, Brown, Brown, Brown and Brown again, for the last four rounds and the fight. Wolgast smiled in the first two and looked leg and arm weary in the last four.

"A man less tough than Wolgast would have taken the count. Brown showed no defence. Defence was a lesson he had neglected—all he knew was offence. He worked on the principle that if you keep the other fellow busy, you have no need of defence. Two more evenly matched men, regarding weight, height and reach, never entered the ring.

"Brown fights with his right hand extended, something rare in the ring among the topnotchers. Wolgast has a peculiar crouch, and Brown waded right into it to straighten him up with uppercuts. He kept his right in reserve and seldom used it. His left is his stock in trade. They had not been sparring a moment before Brown drove the left to the body with a thud. Then he hammered it to the jaw and Wolgast covered up.

"With Wolgast protecting himself with both hands crossed in front of his face, Brown hammered away, and the New Yorkers started their first burst of applause. Wolgast unwound, jabbed a left to the face, and backed away. He was grinning and trying the old game of getting Brown's goat. Brown didn't have a goat with him. Brown refused to back up, smiled a little, and like a streak of lightning rammed the left home again. Then he swung the right and closed into a clinch. He broke away, worked the left again to the face and body, and started laughing at Wolgast.

BROWN AGGRESSIVE.

The entire first round was the same. Brown kept coming forward, Wolgast contenting himself with covering up, backing away, and jabbing an easy quick left to the face. A couple of times, in the clinches, he unwhipped a long kidney punch, but it was not the kind of blow that wins in a six round battle.

"And as the first round so the other five."

PUCKLAND

The Oldsters and Youngsters of the C.G.E., met in a memorable game of hockey at Brock street rink Saturday night the latter seven winning by a 3—1 score. After the game the losers entertained the victors at the Boston Cafe.

The teams were;

Referee—D. Stone.

The Bugle Band of the 57th Regiment challenge No. 3 Company to a game of hockey at Brock Street Rink as soon as arrangements can be made.

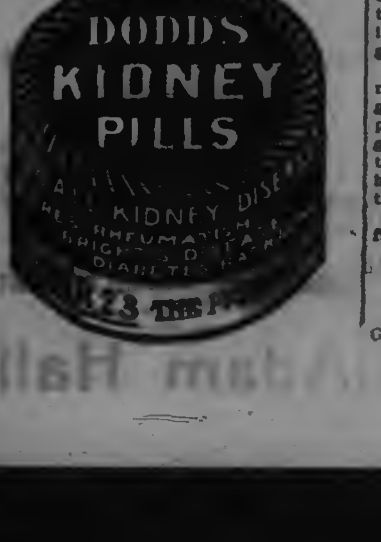
Boys Took a Trip

E. M. Gilchrist, the general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., took a number of boys on a trip from "London to Rome" Saturday afternoon. Limelight views were shown of all the interesting places along the route. The address was very interesting and instructive.

In the bowling to-night the Mivvies play Millard's team at 8 o'clock.

J. J. Thompson set the pace for the silver spoon last Monday at 200. Ross Laing made a score of 198 Saturday night, but failed to beat Mr. Thompson. There is another spoon up this week.

Entries for the boys' hobby exhibition opened to-day from 4 to 6 o'clock. Any boy in the city between the ages of 12 and 18 may exhibit. Entries must all be in by Thursday evening.



GRILLERS MADE A HIT AT KINGSTON

Referred to as the Cleanest and Fairest Bunch Yet Played Against

The Grillers returned from Kingston Saturday evening greatly "tickled" with the showing they made against the Frontenacs. The boys report a good time. "Billie" Breen likes the Rooters' Club at the Limestone City. Parodies on the popular songs of the day are sung by the rooters, who occupied a position in the gallery. The Kingston papers have the following to say of the work of the Grillers;

Kingston Whig:—Be it known to all that the Peterborough Grillers are the cleanest and fairest bunch of sports that the Frontenacs have ever been up against. Also that they are no slouches. Every man on the team worked for all he was worth. Those who were there were confident that it was no walk over for the local boys the way the other games were, and a great deal more interest is taken in a game where the winning team has to work for all they get. The Grillers certainly are a fast and able body of players and are the busiest bunch of players that the champions have been up against. Nearly every man is bigger than the Frontenac men. Their players are all good, but perhaps the most effective man on the team is Reynolds, the man who holds down the position of point. He certainly has more speed and tricks than most players who visit this city in the course of the season. Their goalkeeper, Patterson, was a wonder. He seemed to know just where the shots would hit and was right there to stop them. The shots were rained upon him times without number, and only for his marvelious work the score would have been larger.

Kingston Standard:—For the Grillers, Hefferman and Reynolds on the defence played games equal to those of Davidson and McCammon, with the exception that the visitors had not the wicked shots of the locals. Coughlin, Hall and Matthews played stellar games on the forward line.

Peterborough Grillers left to-day at noon for home. The Grillers are the gamest bunch of sports that have played here for some time. After the game last night the visitors wished the locals success and expressed the hope that they would retain the title of junior champs.

Here's a sample of the musical efforts of the rooters;

(Tune—Good-bye My Blue Bell.)

Your sun is setting.
'Tis time to go,
Good thing you were not betting.
Or we'd have all your dough,
We thought you had a good team,
But you're not there to stay,
Frontenacs are not the ——,
So ——, fade away.

CHORUS.

Good-bye poor ——
Farewell to you,
You'll need a new team when we get thru'
You need a new defence,
Get a new line,
You'll win the championship,
Some other time.

LOCK SEVEN DID NOT HAVE A SHOT

C. G. E. Office Team Won Mercantile League Fixture by 8-0

The Mercantile League bill of fare at the Brock Street rink, Saturday evening between seven and eight o'clock, was a little out of the ordinary and those who paid the admittance fee of ten cents, didn't leave until it was all over. The Lock works septet upheld their reputation and was beaten again. This time the score was 8-0 with the C. G. E. office team taking a quartet of counters in each half.

Eastern pro leaguers, had they been present, would have been shown. The Simcoe street aggregation couldn't play the game and endeavored to prevent the electric boys from showing them how. While partly successful, they couldn't stop eight scores being registered.

The game was unnecessarily rough the winners getting the rough end of the punishment. Clancy took the first counter with a shot that made Whaley dodge with the celerity of a chased mouse. Rush took the next on a pass from behind the nets. The third tally came on a three man play, Faux landing a corner shot, while Elliott made the count 4 0, just before the half was called, following a nice individual rush. Rush, Clancy and Faux, were the next beaters in the second period.

The Lock Works didn't have a shot on the nets during the whole game.

SPORT TALK

Tentative plans for the creation of a baseball "Hall of Fame" on broader lines than anything of the kind heretofore attempted, was announced by a Detroit manufacturer. He offered to put two automobiles into the hands of a committee of five or seven newspapermen to be awarded at the end of each season to the player in each major league, who, in the opinion of the committee had done the most for his team in the pennant race. Details of the proposition as to the size of the committee, its relation and its method of arriving at the choice of the player entitled to the prize in the league have not been worked out. The offer stands for a period of five years and will be open to all the players in the major leagues exclusive of the managers, whether bench or playing managers.

The idea is to eliminate the question of batting, fielding or pitching averages as arbitrary determining factors and to reward the players who do the most to advance the best interests of their respective teams in the pennant races. In addition to taking into consideration the performance of a player in batting, fielding pitching base running and other departments it is intended to include loyalty department and adherence to discipline both on and off the field.

Wonder what Jim Sutherland said when he heard the news.

The professional combination is still in the city.

Ottawa defeated Wanderers again Saturday night by 9—4, giving the capital seven their ninth straight win.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

The week of Feb. 13 is Athletic week in the local Y.M.C. A., and there will be three athletic contests held as follows: Tuesday, Feb. 14 the Junior contest; Thursday, the Intermediate; Friday the Senior.

To-morrow night the Junior contest will be held. A handsome shield has been presented to the Boys' Department by Mr. J. M. Laing for competition in indoor athletics and is emblematic of the all round athletic championship of the Boys' Department. The events will be 60 and 220 yrds potato races; running high jump, standing broad jump; fence vault and 8lb shot put. The records that are made in the above events will be recorded as the Association Boys' Department records, which can only be broken in competition.

The first three boys in each event will be the team that will compete for the Canadian Hexathlon contest in March, and there is going to be some hustling among the competitors to-morrow night to get a place on the Hexathlon team. At present there is 25 entries in and if you intend to compete you should hand in your name at once.

A hearty invitation is extended to the parents of the boys, also to their friends, and friends of the Association and the general public.

Captain James Collier, of Picton, ship-builder, and formerly captain of the old Empress of India, is dead, aged 74.

GAMES TO BE REPLAYED

Frontenacs Here Again Tomorrow Night—Marchand is Over Age

Owing to the ineligibility of Wilfred R. Marchand of the Kingston Frontenacs the latter's games in the second round with Peterboro will have to be replayed. Marchand, who is the goalkeeper of the champions, has been found to be two months over age. Peterboro made no complaint, and Kingston were as much astonished as anybody at the announcement by the O. H. A., that the games would have to be replayed. The Frontenac Oshawa games scheduled for Tuesday and Friday of this week have been cancelled. Marchand was born in a small village in Quebec, and the parish priest was appealed to by the Kingston management for proof of the eligibility of Marchand. The priest forwarded the facts of birth and baptism in French, and it was owing to a mistake in the translation that Marchand was declared eligible. It was understood that Marchand was born in August, 1891 and baptized in October. Instead he was born in October 1890, and baptized in the following August. The whole matter is due to the ambiguity of the original records from Quebec—Toronto Globe.

The exhibition game arranged to be played with T. A. A. C. has been postponed tell next week.

SHOOTING

The Prize Winners and Scores at Yeote's

The shooting at Yeotes Bros.' gallery on Saturday evening was even more interesting than on former occasions. A much larger number of marksmen competed, and the scores, taken as a whole, were better and closer, as will be seen by the list given below.

In the professional contest, No. 1 target, N. Perry and Wm. Bickell were tied, but the latter did not put in an appearance. N. Perry, therefore, won the prize with a score of 59, and took the box of cigars donated as the prize.

The other scores were—J. Rose, A. McGee, C. Gutterson, J. Wall, F. Revoy and W. Kennedy, 58; D. Dinnie, Wm. Gill, Ed. Doxsee and B. Preston, 57; Geo. Miller, P. Robson, B. Robinson, E. Edgar, P. Hamlin, J. Kelbrick, H. Blade, J. Jones, J. Wilson and F. Cole, 56.

The prize in the amateur contest, No. 2 target, was won by C. Callaghan with a score of 58, entitling him to a box of Tuckett's Special cigars.

The other scores in this contest were—J. Reynolds, J. Bidgood, V. Spilsbury, and J. Thornton, 57; E. Hurtubuise, J. Macgo, A. Reynolds, F. J. W. Pearson, J. McRae, J. W. Stewart and C. Quinlan, 56; J. McGovern, H. MacKay, J. Clancy, W. Merritt, A. Chapman and R. Perry, 55; F. Anderson, P. Gettes and F. Rutherford, 54; C. Graham, 53.

The H.E.P. commission will submit a proposition to Kingston next week.

Death of Graduate

News comes from Jamaica of the death of Dr. John Brown, a graduate of Queen's in 1896. He has been practicing in Jamaica since 1091. Dr. Brown and his coachman were returning from a call, and having to cross some piece of water on the way were both drowned. Particulars have not yet come to hand.

An interesting and up-to-date address was that delivered by Prof. Grant before the Philosophical Society this week.

COMIC VALENTINE IS PASSING AWAY

Not as Much in Demand as the More Artistic Ones

According to reports, the old fashioned "comic" valentine will soon be a thing of the past. The post card valentine, a comparatively modern conception, leads the fashion in some centres this year, with burnt wood and leather novelties next in demand. French valentines ornate in construction and costly, are also in high favor.

With the passing of the old comic, dealers notice also a decline in the fervent type of valentine which breathes of romantic love in every line. Love in these later days shows a tendency, they say, to express itself symbolically, or in a sort of sign language, which would probably have been rejected as inadequate by lovers of another generation.

The local dealers handling valentines have a very liberal display on hand, the more artistic, of course, predominating largely. The local displays are very attractive.

BENSFORT BRIEFS

About the first of May David Chambers will move to Bailieboro where he will conduct the blacksmith business of Mr. Maycock, who is retiring from business and moving to Toronto. Mr. Chambers has been in Bensfort a number of years and with his family will be greatly missed. We wish them success.

La Grippe is almost an epidemic. It has two of our popular young men, H. Kerr, and Jos. Whittington in its grip, who will be temporarily removed from the roads. We hope to soon see them around again.

Owing to concerts and snow, the dances were omitted this week. Two nights were taken up by a concert in connection with Christ Church Bailieboro. Many of our young people who attended on Tuesday and Friday evenings, report a pleasant time, and a most successful concert. Much credit is due our sister church for the splendid program rendered.

The storm of Monday, Feb. 6th, was the worst of the season. People stayed in doors but the mail came through from Centerville. The carrier deserves great credit for the manner in which he fulfills his contract.

Mr. Peter Dodds, who has been very sick is able to be around again.

Wm. Murray of Harwood walked up the lake on Friday. He reports good ice but very slippery walking. He is visiting friends around Bensfort.

Good Registration

The registration at Queen's University and the School of Mining for the current term, still keeps up the satisfactory showing of past years. There has been a falling off in the number of extra-mural students, due to the fact that this year, the rule that requires at least one year's attendance for a degree, is being put into force. The number of extra-mural students this year is 311, as compared with 438 last year. The total registration in all faculties is 1536. In Arts the intra-mural students have increased from 505 last year to 620, making a total of extra-mural students in Arts of 931. In Education, Science and Theology the figures remain practically the same as last year, while medicine shows an increase.

Home From the West

Donald Shook, of Regina, son of J. C. Shook, arrived in the city to-day on a month's business trip east. "Don," as he is familiarly known to his numerous friends in Peterborough, is connected with the Eastern Saskatchewan Land Company, which, he says, is at present doing a record real estate business. This company recently organized a smaller branch, called the Plainview Farming Company, composed of Messrs. A. H. Tasker, E. P. Brockman, H. L. Johnston and A. Clark, and in which Mr. Shook has an active interest.

Don is in the city in connection with some of the company's business here. He is looking well and hearty, and reports prospects to be extremely bright at the present time in Regina, and particularly in the real estate line.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

They May Not Be Quite So Numerous as You Imagine.

GUESS AS TO THEIR NUMBER.

Then Do Some Thinking and Figuring and See How Far From Your Guess You Come and Incidentally Learn How Many Folks You Don't Know.

Did you ever have the experience of walking down Main street with a man who is running for office? All the time he is bowing right and left to people you meet. Several times in a block he will stop to shake hands with an acquaintance.

"You seem to know every one," you say to him almost enviously.

"That's right," he replies, not without some pride. "I guess I do know everybody worth knowing."

Yet how many people does he know? How many people do you know yourself? Did you ever try to figure it out? What proportion of the people in the United States do you know? Certainly you don't know the one-hundreth part of them. Even the president of the United States doesn't and couldn't if he kept traveling all the time, making a host of new acquaintances every day.

To know the one-hundredth part of the people in this country would be to know in the neighborhood of a million persons. No; it is perfectly safe to say that there is no person in the whole world that knows a million other persons well enough to call each of them by name. Think what a million means! Suppose you said the names of all the people you know as fast as you could. If you could enunciate twenty names a minute you would be doing marvelously well. Even at that rate, working steadily eight hours a day, it would take you nearly four months just to name the people you know. There isn't a memory in existence that would hold a million names.

Well, do you suppose you know a hundred thousand? Let's see; that would be about one-fifth of the population of Rhode Island. Imagine yourself sitting in the railroad station at Providence watching the people come through. No; that is hardly a fair test, for unless you live in Providence you do not know as many people there as in the city in which you live. Sit in your own railway station and count the people coming through. No matter how well known you are or how many people you know, you cannot help but be impressed with the fact of how many people there are that you do not know. If you know one in a hundred persons you know far more than the average.

Let us try to get at it in another way. You make on the average, say, two new acquaintances a week. Of course there are weeks and weeks that you make no new acquaintances at all, and then there are times, such as picnic week and vacation week and church fair week, when you meet a lot of people, so that two a week is a fair average. You have been meeting people, say, for twenty-five years. That's 2,500, isn't it?

Is it possible that you know only 2,500 people? You thought the number would be far more than that? But hold on. You don't know nearly that many. There are lots and lots of people whom you knew twenty years ago that you don't know now. You cannot even remember their names or what they looked like.

Just sit down and try to remember the names of all the boys and girls that were in the same room in the public school with you. You cannot remember half of them or a third of them or a fifth of them. It is safe to say that of every two persons you met in all your life you have forgotten one. The chances are that the number of people you know by name is nearer 1,000 than it is 2,000.

Of course a preacher with a thousand members in his church is expected to know them all by name. But all the same you will find him saying to his wife:

"My dear, who was that young lady who spoke to us just know?"

It is business, too, for a merchant to remember all of his thousand customers, but very few merchants are able to do it. Possibly some of the politicians and public lecturers may know a couple of thousand persons by name, but very few other persons know that many.

If this estimate seems too low it is easily disproved. All you have to do is to take pencil and paper and begin putting down the names of your acquaintances. Start with your own family and then put down your cousins and your second cousins and your wife's relations. Then put down the names of the people you knew in the town you used to live in and the people you know socially. Follow that up with the people you know in business, then—

But you can't dispute these figures. It is too much trouble to think of all the people you know. You'll never do it. —New York World.

A Hat and a Head.

"Now, if you follow my advice," said one business man to another as the wind caught the hat of the latter from his head—"if you follow my advice your derby will stay on in any wind that New York can produce. When I buy a new hat I heat it over the gas jet, and while it is still warm I put it on and let it cool on my head. The result is a perfect fit. Try it and see."—New York Sun.

ROUTE OF C.N.R. TAPS NEW DISTRICT

stem promoted by inferior powers on the Mississippi at Carleton Place, Almonte and Galletta, and on the Bonnechere at Renfrew.

At Portage du Port the railway will again cross the Ottawa at the foot of its greatest individual drop of one hundred feet, which means not less than 180,000 horse-power.

It then enters on the Ontario side the Township of Ross and a little further on, Westmeath. The latter especially has a reputation as one of the best grain producers in Ontario, and its emporium, Beachburg, is prosperous in spite of its nine-mile haul to the C.P.R. at Cobbden.

Crossing over to the Valley of Muskrat River it enters Pembroke from the rear, the C.P.R. having taken up the whole waterfront. Twelve miles further it will pass Petewawa, and skirting the south edge of the military reserve plunge into the wilderness by the valley of the Petewawa. This is a singular depression lying almost parallel to the Ottawa for many miles. Unlike the valley of the latter, to which the C.P.R. adheres, it is not a rock canyon, except for shore distances, but expands into great basins at Grand Lake, Lac a Traverse, Trout Lake, and Cedar Lake, with large areas of arable land.

On the river are several very fine water powers, infinitely larger than those that have built up the thriving towns of Bracebridge and Burk's Falls on the Grand Trunk. To the south and west lies practically all that is left of the pine of older Ontario. The road wil pass through one of the most attractive portions of Algonquin Park, accessible at present only by canoe or over an extraordinary rough road of 24 miles from the C.P.R.

At Cedar Lake it leaves the main river and ascends a branch which drains Lake Cauchon, thence over a low divide to the collecting basin of the Amable du Fond, another river with a tremendous fall and great opportunity for power development. The railroad does not follow the river, but cuts across to the Wistiwasing, where it again emerges from the wilderness to settled country, settlement which has pushed its way from Powassan on the Grand Trunk. The land for the next twenty miles is excellent, but most of it too far away from the railway at Powassan to be successfully cultivated.

It here diverges from the line located to Key Inlet and passing Callendar on Lake Nipissing, runs through Nipissing Junction and into North Bay. The C.N.O. propose to pass in the rear of North Bay, and, leaving the C.P.R. as soon as the topography will allow, ascend the Sturgeon and its tributary, the Kapikotiwia, and crossing the Wahnapitae River, skirt the south side of the lake and join their own constructed line at Capreol.

This last hundred miles is a country of comparatively small streams, with numerous lakes and ponds, but at the Groundhog the C.N.O. will cross the first of the large rivers. Having crossed the great central plateau the road is well over the Hudson Bay slope, and the rivers are strong, swift, and numerous. The next is the Apishkanogama, and the next Kapuskasing, having fine water-powers and a good growth of timber along its banks. This kind of country extends for some two hundred miles, in which distance the C.N.O. will cross the Missinaibi, the Kabinakagami, the Morrison, the Nagami, the Pugatchewan and the Kenogami, all strong and rapid rivers. It will also pass within thirty or forty miles of the great fall of the Pic, one of the finest water-powers in the country and quite comparable with the Kakabeka.

Rounding the north end of Long Lake it heads southwest for Lake Nipigon, and for thirty miles or more the country is most attractive.

The road along Orient Bay will be the most difficult for construction, and will necessitate the excavating of a tunnel 1,200 feet in length. The scenery for the next twenty miles is very fine, and the fishing probably the finest in the world on fresh water. The railway will follow a curious gorge extending from the end of Orient Bay, an ancient glacier bed half-filled with gravel and drift, past a number of small lakes and surmounting a low divide come out in the Township of Ledger, sloping towards Nipigon Bay. Ouimet and Dorion show some fine farms and thrifty farmers all clamoring for a means of getting their crops to market.

MONKEY LAND.

Where Armies of Gibbering Apes Make Life Miserable.

If at any time you should happen to be in India, just remember to let the monkeys alone, for to kill one would mean to get yourself very cordially disliked by the Brahmans, whose religion forbids them to take the life of any creature. As a result the people of India are overrun by a great many animals against which they can make but a feeble resistance, the monkey in particular being a real tyrant.

The shops of the cities are without doors and windows, and whatever is offered for sale is exposed to the open air. The monkeys are always at hand watching their opportunity and if the merchant absent himself for a moment, instantly the nimble apes are helping themselves to anything they fancy.

On one occasion the streets of Benares, the sacred city of India, had become so overrun with these impudent little plunderers that the merchants held a meeting and decided that something must be done. Inasmuch as their religion forbade them to kill the monkeys, they decided to banish the pests.

The streets were surrounded and invaded, the monkeys were all captured and placed in cages. Then they were taken to a large forest at a considerable distance from the city and freed in the middle of the trees. The scampered into the branches as if they were having a very good time; and there the merchants left them and returned to their shops, rejoicing that now they could nod in peace. That evening there was a rare sight in Benares. Into the streets, just at dusk, there came a great capering army of apes. They were the monkeys of Benares, who had found their way home from the forest into which they had been banished, and, though they must have been very tired from traveling on foot so long a distance, their joy on reaching home again was so great that they gamboled like a troop of school children coming home from a picnic.

Being town bred monkeys, they had not enjoyed country life. Next day they were all at their old posts, raiding the food shops with renewed and eager appetites and greatly refreshed impudence.

The Effects of Arsenic.

"You no doubt have observed the lily white complexion of some women. These women are sacrificing years of their lives for that beautiful skin by the use of arsenic," said D. V. Duval, a chemist, of Manchester, Eng.

"It is a well-known fact that thousands of women in all countries of the world use the poison in small quantities to bleach their skin. It is an effective means of whitening and clearing the complexion, but the complexion given by its use has no permanency unless the absorption of the drug be continued.

"Arsenic, as science has long told us, is an accumulative poison. When one takes it either by prescription for the upbuilding of an appetite or for the bleaching of the skin he does not feel any ill effects for several years. The effect of the drug is bracing and makes a person feel like eating. It also aids the digestion. The average user of the poison takes it in such small quantities that he does not realise how much of it will accumulate in his system in the course of four or five years.

"Being an accumulative poison it often takes that length of time to see the results of the drug. Then the user may complain of not being able to control his fingers or toes. Subsequently he loses control of his hands and arms. Arsenical poisoning is the result.

"Five years ago in Manchester there was an epidemic of paralysis. Several thousands of persons were stricken. Several hundred died and the medical profession of England made a thorough investigation of the malady and traced it to beer. The investigators discovered that the brewers were using a glucose in the brewing of their product which was found to contain a small quantity of arsenic. This drug, imbibed in small quantities in beer, had gradually accumulated in the bodies of thousands of persons, had impoverished their blood and left a great percentage of them helpless."

Too Expensive to Eat.

Mr. George Graves, who is appearing with such success on the variety stage in "Koflo of Bond Street," in London," is an enthusiastic sportsman, and recently had a day's shooting in Norfolk. Missing his train back he endeavored to catch it at Cambridge by motor-car, but failed, owing to the bursting of a tire. In order to appear at the theatre he was compelled to charter a special train from the University town. Mr. Graves' remark, as he alighted from his expensive conveyance at Liverpool street and handed his man a brace of partridges, was very characteristic of him, "Get these birds stuffed, they come too high to eat."

Ambassador as Mountaineer.

Mr. James Bryce, the British ambassador at Washington, who was recently granted an audience by the King, was born in Belfast seventy years ago. His father was Scotch and his mother Irish. He is credited with the ability to speak—or acquire—nearly every known language. He has talked with African kings at the councils; has banquetted with the Dyaks; has climbed some of the highest mountains in the United States; has stood on the top of Mount Ararat—the first man since Noah—has been in Russia, in India, and Japan, and knows nearly every part of the British Empire, even to the Fiji Islands.

Prevaricator.

The word prevaricator is from the Latin and originally meant a straddler with distorted or misshapen legs. In the Roman courts of law the expression was applied to one who in a suit was discovered to be in collusion with his opponent to compass some dishonesty. As falsehood was the necessary part of such a performance, the word by and by came to have the significance at present attached to it.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION

The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertised article. In refusing a substitute he protects himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.

Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materials embracing their make-up The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

You are safe in rejecting the article offered as "just as good."

A Weekly Paper

There is a movement on foot at present amongst the students to substitute for the weekly Journal at present issued a semi-weekly students' newspaper. The Journal is the official publication of the students and reflects the view of the whole student body in regard to occurrences within the University. It is felt that with the change from a weekly to a semi-weekly publication, the reports of events would be much fresher. There would be the same amount of space for literary matter in the proposed organ as in the present journal, and the new publication owing to its more frequent issue would be able to publish more fuller accounts of the various addresses before student organizations. In addition to the literary matter presented in the semi-weekly issue there would be a special literary number once a month of the same form as the present Journal. A canvass is now being carried on among the students to determine whether the proposed change will be carried out next session.

Harry Buchanan, Havelock — Lecturer.

A LECTURE

The lecture in the town hall on Saturday evening of last week on "Tuberculosis," and other health subjects, was quite largely attended, but unfortunately through some mistake, neither Dr. McCullough nor Dr. Hodgetts were present. Instead of a lecture a series of views of various disease germs and sanitariums were thrown upon a screen, which were ably described by Dr. H. C. Kindred

TOWN COUNCIL

The regular meeting of the town council was held on Monday night, when all the members were present with the exception of Councillor Young. Very little business was transacted. The collector was instructed to garner all unpaid taxes by Feb. 25th and to furnish the council with all names and amounts not paid at that time.

TO HOLD SOCIAL.

A social under the auspices of the ladies of the Presbyterian church will be held at the home of Mr. D. Burgess, Monday evening, Feb. 13th. A free 'bus will leave the church every five minutes from 7 to 7.30 p.m. Admission to social, including ride, 25 cents. A good program will be rendered.

HOCKEY.

The Campbellford High School team defeated the local school team at the rink here on Tuesday night by a score of 2—1.

The Havelock High School was defeated by the Norwood High School on Wednesday night by a score of 5—4.

Mrs. Knox, of town, has returned home after having spent a few days in Fenelon Falls.

MOCK PARLIAMENT.

The High School Literary Society held their mock parliament on Friday of last week. Several bills were sent in by the opposition, which were to be answered at the meeting. Some of the bills were answered and others were let stand until next meeting.

Some of the matters with reference to the speech from the throne were discussed, such as whether Canada should have a navy of her own, and other important questions. On the government side the Reds, Pearl Browne, Willie Holdcroft, George Black, Mary Frost and Marion Knox spoke, and on the opposition side, the Blues, were Jay Knox, Charlie McNicholl, Cuthbert Barlow and Leonard Bennett. After hearing several discussions the meeting was adjourned until two weeks from Friday.

FARM VALUES AND WAGES

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The Census Monthly for January says that values and wages in Canada make a good record for 1910. The total value of live stock on the farms is $593,768,000, which is $34,979,000 more than in 1909. The price per head of horses is $132.50, as against $130.72 in 1909, of milch cows $42.60, against $36.36, of other cattle $30.90 against $28.81, and of sheep $6 against $5.89. Swine alone show a drop in average price, being $11.30 per head against $11.80. The total value of horses is $293,398,000 for last year against $278,769,000 for 1909, of milch cows $121,813,000 against $103,601,000, of other cattle $131,781,000 against $126,326,000, and of sheep $15,819,000 against $15,735,000. The value of swine, however, fell from $34,368,000 in 1909 to $31,157,000 in 1910.

The highest average price of horses was in Saskatchewan, of milch cows, other horned cattle, and sheep in Ontario, and of swine in Quebec. Horses three years old and over reached the highest price in British Columbia, where the average was $225. Swine per 100 lb. live weight ranged from $6.50 in Manitoba to $9.62 in Quebec. The price of unwashed wool was 18 cents in 1910 and 17 cents in 1909, and of washed wool 24 cents for each year.

The average value of occupied farm land in the Dominion was $38.15 per acre or 15 cents less than for the previous year. It was highest in British Columbia, where the cost of clearing is heavy, and the land is largely occupied for fruit growing, the average being $74 per acre, or $6 cents per acre more than in the previous year. Ontario comes next with $48 per acre, which is $2.22 less than in 1909.

Farm help for the summer season shows an average of $35.15 per month for males and $20.70 for females, counting board, as compared with $34.69 and $19.08 respectively, in the previous year. Males have an average of $347.10, and females $209.69 per year, counting board, as against $336.29 and $206.08 respectively, for 1909. The highest prices per month in summer are paid in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, where they are $40 and over for males and $25 and over for females, counting board. The average rate of board per month ranges from $8 for males and $6 for females in Prince Edward Island to $20 and $17 respectively per month in British Columbia.

The rates of wages and board are quoted for the farm, where males are employed on the land and females in the house. They are averages computed from a large number of returns by farmers to the census office.

SOME NEWSPAPER LAW—READ IT

If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages or the publishers may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made.

Any person who takes a paper from the post office, whether directed to his name or another, or into his his home, or whether he has subscribed or not is responsible for the pay. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post office, removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

IF THE HOME TRADE WERE RUINED

It is fortunate for Peterborough that the majority of its citizens are level-headed and not easily carried away by a passing fad; but let us suppose that such was not the case, and try to imagine the conditions if all our residents began buying their eatables and wearables from the mail order houses.

In the first place the local stores would be no more. Their proprietors would have sought green fields and pastures new. You would be obliged to send away for everything. A store cannot be kept up on the small purchases entirely, and if we sent away for the large things, we would soon have to send for the small things also

The home trade would then be ruined and the money has gone to build up some enormous corporation in Toronto or Montreal. We would help those cities to have finely paved streets, but our own roads would be axle deep in mud. There would be no home market for produce, and the value of farms would decrease. The value of real estate would decrease enormously, and last, but not least, this journal would cease publication. You know it is the inhabitants of a town that create the value of land both in the town and in the surrounding country.

If there were no inhabitants in Toronto, real estate would be worth nothing because it has been spoiled for farming. The large office buildings would tumble to ruins. Do you think the cities do not realize the facts? They have Commissioners of Industry to induce factories and industries to locate in the town. They have conventions and exhibitions, anything and everything that will bring money to the city. Are we to be so short-sighted that we will help them to do it at our expense?

If you realize what would happen if all our trade went away from this it can readily be seen that even a little of it being sent away works a proportionate amount of harm. We believe we are within the mark when we say that if all the money that now goes to mail order houses from this vicinity were spent right here in Peterborough it would increase the value of farms in the surrounding country very materially.

and I suffered much inconvenience. I thrapists. All we ask is that they exercise an enlightened selfishness. Remember that it is not only the small profit on the goods you purchase that you are sending away when you deal with mail order houses. Your dollar spent in Peterborough would go the rounds. Send your dollar away and you get nothing but the goods. Spend it here and it comes back to you in many ways— better roads, better schools, better churches and better social advantages. The building up of our own town ought to be more to us than the building up of Toronto or Montreal. They are perfectly able to look after themselves. We do not ask them to help pay our taxes, so why should we help to pay theirs.

True citizenship does not consist entirely in singing the Maple Leaf and waving the Union Jack. It is shown better by the man who is true to his home interests: first, last and all the time—the man who is really intelligently selfish. Let us be honest with ourselves and make our own homes more valuable. Buy at home.

TO BE RICH ISN'T HAPPINESS

New York, Feb. 10.—"Don't refuse a man simply because he is not a millionaire," was a bit of matrimonial advice which Andrew Carnegie gave to a group of working girls. Mr. Carnegie made his little talk on the doubtful advantage of being born rich.

"Most millionaires' wives are not happy," declared Mr. Carnegie. "They have too many luxuries and have no mental resources to fall back upon.

"I would rather be born poor than a millionaire, and I have had some experience in both directions. I want to say that the only right a man has to wealth lies in his acquiring it by some useful labor. The great trouble with the wealth of to-day is that the sons of millionaires do not realise this very necessity of being of use to the community."

South Ontario Liberals.

Whitby, Feb. 13.—The Liberals of South Ontario at the annual meeting Saturday afternoon elected officers and turned over to the executive committee the question of holding a convention to bring out a candidate for the Ontario Legislature. At a meeting afterwards the executive decided upon holding a nominating convention in the music hall here on the last Saturday in May.

A resolution supporting the reciprocity agreement with the United States was carried without an opposing vote. Fred L. Fowke, M.P. for this riding, in an extended speech gave an elaborate exposition of the agreement. Organizer Inwood addressed the meeting on provincial prospects.

Lloyd-George's Health.

London, Feb. 13.—David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer returned to England yesterday from Naples, where he has spent the last few weeks in the hope of regaining his health. The Chancellor has not yet completely recovered from his illness, and will spend the coming week at Brighton.

Consul-General Drowned.

Teheran, Persia, Feb. 13.—The body of T. Bogojavlensky, Russian consul-general at Ispahan since 1908, was discovered in a well on the grounds of the consulate yesterday.

The official had been drowned, and foul play is suspected, though there is no evidence of a crime.

Mormon Leader Dead.

Independence, Mo., Feb. 11.—Richard Hill, leader of the "Church of Christ," commonly known as the "Hedrickite" branch of the Mormon Church, died at his home here yesterday. As leader of the sect Hill was guard-in-chief of the famous "Temple Lot" here, which was set apart more than 75 years ago by Joseph Smith, original prophet and founder of the Mormon Church, as the site of a future great temple of the Lord.

The "Temple Lot" passed into Gentile hands, from which it was again obtained by the sub-sect. Hill succeeded Hedrick. He was born in Gloucester, England, in 1827.

New School Board System.

Quebec, Feb. 11.—The Quebec royal commission on education has recommended the creation of a central commission of twelve members, instead of the parochial system obtaining, and a separate English Catholic board. The members also suggest that parents of each district be called into consultation with the central commission at stated intervals.

There are thirty different school commissions in the city of Montreal at present.

Conspiracy to Smuggle Jewels.

New York, Feb. 11.—Wm. Rind, first officer of the American liner St. Paul, and W. C. Warner, formerly a shoemaker, were arrested by special treasury agents late yesterday, charged with complicity in a conspiracy to smuggle jewelry into the United States. The specific charge is that Rind and Warner brought in a five stone diamond ring on Jan. 1 without payment of duty, and sold it here.

Charged With Admitting Burglars.

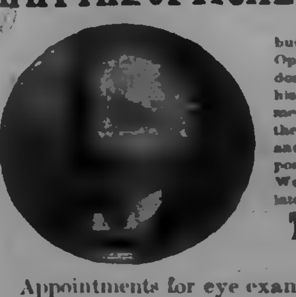
New York, Feb. 11.—James P. McKinney, jr., son of a well-to-do advertising man, is locked up in a police station here, charged with admitting two burglars to his father's home in Bensonhurst, and aiding them in looting the house. The two men also were captured, but not until one of them received a dangerous wound from a policeman.

Crippen's Will Is Filed.

London, Feb. 11.—The will of Dr. H. H. Crippen, hanged for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, was entered for probate yesterday. The property has a gross value of £208.

C.N.R. officials are unable to deny or confirm the rumor that Ethel Clare Leneve sailed on the Royal Edward last Wednesday.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.



WHY THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ourselves. There are Optometrist and Opticians who do a smaller, but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our ... We are ever adding to our facilities and studying the latest methods. This is why we succeed.

"The Style Store for Men"

ORGANIZATION COST $435,000

Farmers Bank Liquidator Shows Large Fees—Heavy Expenses

The Toronto Telegram on Saturday night contained the complete schedules of the receipts and expenditures by the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank, being official figures. The directors got $11,760.40, on July 4th there being items—no name given—of $2,500, $2,500, $3,000, and $2000 as paid out in this direction.

W. R. Travers got $23,896 commission on sale of stock, C. H. Smith $5,380.50, Alex. Fraser $800, A. S. Lawn $1,414, W. J. Lindsay $11,000.

In the disbursements there are two items of $80,000 and $20,000 unaccounted for, the grand total being $435,936. The receipts show notes and cash received of $402,869 for stock, or that the organization cost $30,000 more than the total receipts.

The C. P. R. "ready made farm" scheme will be extended to British Columbia.

PACKING INDUSTRY WILL BE HIT HARD BY RECIPROCITY

T. F. Matthews on Delegation to Ottawa to Protest Against Agreement.

Fielding Promises to Help the Packers if a Chance Offers—The Memorial

Peterborough was represented in the delegation of meat packers of Canada, which waited on the premier, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Wm. Paterson yesterday, to urge the injurious effect on the industry of the reciprocal agreement. T. F. Matthews represented the Geo. Matthews Co., others in the delegation being J. W. Flavelle and C. S. Blackwell, Toronto; Peter Lang, and Gunn, Montreal; C. W. Wilson, Ingersoll; W. Irwin, Stratford; W. W. Walker, Hamilton; B. Fearman, Hamilton.

The packers presented their memorial, and in the evening again met the Finance Minister and Minister of Customs. Mr. Fielding told the packers that if the United States altered any clause of the agreement, thus providing an option to Canada to do the same, the packers would receive full consideration. The memorial presented showed that while the Canadian packing industry would not be killed completely, it would never amount to more than a small local affair. It was, in part—

THE MEMORIAL.

The meat packers of Ontario and Quebec have in good faith invested large sums of money in fixed assets represented by their buildings and plant. They have had the courage to build and equip their houses in advance of the production of hogs necessary to their operation. They have to-day as they have had for years past an aggregate capacity greatly exceeding the aggregate supply of hogs. They are, therefore, deeply concerned and have great anxiety as to the effect upon these investments if the proposed reciprocal trade relations are established between Canada and the United States.

INCREASED DOMESTIC DEMAND.

The Ontario and Quebec packer has marketed his cured pork products in Canada and in Great Britain. Exports to Great Britain which in 1890 were $600,000, thirteen years later aggregated $15,000,000, and at present aggregate between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 annually. During this period of twenty years the domestic trade has steadily enlarged. In recent years large quantities of product hitherto exported have been consumed at home. The increased domestic demand has come chiefly from the western provinces. Undisturbed by tariff changes, those western provinces would ultimately raise and pack hogs in excess of their requirements, when the surplus, as well as the surplus from Ontario and Quebec, would go to Great Britain and would re-establish or enlarge the export figures of 1903.

VITAL TO PACKERS.

The continuance of this domestic and export trade we believe to be vital alike to packer and farmer in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. Each supplements the other and provides invaluable flexibility. It is because of this combined trade that during the last twenty years the average price of hogs in Ontario and Quebec each year has exceeded the average price of hogs in the United States. We have not had the extreme range in values, hence we have not been as high in price during a period of extraordinarily high levels, nor have we been as low in price during a period of extraordinarily low levels, but the average price throughout any year (with the exception of two years, when the price was in favor of Buffalo) has been higher.

VITAL TO EXPORT TRADE.

It is vital to the continuance of an export trade to Great Britain that shipments should go forward for arrival every week in the year. These shipments should be in quantity as nearly regular as possible each week during the year. This trade to Great

GIRL STUDENTS "DEFIANCE" DANCE

Ithaca, N.Y., Feb. 13.—Offended and indignant because only five of their number were invited to the junior "prom" Saturday night, the remaining 395 women students in Cornell University held a "defiance dance" of their own in the gymnasium of Sage College. No men were admitted and the fee required was only ten cents, in comparison with the $5 required for admission to the juniors' ball.

This is the first time that the young women have become militant enough to organise an opposition to their exclusion from functions conducted by the men. Miss Ada May Harrington, of Brooklyn, was the chairman of the committee.

CONGRESS LIKELY TO PASS THE TARIFF MEASURE TO-DAY

Ballot Showed Majority of 77 for Such Step.

Serious Split in Republican Party.

Washington, Feb. 14.—The McCall bill, carrying into effect the reciprocity agreement, reached the floor of the House yesterday, and probably will be passed by that body before adjournment to-night. Even the opponents of the measure admitted yesterday that there was no stopping it in the House.

A test vote came yesterday soon after the House was called to order by Speaker Cannon. Mr. McCall moved the immediate consideration of his bill. As finally corrected, the vote to take up the bill was 197 to 120. The bill will be passed, it is expected, by even a larger majority. Yesterday 101 Republicans voted against immediate consideration. This number will show a decided diminuation on the final roll-call. Sixty-three Republicans voted for immediate consideration.

The Democrats vote was divided, 134 in favor of immediate consideration and 19 against. As in the case of some of the opposing Republicans, a few of the Democrats voted against immediate consideration, because they are members of the District of Columbia committee. Democratic leaders say there will be but six or seven votes against the passage of the bill from their side.

The test vote taken yesterday and the general debate that followed, clearly demonstrated the serious split that exists among the Republicans of the House on reciprocity. It now appears that a majority of the Republicans will vote against the measure, although the President is likely to get more support from that side of the chamber than he at first anticipated. Like the "regulars" the "insurgent" ranks are torn wide open, and a majority of them will vote against the measure.

The Republican split is accentuated by the fact that one member of that party, Mr. McCall, of Massachusetts, is directing the debate in favor of the measure, and another Republican, Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania is directing the fight against it.

End of Poverty

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 13.—Dr. Jacob H. Hollander, professor of economics of the Johns Hopkins University, predicted that a day would come when poverty would be as obsolete as slavery, in an address at the Annual meeting of the Hebrew Benevolent Society.

COL. E. J. BALFOUR DIED IN LONDON

Brother of Ex-Premier Arthur Balfour Passes Away.

London, Feb. 14.—Colonel Eustace J. Balfour, a brother of ex-Premier Arthur J. Balfour, died to-day, after an illness that was rather brief. He had not taken any part in public life.

NOTHING IN THE FORTUNE

Dream of Toronto People Did Not Come True.

Philadelphia, Feb. 14.—To feel pretty well assured of an heirship to a considerable slice of over one hundred million dollars' worth of property in the heart of Philadelphia, and to be informed that all their fees for searches and trips to and from this place and Toronto, had gone for naught, is the disappointment that two residents of Toronto, Canada, carried home with them last week.

George Heise, 270 Huron street, and his son Clarence W., a clerk for the C.P.R., living in 23 Bellevue place, Toronto, are the victims. They claimed a portion of the estate of the late Col. Jacob Baker, who died over 100 years ago. Three daughters located in Ontario, and the Heises are descendants of one of these.

The Department of Internal Affairs informed young Heise and his lawyer that very many had come to Harrisburg on a similar quest, and the hint was dropped that he would be money in pocket should he decide to return to his desk and dismiss all thoughts of profiting by the demise of the late colonel.

At the City Hall, Heise and his lawyer were told that the Baker estate is non-existent. They were informed that about 1,500 letters covering the years that have intervened between 1876 and this time, requesting information as to the estate, are on file or heaped in a box. Some are said to be from other Ontario parties.

The trail of blighted hopes may be traced by means of the letters, many of them yellowed with age, from the rockbound coast of New England to the great lakes, to the Gulf and clear out to the Pacific slope, where it is summer all the year round.

Loses a Fortune.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 14.—Executors of the estate of the late H. J. Lamar of Macon are defending the suit of Lamar Washington for an eighth interest in a half million dollars on the ground that when young Washington wedded Miss Lucille Graves Osborne of New York several years ago, he did not obtain the consent of his aunt, as stipulated in the Lamar will. When a youth, he was adopted by his uncle, the late H. J. Lamar, and in consideration of the lad's "transfer," the uncle paid Lamar's father, Col. W. H. Washington of Nashville, $10,000.

FIRE IN HENSALL

Exploding Bullets Bombarded the Neighborhood.

Special to the Review.

Hensall, Feb. 14.—Fire this morning wiped out nearly the whole of the north side of King street. Cartridges exploding in two hardware stores that were burned, bombarded the whole neighborhood, but fortunately no one was hit by the flying bullets.

Fear of Tie-up of Many English Collieries Expressed

Special to the Review.

Sunderland, Eng., Feb 14.—Three thousand miners at Wearmouth collieries went on strike to-day. It is feared that the strike will spread all over York and Northumberland counties, and cause a general tie-up of the mining.

Fire due to an explosion of one of the lamps destroyed the lighthouse at Grindstone Islands, 100 miles from St. John, N.B., in the Bay of Fundy.

THREATENING LETTER FROM WOMAN TO TORONTO ALDERMAN

Writer Was Arrested—Will be Examined as to Sanity.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—A woman answering to the name of Appeline Belland appeared in the police court yesterday on a normal charge of vagrancy. She is being held, however, pending a medical examination as to her sanity, for she is thought to have sent the following threatening letter to Ald. N. Heyd:

"Turn, you blood-sucker, you have murdered all my flesh and blood. Remember, brute, you shall not get out of my hands. You cannot do anything for me after your cutting the flesh of my bones; you have no heart anyhow. So come to a point of business with me. But I shall do my duty, and get a brute like you out of sight. Any time will suit me. I am your
"Murderer."
(Signed) "Miss Appeline Belland."

Ald. Heyd received but one letter, and this he turned over to the police. Miss Belland was arrested Saturday. She is thought to be mentally deranged.

Using the 'Phone

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 13.—Brockton telephone subscribers must cease "spooning" over the wires or their rates will be increased. Manager Starbird says the lines are also so tied up with women talking about the latest fashions and in discussing housekeeping that the expenses of the company have jumped to such an extent that higher rates will be necessary.

DROPPED DEAD

Woodstock, Feb. 14.—James Forbes, for many years the turnkey at the county jail, and more recently organizer for the Sons of Scotland, dropped dead here this morning. The cause of death was heart failure.

WIRELESS ON ALL SHIPS

Measure to Compel Equipment on Canadian Ships.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—The Minister of Marine introduced in the House of Commons yesterday a bill to compel all passenger vessels to be equipped with a wireless telegraph system. The bill applies to all vessels carrying more than fifty passengers, except vessels plying between ports less than 200 miles apart. It is evident this would exempt vessels on the great lakes.

The bill was read a first time, as was also a bill by J. Stanfield (Colchester), to amend the Inspection and Sale Act so as to oblige millers and packers to mark the weight on each bag containing flour or meal.

During consideration of the amended bill respecting the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway Co., N. Nesbitt (North Oxford) moved the introduction of a clause providing that the company shall not enter upon or cross highways except with the consent of the municipalities affected.

Mr. Guthrie opposed the amendment, arguing that while such a clause was included in recent railway charters it was not necessary in the case of branch line charters of the C.P.R., G.T.R. and C.N.R., which were all under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission, and the latter might be depended upon to see justice done to the municipalities.

Mr. Nesbitt withdrew his objection, and the bill went through.

The amended bills to incorporate the Security Trusts Corporation, and respecting the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway Co. were also passed.

Mr. Macdonnel of Toronto was informed that last year the Government paid $1,808,533 in bounties on iron and steel, and $382,912 in drawbacks to manufacturers upon dutiable materials entering into manufactured goods exported.

The timely, if much discussed, topic of grain elevators was again debated at some length, on a resolution proposed by Dr. Schaffner (Souris, Man.), as follows: "The present system of operating terminal and transfer elevators is detrimental to the interests of the western grain producers, and that the Government should take immediate steps to operate terminal elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur and the transfer elevators between those terminals and the Atlantic seaboard."

Mr. Neely replied that the Government had already introduced in the Senate a measure dealing with the grain elevator business, placing its management in the hands of a commission.

He moved in amendment that the House take no action on Dr. Schaffner's resolution, pending consideration of the Government's bill.

Then the majority of the western members, as well as a number from the east, were heard from the Conservatives, supporting the motion, and the Liberals the amendment.

Hon. Frank Oliver thought the Government would not be justified in taking full responsibility for terminal and transfer elevators. It behooved any sane Government to move cautiously, and this Government could not undertake this huge responsibility without thorough enquiry into the matter.

Dr. Schaffner's resolution was voted down by 96 to 54.

Mr. Verville's eight-hour bill was given its third reading. Dr. Sproule, Dr. Edwards and Mr. Hodgins spoke against it.

CANADIAN GENERAL PROPOSE TO ERECT LARGE LAMP FACTORY

Building Would Be 60 x 250 and Cost $250,000.

To Be Built on Townsend Street West of Park.

The Canadian General Electric Company may make another addition to its large plant in this city.

General Manager Nicholls, of Toronto, with his assistant and E. G. Patterson, waited on the Board of Works at a special meeting this afternoon and stated that the company contemplated erecting a lamp factory on Townsend street, west of Park. The new building, which would cost $250,000 would be 60x250 and four storeys high.

The front of the building would be beautified, with a lawn and other horticultural effects.

Mr. Nicholls asked if the city would grade Townsend street, put in a sewer and build a sidewalk in the event of the factory being erected, and he was assured that this work would be done.

He stated that he wished the factory erected in Peterborough, as did also his assistant and Mr. Patterson, but the matter would be decided within the next week or two.

In any event, the intention of the company was to erect a new office building.

Speaking of the progress of the company, Mr. Nicholls made the statement that last year $2,500,000 had been paid out in wages.

Interview Postponed

The deputation from the County Council, which was to have travelled to Ottawa this week, to wait upon the Minister of Public Works has been postponed indefinitely. It is understood that the minister is at present too busy to give the matter his attention, hence the delay.

LINE FENCE BILL IS OFF

Bill Withdrawn at Request of Premier Whitney.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—Two Opposition, 23 Government private members and eight Cabinet Ministers worked like beavers at the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon. The ladies' gallery was empty, while the Speaker's gallery was graced by one lady visitor and an usher. Twenty-five attentive male auditors in the visitors' gallery essayed the task of following the proceedings. This was one of perplexity and difficulty, as the House largely worked in committee on statutory revision.

Sir James Whitney's bill for the protection of persons employed in the construction of buildings empowers the Government to appoint as many inspectors of scaffolding as may be necessary in cases where the municipality does not appoint a sufficient number of inspectors.

A clause is printed strictly prohibiting the erection of scaffolding which is "unsafe, unsuitable or improper," in not affording "proper protection to the life and limb."

Swinging scaffolding more than 20 feet from the ground, must have a safety rail.

The maximum penalty for an infraction of the act is placed at $500.

A number of regulations in seven additional clauses prescribe the regulations to govern different classes of buildings.

An interim report was presented to the House from two commissioners, Chief Justice Sir Charles Moss and Mr. Justice Garrow, on the Windsor Cemetery incorporation bill.

The commissioners reported that the bill should not be allowed to pass, as it in effect was a forfeiture of the property of the Windsor Improvement Co. The report said that "the mere lack of organization for many years does not cause a extinction of corporate existence." The commissioners did not return the bill, and after those having interests in the Windsor Improvement Co. have been heard from, may present the bill in a changed form with additions.

W. H. Hoyle, Conservative, North Ontario, brought up his bill respecting line fences. The object of the bill was to make the restrictions in regard to line fences more rigid.

Sir Jams Whitney asked for the bill's withdrawal on the ground that it curtailed to too great an extent the liberty of the farmers. "This bill," he said, "is an interference with a man's control of his own property."

The bill was withdrawn.

P. H. Bowyer's (East Kent) bill to amend the Public Schools Act was given a second reading.

Another contest to abolish exemptions in lands used in connection with churches, schools, and cemeteries was inaugurated by C. R. McKeown, Dufferin, Conservative, who moved his bill to amend the assessment act by repealing a series of exemption clauses, including three new exemptions.

The buildings and grounds of and attached to or otherwise bona fide used in connection with and for the purpose of every university, high school, public or separate school. The buildings and grounds of every seminary of learning, maintained for philanthropic, religious or educational purposes.

Considerable progress was made in committee with the statutory revision.

Pekin, Feb. 14.—Army medical schools are being established to teach Chinese soldiers methods of combatting the bubonic plague. Great efforts are being made to stamp out the plague, but it is spreading rapidly in spite of all that can be done.

A New System.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—Mr. A. A. Dion, general superintendent of the Ottawa Electric Co., is out with a new suggestion for the revision of the electric light rates in the city.

It is to base a flat charge for light on the rent or assessment of a house or business premises. It has, he says, been used to advantage extensively in England, and found to work satisfactorily. Thus, if a man is a tenant, he would pay for his light on the basis of his rent, or if he is an owner he would pay on the assessment value.

Vagrant Swindled Ministers.

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 14.—Eugene P. McPherson, aged 23 years, of Connecticut avenue, Buffalo, was sent to the penitentiary yesterday for six months on a charge of vagrancy. He managed to elude the officer, taking him from the detention room, and made his escape. McPherson was arrested on the complaint of a score of ministers, who said he swindled them out of money with a hard luck story.

FLOATING A BANK

The statement of the liquidator of the Farmers' Bank, showing the receipts and expenditures of the provisional directors is indeed a remarkable document. It shows that the organization of the bank cost the cool sum of $445,000, or nearly half a million dollars. The fees were large, and the expenses were heavy and everyone concerned in the floating of the venture seems to have reaped extraordinary pecuniary rewards for their labors.

The provisional directors themselves did not share at all badly. They got over $11,000. The statement shows that payments to them extended from Jan. 21st to July 4th, on this latter date $10,000 being distributed to anonymous persons. This $10,000 was divided into two sums of $2,500, one of $3,000, and one of $2,000.

The solicitor's fees totalled $1,668.30, which isn't heavy, as some legal charges go. The stock selling commissions amounted to over $40,000, of which $23,000 went to W. R. Travers, and $11,000 to W. J. Lindsay.

The statement of receipts and expenditures shows a grand total of receipts of $401,387. The payments are of course most interesting. Two items of $80,000 and $20,000, a total of $100,000, are unaccounted for, the statement including a payment to the Union Bank of $127,372, and to the Trusts and Guarantee Company of $60,605, and other minor items. The financing of the affair seems to have been most remarkable, and with such an extravagant start, on small capital it is no wonder that the end came quickly.

ON BEING WEALTHY

Andrew Carnegie, addressing some factory girls in New York, is reported to have told them that riches do not bring happiness—that a millionaire's wife does not enjoy existence nearly as much as many of her poorer and humbler sisters.

Andrew Carnegie ought to know what the joy of being rich is, because he has reached a top-notch position at the job, and his gifts do not seem to have reduced him to dire poverty as yet. Andrew is a good authority on the subject, and if he doesn't get rid of his riches in order to secure more happiness we may accept his decision that wealth isn't all the joy and comfort in life.

Who hasn't heard how John D. Rockefeller would give all his vast millions for the joy of eating a good, sound meal—roast beef and plum pudding style and feeling a better man thereafter! John's luncheons are peptonized, pre-digested, lactated and guaranteed-not-to-hurt sop, with a half a dozen medicos constantly meditating on the effect of this, or that, on the poor man's stomach, cannot be compared with a poor man's ability to stow away everything on the table and grunt for more.

Very few of us have the opportunity of finding out what a rich man's stomach is like, so let us all be truly thankful if we have the poor man's—and enjoy our few short years on this earth.

What Andrew Carnegie says is correct in itself. Humanity is never satisfied. We no sooner get what we are aiming at than we want something else, and chase off to get it. If we were wealthy, we'd perhaps wear a new suit every week, have a wardrobe of four hundred suits, like the Kaiser, investigate the conditions under which the Eskimos and Hottentots live, and having got tired of paying tips to pestering porters and obsequious stewards, want to get down to real work-a-day life again for a while. "Money is the root of all evil," the old saw says, and of course, we who haven't got it say that we would like to get better acquainted with the evil.

We may think that having plenty of money is a great thing—and so it is. The only pity is that so few people rise to this greatness. But there is such a thing as having too much. No one would like to have so much wealth that he had to stay awake twenty hours out of twenty-four trying to pry off those who would like a hunk. Some of the magnificent millionaires whom we, in our thoughtless moments envy so much, have to work a great deal harder than we do, keeping what they have, and trying to get more. All we have to do is to try to get more.

So, if you aren't an Andrew Carnegie don't lose any sleep. The good people of this world are usually found among every day humanity. The higher up you get the more people have their eyes on you—and many of us are really too modest to want to be the recipients of a lot of unwelcome attention. It is often inconvenient. The only way for the poor people, bless 'em, is to save up their pennies until they climb into the much desired plutocratic class.

THE FIREMEN'S WAGES

At the Fire and Water Committee last night the request of the firemen for an increase of ten cents a day was turned down on motion of Ald. Edgar and Ald. Kenneghan. The request was, in our view, and, we think, in the view of most citizens, a very reasonable one. The salary of the men is graded from $500 to $575 a year, or from less than $10 a week to a trifle over $10.

The table which was submitted by the firemen to the chief shows that it costs a married man with a family, easily the full amount of his wages to live, without indulging in luxuries. Indeed, the men say that they are able to make ends meet with only the strictest economy, and by watching every expenditure.

A man is entitled to a little profit on his labor, even though he work as a fireman. If he gets $10 a week, his living expenses should not be more than $8 or $9, in order that he may lay by a little for the rainy day. This is a rule of labor which should obtain with every business. We do not mean that a man should get more than he is worth; or that he should be paid in excess of requirements of a decent living. But a man who does not have a little surplus over his regular expenses is not working for more than an existence.

The regulations of the fire department show that each fireman is supposed to work about 220 hours out of 288—or rather be around the station in case of a call. This deprives a married man of the company of his family most of the time. It practically makes his home a meal-getting place. What solace is this for a father? Does it not leave the great burden of conducting household affairs onto the wife?

If the city of Peterborough cannot afford a living wage to its married firemen it cannot afford to spend $4,000 in a year on publicity. To provide a decent existence for its present employees is much more encumbent on a city than to bring others here. We believe that the people at large will heartily sympathise with the firemen in their request.

EDITORIAL NOTES

In cutting off their queues, the Chinamen should be careful as to the details of the proceeding.

Does it seem odd that members of parliament should have caught typhoid fever at Ottawa, the cause being bad water?

The two Blue-nose members who called each other liars the other day in the House, should line up with the Rooseveltian Ananias club.

Bohemian twins, joined together at the hips, as were the Siamese twins, have had trouble in England with a railway conductor, who asked for two fares. A case of two-in-one would be a puzzle for a conductor.

There has been twenty-two deaths from typhoid in Ottawa, and since January 1st 544 cases have been reported. Instead of finnicking about whether it should be called the Washington of the North, or any other fancy name, Ottawa had better get busy, or else it will be known as the typhoid city of Canada.

The Liberal whip in the British House of Commons says that he is compiling a list of men who will accept peerages, if the Lords refuse to pass the veto bill. He ought to find considerable trouble, not in getting enough men, but of staving off the applicants.

King George has done away with the old custom of barring finger bowls from the royal table. The King hasn't much more use for the ways of his forefathers. He believes in being guided by the necessities of the present.

A preliminary vote on the reciprocity bill in Congress gave a majority for the bill of over 70. This ensures the passing of the bill in the House, as an effort was made to block it. If the Senate does likewise, Canada will need to increase her lines of communication to Washington, our new capital.

Germans who ill-treat their wives are sent to jail for the week-ends until their term is served. This avoids making the families suffer because the husband and father is locked up. It is a very sensible idea, if you can catch the man at the end of each week. Sunday is always quietly spent. The Lord's Day Alliance should take up the scheme.

D. D. Mackenzie, M.P. for North Cape Breton in the House of Commons, on Friday said that a fellow Blue Nose was guilty of a "deliberate and intentional falsehood—a lie." Having to withdraw the statement because it was unparliamentary, Mr. Mackenzie said he withdrew it "in the House, but not outside." This is the sort of childishness that the country pays Mr. Mackenzie $2,500 a session for.

THE TARIFF SITUATION

From The Canadian Courier.

For a year or more it has been known that a reciprocity treaty was possible, and yet some of the interests affected are now crying out that they had no warning. Last summer there appeared on this page a warning to the Canadian manufacturers that the country was fast moving towards free trade. All the thanks the writer got was an insinuation that the Canadian Courier was complaining because it didn't get enough advertising patronage. Further warnings were given, but the manufacturers and others interested in maintaining the status quo refused to listen to any person. The duties on German imports were reduced. The duties on French goods were reduced. The duties on certain goods coming in from the United States were reduced. A reciprocity discussion was arranged for by the officials of Canada and the United States. Were not these warnings sufficient?

Even now the manufacturers see no great danger in sight. They know that the salt industry is hard hit, that the meat-packing industry is shuddering, that the implement manufacturers must face reduced duties and that other industries are to be subject to keener competition. Only the United States Senate blocks the way—and that blockade will be raised before the year ends. Then the question arises "What next." What will follow the "Jim Hill Treaty," as the Toronto News describes it?

Can any broad-minded man look over this situation with a keen, open mind, and not come to the conclusion that Canada is slowly passing from the list of protectionist countries? We are not arguing against protection, or in favour but simply trying to face the facts squarely. We are simply repeating our warning that the advocates of free trade are doing broader and more effective work than the advocates of protection. If Canada moves towards free trade as fast in the next five years as it has in the past five years, there will be a tariff for revenue only instead of a tariff with protective features. When the Democrats come into power in the United States Congress, as they likely will shortly, what is to prevent their enlarging the present reciprocity arrangement so as to include many other lines of manufactured goods? Is there any reason to believe that the farmers of Canada are likely to be content with their present victory?

Pronounced Their Vows.

Will Sue the Doctor.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—The fact that a man, named R. Hutt, was sent to the city on Friday by a doctor in Valleyfield, suffering from smallpox, is causing no little concern in the health department at the City Hall. The medical health officer stated yesterday that he would take legal proceedings against the Valleyfield physician for his action.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Feb. 13.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 86 carloads, consisting of 1593 cattle, 331 hogs, 1120 sheep and lambs and 2 calves.

Exporters.

Geo. B. Campbell bought for Morris & Co., 50 steers, 1350 lbs. each, at $6.33, 184 steers for Liverpool, 1250 lbs. each, at $6.10.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots sold at $6 to $6.25; loads of good, $5.75 to $6; medium, $5.50 to $5.75; common, $5 to $5.40; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; bulls, $4 to $5; canners, $2.75 to $3.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited number of milkers and springers found ready sale at $40 to $75 each.

Veal Calves.

Trade was strong for veal calves, at $3.50 to $8.50, and two choice, new, milk-fed brought $9.25 and $9.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn, who handled nearly all the sheep and lambs, reported prices as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4.25 to $4.75; rams, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $6 to $6.60, and one choice bunch of 15 selects, $6.80 per cwt.

Hogs.

We asked three dealers the price of hogs, and each gave a different price. The first one gave $6.90, the second one gave $7, the third one gave $7.10 to $7.15, as the f.o.b. price of hogs, with 25c on top of these quotations for fed and watered.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 11 were 1700 cattle, 1175 sheep and lambs, 2850 hogs and 300 calves. The supply for sale on the market this morning consisted of 900 cattle, 125 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 160 calves.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being firmly maintained at the advance noted a week ago, owing to the fact that supplies were no larger, and, as the quality of the stock was generally good, the demand was active, and a brisk trade was done, as butchers in most cases were pretty well cleaned out of beef. Choice steers sold at 6¾c; good at 6¼c; fairly good at 6c to 6¼c; fair at 5¾c to 5⅞c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5¼c per lb. Extra choice bulls brought 6c to 6¼c, and from that down to 5c per lb. was paid for the lower grades.

Supplies of hogs were fair, for which the demand from packers was good, and in consequence the tone of the market was steady, with no change in prices to note. Selected lots sold at $8 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

The trade in sheep and lambs was quiet on account of the small offerings, and prices were unchanged. The demand was good for what stock was on the market, and sales of sheep were made at 4½c to 4⅝c, and lambs at 6½c to 6¾c per lb. Calves were very scarce, and prices have advanced, with sales of choice stock as high as 7½c to 8c per lb., and the commoner ones at 5c to 7c per lb.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 1825 head; market active and steady; prime steers, $6.50 to $6.75; butcher grades, $5.75 to $6.25; cows, $4.25 to $5.25.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX, Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"Let us reason it out. Do not look for Larsan in that place where he reveals himself. Seek for him everywhere else except where he hides himself."

He seated himself, placed his pipe on the table, buried his face in his hands and said:

"Now I have no eyes. Tell me, Sainclair—who is within these walls?"

"There is, first of all, you and I."

"Very well."

"Neither of us," I continued, "is Larsan."

"Why?"

"Why?" I echoed.

"Yes, why. Tell me. You must give a reason why you believe so. I acknowledge that I am not Larsan. I am sure of that, for I am Rouletabille; but, face to face with Rouletabille, tell me why you cannot be Larsan—neither you, nor Stangerson, nor M. Darzac, nor Arthur Rance, nor Old Bob, nor Prince Galitch. But we must know some good reason why each of these cannot be Larsan. Only when that is accomplished shall I be able to breathe freely behind these stone walls!"

"How about the servants?" I asked.

"I am absolutely certain that none of them was absent from the Fort of Hercules when Larsan appeared to Mme. Darzac and to M. Darzac at the railway station at Bourg."

"Own up, Rouletabille," I cried, "that you don't trouble yourself about them because none of their eyes were behind the black spectacles."

"Be quiet, please. You make me more nervous than my mother."

This phrase, uttered in vexation, struck me strangely. He resumed meditatively:

"First, Sainclair is not Larsan because Sainclair was at Trepot with me while Larsan was at Bourg.

"Second, Professor Stangerson is not Larsan because he was on his way from Dijon to Lyons while Larsan was at Bourg. As a fact, reaching Lyons one minute before him, M. and Mme. Darzac saw him alight from the train."

"But all the others, if it is necessary to prove that they were not at Bourg at that moment, might be Larsan, for all of them might have been at Bourg."

"First, M. Darzac was there. Arthur Rance was away from home during the two days which preceded the arrival of the professor and of Darzac. He arrived at Mentone just in time to receive them (Mme. Edith herself informed me in reply to a few careless questions of mine that her husband had been absent those two days on business). Old Bob made his journey to Paris. Prince Galitch was not seen at the grottoes nor outside the Gardens of Babylon.

"First, let us take Darzac."

"Rouletabille," I cried, "that is sacrilege! It is stupid!"

"I know it! But why?"

"Because," I exclaimed, almost beside myself, "Larsan is a genius, we are aware; he might be able to deceive a detective, a journalist, a reporter, and even a Rouletabille; he might even deceive a friend under some circumstances, I admit. But he could never deceive a daughter so far that she would take him for her father. That ought to reassure you as to M. Stangerson. Nor would he deceive a woman to the point of taking him for her betrothed. And, my friend, Mathilde Stangerson knew M. Darzac and threw herself into his arms at the railway station."

"And she knew Larsan, too," added Rouletabille coldly.

"I prefer rather to bestow, for the sake of supposition, a personality on M. Robert Darzac which I have never expected to fasten upon him in order to base my argument against the possibility a little more solidly. If Robert Darzac were Larsan, Larsan would not have appeared on several occasions to Mathilde Stangerson, for it is the apparition of Larsan that has created a gulf between Mathilde Stangerson and Robert Darzac."

"Pshaw!" I cried. "Of what use are such vain reasonings when one has only to open his eyes?"

"Upon whom?" he asked bitterly.

"Prince Galitch—the prince from the Black Lands."

"Prince Galitch is a nihilist, and I am not troubled over him in the least degree. Bernier's wife told me she knows one of three old women whom Mme. Edith saw in his grounds. I have made an investigation. She is the mother of one of the three men hanged at Kazan for the attempted assassination of the emperor. I have seen the photograph of the poor wretches. The other two old women are the other two mothers."

"And Old Bob?" I asked.

"No, dear boy, no!" scoffed Rouletabille, almost angrily. "Not he either. You have noticed that he wears a wig, I suppose. Well, I assure you that when my father wears a wig it will fit him."

CHAPTER X.

His Agony From the Perfume of the Lady In Black.

I PUT my head out of the window on waking next morning. Mme. Edith was walking in the court, chatting carelessly with Rouletabille and twisting the stem of a beautiful rose between her pretty fingers. I followed Rouletabille, whom I saw on his way to make his inspection of the square tower. I found him quite calm and entirely master of himself—and also entirely the master of his eyes. It was worth while to see the manner in which he looked at everything around him! Nothing escaped him. And the square tower, the abode of the Lady in Black, was the object of his constant surveillance.

When M. and Mme. Darzac were not in their apartment, the only key which opened the door was in the keeping of the Berniers, and it was a special kind of key made purposely for the room within the last twenty-four hours in a place which no one but Rouletabille knew. He had let no one into the secret.

Rouletabille wished that the watch might be kept also upon the rooms of Old Bob, but the latter swore that he would not be treated like a prisoner, and he said that on no account would he give up the privilege of going and coming to his own rooms when he saw fit without asking the keys from the lodge keepers.

Mme. Edith had said, with her lips pressed together in a narrow little line, "But, M. Rouletabille, my uncle doesn't think that any one is coming to carry him away!"

Rouletabille, after asking after the health of Mere Bernier, who was gathering up potatoes and putting them in a bag, requested Pere Bernier to open the door of the Darzacs' room.

This was the first time that I had entered the apartment. The atmosphere was almost freezing. The large room, furnished with simplicity, contained a bed and a toilet table placed at one of the two openings in the wall around which there had formerly been loopholes. The two windows were fitted with bars of iron between which one could scarcely pass one's arm. Opposite in the angle of the tower was a panel. It would have been impossible for any one to hide in this chamber unless behind this panel. And the Berniers had received orders to look every time they visited the room both behind the panel and in the closet where Darzac hung his clothes.

When we passed into the sleeping room of Mme. Darzac we were absolutely certain that we had left nothing behind us of which we did not know.

Mme. Darzac's room was smaller than than that of her husband. But it was bright and well lighted from the way that the windows were placed. As soon as we set foot over the threshold I saw Rouletabille turn pale, and he turned to me and said:

"Sainclair, do you perceive the perfume of the Lady in Black?"

I did not. I perceived nothing at all.

Rouletabille, after having looked under the bed, gave the signal for departure and motioned us from the room. He lingered for a moment, but no longer. Bernier locked the door with the tiny key, which he put in his inside pocket and tightly buttoned his coat over it. We made the tour of the corridors and also that of Old Bob's apartment, which consisted of a bedroom and sitting room, as easy to examine and as incapable of hiding any one as those of the Darzacs.

In short and in fact, nothing escaped Rouletabille, and when we had made the rounds of the square tower we had left no one behind us save M. and Mme. Bernier. One would have said, too, that there could have been no human being in the apartment of the Darzacs before Bernier, a few minutes later, opened the door to Darzac himself, as I am now about to relate.

It was almost 5 o'clock when, leaving Bernier in his corridor in front of the door of the Darzacs' room, Rouletabille and myself found ourselves again in the court.

At that moment we climbed to the platform of the ancient tower at B—. We seated ourselves upon the parapet. At that moment we noticed upon the edge of the Barma Grande the disturbed and wrathful countenance of Old Bob. His shadow was the only dark thing about. By what prodigious anachronism it was that this modern scholar with his coat and hat in the height of fashion should be moving about, grotesque and ghoulish, in front of this cavern 300,000 years old formed by the ardent lava to serve as the first roof for the first family in the first days of the world! We could see him brandishing his skull as he had done at the table, and we could hear him laugh, laugh, laugh. It tore our ears and our hearts.

Our attention was drawn to Darzac, who was coming through the postern of the gardener. He did not see us. He was not laughing! Rouletabille felt the deepest pity for him, for he saw that he was at the end of his endurance. In the afternoon he had said to my friend, who now repeated the words to me: "Eight days is too much! I do not believe that I can bear this torment for eight days!"

We followed him with our eyes to the door of the square tower. We could see from his looks that he could endure no more. Well, M. Darzac a little after this gave me cause to experience the most frightful thrill of terror which could freeze human bones.

Darzac went straight to the square tower, where, of course, he found Bernier, who opened the door for him. As Bernier had been keeping constant guard before the door of the room, as he had kept the key in his pocket and as we had proved by our investigation that the place was empty when we had left it we had established the fact that when Darzac entered his room there could be no one else there. And this is the truth.

At the moment that we saw Darzac go to his room we heard a clock strike 5.

Rouletabille and I remained chatting upon the platform of the tower B for another hour. Suddenly my friend struck me a little tap on the shoulder and exclaimed, "For my part I think"— And then, without completing the sentence, he started for the square tower. I followed him.

He thought of Mere Bernier's bag of potatoes which he emptied out on the white floor of the room to the great amazement of the good woman; then, satisfied with this act, which evidently corresponded to the state of his mind, he returned with me, while behind us we could hear Pere Bernier laughing as he picked up the potatoes.

As we reached the court we saw the face of Mme. Darzac appearing for a moment at the window of the room occupied by her father on the first story of la Louve.

The heat had become insupportable. We were threatened with a violent storm, and we believed that it would begin to lighten immediately and relieve us.

A few drops of water had begun to fall.

THE MARVELLOUS POWER OF FRUIT

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" IS THE ONLY REMEDY MADE OF FRUIT

Fruit is nature's physician. Fruit juices increase the action of liver, bowels, kidneys and skin—and form the greatest known blood purifier. Physicians know, however, that it is impossible to use fresh fruit in practice.

"Fruit-a-tives" is made of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—which contain all the medicinal or healing properties of all fruits.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts just like the fresh fruit juices—gently and mildly.

"Fruit-a-tives" is a true stomach tonic—a certain cure for Constipation and Biliousness—the best Kidney Regulator and Blood Purifying Medicine.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Unable to Land.

Halifax, Feb. 14.—The Government steamer Montmagny, returned from Flint Island yesterday unable to effect a landing on account of heavy ice, which completely blocked Cabot Strait.

The Stanley is fast in the ice off Low Point, C.B. When she gets clear she will go to the Straits of Canso to help clear the ice from the shipping pier of the Inverness Railway & Coal Co., and will afterwards attempt to reach Flint Island and find out the cause of the distress signals which have been flying for several days. The officers of the Montmagny say the people could easily walk to the main land over the ice if they were urgently in need of provisions or medical aid.

Leneve Loses Suit.

London, Feb. 14.—Ethel Clare Leneve, the fair typist, for love of whom Dr. Crippen slew his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen, yesterday lost her fight for the Crippen estate when the courts awarded it to Mrs. Theresa Hunn, of Brooklyn, a half sister of the slain woman.

Dr. Crippen had willed his estate, which was under $1,500, to Miss Leneve, naming her as the sole executrix. Mrs. Hunn brought suit about six weeks ago and yesterday Judge Evans set the will aside on the ground of public policy.

Manitoba to Debate Tariff.

Winnipeg, Feb. 14.—The Manitoba Legislature will pronounce this week on the question of reciprocity. At the session last night T. C. Norris, leader of the Opposition, gave notice of a resolution which he will move on Thursday, approving of the reciprocity agreement, and asking the Dominion Government to give its immediate sanction. He also suggests that the Dominion Government give further consideration to the question of lower duties on agricultural implements. It is understood that the Government is likely to introduce an amendment regretting the tendency to break away from Imperial ties, and suggesting that at the next Imperial Conference preferential tariff be taken up, and also the question of free trade within the Empire.

Milkman Dies on Rounds.

Barrie, Feb. 14.—R. Reynolds, a man 67 years of age, died on the seat of his milk sleigh while on his rounds, just before noon yesterday. His nephew, who was with him, had left him only about five minutes previous to his death, to deliver milk about a block away. On returning he met the horse traveling the street at its leisure with the occupant dead on the seat of the rig.

The body was hurried to the office of Dr. Arnall, but nothing could be done, as life had become extinct. Coroner Wells was called in, and announced death as being due to heart failure. Deceased was a leading member of the local corps of the Salvation Army. A widow and five children survive.

Challenged Him to Duel.

Atlantic City, N.J., Feb. 14.—When J. W. Arnold, eldest brother of missing Dorothy Arnold, visited Geo. S. Griscom, jr., in Florence, Italy, he challenged the lawyer's son to a duel, according to reports here to-day. When Griscom refused to accept the challenge, young Arnold used his fists on Griscom. It was also stated that the fight was based on visit made by the missing girl to Griscom several summers ago, while the latter was in Boston, and when Miss Arnold was staying with a young married girl friend these.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

John H. Hammond will represent the United States at the coronation.

The opera house at Elk Lake and a couple of other buildings were burned yesterday.

Rev. W. H. Milne made a statement from the pulpit regarding the attack made on him by Col. Sam Hughes.

Thomas Cote, the stormy petrel of Montreal newspaperdom, will enter the service of La Patrie in about two weeks' time.

Mrs. William Marshall of Hamilton, Mrs. William Brown and Mrs. Hurd of Burlington inherit $250,000 by the death of their brother, Wm. P. Mallory, of Stamford, Conn.

The annual three days' convention of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, whose motto is "Banish the Barrooms," opened at Cooke's Church in Toronto this morning.

Frederic Nicholls, Canadian consul for Portugal, has been advised by the Portuguese Government that a decree has been issued that all deserters will be reinstated in their privileges if they present themselves at the consulate within one year.

The proposed Canadian reciprocity agreement is attacked in a letter sent yesterday to Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson by former Governor James J. Bachelder of Concord, N.H., national master of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, and chairman of the executive committee.

Dalhousie College Growing.

Halifax, Feb. 14.—The governors of Dalhousie College have started a campaign to raise a fund of $300,000 to pay for the new site recently purchased to erect a science building, take over the Halifax Medical College and provide an endowment fund. Andrew Carnegie, it is expected, will contribute an equal amount as that raised locally to the building.

Dr. John Forrest, who has been president of the university for 25 years, has tendered his resignation.

Burned to Death.

Smith's Falls, Feb. 14.—Samuel Howie, an aged resident of Huntley, Carleton County, was burned to death in his own home on Friday night. The deceased lived alone, and it is supposed that in building a fire in a stove to prepare his evening meal, his clothing caught fire and he was unable to extinguish the flames. The deceased was 71 years of age.

Still Election Laws.

Quebec, Feb. 14.—Godfroi Langlois, the member for St. Louis, Montreal, is determined to make elections in Quebec clean, if it can be done by means of legislation. He has already introduced a bill prohibiting committee rooms, etc., and yesterday followed it up with another which renders a cabman who lets his rig on election day liable to a fine of $100.

Will Not Abolish Preference.

London, Feb. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable).—Gen. Louis Botha and Dr. Jamieson have cabled The London Daily Mail denying the story that it is the intention of the South African federation to abolish the British preference.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

TO REMAIN THIRD YEAR

Rev. J. G. Brown Accepts Invitation—Church is Growing

The Quarterly Board of St. James' Methodist church met last evening in the church, where the regular business was transacted, and a unanimous invitation extended to the pastor, Rev. J. G. Brown, to remain for a third year, which he has agreed to do.

According to the reports last evening the church has had a very prosperous year in all departments. The membership has been almost doubled.

The average attendance of the Sunday school has been 260.

The church showed great activity and the results were most gratifying to the board.

LOVE, COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE

Illustrated Lecture by Rev. Jos. Northey at Knox Lecture Hall

Rev. Jos Northey gave a very interesting and instructive address in Knox lecture hall last evening on "Love, Courtship and Marriage in Ireland." The Irish wit, so necessary to all who claim to be Irishmen, was very much in evidence throughout and those who went to have a laugh did not need to go away disappointed. Limelight views were shown to illustrate points of interest and to give the audience a clear conception of the social life in Ireland.

In introducing his subject Rev. Mr. Northey had shown on the canvas a number of depicting scenes in Londonderry, Calmore and Mobille, some excellent land and sea scenes were also shown and explained by the lecturer.

After this introductory to Ireland, the speaker went on to the subject of the evening. Love is not at all a trivial matter. The Apostle Paul described love, but could not say what it was. In putting the question to a number of Irish boys, the speaker said he received the following replies, to the question of what is love?

"Well, sir, that's a tickler of a question," said one. "I'd say it is a softness of the heart that makes you soft on some little girl." Another replied, "I think it is a softness of the mind that makes the heart tremble and want to jump out of ye." The third, losing his shyness as the others were proceeding, said, "It is a queer queerness that makes you feel awful queer from top to toe."

Love is always the same, whether it be in the mansion or the humblest of abodes. When a boy is in love he is never satisfied until he has some woman's daughter for his wife and a girl until she has someone's son for a husband. In Ireland a boy is a boy until married, and a girl, a girl, even if she is getting around with the aid of a stick, until she is married. An Irishman will tell you he marries for love, but if the wife has a few sheep it will not do her any harm. He wants her mainly to work. Pictures were shown of the women milking cows, feeding calves and chickens, hoeing, digging and selling potatoes and at any number of duties which the wife of an Irishman. The matchmakers are very useful, often making matches while the contracting parties are busy with their toils. One woman claims to have made forty matches and all but two turned out successful, but as the speaker said, "you have to take your chances."

When a girl is wooed and won in Ireland, the securing of the consent of her father is a serious matter in the mind of the prospective bride-groom. If a father did not raise a fuss he would be supposed not to value his daughter highly enough. Many times the friend secures the girl for himself by betraying the other fellow. The speaker did not know much about the method here, but he described the Glengarry method. The young people would gather at some house and the boys sit on one side of the room and the girls on the other. A fellow would take a piece of peat and throw it so as to hit the girl he wanted to woo. Of course she would be hurt and would have to go over and see about it.

When a young man is courting a girl he is always exceedingly obliging to her father, but the wise young man gets the good-will of her mother. She can manage most of these things according to her wishes. The courtships is sometimes very short and at others extremely long.

The form of procedure when they wish to marry is somewhat different. Notice has to be given seven days before the license can be granted. When a young man goes to the minister to ask about the license the reverend gentleman always understands the symptoms at sight, but often have much fun watching the maneuvering before the subject is broached. After the wedding ceremony they meet at the market to receive the congratulations of their friends. There is fasting, drinking and dancing, the dancers often wearing masks of oat straw. When their hilarity rises they sing songs and tell stories. The man who can tell the biggest story without any hesitation is looked up to with adoration and envy. Each one tries to outshine the other. The second night is called the night of the bottle drink. The bride and groom then leave for their new home.

The children are a fine class, always full of fun and frolic.

Before closing views of many interesting places were shown, including the stone on which the Druids of old offered their sacrifices at least 3,000 years ago, the speaker explained. There were many old round towers throughout Ireland. They were nearly all found near old monasteries or churches and were thought to have once played a part in the history of the church. There was one place along the River Shannon where there were five or six of these towers.

In the Giant's Causeway, which is built up of layers of rock, a lady used to sell water by the glass and give whiskey with it. She evaded the police for a time, but was eventually rounded up. A picture of a large brewery was shown, but the speaker said the cause of temperance was making much headway.

The Belfast rope and twine factory was another large building, covering about thirty-eight acres. The Customs House at Dublin, Royal avenue, Belfast and the Technical Institute where everything was taught from the making of a needle to the building of ships, and many other places were shown.

CHANGES AT THE TABERNACLE

Basement to be Converted Into School Room

Alterations are now being made at Bethany Tabernacle, for converting what has been up till lately the basement of the church, into a Sunday school. Hitherto the Sunday school has been held in the church. A new ceiling and wainscoting are some of the improvements which are being made. The room will amply accommodate the scholars of the Sunday school.

FIVE MEMBERS WERE INITIATED

At Meeting of Sherwood Forest Camp Woodmen of the World

Sherwood Forest Camp, W.O.W., held a successful meeting last night, at which five new members were initiated. Dr. W. S. Harrison, H.C. Commander, was present and gave an instructive address on the work of the order. He said it had paid by $50,000 over and above death claims, and expenses. The year 1910 had been the best in the history of the order. There had been a net gain in membership of one thousand over and above all elapses. Messrs. Robert Fair, Wm. Gibbs, W. J. Johnston and F. G. Hassard gave short addresses. W. T. Collins, Deputy H.C., was unable to be present on account of his recent illness, from which he has not quite recovered.

The Y.P.S.C.E. Sleigh-Drive

Two bus loads from the Y. P. S. C. E. of St. Andrews Church drove to Lakefield and back last evening, and enjoyed themselves heartily.

Leaving the church about 7.30 they arrived in Lakefield in good time. After skating at the rink there for about an hour, the merry makers shortly after left for Peterboro, arriving at St. Andrew's Church about 1.30, where refreshments and hot coffee were served in the Sunday school room. Nothing occurred to lessen the pleasure of the affair, and the Y. P. S. C. E. agreed that it was one of the most enjoyable little outings they have ever held.

COMMITTEE DECIDED ON NO INCREASE FOR FIREMEN

Second Grade Pay for Fireman McBride

The Chief's Accounts Again Passed by

The Fire, Water and Light Committee at a meeting last night and on motion of Ald. Edgar and Kerneghan, decided to take no action, in regard to the request of Chief Howard for an increase of ten cents per day for the members of the fire department, himself excluded.

Two accounts of the chief were also placed on the shelf, while it was decided to place Fireman McBride on second grade pay, commencing March 1st.

There were present at the meeting the chairman, Ald. Morgan, Mayor Morrow and Ald. Edgar, Metheral, Kerneghan and Graham.

WORKMEN WERE STOPPED

Jas. Haggart appeared before the committee with the statement that he had been stopped from erecting booths for the Hardware Convention, in the armories, by the officer commanding the 57th Regiment, Lieut. Col. Stevenson. He stated that his work had to be completed by Wednesday night so that the decorators could commence. Their work would take up five days, and that time would bring the date up to the opening of the convention.

Lieut. Col. Stevenson, was also present and explained that he had understood that the armouries was to be used for three days only, and he had no authority to grant permission to allow of the place being used for the length of time, as was now intended. There was the question of insurance. None was carried on the armouries, and in case of fire he would be held responsible.

Mr. Haggart stated that the secretary of the convention had arranged for guards, to act when the decorating commenced.

The matter was left over for adjustment to-day, Col. Stevenson stating that he expected a reply from Kingston, where he had asked for instructions.

THE GREAT WHITE WAY

The Peterboro Light and Power Co., asked permission to erect two posts in front of their premises the same to be used for the installation of electric lights. On motion of Ald. Garham and Metheral, the request was granted.

THOSE ACCOUNTS

The first account of Chief Howard to be dealt with was for $21.20, that amount being his expenses in connection with a trip to Montreal to attend a convention last year.

The committee wasn't very clear as to the understanding with the chief at the time. Mayor Morrow held it was up to the chairman to say whether or not the account should be paid. Ald. Morgan replied that he didn't give the Chief permission to go.

It was mentioned that something had been said in a joking manner about the expenses being paid, if the Chief saved the committee $300 as a result of the trip.

He was to make some kind of a deal with the telephone company. The account was sidetracked as was also one for $8.03 incurred by the Chief in supplying refreshments at the time of the excursion from Midland last summer. This latter account has been discussed several times.

TELL THE CITY CLERK

Citizens who find lamps not burning should notify the city clerk. This is the suggestion of Mayor Morrow and it was made after Ald. Morgan had made the statement that there were lots of incandescent lamps not doing duty. One on Engleburn Ave, he said, had not been in commission for three weeks. Ald. Graham informed the committee that another in Ashburnham had not been burning for three months.

FIREMAN McBRIDE'S CASE

In Fireman McBride's case, the letter of Chief Howard was read again. It stated that McBride had been working continuously from July 22 1908, to July 15, 1910. He was reprimanded by the chief, and left, someone having told him that the Chief had discharged him. In August he returned to the fire hall, and was paid at the rate of $1.37 a day, that amount being for first year men. The Chief asked that McBride be paid the second year rate.

The Mayor thought the man should receive the rate. Ald. Metheral claimed the letter to be misleading, and asked why the Chief did not come out and tell all the facts. "The man was discharged by the Chief," continued Ald. Metheral.

The trouble was gone into again, but finally on motion of Ald. Kerneghan and Graham, the committee decided to Grant McBride, the second year scale dating from March 1st.

NO INCREASE

When the question of an increase for the firemen came up, Ald. Graham and Metheral gave their approval to the increase providing it was deducted from the salary of the Chief, and made a motion to that effect. An amendment moved by Ald. Edgar and Kerneghan that no action be taken found favor when the chairman asked for a show of hands on each.

The rate at present is $503 for the first year, $550 for the second, and $575 for the third, and clothes are supplied.

Earlier in the evening at the fire hall the men submitted to the Chief the cost of living each week for the average married fireman. One man has six children, and another five. There are eleven married men on the brigade. The men's weekly estimate of living expenses was as follows:—

Rent	$2.50
Groceries	4.00
Butcher	2.00
Bread	70
Vegetables	50
Coal	1.25
Clothes	1.00
Milk	21
	$12.66

Ald. Kerneghan commented on the poor driving of the horses, but when it was noted that Wm. Little was now on the job, nothing further was said.

ABOUT THE HOSE

The fourth ward alderman, had also something to say about the hose being left on the streets, two or three days after a fire, and where the rigs could and did drive over it. "It also remained in the hall two or three days before being attended to," he said.

Mayor Morrow asked when he had seen the hose left out on the streets, and Ald. Kerneghan replied such had been the case at the time of the Murphy fire and also at a fire, in the south ward.

He also informed the meeting that the brigade had come up Aylmer street and down Antrim, to a call from the box at T. J. Braunds store at the corner of George and Smith Streets.

"The men don't know the city" said Ald. Kerneghan.

The committee adjourned to make a call at the fire hall. An inspection there found everything in the best of shape. Cleanliness was noticeable in every detail. Not a speck of dust or dirt was to be seen. The horses and the stalls, even the floor of the stable were spic and span, and the conditions certainly reflect credit on the city's employees at the fire department.

An alarm was rung in from East City while the committee was making its rounds, and the brigade was outside the hall in seventeen seconds.

Scores of workers go home nightly with sore, smarting or aching hands! We want all workers to know that Zam-Buk gives ease! No matter how careful you may be while at work, the frost will get into that cut, or cause that old sore to re-open, or the biting cold from the articles and tools handled will cause painful sores.

As soon as you get home in the evenings bathe the hands in hot water to cleanse and soften them. Then apply Zam-Buk freely. It will be quickly absorbed and will cause no inconvenience. Repeat the process before going to bed, and by morning the soreness will have vanished and your hands will be ready for another day's hard work.

Try Zam-Buk for chapped places, frost bite, cold sores and all skin injuries and diseases. Also for piles.

FRONTENACS HERE AGAIN

Visitors Will Have Changed Line-up for Game With Grillers

The team to play against the Kingston Frontenacs to-night, will be the same as was seen in action at the first meeting here last week. The youngsters had a practice last night and will go into the game with the classic city boys, confident of making a better showing than on the previous occasion.

The ice will be in splendid condition and with any kind of luck, the Grillers should make the visitors travel as never before. The line up will be: Goal Patterson; point, Reynolds; cover, Halloran; rover Coughlin; centre, Hall; right, Anderson; left, Matthews

Montreals and Dominion-Ottawa met in a Bank League game Saturday, and should the former team win it means a three-cornered tie in the league.

CURLING

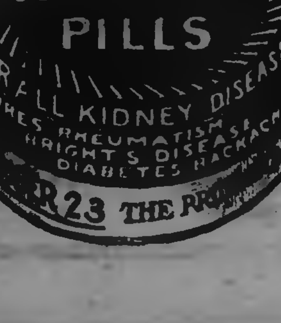
The Cobourg Waverley Club has postponed its bonspiel for a week. The secretary of the local club received the following telegram last night.

J. H. Ferguson,
Secretary Curling Club,
Peterboro, Ont.

Observatory weather predictions necessitate postponement of Cobourg bonspiel one week.

CHAS. McCALLUM.

There were no schedule games last night, only practice games being played.



WIN THE ROUND BY 14 GOALS

Whitby Defeated Trenton Again by Score of 13-5

Whitby, Ont., Feb. 13—Whitby's fast intermediates won the round from Trenton in the return game here tonight, when they defeated the winners of the district No. 1, by a score of 13 to 5, thus winning the round by 14 goals. The game was very fast, and the sample of hockey put up of the best. The visitors were strong only in their defence, and they owed much to the splendid work of Goaltender McGiffin, who was kept busy all evening repelling the hottest kind of attack. The game was clean and gentlemanly throughout.

Whitby has in young Vaugh, a matchless skater and stickhandler, and in McCammus and the Blanchards three fast and accurate shots. There were many brilliant plays throughout the game, which was one of the swiftest and most skilful ever witnessed. It is felt that the team that defeats Whitby will have their work cut out for them.

The line up:—

Whitby—Goal, H. Smith; point, B. Smith, cover, Waugh, centre, McCammus; rover, A. Blanchard; right wing, Watson; left wing, C. Blanchard.

Referee—L. Whitehead.

HOCKEY

The Kingston Whig says:—Williams will replace Marchand in the nets and the champions do not feel that will be weakened by this change. It is hoped that Brouse's eye will be in condition to allow him to play in Peterborough to-morrow. Frontenacs have secured Arthur Davidson, younger brother of "Al's," and Roy Morrison, of the R.C.H.A. team, in order to have some spare men eligible.

There is indignation against Oshawa by the local hockey fans. It will be remembered that last year they entered a protest against Moran, of the Frontenacs. It is felt that their action in this case was due solely because, after they had inveigled Marchand into going to Oshawa last spring, he returned home after a short stay. It is about time that the O.H.A. made a thorough investigation into the standing of sport in Oshawa. It is understood that during the spring and summer they imported between thirty and forty hockey players to that town in order to try and secure classy players for their team. Surely the O.H.A. must realize this and doing so it would seem about time to cut out a town that resorts to such methods.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

Owing to the big hockey game to be played to-night it has been thought wise to postpone the junior athletic contest until Wednesday, February 15 (to-morrow night) when every boy who is going to take part should be on hand so that the contest will start on time. The first event will be called at 8 o'clock.

The First Aid to the Injured class will hold their examination next Monday night, Feb. 20th. Those who have taken up this work and intend writing for their certificates, are requested to keep this date open.

In the championship bowling competition the Mivvies last night defeated the Millards in a close and exciting game, A. H. Sparrow rolling up the highest score of the night, which is also the high spoon score so far this week. His score was 184. Team score—Mivvies, 1100; Millards, 1005. The games scheduled for Wednesday night are Lancashires Trio vs Midgets.

SPORT TALK

Quite a stir has been caused among local sports by a rumor that Jimmie George, the great local Marathon runner is to turn pro and forsake the amateur ranks. It was hoped George would remain amateur and run at Boston in April next, and compete in the games in Sweden 1912, but this now seems to be knocked on the head. Mr. A. C. Kay, secretary of the Beaverton Atletic Club, laughs at the rumors that George is to turn pro' But that there is something doing is evidently the fact that George started training in the snow February 1st, and has been at it hard ever since.

The following is the list of Toronto Baseball Team's home dates for this season:—

Victor T. Trumper is being called prince of batsmen—meaning, of course, cricket, not baseball.

It was eight years ago that Trumper first electrified England with his wonderful batting. As a member of the Australian team he scored 2570 runs, with an average of 48.49. Later he went off his feed from overwork, but he is back again as brilliant as ever. In the recent test match between Australia and South Africa, Trumper scored 214, the second highest score ever made in a test match. When he passed 211, a test record made in 1884, the enthusiasm of the crowd knew no bounds, and the cheering may have had something to do with Trumper being retired after his 214th run.

FLEETWOOD

Special to The Review.

Fleetwood, Feb. 13.—In the course of a few weeks several families in this vicinity will be changing their place of abode. Mr. Richard Wright will be leaving the farm formerly owned by Mr. Richard Grandy, but now owned by Mr. Foster Scott, and removing to his own home, recently purchased from Mr. R. L. Staples.

R. L. Staples will be moving on to his father's farm, and he will find it a first-class farm, as it is in a high state of cultivation. We wish him every success in his new home.

Joseph Staples and family will move to their new home, recently purchased in Janetville. They will be greatly missed in this vicinity, especially in the church where they have always taken the foremost part in everything looking to the advancement of the church. Mr. Staples is selling his large list of farm stock and implements on Wednesday, February 22, when a large and enthusiastic gathering is expected. We join in wishing them every success in their new home.

Mr. Richard Grandy and family will also move from the farm house formerly owned by the late David Flack, but up to the present time he is undecided where he will locate, as he is looking for a good opening, such as a general store or grocery. They are high-class neighbors, and their places will be hard to fill, but we know they will locate in a first-class place when they do move, and we wish them every success.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Flack will be moving onto the farm recently purchased from Mr. David Flack. This is where Mr. Arthur Flack put in his boyhood days, under the careful guidance of the late David Flack. Everything was kept very tidy and up-to-date in years gone by, and we are certain they will be kept so now. By purchasing this property Arthur Flack has a farm well adapted to general purpose farming, as he has plenty of water and can keep any quantity of stock. We predict a bright future for Mr. and Mrs. Flack.

Thomas Scott, we understand, will move to the farm recently purchased from Richard Grandy.

We notice Mr. Albert Corby driving around a horse buyer. They report very slow purchases, as the farmers are asking unreasonable prices.

Ross Staples has finished hauling the timber off the land recently purchased from Mr. John Shea.

Free Speech Will Live.

New York, Feb. 14.—"Free speech in America will live even if the United States Supreme Court does declare the boycott case against us," declared Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, as he left for Washington yesterday.

"The freedom of the press also shall continue," added the labor leader.

"Should the court declare against us, of course we shall have to go to jail and the battle will be fought out all over again, and the voices of myself and my associates, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison will not be stifled, even if we are behind iron bars."

Will Appeal Fraser Decision.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—Not yet has the famous Michael Fraser case come to an end. Yesterday, Catherine McCormack, one of those who brought action to set aside the marriage, and who sought to show that Michael, the octogenarian, was not competent to manage his own business, gave notice of appeal to the Divisional Court, the argument of which will be heard to-day. Justice Britton tried the case, and, after visiting the old man, declared he was quite capable of marrying Miss Robertson or doing anything else without the direction his relatives.

Engineer Badly Hurt.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—Matthew James, an engineer, was badly injured in a collision near Sutton, Que., between two Canadian Pacific Railway freight trains early yesterday morning. The drivers averted a serious disaster by applying the brakes as the trains approached each other.

Arrests In London.

London, Ont., Feb. 14—Walter Richards, a young grocer, and Wm. Dennett are under arrest, and the police are looking for a third man in connection with an important robbery from Grand Trunk freight cars.

Pantchenko's Fate In Balance.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 14.—Arguments in the cases of Dr. Ivan Pantchenko and Count Patrick O'Brien de Lassy, charged with the murder of Count Vassili Bouturlin, were begun yesterday. A speedy verdict is expected.

Pantchenko, who is more than seventy years of age, is awaiting his fate cheerfully, but De Lassy is under the constant care of the prison physicians to prevent a collapse.

Legal opinion generally considers that the prosecution has not proved that Bouturlin, De Lassy's brother-in-law, was murdered.

The disreputable character of both prisoners was so thoroughly shown, however, that a verdict of guilty will not be surprising.

The Federals Retreat.

Marfa, Texas, Feb. 14.—Delayed advices received here yesterday clear up suspense over results of the fighting between Insurrectos and Federals around Mulata. The last word received during the middle of last week, told of Federal reverses in an assault on rebel lines at Mulata. News received here yesterday says the tide of battle remained the same with the result that the Federals retreated to Ojinaga, their base of supplies. The insurrectos were unable to check Luque's retreat. Their supply of ammunition was exhausted. The Federal loss was forty killed and wounded.

List of Peers to Pass Veto.

London, Feb. 14.—Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons yesterday that he would introduce the Government's veto bill next Monday.

As evidence of the Government's intention to force this measure through, John W. Gulland, the Scottish Liberal whip, stated in a speech at Edinburgh yesterday that he was busy just now compiling a list of men who would accept peerages with the object of passing the veto bill in the Upper Chamber, in the event that the Conservative peers proved recalcitrant.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

TWO MONTHS HARD LABOR

Port Hope Youth Arrested Here Sent to Jail

Port Hope Guide—Milton Thompson was in the police court this morning charged with stealing three rings, one bracelet and a chain with a locket attached, the property of Miss Ella Boyd. Thompson pleaded guilty.

Thompson and Miss Boyd were employed at the Royal Hotel and one day last week he visited Miss Boyd's room and stole the jewelry mentioned above. He at once left town and Miss Boyd reported the matter to Chief Bond. The chief learned that he had gone north and sent a letter to the Peterborough police giving a description of Thompson and asking them to be on the look out for him. The Peterborough police located him at 525 Cedar street living at the home of Miss Lumb who by the way had spent several months in Port Hope. Chief Bond went to Peterborough yesterday morning and found Thompson at the National Hotel, where he was engaged as porter. He only had one ring of the missing jewelry and he told the chief that he had given the others to his fiancee, Miss Evelyn Jarrett. Evelyn was located at the White House and was relieved of her diamonds and bracelet.

Thompson was brought in on the 10.10 train last night and the only explanation he would offer to the court this morning was that he intended to return the jewelry and had given them to Evelyn merely for safe keeping.

The magistrate stated that there was no excuse whatever for Thompson's actions. He visited the young lady's room, deliberately stole her jewelry and then went to Peterborough and gave it away. He would commit him to the counties' jail for two months at hard labor.

When the Peterborough police visited the Lumb residence they found Wesley Thompson a brother of the defendant in bed and placed him under arrest. Upon his explanation of the affair he was released.

WIDOW IS TOO MANY FOR HIM

Achillers Strassburger Seeks Refuge in the Law

Canton, O., Feb. 14.—From what he declared was the too ardent wooing of Mrs. Rose Murths, a widow, aged 35, Achilles Strassburger, aged 25, fled to the refuge of the law here to-day and caused his admirer's arrest.

"She was always asking me to marry her, and I don't want to," Strassburger told Police Judge Quinn. "She would say, 'Don't you think you could learn to love me?' And I said, 'Oh! go away, I don't want to marry you.'"

Judge Quinn said that inasmuch as it was not leap year there was nothing to justify Mrs. Murth's alleged conduct, and he held the prisoner to probate court, where her mental condition will be investigated.

EPWORTH LEAGUE HAD A CONCERT

Good Program Given in George St. Sunday School Hall

A splendid entertainment was given in the George St. Sunday school hall last evening under the auspices of the Epworth League. The program consisted of vocal solos and interesting dialogues by the little children, who had been specially drilled for the occasion, and by the young men and ladies.

There was a large attendance, and all report an enjoyable time.

James Kirkland, of Healy, Ont., was found dead in bed.

GAVE ADDRESS TO EPWORTH LEAGUE

Mrs. (Rev.) Fee Spoke to Young People of Charlotte Street Church

A very interesting meeting was held last evening under the Missionary Department of the Epworth League of Charlotte St. Methodist church. A short musical program was given, after which Mrs. Fee, returned missionary from China, gave an instructive address.

The following numbers were given—

Chorus—"A Sunbeam," six little girls.

Piano duet—Misses Lyle and Smith.

Vocal solo—Miss Rigby.

Mrs. Fee took as the basis of her address Romans I., 14, 15 and 16.

I. "I am debtor." Paul realized that he was a debtor to others who had not the gospel. So are we of today debtors as we owe this gospel every one.

II. Paul also says "I am ready." Ready for God's will; ready to preach; ready to stay at home; ready for all things which God might call him to do. Have we this spirit of readiness?

III. "I am not ashamed." Paul was not ashamed of the gospel he had. Are we in any way ashamed of our gospel? Is it hard to stand up for this gospel? Formerly, Mrs. Fee said, she used to speak of the hardships and cruelties that the Chinese had to undergo; of the opium trade; child betrothal and marriage; homes without love; cheerless lives; superstition and many other equally sad stories, but now she tells her listeners that these Chinese need Jesus Christ. We have very much the same conditions in our own land as are in China. Given the gospel, these Chinese make the same kind of Christians as we, with as many varieties. But under how vastly different advantages! In China they are first generation Christians. Taking their place in the commercial, political and scientific lines, these Chinese will not benefit unless they have the gospel but rather become more materialistic, more self-centred than before.

"Civilization is good and can effect much, but it cannot regenerate characters; philosophy is good, but it cannot satisfy the mind; the latest discoveries in science are wonderful but they cannot bring peace to the conscience. By all means let the Christian people give of its best but let the church see that first and foremost she sends the full gospel of Jesus Christ."

Nothing but the power of God will put the Chinese where they ought to be. They are finding now that something is lacking and unless we step in they will drop into materialism, which will make them much harder to reach.

In closing the speaker made a strong plea for helpers, both on the actual battlefield and also for those to assist with prayers and means.

CHILDRENS' AID SOCIETY MADE INVESTIGATION

Two Boys of English Family Sent to Toronto Shelter

Port Hope Guide:—The old saying "that one half of the world does not know how the other half lives" is very true and was clearly demonstrated here yesterday. We had in our midst, yes, in the very centre of our town, one of the most deplorable cases that has come before our notice for years. It was through the work of our Children's Aid Society and Mr. W. A. Gunton, of the Department of Neglected Children, Toronto, that this state of affairs was brought to light, and steps have already been taken to remedy it.

It was with an English family, husband, wife and four children, where the trouble existed. This family was housed in three rooms, and, according to Mr. Gunton's report, the place was in a filthy condition. The children, ranging in ages from 1 1-2 to 8 years, had not sufficient clothing to permit them leaving the house, and water was practically unknown to them. Their hair stood straight out, being a mass of grease and filth. There was only one bed in the place, and the only bed clothing found was one quilt, a blanket and one pillow.

Ashes were strewn all about the floor, and when asked if they were not afraid of setting fire to the place, the mother replied that she sprinkled water on the ashes before distributing them.

Mr. Gunton had the four children removed and the mother and father were brought before Magistrate White. They admitted the state of affairs as revealed by Mr. Gunton, but promised to do better.

The father stated that he worked at the Standard Ideal and earned $11 per week, of which amount he gave his wife $6.50, and he paid the rent. He was a moderate drinker and his wife indulged also. He pleaded hard to have his children returned and promised to have things fixed up properly.

Mr. Chesher told that on one occasion when he visited the house he found the four children alone and the two youngest were having an exciting duel with a butcher knife and paring knife.

The magistrate decided to commit the two girls to the shelter in Toronto and the boys were returning to their parents. Two ladies looked after the boys yesterday and gave them a much needed bath and fitted them out with new clothing. A close watch will be kept upon the parents and if a decided improvement is not made, the boys will be sent to the shelter also.

Frederick Schleffel, an elderly man, has been missing from Welland for several days.

Catarrhal Deafness

Successfully Treated By

Catarrhozone

Deafness is not so common as blindness, yet thousands are more or less afflicted by it, and their comfort seriously interfered with.

Catarrhal deafness manifests itself but slowly, yet it must be acknowledged that the great majority of those who become totally deaf might have averted this unfortunate condition if they had treated the catarrhal inflammation at its beginning.

The only remedy that can be safely employed for all forms of catarrhal deafness is Catarrhozone. You simply charge the air you breathe with this healing, soothing agent, and by forcing it gently through the ears destroy the germ life which keeps up the inflammation, and at the same time by the soothing, healing action it heals the inflamed surfaces of the middle ear.

CATARRHOZONE, to those who are just a little deaf, and are growing increasingly deaf, is an agent capable of affording the utmost satisfaction, and its use is attended without danger, and as the treatment can be carried on at home no person threatened with the affliction of deafness should postpone one moment in beginning its use.

From every part of the Dominion glowing accounts of the beneficial action it exerts upon catarrhal conditions of the middle ear have been sent in, and you will be resorting to the only method of cure, and the simplest method too, if you try Catarrhozone. Dealers everywhere sell it, 25c, 50c, and $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

PACKING INDUSTRY WILL BE HIT HARD

Britain cannot be sustained unless such constancy of shipments is maintained. This export trade in Canadian bacon could not survive if the product were on the market for a period of weeks, then off the market for a period of weeks. It is a trade which, if cared for regularly, is sufficiently generous in the average price established to make it worth while to the Canadian producer and packer and it has been this trade supplemented by the domestic business which has made the establishment of the hog industry possible in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

It may be argued that the Ontario and Quebec packers cannot object to the proposed changes. They have indicated that the average buying price of hogs in these Provinces is higher than the average buying price of hogs in the United States, hence under reciprocity they shall be in a position to buy and slaughter cheap American hogs. It will be sufficient to point out that the extreme fluctuations in price in the United States would be the controlling factor. During periods when the buying price of hogs thus determined by the United States was unduly low, packers in these Provinces would be able to operate on a large scale, making United States cuts for the export trade. During periods when a high price prevailed, determined by conditions peculiar to the United States, and when there was no parity for the time being between such buying price thus established, and the clearance value of export meats, the Ontario and Quebec packer would be forced to close down. Deprived of his western business through the lowering of the tariff, deprived of his export business during longer or shorter periods each year, the Ontario and Quebec packer would find his dependable trade confined to his local provincial business. This would be of insufficient volume to pay operating charges. The irregularity in the operation of packing houses under such conditions would introduce labor and other troubles and would so increase the operating charge per pound of product that the continuance of the business would be impossible.

We believe in addition that the industry of hog raising in these Provinces would be greatly injured and would ultimately fall into minor proportions. Farmers would be denied the advantages under which the industry has been established, as the buying price for hogs is now determined by returns secured from export and interprovincial trade, with the consequent general average of buying prices higher than those current in the United States. With the return of the inevitably low prices in the United States and for long periods similarly low prices must follow in these Provinces. For the reasons given we do not consider that the Ontario and Quebec farmer under reciprocity would secure the advantages of the occasionally high United States market and retain the advantages of the present generally high hog market which is the outcome of the present export trade to Great Britain. Reciprocity as proposed, would ultimately result in the price paid for hogs in Ontario and Quebec being determined solely by United States hog prices. We do not consider that feeding conditions in Ontario and Quebec are fairly competitive with the feeding conditions of the Western United States. We believe that, forced into lower values by the United States feeders, farmers in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec would become discouraged and would ultimately largely go out of the business of hog raising.

MEANS GREAT LOSS

We therefore respectfully, but earnestly press upon you our conviction that if the proposed reciprocal agreement becomes operative, the meat packing and hog raising industries in Ontario and Quebec will fall into such small proportions that they will practically cease to be industries of the country. This will impose great loss and severe hardship upon the packers, deprive their work people of employment, turn the farmers in these Provinces from the production and deprive the country generally of the direct and collateral advantages of important industries.

UNEXPLORED CANADA.

Vast Areas Where the Foot of a White Man Has Never Trod.

There are vast areas in Canada of which even the government has no definite knowledge, and there are thousands of square miles where the foot of a white man has never trod. Practically all knowledge of this big wild country has been secured again and again along a few chosen and well worn routes, outside of which investigation has seldom gone.

Imagine a dozen or so well beaten vehicle highways traversing a country one-fourth as large as Europe—narrow highways hemmed in by impenetrable wilderness—and one may form some sort of idea of the little that is still known of 000,000 square miles of the North American continent.

Along these routes nearly all "explorers" have gone. Along them are situated most of the fur posts, and beyond their narrow lines but little is known. And in this world of forest and ridge mountains and eternal desolation, still buried in the mystery and silence of endless centuries, are its "people."

Approximately there are from 15,000 to 25,000 human souls in an area fifteen times the size of Ohio, and there are no more than 500 of these who have not some Indian blood in their veins. On the other hand, fully one-half of the total population has its strain of white blood.—Leslie's Weekly.

RAILWAYS IN SPAIN.

Their Methods Are Not Those of the Strenuous Life.

A Spanish railway seems an excellent place for a rest cure. "I remember," writes Mr. S. L. Bensusan, "when going on a short journey in Andalusia, the train that carried me stopped at a short junction. While we were at rest here, after some hours of travel at the rate of at least twelve miles an hour, the driver uncoupled his engine and proceeded down the line with it in the direction we were not to take.

"The passengers walked contentedly up and down, smoked countless cigarettes, ate oranges, resisted the importunities of beggars. At last I became uneasy and asked where the driver had gone. 'Pedro has run down the line on his engine to take a birthday gift to his mother, who lives over there,' explained the station master; 'he is indeed a good son and will not trust his parcel to the post. Spain is full of thieves.' And when the good son had come back from his mission he restored the engine to its proper position and we re-entered the train, which went on its journey after three-quarters of an hour's delay."—London Graphic.

The Monkey and the Book.

A story is told of an eminent naturalist (I forget his name) who was hoping to develop the intelligence of a monkey to whose education he was devoting himself. One day he saw with delight that the monkey was sitting at the other end of the room turning over the leaves of a valuable book on entomology and looking at the plates with apparent interest. But on going nearer he saw, with dismay, that the monkey was turning over the plates in order that when he came to a particularly large beetle or butterfly he might pick it out and eat it. As the paper could not have had a nice taste, I think he may have been actuated rather by the fun of the thing than by a mere depraved appetite. Perhaps he was verifying the like method of learning among the philosophers of Laputa.—London Spectator.

Fame and the Editor.

Fame, so difficult a possession to obtain, lies oftener than one usually thinks in the power of the press.

Oscar Browning in his interesting "Memories of Sixty Years" tells how Fox, then editor of the Monthly Repository, settled the fate of Robert Browning's "Pauline" when it first appeared by the mere word "balderdash."

The explanation given is that "a single line was required to complete the page, and the editor, taking up the first book on which he could lay his hand and thinking it insignificant and pretentious, described it as I have stated above."

Oscar Browning declares that the poet said "that by this accident his public recognition had been delayed for twenty years."

Napoleon's First Love.

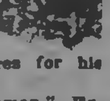
The little French town of Auxonne is not associated in the popular mind with Napoleon; but, as Miss Betham-Edwards reminds us in "Unfrequented France," he spent some years of his cadetship there. "In the Saone he twice narrowly escaped drowning, and here, too, as narrowly, so the story runs, marriage with a bourgeoise maiden called Manesca. Two ivory counters bearing this romantic name in Napoleon's handwriting enrich the little museum."

Could Be Useful.

"Mamma says that if you could make up your mind to go into papa's business, Arthur, he would very likely consent to our engagement."

"But, my darling girl, I'm a poet."

"That doesn't matter. You could write advertisement rhymes for our stuff."—Fliegende Blatter.



His Talent.

"Is he a great artist?"

"No."

"But he gets good prices for his stuff."

"Yes. He's a great salesman."—Exchange.

The past, like an inspired rhapsodist, fills the theater of everlasting generations with her harmony.—Shelley.

ST. JOHN'S Y.P.A. WAS ENTERTAINED

At Home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Cedar Park

The Young People's Association of St. John's had a most enjoyable sleigh drive last night. Leaving the post office about 8.15, the party drove through Ashburnham, up Concession street, across Smith street to Jackson Park, and then proceeded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Cedar Park, who most warmly entertained them. An oyster supper was followed by games, amusements and songs, and an enjoyable evening spent by all.

In spite of the large number who were present, expressions of regret were heard on the part of the host and hostess that there were not more. They certainly were missed. At the conclusion of the evening the company joined in singing Auld Lang Syne The Peacemaker (Mr. Bell's own composition), and the National Anthem, thus bringing to a close a most enjoyable evening. Every one present voted it a great success, and the thanks of the company to Mr. and Mrs. Bell were warm and genuine.

CHARGE AGAINST PROPRIETOR OF PICTURE HOUSE

Mr. Pappas to Appear Before Magistrate Dumble Thursday Morning

An information has been laid against M. Pappas, proprietor of the Royal Theatre, by Chief Thompson, in which it is charged that the defendant allowed the passageways of the theatre to become blocked.

A minstrel troupe filled an engagement yesterday and the conditions in the theatre caused by the attendance, were such that the chief had the information made out.

The case will be heard before Magistrate Dumble Thursday morning. In case of a conviction the minimum fine is $50.

RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERERS IN STRICKEN CHINA

Citizens are Asked to Contribute to a Relief Fund Opened at Dominion Bank

That 2,000,000 people will be dependent on outside relief or die of starvation is the message to the United States and Canada sent by Mr. Wilder, the American Consul General at Shanghai. Floods have destroyed the crops in large areas and no permanent relief from the soil can be looked for before June. Half a million dollars is needed immediately. The immense population of the affected districts must be given food or left to die. The refugees from the famine stricken areas, and especially the children suffer extremely this cold weather. They are provided with only a couple of mats and their clothing is insufficient. The little crying tots stringing down the trail behind their mothers, with their little legs trembling as they walk is enough to melt the heart of the most hard-hearted. To make matters worse, plague is sweeping through the north and the death rate has reached 1,000 a day. Already, nearly 6,000 bodies of victims of plague have been burned or buried in the outskirts of Harbin. Doctors and nurses are succumbing to the disease. The happenings in Europe in the 17th century, when the "Black Death" swept through the country, are being repeated in China. The Chinese are in a panic. The stricken ones are forced into the streets and left there to die. There is grave danger of the plague spreading into Europe. Relief is therefore an immediate necessity. A large representative committee has just been organized in Toronto, and over $4,000 has already been donated. The officers of this central committee are as follows:

Hon. President—The Hon. J. M. Gibson, Lieut.-Governor of Ontario

Hon. Vice-Presidents—Sir James Whitney and Mayor Geary.

Chairman—The Hon. W. A. Charlton.

Treasurer—Mr. I. J. Moore.

Secretary—Mr. J. H. Gundy.

The citizens of Peterborough are asked to help, and Mr. John Crane, manager of the Dominion Bank, has been requested to receive donations for this purpose. The matter is urgent, and the response should be immediate and generous.

LINEN SHOWER BY YOUNG LADIES

Recipient is to be Married To-morrow

Miss Coutt McCoy, of 320 Pearl avenue, was the recipient of a linen shower on Friday evening at the residence of Mrs. A. F. Lane, George street. Miss McCoy, whose wedding takes place to-morrow, has always been a popular and active worker in Charlotte St. Methodist church, and about twenty young ladies of her acquaintance in the church gathered at Mrs. Lane's residence to make the presentation. Each of the young ladies contributed a piece of linen.

Miss McCoy was greatly surprised, and thanked the ladies very sincerely for their kindness.

Afterwards refreshments were served and a pleasant social evening spent by all.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—There exists at the present time in the city of Peterborough, more or less of a bitter feeling between religious denominations. This is to be regretted and is not conducive to the prosperity of our city, and it is the duty of all respectable people to discourage it, and, if possible, to remove the cause. There is no doubt that the two great forces that are stirring up this strife are publicity in the newspapers and the clergymen.

As a remedy I would suggest, that in future, the press cease publishing the sermons of every religious adventurer and if possible, our Industrial Commissioner should secure some useful occupation for our clergymen on week days and they would have less time to stir up strife between next door neighbors.

Yours truly,
PEACE.

WHY THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ourselves. There are Optometrist and Opticians who do a smaller, but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our work? We are ever adding to our facilities and studying the latest methods. This is why we succeed.

KEENE NEWS

It is our painful duty to chronicle the demise of Mrs. Isaac McNevan, who expired on Friday the 10th inst. The deceased was in ill health for some time though no serious results were feared until within a few minutes of her death. Heart failure was the cause of her sudden death. She leaves a husband and three small children to mourn their loss. She was highly respected by her neighbors and all who knew her. Her remains were deposited in the Keene cemetery on Monday afternoon. We tender our sincere sympathy to the husband and small family in their sad bereavement.

Miss Ethel McGregor is the guest of Miss Laura McFarlane.

Miss Wilson of Peterboro is also on a visit at Mr. McFarlane's.

A team of hockey players from Peterboro drove to Keene on Friday night last to play a friendly game with the Keene boys. The Keene boys were a little too fast for them, and defeated them by 8 goals. In justice to Mickey Bowiert can be said that he is the star player of Keene. The Keene club was lucky in securing his services for the winter, as he had a good offer from the Hiawatha club, but declined to accept it.

Mr. and Mrs. Bull of Winnipeg are on a visit at Dr. Harrison's.

John B. Doris and Fred. Burnham are engaged in cutting timber for the Peterboro Canoe factory.

LIBELLER MYLIUS WILL NOT APPEAL; HE MAY BE PARDONED

Has Decided to Accept Sentence of a Year's Imprisonment—Rumor Says King Does'nt Wish to Make Example of Him.

Special to The Review.

London, Eng., Feb. 15.—Edward Mylius, who was recently sentenced to a year in prison for libelling King George over the morganatic marriage story, in the publication called the "Liberator," and who appealed, has decided to accept the sentence of a year's imprisonment, without going to higher courts. It is believed in some quarters that he will be pardoned, as it was the wish of the King to bring on the case merely to give official evidence of the falsity of the story.

The publication of the eight-column article in the "Liberator," in Paris, containing more scurrilous matter in reference to the King—stuff of the same type—has caused considerable indignation here. The "Liberator" had to move its printing office, as the printer who published the sheet refused to continue, good business patrons having threatened to withdraw their business. It is likely that the boycott will follow the sheet as long as it dares to print such baseless yarns.

It is understood that the King does not want to punish Mylius severely, but pressed the case in order that the evidence might clearly show the true baselessness of the canard that went the rounds for so many years, and which could never be pinned before.

ARIZONA WATERS AND ANANIAS

Washington, Feb. 14.—The gentler sex of Washington is agitated to-day as the result of a charge made by the Rev. Hez Swem in a sermon at the Typographical temple that women are "bigger and worse liars than men." Swem declared, however, that prevarication is a general habit with both sexes.

"In Arizona," said he, "there is a river, and if men or women once drink of its waters they can never tell the truth again. Many of our Washington people have drunk of this river, or have had the water sent to them."

HAGUE TRIAL OF MUCH INTEREST

Concerns Case of Indian Law Student in Dispute

The Hague, Feb. 15.—The permanent court of arbitration assembled yesterday to determine the case of the Indian law student, Savarkar, in dispute between Great Britain and France. After preliminaries of opening, the session was adjourned until Thursday, when arguments will be made.

Savarkar, an Indian subject of Great Britain, was arrested on his arrival in London, March 13, 1910, charged with sedition, and ordered extradited to India for trial. When the vessel upon which he was being taken home stopped in Marseilles harbor, Savarkar crawled through a porthole and swam ashore. He was captured in Marseilles by the French police, while running through the streets and calling out that he be taken before a magistrate. He was turned over to British detectives and taken on to Bombay for trial. The French Socialists raised the question of whether the student was properly surrendered to the British officers after he had set foot on French soil, and appealed for refuge as a political prisoner.

The case excited so much controversy that the Governments of Great Britain and France exchanged notes on the subject, and last fall agreed to submit to The Hague tribunal this question:

"Ought Vinayak Damodar Savarkar, in conformity with the rules of international law, to be or not be surrendered by the Government of his Britannic majesty to the Government of the French Republic?"

Dix Escaped Them.

New York, Feb. 15.—A valiant band of suffragettes made an attempt to hold up and extort a promise of aid from Governor Dix yesterday, as the executive was leaving for Albany, but were foiled. The governor was apprised that the women were waiting at the Grand Central Depot to meet him, so he went through a side entrance to the station, screening himself behind his companions until he got aboard his train.

Wm. F. Sheehan, the Tammany candidate for United States Senator, also avoided the women.

"I have troubles enough now," declared he, and he dodged through a side entrance at the depot, preparatory to going to Buffalo to address his neighbors last evening. Mr. Sheehan said: "I am going to win. That is all I can say now."

The suffragettes, disappointed at not seeing the governor, tackled several States Senators who were going to Albany.

GRAND JURY WANTS ONE OF JOE CANNON'S RIGHT BOWERS

Vote Selling Scandal to be Thoroughly Probed.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 15.—The Vermillion County grand jury, which is investigating the vote-selling scandal in the recent elections, yesterday dropped the direct probe into the frauds in an effort to get hands on a powerful politician—one of Cannon's lieutenants—who is accused of "fixing" witnesses.

This man, whose name has not been divulged, is said to have forced almost a dozen important witnesses to keep away from the grand jury. Some of these witnesses are even said to have been spirited out of town. It was predicted that an indictment charging contempt, and probably one charging subordination of perjury, would be returned against him.

Seventy-six new trials have been made, ordered by the grand jury, and their preparation was begun to-day.

MR. THOMPSON and RECIPROCITY

Peterborough County Member on School System.

Shows How Reciprocity Will Hurt Farmers.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Bilingual schools, reciprocity and the presentation for the Opposition's acceptance or rejection of a big progressive new platform, featured an animated, strenuous and somewhat prolonged sitting of the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Hon. Dr. Reaume was given a round of applause on making his first appearance since his return from England.

W. H. Hoyle, chairman of the standing orders committee, gave emphatic notice that Friday would be the last day for the reception of petitions. (Hear, hear, from Sir James Whitney). Under no circumstances did the committee intend to ask for any further extension of time. Feb. 24 would be the last day for the introduction of private bills.

Valentine Stock, South Perth, resumed the budget debate, speaking chiefly in relation to education. The chief inspector of Toronto reported, he said, a great scarcity of teachers. It was evident that what was troubling the country was beginning also to trouble the cities. This could have been avoided if the Government had not changed the model school policy of the Department.

The projected industrial schools for city boys would be a further temptation to rural population to draw them away from the land. This should be offset by an extensive system of agricultural education in rural schools.

J. Thompson, East Peterboro (Con.), declared that in North Peterboro, owing to the niggardly policy of the Liberal Government there were scarcely any schools at all six years ago, but the generous grants of the present administration had provided plenty of schools.

Reciprocity would be a blow to the farmers in more ways than one. Taking eggs, for instance, the average price per dozen was higher in Canada than in the United States, and an equalization would mean millions of dollars' loss to the farmers here. Last year there were 120,000,000 dozens of eggs marketed in Ontario, at an average of 20 cents a dozen. The farmers' revenue was, therefore, $24,000,000.

D. Racine, French Liberal member from Russell, said his people wanted to learn the English language, and have their children learn it in the schools; "but," he added, "we want to keep our mother tongue."

It was a hard thing for the French children to pass examination that were printed and required to be answered in English. If this must maintain, they should be tried both ways.

"We are not getting our share of the grant for our separate schools," he continued. "The old Government gave us more, and the present Minister of Education is not treating us fairly. The public schools of the east, with all their assistance, are not being properly looked after. The results are not as good in them as in our separate schools."

Mr. Racine would be glad to see Ontario and Quebec get closer together—"get mixed," is the way he put it. He was glad to see the vote of $100,000 towards the tercentenary fund last year. It would go a long way in this direction. But, he prophesied, that his honorable friend, G. H. Ferguson from Grenville, would live to regret the motion he had introduced regarding bi-lingual schools.

Sir James Whitney rose to protest that it was clearly contrary to the elementary rules of procedure to refer to a subject which was already on the order paper. It should not be discussed till that order of business was reached.

A. A. Aubin, French Conservative member from Sturgeon Falls, contrasted the treatment accorded to the north country under Liberal and Conservative rule.

The present Government was getting as much revenue from small areas of timber to-day as the old Government did for immensely large areas. The present Government had kept its word to the people in every particular—free grants to settlers, colonization carried on, no timber given away, license law enforced, and education advanced.

Allan Studholme, Hamilton East (Labor), said that from the speeches one would think there was nobody in this province but farmers. Their one cry had been "More for the poor farmer." While the farmers were admittedly prosperous, the conditions of labor called for amelioration. The prosperous Ontario farmer was aided by the Government last year to the extent of $700,000. He regarded the immigration grants as worse than wasted.

Hon. A. G. MacKay moved the adjournment of the debate.

At the instance of Toronto Council, W. D. Macpherson gave notice that he would introduce a bill giving reels, engines and vehicles of fire departments the right of way over streets and highways while proceeding to a fire or answering a fire alarm call.

RECIPROCITY BILL RUSHED IS THROUGH CONGRESS; NOW IN SENATORIAL HANDS

DEMOCRATS MAKE SHORT WORK OF IT

Bitter Fight on the Floor of the House, But Vote is 220 to 92 — Fate of Bill Yet Uncertain.

THE VOTE.

FOR
Republicans	78
Democrats	143
Total	221
AGAINST.
Republicans	87
Democrats	5
Total	92
Majority in favor of reciprocity	129

Washington, Feb. 15.—President Taft's reciprocity agreement with Canada was ratified in the House of Representatives last night, through the support of an almost solid Democratic vote. The McCall bill, carrying the agreement into effect, was passed by 221 to 92. A majority of the Republicans present voted against the measure, the division being 78 ayes and 87 noes. The Democratic vote was 143 ayes and only 5 noes. A majority of the Republican insurgents voted for the bill.

The McCall bill now goes to the Senate. What its fate will be in that body is problematical at this time. President Taft believes that if a filibuster can be avoided and a vote taken, the bill will pass.

The passage of the bill in the House came at the end of a long debate, which at times was as bitter as has been heard on the floor of that chamber in years. The fight was confined almost wholly to the Republican side. Democratic members joined in from time to time, and taunted the majority members for their lack of unity. The Democratic leaders also put in the claim that the reciprocity agreement was good Democratic doctrine, and declared that they were glad to welcome President Taft and many of the House Republicans into the Democratic fold. The suggestion came from the Republican side that Mr. Taft and Champ Clark might be rivals for the next Democratic Presidential nomination. Mr. Clark claimed that in case of a contest of that sort, he would win "hands down."

A final vote was reached last night only through the application of a closure rule, which shut off all amendments, and even dispensed with the reading of the bill. The procedure was decided upon only after Mr. McCall had failed to get unanimous consent to do away with the calendar of Wednesday. If that had been secure, he said he would have been glad to let the debate continue for another legislative day.

The Republicans opposed to the bill fought till the very last, denouncing it in caustic language. They directed their fire especially against the Democrats, and accused them, on the eve of going into power in the House of enforcing a "gag" rule as drastic as anything against which they had so eloquently inveighed in the past.

It has been apparent for several days that the reciprocity measure would have an overwhelming majority in the House. This seemed to make its opponents all the more bitter. Some of the old guard Republican leaders, like Dalziell of Pennsylvania and Fordney of Michigan, gave it as their predictions that the Republican party would be defeated by reason of what they characterized a departure from the principal of protection and the espousal of free trade. Mr. Dalziell proposed to stand where he had stood for forty years, and to "go down" with his party. Mr. Fordney said he

MILITARY MAN DIES IN GUELPH

Was Prominent Politician and Fraternal Man

Late Col. McGillivray Was 59 Years of Age

Guelph, Feb. 15.—The death occurred here yesterday, after an illness of several years, of Lieut.-Col. John Alexander McGillivray, eldest son of the late George McGillivray of Whitby.

The deceased was born in Whitby on July 19, 1852, and was prepared for matriculation to the Toronto University at the collegiate institute of that town.

He studied law in Oshawa, and on being called to the Bar started practice in Port Perry. He subsequently removed to Uxbridge, where he soon enjoyed an extensive and lucrative practice. He early became prominent in political circles, and unsuccessfully contested North Ontario against Isaac J. Gould for a seat in the local House. Nothing daunted, he turned his attention to Dominion affairs, and was returned in a bye-election to support the administration of Sir John Thompson.

In fraternal societies, the late Col. McGillivray was quite prominent. In the Masonic craft he rose to the rank of D.D.G.M. of Toronto district. In the Foresters he occupied the position of supreme secretary for many years and until failing health compelled him to resign. Although busily engaged in the practice of law while at Uxbridge, he found time to administer at least two farms and to encourage agriculture in its various branches. He was among the first, if not the first, to import the horned Dorset sheep into Canada, and for many years his services were sought after by the Industrial Exhibition Board as a director. He was elected president in 1906, but in a short time he was overtaken by illness that rendered his discharge of his important duties more than he could bear, and his resignation followed. He early sought to serve his country through the medium of the Canadian militia by joining Uxbridge company of the 34th Regiment as a lieutenant. He remained with the regiment until he became its commanding officer in 1902. He leaves a widow and one son, Gordon. The funeral will be held at Uxbridge on Thursday at 2.30 p.m.

564 CASES OF TYPHOID FEVER AND 5 OF SMALLPOX IN OTTAWA

Twenty Added in a Day—Great Epidemic in the Capital.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—The typhoid epidemic total to-day is 564 cases, an increase of about 20 since yesterday, and a half dozen deaths have occurred within the past twenty-four hours. The fact that the disease is not abating, though the water is now supposed to be pure, is explained by the Medical Health Officer as due to the reason that in some cases the typhus germ when taken into the system does not incubate for four weeks or more.

There are also fears of a smallpox outbreak of serious proportions, and the Health Department is advising general vaccination. There are five cases of this disease.

No Change in Policy.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—L. J. Tarte of La Patrie, gave out last evening a statement that there is absolutely no truth in the report that Mr. Thomas Cote will join the staff of La Patrie in order to conduct a pro-reciprocity campaign. He has accepted a position on the staff like any other writer, and will be subject to the policy of the paper.

FOSTER MAKES TELLING SPEECH

Scathing Arraignment Of Laurier's Reciprocity Deal

End of Our National Life Looms in Horizon

National Ideals Go By The Board—A Mortgage

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Hon. George E. Foster presented the Conservative case against reciprocity with the United States in the House of Commons yesterday, concluding the partially delivered speech of Thursday last. He dealt with the question open-handedly, commencing at a few minutes past three, and did not conclude until a quarter of six. The House was at times apathetic, sympathetic, and finally enthusiastic. Mr. Foster obtained a patient hearing throughout, receiving many congratulations at the conclusion of his address.

Mr. Foster's arraignment of the Government was bitter. His chief argument was that acceptance of the reciprocity proposals means abandonment of the confederation ideal, developed since 1867. The object of the United States was political, not economical, in short, it spelt continental union. The United States, he declared, coveted Canadian natural resources, and in five years the trusts would have gobbled everything that was lying loose. It involved a breach of faith with British investors, and the instability of the arrangement would deter the incoming of both capital and labor.

He charged Sir Wilfrid Laurier with breaking his pledge not to revise the tariff until a commission had been appointed, and charged the Government with helplessness in the face of the fruit growers' demands, replying that it was "too late." This was all the more remarkable in view of the fact that a telegram expressing satisfaction with prevailing conditions had been received from the Fruit Growers' Convention on Dec. 15. He challenged the statement that the preference had been scrupulously maintained, and argued that profitable reciprocity would have been with the West Indies and Great Britain. He asked if Canada was through with responsible government, and said that Messrs. Fielding and Paterson had crept into Washington with fear and trembling and had brought back a mortgage. If Canada had abandoned reciprocity 25 years before she did, the country would have been that much farther ahead to-day.

In a dramatic peroration he exclaimed: "This land of ours, we have made it, we and our fathers, we have wrought so in order to bestow a great gift upon a rich nation." The United States was engaged in a conquest of Canada, to unify the continent, where the power of the republic would be supreme. "This proposal cuts square across the national ideal, challenges it at every point, will endanger it undoubtedly, may destroy it entirely."

Dr. Neely (Humbolt, Sask.), who followed, said the proposal had the endorsement of every farmer in the west. It would bring prosperity as Canada never had it before, and those who opposed it would have to answer to the people.

Hon. Clifford Sifton was in the House during the entire debate and was a silent but interested spectator from his seat in the front row.

AN AMERICAN IDEA

The New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser hits the American idea of the reciprocity negotiations on the head in the following par graph. Is it not a strong presentation of what we may expect?

"The Dominion of Canada, as the President points out, has greatly prospered. It is populated by an active, aggressive and intelligent people. They are on the eve of an even greater development. Are they to go forward as a part of a united continent, or are they to be coerced into permanent isolation? They are now willing, it seems, to grant the United States special advantages in their market in return for special advantages in ours, but if the proffer is now rejected it is most doubtful if it will be renewed. The nascent spirit of Canadian nationality will come to maturity, and for all time we shall have a rival, and a possible enemy, on this continent, instead of a friend linked to us by considerations of permanent self-interest. Looked at in its larger implications, this Canadian reciprocity is the biggest question that has come up since the Civil War, and, on its determination rests the welfare of hundreds of generations. Canada is capable of maintaining a population of one hundred millions. Are these people to be split away from us, with a rise of the prejudices and the interests that are incident to national separateness? Are they to become co-workers in one economic and commercial system?"

A PUGSLEY DEAL

Revelations before the Public Accounts Committee confirmed the public impression of the general corruption and rottenness prevailing in the Public Works Department in the matter of dredging in the Province of New Brunswick. Mr. Pugsley's particular friends, A. and R. Loggie, seem to be having their own sweet oil in the matter of dredging where they please and charging what they please for it. Their latest performance was to go to Dalhousie, N.B., and do work amounting to $30,000 which enured entirely to the benefit of the Dalhousie Lumber Company. A. and R. Loggie, it will be remembered, are the gentlemen who helped Mr. Pugsley out of the Richibucto sawdust wharf scandal. Mr. Pugsley paid $5,000 for the property to the middlemen, who had bought it a few days before for $700. When the matter was exposed and public feeling ran high, A. and R. Loggie came forward and offered to buy the sawdust wharf from the Government for $5,300. They did pay $3,000 for part of this property. Money so paid by them was, of course, a dead loss, and ordinary gratitude would have prompted Mr. Pugsley to secure them reimbursement in some way. It is quite evident, from the testimony before the Public Accounts Committee, that they have not been at all shy or reluctant about claiming or collecting any money which they may consider to be their due, so long as it comes out of the public treasury. They went over to Dalhousie, N.B., without any authority whatever, and did work to the extent of $5,000. They were then notified by Government officials that there was no authority in law for the work, but they persisted in their dredging operations until they had a claim amounting to $21,000. This got past the Auditor-General in some way, and was paid upon the written memorandum signed by Mr. Pugsley. Their only color of excuse is to be found in the claim that a telegram addressed to them, authorizing work at Bathurst, was changed in some mysterious manner on the wire, so as to read Dalhousie when they received it. The Public Works Department did not confirm that telegram, by letter, as any business institution would do. The Loggies say they went to Dalhousie on the strength of this mistaken telegram, but for some unaccountable reason they also proceeded to Bathurst, where they charged up a bill amounting to $25,000. Their dredging at Dalhousie, curiously enough, was not done in front of the public wharf owned by the Dominion Government, but was done in front of the wharf owned by the Dalhousie Lumber Company. There are people mean enough to say that possibly their action was due to the fact that a prominent stockholder in the Dalhousie Lumber Company is no less a person than Hon. William Pugsley, Minister of Public Works.

WE'RE GETTING THERE

The supporters of the reciprocity deal in the United States are using the argument that such a measure is but the prelude to a wider measure of commercial union, and will eventually lead to annexation. Canadians scorn such a view, but the newspaper writers and public speakers of the United States are no slouches when it comes to sizing up the effects of a measure, and what they have to say is worthy of a great deal of attention.

President Taft in his speeches has declared that now is the time to get a closer commercial union with Canada; that unless such is accomplished, the imperialism which has been so assiduously cultivated in Canada will grow beyond control, and the United States will have lost the power to drive in the wedge. Other prominent men like James J. Hill, say that now is the time—that if the opportunity slip by Canada will be forced into a great rivalry with the United States, instead of becoming allied and affiliated with it in continentalism.

It is an insidious thing, this reciprocity. Rearing its fascinating head above the tall grass, the ugly body remains hidden, just as Prof. Stephen Leacock says. It is an innocent looking thing—meaning just a few more dollars trade—but the spirit and the habit will be thereby confirmed. Then will come a little more, for a few more dollars, until by and by the barriers will be swept away as by a flood, and we shall have complete union, and the United States will have achieved its ambition to control the northern part of this continent.

Some of the newspapers in Canada are advancing the argument that for Canada to seek closer relations with the United States will cement the bonds of empire with the United States, that it will be a guarantee of peace and friendliness between Britain and the United States. Canada is again to be asked to be the buffer! We think that Britain would gladly have Canada maintain the separate national destiny, apart from the United States, and help to cement the empire of which it is so important a part. What is the use of an empire having friendly relations with other nations if the parts of it are to become allied with these other nations? There would soon be no empire left.

From present indications it seems that the agreement will go through. It does not matter that Canadian industries are killed, that so many of our cherished Canadian institutions—the products of so many years of labor and love—it does not matter that Canada will seek relations separating us from all our traditionary ties—Laurier has said that the agreement must go through, in accordance with his free trade ideas.

Let us console ourselves with the reflection that some day soon—when all the benefits of the deal are realized, and added to—we will be able to go to New York and Buffalo, and Chicago, and buy our clothing, our hats, ours shoes. We will spend our money in the United States, and sell them our farm products, and give them our natural resources. Canada has often proudly declared that it would never become a "hewer of wood and a drawer of water" to the United States, but we're getting there, we're getting there!

A NEWSPAPER'S DUTY

A correspondent signing himself "Peace" in a letter to the newspapers yesterday deprecated the strength of the religious feeling in Peterborough, and placed the blame for this on the newspapers that published items of news calculated to cause discord, and on clergy who made trouble because they didn't have enough other work to keep them busy.

What "Peace" has to say is, we believe correct in many ways. His assertions of the strength of religious feeling in Peterborough, cannot be gainsaid by anyone familiar with the situation. That it is not desirable to have the people divided into religious camps in secular affairs is also very true, and we believe that there are few well-thinking and fair-minded citizens who do not feel that it is much better for man to live in harmony with his brother, even though holding different religious views.

As far as the newspapers are concerned, there is but one reply. The newspapers are not only moulders of public opinion, but they are very largely reflectors of public opinion. When the religious feelings of a community are in a highly sensitized condition a newspaper may either pursue the course of refusing to publish legitimate information bearing on religious matters, thereby aborting its function as the disseminator of the day's news, or publish the public actions of bodies, or persons, without partiality, be the result generally what it may.

We believe that the latter course is the right course. The Review is a newspaper, and gives all the news. Would it lessen differences of opinion by refusing to publish reports of proceedings in public that bear some relation to the differences? Canada is a free country, where everyone is entitled to think, or speak (as he likes on religious matters. A muzzled press carries no respect; neither is it an agency—in any event—for the public good. The difference of opinion to which we refer must first occur in public form before they are published; and therefore those responsible for the public proceedings are to blame, blame there be. We trust we have made clear the newspaper view of the matter—which is strictly that of a newspaper performing the functions of the recorder of the day's events around it without desiring to foment the discord of which "Peace" speaks.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor, and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular, and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night, and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system, and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor, and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Harry Thaw has just celebrated his forty first birthday. It was in June 1906 that he shot Stanford White, or nearly five years ago. It seems only yesterday that we were reading the ebullitions of the sob squad—and how eagerly were the nasty details gobbled up by the devouring public. Five years is a long time—but how quickly they slip by!

T. W. Crothers, M.P. for West Elgin, says that out of a great bundle of letters received from constituents on the reciprocity question, only two were in favor of it. He had advertised in the St. Thomas papers, asking for opinions. Has anyone here seen or heard of Mr. Stratton asking the opinion of his constituents?

Lt.-Col. Robert Mackenzie, president of the Ontario Curling Association, broke his collar bone while curling at Detroit.

ZAM-BUK CURES PILES

The agony of piles is an excruciating as the disease itself is weakening, and every sufferer should lose no time in giving Zam-Buk a trial.

Mrs. F. Boxall, of 97 Scott street, Thomas, writes: "I consider it my duty to write of the benefit derived from using Zam-Buk. For some months I was a constant sufferer from bleeding piles. I had used a great many ointments, but got no relief until I tried Zam-Buk. It cured me and I have had no return of the trouble. Since my cure I have advised others suffering from piles to use Zam-Buk, and in each instance with satisfactory results."

Zam-Buk is equally effective as a cure for inflamed sores, cuts, burns, bruises chapped hands, cold sores, ulcers, blood-poison, children's eruptions, eczema, and all skin diseases and injuries.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Depressed by impending reciprocity and by rain in the drought-stricken southwest, miscellaneous holders of wheat sold out to-day with little or no reserve. Much evening up of open interests on the part of shorts caused a rally, but the close, tho firm, was at a net loss of ⅛c to ¼c. The day's trade left corn from ⅛c to ⅜c higher than Saturday night. Oats unchanged to ⅛c up; provisions, less expensive by a shade to 5c.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 14.—The market at opening to-day and during yesterday's session showed steadiness on the decrease in local stocks here and improved demand for spot. At the opening to-day values were ⅛d lower to ⅛d higher than Saturday, with the principal strength in March. Following the opening, there developed an easy undertone. Pressure resulted from the liberal world's shipments, increase on passage, heavy Russian shipments, and continued free offers of Plata and Australian wheat.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—The foreign demand for wheat to-day was quiet, and consequently only a few loads were worked on the break in the Winnipeg prices. Oats were quiet and prices easy in sympathy with the weakness in the west. On account of the steady decline in wheat values, the demand for flour from all sources has fallen off, and business is quiet. On increased arrivals of American potatoes an easier feeling has developed in the market, and prices have declined five cents per bag, with sales of car lots at 92½c to 95c.

Owing to larger receipts of eggs, prices of new-laid have declined 5c per dozen, but cold storage stock is steady. Cheese is stronger.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 14.—The railways reported receipts of 72 carloads at the City Yards, consisting of 1210 cattle, 970 hogs, 615 sheep and lambs and 145 calves.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought 516 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Company, which was more than half of what was on sale. The prices paid were as follows: Butchers' steers and heifers, $5.40 to $6.20, butchers' cows, $2.75 to $5.50; butchers' bulls, $4.00 to $5.00.

Milkers and Springers.

There were about 30 fresh arrivals of milkers and springers, which sold at from $40 to $75 each.

Veal Calves.

There were 145 veal calves reported to be on sale. Prices were steady to strong at $3.50 to $8.50 for the bulk, with a few choice new milk-fed veals as high as $9 to $9.75.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep and lambs were firm at following prices: Sheep, ewes, $4.25 to $4.60, rams, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $6 to $6.50, and a few selects were quoted at $6.75.

Hogs.

Hog prices on the Toronto market are certainly lower. The bulk of the hogs sold to-day at $6.90 f.o.b. cars, and $7.15 to $7.20 for hogs fed and watered at the market. Several lots were sold at $7 per cwt. f.o.b. cars at country points, and we heard of drovers at many points thru-out the country paying $7.15 and $7.25 to the farmers, but on the market here to-day, as we said before, $6.90 was the ruling figure for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX   Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

We turned to the door of M. Darzac's room. Bernier was smoking his pipe in the corridor, sitting astride a chair.

"Is M. Darzac still there?" asked Rouletabille.

"He hasn't stirred since he went in," Bernier replied.

We knocked. We heard the heavy bolt drawn from the inside. (These bolts can only be used by the person within the room.)

Darzac was writing letters when we entered. He had been seated beside a little reading table facing the door.

Now mark well all our movements. Rouletabille complained that the letter which he held in his hand confirmed the telegram which he had received in the morning and pressed him to return to Paris. His paper insisted upon his proceeding at once to Russia.

Darzac read indifferently the two or three letters which we had brought him and put them in his pocket. I now held out to Rouletabille a letter which I had received. It was from my friend in Paris, who, after having given me some important details regarding the departure of Brignolles, informed me that the latter had left his address for mail to be forwarded to Sospel, the Hotel des Alps. This was extremely interesting, and Darzac and Rouletabille were greatly excited over it. We decided to go to Sospel as soon as it could be arranged, and we went out of the room. The door of Mme. Darzac's sleeping room was not closed.

I have mentioned that Mme. Darzac was not in her own room.

Then the three of us went out of the square tower, leaving Pere Bernier in his corridor like the good watchdog that he never ceased to be until the last day of his life.

It was about half past 6 o'clock when, in emerging from the square tower, we went to pay a visit to Old Bob in the round tower. Rouletabille, Darzac and I. As soon as we entered the low basement Darzac uttered an exclamation of surprise at seeing the destruction which had been wrought upon a wash drawing upon which he had been working and which represented the plan for a great scaling ladder for the Fort of Hercules of the kind which had existed in the fifteenth century. This drawing had been gashed with a knife and paint had been smeared over it. He endeavored in vain to obtain some explanation from Old Bob.

As Old Bob seemed to be in a churlish humor, we left him—that is, Rouletabille and myself did. M. Darzac remained gazing at his spoiled drawing, but thinking, doubtless, of altogether different things.

As we went out we raised our eyes to the sky, which was rapidly becoming covered with great black clouds. The tempest was near at hand.

"I am going to lie down in my room," I said. "I can't stand any more of this. Perhaps it may be cooler there with all the windows open."

Rouletabille followed me into the new castle. Suddenly, as we reached the first landing of our winding staircase, he stopped me:

"Ah," he said in a low voice, "she is there—the Lady in Black! Can't you smell the perfume?"

And he hid himself behind a door, motioning me to continue without waiting for him.

What was my amazement in opening the door of my room to find myself face to face with Mathilde!

She uttered a low cry and disappeared in the shadow, gliding away like a surprised bird. She swept down the steps like a ghost. She soon gained the ground floor, and I saw below me the face of Rouletabille, who, leaning over the rail of the first landing, looked at her too.

He mounted the steps to my side.

"Oh, my God!" he cried. "What did I tell you!"

He seemed to be in the greatest agitation.

"This thing must be ended in twenty-four hours or I shall no longer have strength to act."

He threw himself into a chair as if exhausted. "I can't breathe!" he moaned. He tore his collar away from his throat. "Water!" he entreated. "I want the water from the heavens! I must have it!" And he waved his hands toward the dark skies.

For ten minutes he remained stretched out in the chair, thinking. What surprised me was that he asked no question or uttered no conjecture as to what the Lady in Black had been seeking in my room. I would not have known how to answer if he had done so. At length he rose and went to take the guard at the postern.

He would not even come in to dinner and sent word to have some soup brought out to him. The dinner was served in la Louve at 8:30. Darzac, who came to the table from Old Bob's workroom, said that the latter refused to dine also. Mme. Edith, fearing that her uncle might be ill, went immediately to the round tower.

The Lady in Black came in on the arm of her father. She cast on me a look of sorrowful reproach which disturbed me greatly. Her eyes seemed never to wander from me.

CHAPTER XI.

A Pistol Shot In the Night.

It was a gloomy meal enough. Arthur Rance looked every moment in the direction of the Lady in Black. All the windows were open. A flash of lightning and a heavy clap of thunder came in rapid succession, and then the deluge. Mme. Edith reappeared just in time to escape being drenched by the furious rain, which beat down like cannon balls.

The young woman told in excited tones and with her hands clasped how she had found Old Bob bending over his desk with his head buried in his hands. He had refused to have anything to say to her. She had spoken to him affectionately, and he had treated her like a bear. Then, as he had held his hands to his ears, she had pricked one of his fingers with a little pin set with rubies which she used to fasten the lace scarf which she wore in the evening. Her uncle had turned upon her like a madman, had snatched the little pin from her and thrown it upon the desk. And then he had spoken to her—"brutally, rudely," she ejaculated. "Get out of here and leave me alone!" he said to her. She had turned her head for a last look at her old uncle and had been almost struck dumb by what she saw.

The "oldest skull in the history of the human race" was on the desk, and Old Bob, a handkerchief stained with blood in his hand, was spitting in the skull. He had always treated it with severe respect and had insisted that others do the same.

Darzac reassured her by telling her that what she had taken for blood was only paint.

I left to hurry out to Rouletabille and escape Mathilde's glances. What had the Lady in Black been doing in my bedroom?

When I started out the thunder was pealing loudly and the rain falling with redoubled force. It took me only one bound to reach the postern. No Rouletabille was there! I found him on the terrace B" watching the entrance to the square tower and receiving the full strength of the storm at his back.

I entreated him to take shelter under the arch.

"Leave me alone!" he said impatiently. "Leave me alone! This is the deluge. How good it is! Have you ever had a desire to roar with the thunder? I have, and I am roaring now."

And he plunged into the darkness, making the shadows resound with his savage clamors. I believed this time that he had surely gone mad. But in my heart I knew that the unhappy lad was breathing forth in these indistinct articulations of frightful anguish the misery that burned him and which he was constantly trying to hinder from burning up the heart and the soul in his body—the misery of being the son of Larsan.

I turned helplessly, and as I did so I felt a hand seize my wrist, and a dark form cried out:

"Where is he?"

It was Mme. Darzac, who was also seeking Rouletabille. A new peal of thunder burst, and we heard the boy in his mad delirium hurling wild shouts of defiance to the heavens. She heard him. She saw him. We were drenched with water from the rain and the breaking of the sea on the terrace. Mme. Darzac's clothing clung around her like a rag and her skirt dripped as she walked. I took the wretched woman's arm and held her up, for I saw that she was about to fall, and that moment in the midst of that terrible unchaining of the elements, in that mad tempest, under this terrible downpour on the breast of the raging sea, I all at once breathed the perfume—the odor so sweet and penetrating and haunting that its fragrance has remained with me ever since—the perfume of the Lady in Black. I understood now how Rouletabille had remembered it all these years.

Yes, it was a fragrance full of sadness—something like the perfume of an isolated flower which has been condemned to be seen by no one, but to blossom for itself all alone. A strange perfume! Surely it was that, for I had seen the Lady in Black hundreds of times without noticing it, and now that I had done so it was everywhere and above all things, and I knew that the memory of it would abide with me while life should last.

There in the night and the tempest the Lady in Black called aloud to Rouletabille, and he fled from us and rushed farther into the night, shrieking aloud, "The perfume of the Lady in Black—the perfume of the Lady in Black!"

The unhappy woman sobbed. She struck with desperate hands at the door which Bernier opened to us.

She motioned me to enter the little parlor at the right, which was just outside the bedchamber of Old Bob.

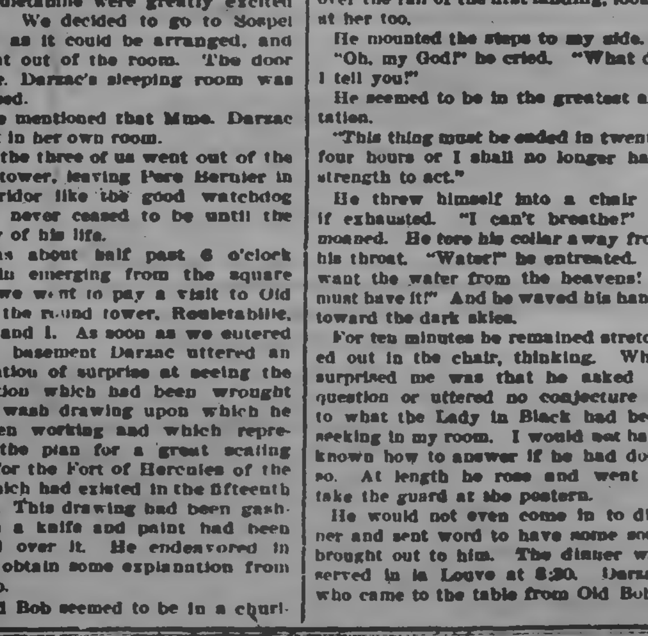
She took both my hands in hers and said in a voice which I shall never forget:

"You are my boy's friend. Tell him that he is not the only one who has suffered." And she added with a sob which shook her whole frame:

"Why will he insist on not telling me the truth?"

I had not a word to say. What could I have answered? I had breathed the perfume of the Lady in Black.

To be continued.



A Crayon Enlargement, 18 by 24 inches, of one of the best photographs of the late Rev. Father Morriscy, the renowned priest-physician, has been prepared for admirers of the priest himself or of his wonderful prescriptions. Better even than the small reproduction above, it is a very handsome picture, worthy of framing. Fire Swept Main Street.

Hensall, Ont., Feb. 15.—A fire which broke out here yesterday morning at an early hour swept the north side of King street.

Several business places were wiped out, including the Commercial Hotel.

The stores on the north side of the main thoroughfare of the village were not damaged except that windows were broken in several instances by the force of the explosions of cartridges and powder in the two hardware establishments, which fell a prey to the flames.

A portion of the contents of the hotel was saved and the inmates had ample time to escape.

The blaze destroyed the following places, the loss in most cases being fairly well covered by insurance: J. and C. McDonell, hardware and furniture; E. Rannie, dry goods and groceries; R. J. Drysdale, shoe merchant; T. W. Palmer, restaurant; F. Manns, barber; J. B. McArthur, hardware; the Commercial Hotel.

Eight-Hour Day.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 15.—Delegates representing marine labor organizations associated with dredging operations on the great lakes, submitted to representatives of the Dredge Owners' Association a formal request for the adoption of an eight-hour work day. The owners are expected to present their reply to-day.

The action of the labor associations followed a conference here on Monday at which T. V. O'Connor, Buffalo, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, was chairman. At this meeting were representatives of the dredge workers, engineers, and cranemen, licensed tugmen, tug firemen and the submarine and rock drill workers. The organization last named already has an eight-hour day. The other four want a similar limit to their hours of labor.

Guests Barely Escape.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 15.—A fire broke out a few minutes before one o'clock yesterday morning in the Felix Hebert Hotel, Edmundston, N.B., of which J. M. Siro is the proprietor.

All the furniture in the building was destroyed, and many of the guests barely escaped with their lives. The supply of water was very low and the firemen fought the flames mostly with snow. The loss is estimated at about $10,000.

Georgian Bay Canal.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—The Federated Boards of Trade have asked the civic publicity department for a grant for the furtherance of the objects of the federated boards, principal among which at the present time is the Georgian Bay Canal. The federated boards intend sending two men on a tour of the west with the object of enlightening the people there as to the merits of the project.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before Insuring.

DAVIS WAS FINED $10 FOR ASSAULTING GILBERT LUSH

Young Men Scrap Because of Roller Rink Bumping --Lush Minus a Tooth and Had Black Eyes

Alexander Davis was fined $10 in police court this morning for assaulting Gilbert Lush, on the night of Feb. 11th, at the corner of Sherbrooke and George streets. Davis had the ten spot on him and paid his fine in court.

Lush, as he told his story of the affair in the witness box, had a very mournful expression, caused by two black eyes and a missing tooth. His story was as follows: "On the night of February 11th I was skating at the George street roller rink and accidentally brushed lightly against a girl with whom Davis was skating. Not knowing her, and also going at quite a speed, I did not stop to apologise. Davis said to me as I passed that he would settle with me afterwards. I walked out of the rink alone, and saw Davis standing at the corner of George and Sherbrooke streets. I walked past him, after which he followed me up to Peter Hamilton's, touched me on the shoulder and inquired if I was ready to settle. I said it was an accident and there was nothing to settle for, and told him that "as he was skating with the girl, it was his place to hold her up if anybody should knock her down. Davis then shoved me off the sidewalk. I got on again and was shoved off the second time. I then defended myself for a while, being slightly stunned by being shoved against the wall, and when I lost a tooth I quit and walked away. Davis followed me and continued hitting me." This concluded Lush's story.

ANOTHER STORY.

Davis, in the box, said that he asked Lush to apologise first when he accosted him, and before shoving him. "Lush refused," he said, "to do this, and it led to a fight."

Both young men are about eighteen years of age.

Robert Wilson testified that he saw Davis give Lush a shove. Lush then turned and hit Davis, after which he (Lush) went on up town.

His Worship in giving jugment, said that Davis, in taking the law into his own hands over such an apparently trivial and common occurrence at the roller rink, was in the wrong.

INAUGURAL MEETING OF NEW BOARD OF Y.M.C.A. DIRECTORS

Chairmen of Various Committees for the Year

The first meeting of the new Board of directors of the Y.M.C.A. was held last evening in the board room of the association. This was one of the brightest meetings the board has held for some time. Most of the directors were present and the business was transacted with despatch and with undivided interest.

Mr. J. J. Turner jr., the new president, was in the chair, and the meeting was opened with devotional exercises led by the general secretary.

The committees for the year 1911 were submitted by the president, and after a few alterations had been made the list was adopted and the secretary authorized to have it printed for reference by each committee man.

The chairmen of the committees are—Finance George A. Gillespie; Property A. McFarlane; Religious Work, J. J. Hartley; Educational, F. E. Ellis; Physical Committee J. H. Connal; Social Work, Frank D. Mason; Membership R. J. Fotton; Boys Work, R. F. Downey. This is a good list of chairmen, and it is confidently felt that the personnel of the committees is equally strong.

The financial statement for the month of January was submitted by the treasurer, Mr. J. J. Howden and adopted. This report was encouraging, showing that the association is in better financial condition than it has been for some time.

The Finance Committee brought in the budget for 1911, and this was the occasion for a lengthy and thoughtful discussion. The expenditures this year will necessitate a larger budget than last year and it is believed that with the increasing membership and the developing interest of the supporters the Finance Committee will be able to meet all the calls that will be made upon the treasury.

The general secretary read his report, in which he reviewed the work done during the month of January and gave a forecast of possibilities before the association during the coming eleven months. This was a very interesting and thoughtfully arranged paper and called forth the eulogy of the directors.

The resignation of Mr. E. L. Goodwill was received and accepted with the deepest regret by the board. Mr. Goodwill is the secretary of the Children's Aid Society and feels that he cannot give the time which is demanded of a director and therefore he has asked to have his name removed. Mr. W. C. Switzer was appointed by the board to fill the vacancy.

The meeting was brought to a close with prayer in which the board was led by the honorary president, Mr. J. W. Bennet.

IL TROVATORE

Sheehan Opera Co. Good Musically Lacks Dramatically

The presentation of Il Trovatore by the Sheehan Opera Company last night was a treat for the people of Peterborough, who so seldom have the chance to see grand opera. To stage Verdi's opera, the best known of any of the operas, on one night stands is a heavy undertaking, and the Sheehan galaxy of singers was exceptionally good. There was not one of the principals who had a poor voice, and the choruses were strong, well balanced and carefully trained. Joseph Sheehan as Manrico sang his part with great effect, though his physique was a trifle too bulky to lend charm to the representation dramatically. He had a fine high tenor voice. Louis La Valle as the Count sang nicely, but one wished for a firecracker to stir his immobility. Anyone familiar with the great tragedies, the fierceness of the human passions represented in some of his scenes, would hardly reconcile his concert stage manner with the part he was supposed to be portraying. In a word, it might be said that musically the company is all that could be desired, but dramatically it lacked the color and intensity that grand opera must have to be thoroughly enjoyable. Miss Elaine De Sellem as the witch was much the best dramatically, her sense of the histrionic possibilities of the part evidently being more highly developed than that of the others. Miss Grace Nelson as Leonora smiled at the audience as she was singing in the prison scene her tragic good-bye. It was really incongruous.

On the whole it was very enjoyable, and one does not see enough grand opera on the smaller city boards.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD

Up at West Swanzey, six miles below, Keene, New Hampshire, is the original "Old Homestead," but since made over and modernized into an ideal country home for Denman Thompson the Grand Old Man of the dramatic profession. The village itself is a cluster of old fashioned houses with two or three stores, a couple of churches, a school house, a blacksmith shop and a grist mill, the latter turned by the waters of the brook. The Thompson family all live but a stone's throw from Denman. Mrs. Kilpatrick and Mrs McFarland having each hand-some places in the grove near the lake, while Franklin his son and business manager, lives in a very attractive house on the borders of the lake. Millions of people have seen Swanzey the village portrayed on the stage, for it is the scene of "The Old Homestead," which has been played almost as many times as Uncle Tom's Cabin or Rip Van Winkle. They know Joshua Whitcomb, and are personally acquainted with the other characters some of which are taken bodily from the streets and farms of old Swanzey yet to the general mind Swanzey is a place having no existence save behind the footlights, though the characters have tread its mimic streets are reminiscent, the average theatregoer is certain that they survive in actual life no more. Joshua Whitcomb, however, is an actual reproduction of two personages in Swanzey known as Captain Otis Whitcomb and Joshua Holbrook. Captain Otis furnished the comedy and Joshua the more serious elements of the combination. The original of Aunt Matilda was a sister of Joshua Holbrook, and known to all the people of Swanzey as "Aunt Rhody"—a tender, honest, faithful, respectable old lady who transmuted the joys and sorrows of her life and home into pure gold. "Cy" Prime was a fellow townsman who had the reputation of being the biggest liar in Cheshire County, and Seth Perkins was a composite of several characters, such as can be found in every New England village. Henry Hopkins the city man, was an old New Hampshire playfellow of Denman Thompson, who used to sit on the same bench with him in the little red schoolhouse. He went to New York and got rich. The other characters in the play were more or less taken from life.

"The Old Homestead" comes to The Grand" next Saturday Feb. 18 for matinee and evening.

GRILLERS HAD FRONTENACS ON THE RUN IN FIRST HALF, BUT FELL BEHIND IN THE SECOND SESSION; FINAL SCORE 9-3

Visitors Were Outplayed During Initial Period, Which Ended 3-2 for the Locals—Many Rosy Chances for Scores Lost by Poor Shooting—Frontenacs Had the Speed for Second Half

Once again the fussy kiddies from the burg of stonewall fame, roamed this way and grilled our Grillers—broke the heart of each fair dame. And once more the calls for Jimmie, rose above the awful din, "watch that man," "go faster, faster," these came through that horn of tin. Things looked fancy for our outfit, ere the gong pealed for the rest, and just what his nibs was saying perhaps had better just be guessed. Talk about your rabbit's pedals, Williams had them copped for fair. likewise were his mates from Nurseland helped with such as round they'd tear. On the square, the kids were heaving shots enough to win ten frays, but the smiles from fair Dame Fortune, didn't seem to come both ways. Of the usual stunts of interest, both teams had a goodly share, and throughout the fans were tickled with the scrappy bill-o'-fare. Now the youths from far-off Kingston may or may not go the route, but the bottle-fed young darlings can put up a classy bout.

Despite the surprise package, handed out to him, by the O.H.A. and another journey to this fair city of ours, Jimmie Sutherland is still smiling, and that little tin horn, through which is transmitted those encouraging calls of "nice playing kids," etc., etc., looks good for further duties.

We didn't see any particularly illuminating medals on Mr. Marchand, on his first and what turned out to be his last appearance here, but his super, who also wears a head covering, behaved very wisely last night, when the Grillers were given another dose of sleeping mixture and bundled off to rest at 9—3. It was a case of too much speed in the second chapter, on top of an assortment of what the beribboned fanette would say was hard luck, but what was really punk shooting.

In that first ten minutes of the engagement the band and the oratorical organ behind that tinware so conspicuous near the accommodation placed for the disposal of unruly players was shaky and faltering and an expression of despair overshadowed the features of the Limestone City visitor, who objects to any one mentioning, "Pirates" in connection with Frontenacs.

At that stage of the program the fussy brigade looked good for a trimming and wouldn't it have been awful Caroline. That Rooters' Club down in the prison burg would have to call for reinforcements for Friday evening: James would need a couple more horns, and his right hand man, he with the bottle and sponge, also a comb and looking glass, would be right up against it.

And what would the Kingston mammas say? The poor dears, it would have been a shame.

But it was a great game. Had the home puck-chasers started in about last summer on a careful diet of flattened oats with unvendered milk; counted the ties between here and Lakefield twice daily, and then taken part in one eastern pro league game at least the probabilities are, that would have been able to stick, in that second period, instead of having a "we are seven" stunt put over them. For as we have remarked before, "you can't always sometimes tell." The race is not over till the ribbon is breasted.

That is evidently the way the Canadian champion kiddies talked with each other, ere they started in for the second thirty minutes' performance, and we regret to say their fond dreams came true.

But it wasn't on account of any heart flutterings on the part of our local net custodian. The fact that he played the diamond game with the hoodoo nine of last season, didn't appear to bother him in any way whatever. He got everything that was worth taking, and many of that quality were handed to him, particularly in number two session.

And the two spread out in front of him were anything but effusive in their welcomes to the visiting rushers in part one, but became more hospitable after becoming better introduced. They simply couldn't withstand the pitiful appeals made to them and as a result, fell. So was it with the members of the line. On a hundred or more occasions, all that was necessary, was a little better eyesight, but here again the "pen" youths were favored. That young hopeful, Anderson by name, had all kinds of chances, but only once did he make connections. In a manner pretty much the same did Messrs. Matthews, Coughlin and Hall behave. With a little more experience, the Brock street bunch will learn that it doesn't pay to be too decent.

To the crew on the other side of the fence, we would pause here to remark, that their Mr. McCammon wants to wear firearms and ammunition case he feels disposed to wield his stick on any other ice as he did at intervals during the progress of last night's entertainment.

THE SCORING.

The Grillers drew first shot after the face-off. Davidson contributed a neat rush, only to be chased into the corner by Heffernan. A delay was caused, when Williams broke his stick. On resuming Coughlin got through the defence, but the score didn't come. Bouncer Brouse was sent to the shelf for tripping Heffernan, and two shots from Anderson failed to connect. McCammon rushed and plinked a post with a swift one. Hall and Coughlin got in on Williams, the shot going wide. The Grillers had the better of the play, but were all to the bad with their shooting, but finally, after nine minutes, Matthews scooped one in past Williams, and the crowd broke loose.

Hall had a nice chance to add another, when he beat McCammon and Davidson, but he missed the nets. With the locals still chasing the visitors to cover, Anderson took the next counter on a pass out from a scrimmage.

Reynolds broke away for a jaunt, his shot being blocked. Coughlin was limping around the ice with a broken skate, and after he had missed the puck, Boyer secured and went through for Frontenacs' first tally.

Coughlin went off for repairs and the game was stopped. The teams were called back three times on offsides following the face-off, and then Jerry got away alone, only to be worked into the corner. Heffernan's effort was stopped and Reynolds forgot to pass with two men along with him. With Sleff and his captain tearing away, the pass was intercepted by McCammon, who returned and lost. Hall was banished for acting unwisely with Millan. Frontenacs began to show more signs of that 11—4 form. Davidson rushed, but fell by the way, when he connected with the defence. Brouse looked innocent when Matthews turned acrobat, and it was him for the bottles. Davidson tried again and took a second dose. Matthews joined Brouse and Coughlin showed poor eye-sight on a shot contribution towards the visitors' nets, and repeated on another try after beating McCammon. Hall and McCammon took a rest, and Anderson was inches wide on a shot close in. Millan broke a skate and took Anderson off with him. Both goals saw close shaves, with the play favoring the locals. Heffernan and Hunt were handed penalties for infractions, and after Reynolds had wandered away, Davidson secured, went up alone, and with no defence to bother him, beat Patterson, who came out to block.

From the face-off Coughlin took possession and sent a hot one through the small space between Williams' pads and the rest came with the tally 3—2 for his team.

SECOND HALF.

The second period started off with Hunt doing time. Patterson handled a couple of hard shots and did particularly good work on a lease from Hunt. Frontenacs were working stronger and looked more dangerous than in the first half. In four minutes McCammon evened up the figures on a rush, in which he dodged Reynolds and Heffernan.

Hunt and Millan combined for the next in one minute, the latter taking the last pass and counting. Patterson made a nifty stop on a shot right in on him by Brouse. Williams was on the job on a wide shot from Anderson and Patterson responded likewise on a hard one from Millan. The play was the fastest of the game. The visitors were getting better and working together. The locals were not putting up the opposition of the first half and were shy, in some cases, in skating back. Hunt tried a lone rush and stopped when he connected with Heffernan. With the Grillers away together, the collapsed and the time was called back. Anderson and Coughlin sent two at Williams, to which he refused admission. Davidson pulled off one of his fancy stunts, and Patterson handled the result in a manner that brought forth a call from the Rooters' Club. Brouse and Millan were responsible for Kingston's next tally, the bouncer finding the hole. Millan made it one better on a roller in thirty seconds. Boyer went off for getting Reynolds, and with eight minutes to play, the Grillers turned the assault to the Williams end of the rink. There was nothing doing, however, but hard luck. McCammon turned the tide and rushed to Patterson, who blocked, but the next one by the same player was too much, and the flag went up.

One of these flukey ones was the next on the program by Millan, but he earned the next and last tally of the game when, with Heffernan watching the fray with the timekeepers, he went through and placed the rubber behind the lanky one.

JUNIOR ATHLETIC CONTEST

The Junior Athletic contest for the championship of the boys' department will be held to-night at 8 p.m. There will be some good sport and the Association and general public are invited to attend.

The Senior Leaders meet to-night at 6.30 p.m.

There will be no senior class tonight owing to the boys athletic contest.

Thursday at 8 p.m. the Intermediate Athletic contest will be held. This is sure to furnish some first class sport as some of the best men in the Association are entered. Come along and enjoy the sport!

In the bowling at the Y.M.C.A. the Lancashire trio, champions of the last league, meet the Midgets to-night and each team expects to be able to vanquish the other.

In the open contest Mr. Sparrow made a score of 183 on Monday, but Mr. J. J. Thompson beat it last night, making 194. There are quite a few who bowl around the two hundred mark and a close contest is likely.

WAY OF THE PRO. PLAYER IS HARD

The Belleville Intelligencer has the following to say of a recent pro game:

Any visitor to the Arena last night who was a stranger to ice hockey might have mistaken the encounter—it cannot be fairly called a game—for the rehearsal on a small scale of a battle without the rattle of small arms, or the roar of artillery. There were the opposing forces, attired in blue and green sweaters respectively, the clash of arms, the falling of the killed or wounded, on either side the ready first aid services of the hospital field corps who bore the fallen to the temporary hospital. Even the call for medical assistance and the prompt attendance of the duly qualified surgeons was not lacking.

The encounter was between the Port Hope professionals and a seven composed of four of the Bellevilles and three of the late Picton team which had disbanded the previous night. These men were all tired and sore after a hard game the night before, and a long drive which landed them here at five o'clock in the morning.

The fight began under the supervision of "Bill" Lane, of the Bellevilles, who proved to lack sufficient nerve for the position. After a few minutes strenuous combat, Randall of Port Hope, fouled Dusty, who was on the Belleville line. He was given a minute on the fence, but as he left the ice he gave the referee a jolt with the butt end of his stick, and was then ruled off for the rest of the game. Then the war really began. The Blues then threatened to discontinue and after a long parley, the referee yielded and Randall was let off with three minutes. Thenceforward the players did almost as they chose. Dusty was knocked out with a serious injury to his shoulder by being bodied against a girder. Kyle was tripped by Debeau and could not continue because of an old hurt in one of his knees, and finally, was forced to leave the game. Crossett was crowded so that his head struck a girder and was unconscious for a time.

From seven on a side at the beginning the number, owing to casualties fell to four on each side and Port Hope won by 10 to 6.

The game was of such a character as the people of Belleville would not care to witness again. It is but fair to state, however, that the majority of the players really played the game.

DON'T LIKE BEING CALLED PIRATES

Kingston, Feb. 15.—The Frontenac hockey management have, through their lawyer, written the editor of the Belleville Intelligencer, demanding a retraction of an article in yesterday's issue of that paper, in which the junior Frontenacs are referred to as "Sutherland's Pirates." If the paper refuses to apologize an action for seven thousand dollars will be instigated against it by the management of the junior champions for defamation of character.

feared that Democratic times were coming, and that made him "sweat blood" to contemplate the melancholy fact.

Speaker Cannon took no part in the debate either Monday or yesterday. He was in the chamber constantly, however, and followed the arguments on both sides with the keenest interest. There was loud applause and cheering in the House last night when on the first record vote that was ordered the Speaker called Representative Ollie James of Kentucky, one of the leaders of the Democratic side, to the chair. Mr. James sat there all through the roll call, and when he announced the vote the cheering was renewed. This is said to be the only time a Democrat has been called to preside over the House since the Republicans gained control.

Doctors Condemn Oily Liniments

The Public are Warned to Be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments Containing Harmful Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not—and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analysed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can't penetrate, can't sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago, Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment such as "Nerviline," to be superior to any of the white, ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica, and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment—but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache, and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

A BAD FIRE.

Norwood citizens were rudely awakened from their peaceful slumbers on Tuesday morning about 2 o'clock by the ringing of the fire bell and many willing hands were soon on hand, when it was ascertained that the home of Mr. Fred Garlick, Alma street, was threatened with destruction. The night was cold and before retiring Mr. Garlick had left a good fire in the furnace, and it was in that locality that the fire originated. At first it was thought the house was doomed, as the fire had gained considerable headway, but the men of Norwood never give up while there is hope of doing anything. Accordingly, the fire engine was procured and with it and a good supply of pails the water was applied with such good effect that the house was saved, but not until a considerable amount of damage was done. The fire got into the floors and partitions and was difficult to get at, but after about an hour's strenuous efforts the last embers were extinguished, which left the house in a very bad condition. The floors, partitions doors and walls in the main part of the house were practically demolished, and the loss will be heavy, probably $300. The property is owned by Mr. D. Sedgwick, who recently moved to Peterborough. Mr. Garlick's loss will be heavy. His new upright piano was a total wreck, as well as a lot of furniture, pictures, blinds, etc., on the ground floor. Nearly everything was removed from the upstairs, but a lot of the materials saved were badly damaged by smoke and rough handling. Mr. Garlick's loss is well covered by insurance. In addition to his loss in goods, Mr. Garlick lost a purse containing over $30 in cash.

On Friday evening of this week the Farmers' Club will hold a convention in the town hall, Norwood.

It is reported that the price of eggs has dropped to 19 cents this week.

Mr. H. C. Duff has leased the west half of Mr. John Davidson's brick house on Queen street, and will reside there in future.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

The local members of the Provincial and Dominion parliaments will be present and deliver addresses, as well as other noted parliamentarians selected from among the best platform speakers belonging to the party.

High School Inspector J. A. Houston visited our school on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 8th and 9th in his official capacity. His report of the inspection has been received, and is quite flattering and very satisfactory, both to the teaching staff and to the Board of Education. The report will be laid before the Board at the meeting on Monday evening, March 6.

HAIR DRESSING THAT MAKES WOMEN'S HAIR GROW RADIANT

Women of Canada are demanding a perfect hair tonic, one that is daintily perfumed, that is not sticky or greasy and that will make the hair grow profusely and give it a luster that attracts admiration.

Like their clever sisters in Paris, they have learned that a woman with scant, dull, lifeless hair grows old all too soon.

Since the introduction of Parisian Sage into Canada, druggists in every town are recommending Parisian Sage because they know that it will do exactly what the makers say it will do.

Besides being a hair grower and beautifier Parisian Sage is rigidly guaranteed to stop itching scalp, to stop hair from falling and to banish every trace of dandruff or money back.

Parisian Sage causes the hair to grow strong, vigorous and lustrous because it kills the dandruff germs that infest the hair roots, which is the basis of all scalp and hair diseases and also because it furnishes natural nourishment to the weakened and run down hair bulbs.

Parisian Sage is sold by druggists everywhere for only 50 cents a large bottle. It is guaranteed by Wm. Muldill, druggist. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., upon receipt of price.

THE TALE OF A DOUBLE-CROSS

By TOMMY BURNS

We talked the matter over. O'Brien wanted me to lie down in the twelfth round. I was to get most of the money and his reputation and money. I agreed.

"But you must put up $5,000, to make the bargain good, Tommy," said O'Brien.

To this I agreed.

After O'Brien left I sat thinking for a long time. Here I was with prospects of a future. And here was Jack O'Brien trying to make a great reputation, with me as the "goat." I thought of that day in Milwaukee when I was a green kid and this fellow with his swift talk got me into the ring, and how he double crossed me. I remembered the beating he gave me.

"I've got you now Jack O'Brien where I want you," I said to myself.

But how was I to get out of this $5,000 deposit which O'Brien might collect if I double crossed him?

I managed to get a number of blank betting tickets. These I had marked to show that I had wagered $5,000 on O'Brien to win.

"Say, Tommy, when are you going to put up that $5,000 to bind the job?" O'Brien asked me one day.

"Now look here, Jack, I haven't any money to put up because I have bet $5,000 on you."

Then I showed him the "phony" tickets.

"Oh well, that will do for me, kid," said O'Brien. I could see that the little Milwaukee double-cross Jack played me would look sick alongside the one I was playing him. I was so slow getting into the ring the night of the fight because Referee Eyton hadn't been informed of what was going to take place and I wanted McCarey to send him into the dressing room so that I might hear it decided that all bets would be called off. From the first I intended that no one should lose a copper on my account except O'Brien.

Eyton was mad when he heard of the deal, but he agreed to go on with the match. I stood outside the ropes and Eyton jumped in and said "For good and sufficient reasons I hereby call all bets off."

The bell clanged and I jumped between the ropes. O'Brien sat in his corner dazed. I walked over, and, without attempting to hit him as he came up, said:

"This isn't the Milwaukee fight, Jack. This is going to be on the square. Now let's go to it."

The fight can be described in a few words. O'Brien never recovered from him. He contented himself with running away for round after round, and but for his sprinting ability I am sure I would have a "K" opposite his name in my record.

O'Brien never said a word afterwards about the $5,000 worth of phony tickets.

AYRSHIRE BREEDERS OF FIVE EASTERN COUNTIES ORGANIZE

Association Comes to Life at Campbellford Meeting

Directors Are Elected and Arrangements Completed

The Ayrshire breeders of the Counties of Hastings, Prince Edward North-umberland and Durham and Peterboro, met in Cmapbellford of Tuesday Feb. 7, and organized a local club of Ayrshire Breeders. The purpose of this club, is, in the main, to foster the interests of Ayrshires in the Counties named, to encourage breeders more generally to adopt the Ayrshire cattle., to assist the breeders locally in marketing their cattle and their produce to the best advantage, and generally to promote the interests of the breeders and to become betetr acquainted one with another. The organization, as formed, will be known as the "Menie District Ayrshire Breeders Association." The officers and directors are—

Hon President—W. Stewart, Menie.
President—Alex. Hume; Menie.
Vice President —John McCubbin, Warkworth.
Sec. Treas.—W. E. Truman, Crookston.

Directors—Chas. Macoun, Campbellford; Barlow Cumberland, Port Hope; H. K. Denyes; Foxboro. Geo Stokes; Tweed; John Locke, Campbellford; W. Rannie, Menie; H. Cut s, Warkworth; J. O'Connor, Campbellford; F. W. Furber, Cobourg.

Three have yet to be chosen.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, many were prevented from attending who intended being present. As it was about twenty Ayrshire men assembled in the Cheese Board Room, at the St. Lawrence Hotel. There they discussed the merits of Ayrshire cattle, and on receiving the feeling of those present in regard to a local organization the Association was formed.

The Ayrshire breeders were surprised to learn that there were so many brother breeders of Ayrshires in the local Counties, there being some seventy or more. In deciding upon a name for the local organization, the members chose to "hitch their waggons to stars," in that they took advantage of the reputation which their two well known local fellow breeders Alex. Hume and Wm. Stewart, of Menie held. Thus they calculated that much would be gained by the Association which otherwise would take some time and much expense to obtain.

The meeting was addressed by C. C. Nixon, an editor of the Farm & Dairy, Peterboro, who emphasized the sterling qualities of the Ayrshire cow Pointing out the main things where in she excelled. He urged Ayrshire breeders generally to demand "pay by test" in their cheese factories and assured them that if milk were paid for at the cheese factories according to its value and if the cost of production was taken into consideration, the Ayrshire would rapidly become more in favour and take the prime position that is hers by rights. The speaker urged the breeders present to have more faith in their breed, to talk it up and to tell the world at large of the splendid records an the low cost of production of the Ayrshires.

The thanks of the local Ayrshire men is due R. F. Duncan of Port Hope, A. D. McIntosh of Sterling, A. P. McVanel, of Picton, and H. C. Duff, of Peterboro, the district representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in the local Counties, and to Alex. Hume and W. Stewart, to whom the initiative of the being of this Association is due.

The Menie Ayrshire Breeders' Association will hold its next meeting on Friday Feb. 24th. at Campbellford, at which time some leading Ayrshire men and other speakers will be in attendance.

The Winona (Conn.) Business Men's Association have endorsed reciprocity.

Two and a Half Hours on Operating Table

Specialist Could Not Remove Stone in The Bladder

GIN PILLS PASSED IT

JOLIETTE, P.Q.,

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone in the Bladder.

He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life". 46

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

THE ONLY PLACE!

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—"Peace" writes an amusing document in your paper last night. Does he think Peterborough is the only place there is a row going on! Wake up, old man.

Yours, etc.,

REPLY TO "PEACE."

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Will you allow me to make a few remarks in reply to an article in last evening's issue signed "Peace." There is no denying the fact that the writer's intention is good in advising a remedy whereby we may have a greater degree of peace and goodfellowship in our city. However, I can't altogether agree with him that our great and esteemed body of clergymen are stirrers-up of strife. As to the press I think his suggestion as to a remedy a very good one, inasmuch as we often find the stranger who is here to-day and away to-morrow attacking other religious beliefs and make statements that our local men would not dare to make. The remedy for the wrongs or weakness of the clergy, that of our Industrial Commissioner finding them employment on week days, to my mind, is altogether away from the mark.

I infer from his suggestion that he thinks the clergy's work is to preach a sermon or two on Sunday and then gossip and stir up strife through the week.

If he will study his Bible and take it as his basic thought he must conclude that our very worthy clergymen are a very busy people every day of the week. They take Jesus as their example and teacher ,who was always about His Father's business and was busy every day of the week. Then listen to what He says to those who accept His teachings. "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature, heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out the devils." There is no place in the Bible where Jesus authorized the preaching of the Gospel but that he commanded also the healing of the sick, etc.

When we look around us and see the great amount of suffering and the number of devils that are to be cast out, how can "Peace" think that our dear clergymen are idle gossipers. Look at our asylums, prisons and hospitals overflowing, crowded to the utmost, through crime, sorrow and suffering, then say if you can, that our clergy have nothing to do. It seems to me if the great hillside teacher were here in the flesh to-day and see the state of affairs He would mourn over us as He did over Jerusalem, saying "O Jerusalem often would I have gathered thee as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings and ye would not."

When we take the Bible and find the responsibility the great work of the preacher of the Gospel, is it not rather uncharitable to say they are idlers?

Would it not be more in keeping with the present condition of things to use the language of the Master and say, "The harvest truly is plenteous but the laborers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth the laborers into his harvest.' Matt. 9, 37, 38. We might add here a better kind of labourer, those who obey the law and gospel. Jesus said, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." John 15, 14. "I give you power to tread on serpents and scorpions and over all the power of the enemy." Luke 10, 19. "And these signs shall follow them that believe; they shall cast out devils, they shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover, etc." Mark 16, 17, 18. In conclusion I sincerely hope our lover of peace will see the great burden of work that is already laid upon worthy clergymen and not insist on anything more till they accomplish what has been laid out for them by their Master. "To obey God is more than all burnt offerings or sacrifices," long prayers, sermons, or work of Industrial Commission.

CHARITY.

The First Congregational Church of Ottowa have decided as a memorial to its jubilee to found a scholarship at the Congregational College, Montreal.

HUGE CHIMNEY FALLS TO EARTH

At 3.30 this afternoon operations for the downfall of the immense brick chimney of the old Colonial Weaving Company were nearly completed. Men have been working since Monday, under the direction of Mr. Clarke, of the contracting firm of Clarke & Monds, undermining the bottom of the chimney preparatory to bringing it down. The weight resting on the base of it was calculated to be 250 tons, as it is nearly 80 feet high, and each of the walls four feet thick.

Wood was inserted between the supports after the bricks were torn away and set afire about 3.15.

The chimney fell about four o'clock.

TRAINS LATE

Trouble Caused by Storm of Last Night

Those who intended going out of the city by the Grand Trunk trains to-day were doomed to have to wait. The Lakefield train was stalled in a snowdrift, and an extra engine had to be sent to its assistance. The Toronto train was three hours late, and the regular leaving for Belleville, at 1.10 was held over an hour to allow the passengers to make connections.

Notice to Laborers

Notice to Laborers—

Clarke and Monds will resume concrete operations to-morrow.

Park St, Ladies' Aid

The Ladies' Aid Society of Park St. Baptist church are holding a sale of homemade cooking on Friday afternoon and evening of this week, in the school hall.

Wishart Goes to Ireland.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—The warrant of surrender of Abraham Wishart, a former sergeant in the Royal Irish Constabulary, has been signed by the Governor-General, and he will start back to-day with Sergt. MacNeise, who came across the sea after him. Wishart is only charged with theft of about $15 from a fellow constable, which illustrates the strictness of discipline in the organization. Wishart was arrested three months ago, and has been kept in jail on remand since. He pleads innocence.

Said Good-Bye.

Kingston, Feb. 15.—St. Mary's Cathedral was filled to the doors last night when the congregation said farewell to Archbishop Gauthier, who leaves for Ottawa this afternoon. The congregation presented him with an address and a purse of gold of $2,000. and the laity presented a golden pectoral cross and an address. After the ceremonies at the church the archbishop gave a banquet to the clergy at the palace. At 8 a.m. this morning his grace said his last mass in the cathedral for the children.

Society Girl a Heroine.

Boston, Feb. 15.—Three firemen were injured and the lives of eighteen other persons were imperilled by fire in the Hotel Dartmouth at Roxbury early yesterday.

Two aged women, who were nearly suffocated by smoke, were carried from the third floor to the street.

A Roxbury society girl and a Conservatory of Music student proved a heroine. She assisted the police and firemen in getting the people out of the building, and refused to leave until she was sure that everybody had reached the street in safety.

Col. Balfour Dead.

London, Feb. 15.—Col. Eustace J. A. Balfour, brother of the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, M.P., died yesterday. He was formerly an officer of the Scottish Guards and subsequently aide-de-camp to King Edward and King George. He was the fifth son of the late James Balfour, M.P., and in 1879 married Lady Frances Campbell, fifth daughter of the eighth Duke of Argyll.

"The Flaneur" Is Dead.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Mr. H. H. Wiltshire, who was one of the oldest newspapermen in the city, died at the General Hospital last night. He had been ailing for about two months through a gradual breaking down of his constitution. He remained at his residence, 359 Givens street, till about a week ago, when he was removed to the hospital.

Mr. Henry Horace Wiltshire was born in London, England, about 75 years ago. When a lad he was apprenticed to the printing trade, which, in those days, was the first step to reporting, and later he was for over twenty years connected with The London Times. He came to Canada about twenty-seven years ago and took a position with The Mail, where he started editing of the page which is widely known as that of "The Flaneur."

Exclude Dynamite.

New York, Feb. 15.—It is announced that the Municipal Explosives Commission of Greater New York which has been informally investigating the recent Communipaw explosion and several other less serious accidents with dynamite and other explosives in the vicinity of the city, is considering the advisability of prohibiting entirely the use of dynamite within the city limits.

The commission's contemplated action would not only shut out dynamite for the purposes of blasting, but would also prevent its transportation or shipment from or to piers or terminals within the corporate limits.

A co-operative furniture factory is to be established in Guelph towards which $4,000 has so far been subscribed.

Disease of The Kidneys Brought on By Catarrh.

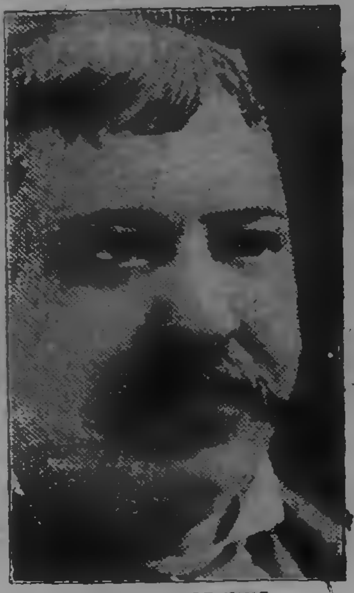
Pe-ru-na Made a Well Man of Me.

I Cannot Speak Too Highly of It.

Mr. George King, 453 St. Denis St., Montreal, Canada, a well-known business man of that city, writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work.

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me well and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well."



MR. GEORGE KING

CATARRH of the kidneys is a very much neglected disease.

It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realize that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

INTERNAL CATARRH REACHES THE KIDNEYS.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognize the difficulty as being caused by catarrh.

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's disease or diabetes, both of which are recognized as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systemic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the catarrh and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

PE-RU-NA AN INTERNAL CATARRH REMEDY.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys is proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials on our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

I soon found I was getting better and continued taking it for four months. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

WHY THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ours. There are Optometrists and Opticians who do a smaller but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our work. We are ever adding to our facilities and studying the latest methods. This is why we succeed.

WILL CONTROL MILK SUPPLY

Municipalities to Get Authority Over Business.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Hon. J. S. Duff, Minister of Agriculture, yesterday announced the particulars of his pure milk bill.

The bill follows the recommendations made by the Milk Commission appointed by the Government. It is entitled, "An act respecting the production and sale of milk for human consumption." It seeks to embody all legislation on this subject, hence many of its clauses are not new.

The bill gives municipalities complete control over their milk supply. And sets general standards for the province.

The principle followed is that the municipality in which the milk is to be consumed should have complete control in the matter of the production, care and sale. Municipalities are given power to pass bylaws making regulations as to the care of cows, the sanitary condition of the places where cows are kept, the water supplied to cows, the care of utensils used in handling milk, the proper storage and transportation of milk, the making of bacteriological tests as a guide to the wholesomeness of milk, and such other matters as may be considered necessary. These regulations are to be approved by the Minister of Agriculture.

Councils are also authorized to fix standards for butter fat and total solids, but it is provided that "no milk shall be sold for human consumption which contains less than 12 per cent. of solids, of which 3 per cent. shall be butter fat." In addition to this, stringent provisions are made to prevent adulteration.

Councils are empowered to appoint inspectors. As to tuberculosis, it is provided that no milk shall be sold from any cow which, upon physical examination by a certified veterinarian, shall be declared to be suffering from tuberculosis. It is provided that no cans or other utensils used in the distribution of milk shall be used for any other purposes, and all must be thoroughly cleansed.

ONLY ONE FLAG TO THE NORTH POLE

HOME RULE

London, Feb. 15.—During the debate in the House of Commons to-day, Premier Asquith reiterated his declaration that the Government's first task after the Veto Bill had been disposed of, would be to carry out a policy of full self-government for Ireland.

BURRELL IS INDIGNANT

Talked on the Fruit Question to Commons.

Ministers Were Absent and Member Ignored.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—The total disregard by the Government of any argument or discussion upon the reciprocity proposals was evidenced most strongly in the House yesterday. During the speech of Martin Burrell of Yale-Cariboo nearly all the Ministers deserted their desks and the two who remained affected to be very busy. Under Mr. Burrell's twitting, however, they returned reluctantly to their seats.

Mr. Burrell continued his remarks on the reciprocity arrangement. He said there were one million peach trees on ten thousand acres in western Ontario, and there was no doubt that this industry would be injured by the reciprocity agreement. They had five million fruit trees in the orchards of British Columbia, and in no other part of Canada would the industry be hit with equal force. They were still at the beginning of things. Thousands of men had spent their all on the fruit lands, and the proposals of the Government were deplorably cruel.

With regard to the remark of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the recent fruit growers' delegation that they were too late, Mr. Burrell pointed out that the Niagara fruit growers at St. Catherines, Ont., on Dec. 15, had sent a resolution to Hon. Wm. Paterson asking that nothing be done until their case had been heard.

Mr. Paterson had acknowledged this before the western farmers were heard. Did the Government think these subterfuges were creditable? Was it ever too late to do justice?

Hugh Guthrie (South Wellington), who followed Mr. Burrell, said it was almost a waste of time to reply to the argument that there had been in Canada no demand for better trade relations with the United States. As a matter of fact there had been no period since the abrogation of the old reciprocity agreement of 1854 when there had not been a positive and active demand for freer trade with our neighbors to the south.

Mr. Guthrie said that the best feature of the agreement was that it was not in the form of a binding treaty. It was simply a bargain based on the good faith of the two nations.

It had been argued that Canada should wait till another Colonial Conference has been held, but the best answer was that we had not bound

Beginning of a Tremendous Movement—Indignation in Canada Over the Openly Expressed Object of the Americans

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—"We are preparing to annex Canada," announced Champ Clark, leader of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives, in the course of the discussion on the proposed reciprocity treaty. Immediately after he had made that sensational statement, he and all the other Democrats, except three from Louisiana, proceeded to vote for the passage of the reciprocity agreement.

Annexation of Canada was the keynote of the speech by Mr. Clark, who will be Speaker of the next House, in whipping the members of his party into line in support of the reciprocity agreement with Canada. Not once, nor twice, but thrice, did he boldly declare:

"WE ARE PREPARING TO ANNEX CANADA."

While many of the leaders of both the Republicans and Democrats have admitted to the Gazette correspondent that annexation might follow the ratification of the reciprocity treaty, Clark's frank statement made on the floor of the House, has created a sensation here. Annexation was regarded as a thought to be kept under cover, something to be worked out gradually, but not to be expressed openly, lest Canada take fright and refuse to do her share in adopting the opening wedge of reciprocity.

Mr. Clark, who at a public meeting yesterday joined with President Taft in advocating reciprocity between the United States and the whole world, has no wcalled attention to the rumored movement of "ONE FLAG, THE STARS AND STRIPES, FROM CENTRAL AMERICA TO THE NORTH POLE."

It has leaked out that negotiations are being attempted to bring about reciprocity with Mexico, and if these and the Canadian negotiations go through, Central America will be next in line.

EXPECT SENATE TO KILL IT.

The favorable action on reciprocity in the House was fully expected. Many of those who voted for the agreement today, under pressure from the President, are depending on the Senate to kill the proposed treaty by inertia. Two great forces, with different methods, are working towards the common end of defeating the agreement—the high priests of protection are seeking to manipulate the proceedings so that the treaty will be delayed in committee, while the low tariff insurgents are demanding time for ample debate. Between the two forces there is little doubt that the agreement will fail to be brought to a vote.

Aside from the conditions in the Senate, all of which lessen the chances of the passage of the agreement, the opponents of the measure look to Clark's annexation statement in the House to-day to arouse a tremendous opposition in Canada.

"After that annexation statement," said one of the representatives tonight, "I do not see how the Canadian Parliament can take favorable action on the agreement without having read into the vote approval of the plan of annexation."

Warren and Stratton will be arraigned tomorrow in the Police Court on both charges, when it is expected that much new evidence will be heard, as a result of a long conference between Inspector Walter Duncan and ex-Manager W. R. Travers yesterday. It is alleged that the Guarantee Company under instructions from the defendants, advanced $58,000 in cash to the bank last summer, receiving as security notes for the same amount,

Chairman J. U. Viencent, president of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, made the announcement yesterday in strong terms: "We refer particularly to Bishop Fallon. We have written, asking him not to come, but if he persists the French people will not participate. Bishop Fallon has shown himself to be a man who does not respect the truth."

Associated Press Inspired to Belittle Clark's Indiscretion—Remarks Were Intended.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Certain remarks of Champ Clark, the Democrat leader, to the effect that the Stars and Stripes were soon to wave over Canada did not appear in the Associated Press report Tuesday night, who suppressed them is open to conjecture. The following is the Associated's effort to get out of the difficulty:

Washington, Feb. 16.—The semi-jocular remarks of Champ Clark, the Democratic Speaker-to-be, made in the House on Tuesday during the debate on the Canadian reciprocity agreement to the effect that he believed the Stars and Stripes would one day float over the entire western hemisphere, stirred up most unexpected trouble yesterday. President Taft took occasion to write to Representative McCall a letter disclaiming and deprecating the annexation talk, and to follow it up with personal remarks even more emphatic to his visitors.

The news that Mr. Clark's allusions had created excitement in Canada and in England occasioned great surprise and considerable amusement at the capitol. The man most surprised of all was Mr. Clark himself.

Mr. Clark's entire speech on reciprocity Tuesday was delivered in a half humorous, half taunting vein. The House was in a gale of laughter most of the time. In return for the laughs he was creating at their expense, some of the Republicans tried to turn the tables on Mr. Clark by chiding him with the fact that he might have President Taft as an opponent for the Democratic nomination. The humorous exchange reflected the spirit of the debate during the entire time Mr. Clark was on his feet, and no one gave serious consideration to his remarks regarding the possible annexation of Canada at some distant time. They regarded his statements in the nature of a compliment to the Canadian people, in that he would be glad to see the friendship that exists at present between the Canadians and the people of the United States so great in the future that all might some day be under one flag.

Knox Sees No Danger.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Though the people of the United States and Canada as "a substantially homogeneous people," with "deep moral and racial reciprocities," the benefits of the proposed commercial reciprocity with Canada "ought not to be obscured by the fear of relations too cordial and conceivably dangerous to the great Canadian loyalty to England," is the opinion of the Secretary of State, Philander C. Knox, who addressed the Chicago Association of Commerce here

Special to The Review.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Miss Hazel Nicholls, general manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, is dead from a bullet wound. She returned from the theatre last night and went to her room. Shortly after members of the family heard the shot of a revolver, and on investigating found the girl dead.

Word was received in the city this morning of the accident. The true facts of the case are that Miss Nicholls, who was 20 years of age, went to the attic of the house to search for some clothing in a dresser. While While hunting through the drawer, a revolver in it was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering Miss Nicholls' head, and causing practically instantaneous death.

The very sad accident has caused general grief and sympathy for Mr. Nicholls.

BIG GUNS ON RECIPROCITY

Premier and A. G. Mackay Thresh Out Question.

Financing of the Province Under Criticism of Opposition.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Crowded galleries and members present, all but six, was the tribute paid by public and Legislature alike to the oratorical prowess of the talented leader of the Opposition, and the redoubtable Premier, who were carded to bring the budget debate to a stirring conclusion yesterday. The finale included the first division of the session.

Hon. A. G. MacKay said the figures in the annual financial statement should not be juggled with. If the classification advocated by the honorable Provincial Treasurer, in 1905, were adopted instead of that used by him now instead of a bogey surplus of $2,406 there would be shown a deficit of over half a million dollars.

There was a reason for the manner of statements that the Provincial Treasurer had made. The curse of the party system was responsible. It was necessary to cover up the ruthless disposal of natural resources. The curse of the party system had been exampled in the United States, where the forests had become annihilated.

A board of directors who would attempt to hoodwink its shareholders in the way the Provincial Treasurer had would mighty soon be driven off the board. It was not the part of any public man to so arrange his receipts as to make a deficit appear as a surplus.

Members of the Government had contrasted the price the Liberals had received for its land in the mineral areas as compared with what it was now bringing. "The inference is that because we sold land for $3 an acre in the early days of New Ontario, we would still be selling it at the same figure. When we sold it for $3 an acre that was all it was worth. The wealth of the territory was not dreamed of."

The Government had paid the Opposition a compliment in adopting their suggestion of placing the mines on a royalty basis, but they had not gone far enough. He had advised that the rich mines should be taxed a greater percentage than the smaller ones. The heaviest load should be saddled on the strongest horse.

The succession duties act could also be enlarged upon. Large estates of millions should be made to cough up a larger percentage than estates of $50,000, and nobody would be hurt.

The great revenues, of which the present Government boasted, were flowing in as a result of laws made by the old Government. It had been stated that the Government employed too many civil servants. It might be so. He would not argue either way, but if civil servants were to be retained the province should be big enough to pay them fair, living wages.

Mr. MacKay noted that the cost of civil government had increased 65 per cent. under the present Government; the expenditure on crown lands had increased 98 per cent., while the cost for agriculture had only increased 35 per cent. The Government was not doing its duty by agriculture.

In view of the fact that our current expenditure on forests was $500,000, more than the receipts, there should be some systematic mode of conservation.

He then moved an amendment to the adoption of the budget deploring the nature of the financial statement, the condition of the schools, the state of colonization of the northern districts, and the introduction of the reciprocity question into the debates.

Sir James Whitney made a slashing one-hour fighting speech, in which he poked fun at the Opposition leader and hammered back at his arguments to the enthusiastic delight of his followers.

Great applause was evoked by the Premier's significant declaration that members of the Opposition may shortly hear "an announcement respecting the T. & N.O. Railway that will prevent any member making such a statement again as that the railway is little pettifogging line as long as he lives."

Vieing in significance was also the intimation that the Legislature would be likely to consider a resolution of

UNION LABEL

ANNEXING CANADA.

The annexation speech delivered by Champ Clark, the Democratic leader, in the House of Representatives, and who will be the new speaker, has caused a great sensation, and a shiver of apprehension at Ottawa. President Taft has repudiated it; the Washington news bureaus are trying to suppress it. But it leaked out before people noticed that it was an extremely frank, give-away speech.

And what did Champ Clark, a presidential possibility, say?

Merely that he expected the United States flag to wave to the north pole, and that this reciprocity move was the first of many steps in that direction, to culminate in annexation.

Champ Clark has frankly given utterance to the thought that is in the American mind over this deal. He committed a diplomatic blunder, but what he said was true, far truer than the carefully guarded utterances of other officials. If, after such an expression of opinion, the Laurier Government goes ahead with the agreement knowing full well that the United States is seeking annexation—well, the Laurier Government is a traitor to Canada, and loyal Britishers should rise in their might and stop this insidious bargain. Where is the nigger in the fence?

Champ Clark said in the House, according to the report that got out; He said the chief necessity of the United States was wider markets, and the present bill would do something to that end. It would bring closer trade relations with one of their near neighbors. He went on to say he hoped to see the day when the American flag would wave over the North American continent clear up to the North Pole. The Canadians spoke the same language and were the same people. If the treaty of 1854 had not been abrogated the two nations would have been a good deal nearer together now than they are.

"Do you think this will end in bringing Canada into the Union?" asked Mr. Norris, of Nebraska.

"Yes," I have no doubt about it," answered Mr. Clark.

"Do you think that will tend to peace with Great Britain?" continued Mr. Norris, with special reference to Mr Clark's allusion to universal peace made a moment or two before.

"Yes I certainly think it will. I have no doubt the time will come when Great Britain would joyfully see all her North American possessions become part of the Republic," answered Mr. Clark. "That is the way things are tending now."

PREPARING THE WAY

Says the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger: "Almost without exception the larger manufacturing interests of the United States who maintain headquarters in New York are persuaded that reciprocity with Canada, following on the whole the lines laid down by President Taft, will in the course of two or three years greatly increase the exports of American manufactured commodities into Canada. How greatly our trade may be developed with Canada can be demonstrated by the increase in that trade in the past ten years. If the rate of increase for the past ten years be maintained the, United States should be selling each year to Canada in ten years more commodities of the money value of $400,000,000. The only disturbing thought to the larger manufacturers in the situation is that there now comes a vague suggestion from Canada that if reciprocity is to be defeated it will be due to opposition raised in Canada rather than to any obstacles built up in the United States or in Congress."

PAPER AND PULP

There has been a lot of discussion on the pulp and paper clause of the reciprocity agreement, much of it away off color as far as a correct interpretation goes. The Ottawa Journal says that it is a cleverly framed fake on both sides, but an examination of the exact wording of the clause shows that from the United States viewpoint it is not, and that Canada is permitting the free exploitation of her timber limits which are not controlled by the provincial governments. We have not the figures to hand, to show whether these private limits constitute a really important part of Canada's timber limits, but it is evident that President Taft may construe the clause to mean that the United States shall get the benefit of all Canadian timber and pulp limits not specifically under provincial control.

The clause says that paper up to four cents a pound value and pulp shall be admitted to the United States

> "free of duty, on the condition precedent that no export duty, export license fee, or other export charge of any kind whatsoever, or any prohibition or restriction in any way of the exportation shall have been imposed upon such paper or wood pulp.
> "Provided also that such wood pulp, or paper, being the products of the United States, shall only be admitted free of duty into Canada from the United States when such wood pulp or paper are admitted from all parts of Canada free of duty into the United States."

It will be noticed that the first paragraph will admit free into the United States pulp and pulp wood free on which there is no export duty or restriction. Paper will not be admitted from the United States into Canada free until the United States admits free of duty pulp and paper from ALL ports of Canada. Thus the clause works out that the United States may secure free our pulp and timber from private limits, and early leases of crown limits, but does not get the Canadian market for cheap paper until the provincial governments throw off their embargoes on crown land products.

Of course the United States could remove this duty at any time, but Canadians have held that there should be an EXPORT DUTY ON PULP, to force the manufacture of it all—whether crown land or private land product—in Canada. This is the duty of the Dominion government, but it signally fails to guard this chief of Canadian natural resources demanded by the United States. We say that not even the timber from private limits should be allowed to go into the United States without export duty. Force its manufacture in Canada. With paper it is different. And it may be remarked that to include paper and wood pulp as one, or interchangeable articles, is very queer, since one is a raw and the other a finished product, and due for entirely different handling by Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Toronto Star says that a Chinese valentine would naturally have Queuepids on it. We rise to remark that the valentine without Queuepids is indeed a Stuecupid affair.

An Englishman and a German fought a duel in New South Wales with swords, over a difference of opinion as to Germany's foreign policy. One was slashed and the other gashed. The fools are not all dead yet.

The attitude of Hon. Clifford Sifton on the reciprocity matter is causing a great deal of interest. Mr. Sifton was ready to speak in the House after Mr. Foster had concluded this attack on the measure, but the government had a western free trader to throw on, and the expected utterance did not come off. It is likely that Mr. Sifton will speak on the subject; and though it is known that he is strongly opposed to any negotiations with the United States, it is believed that he will not take a strong attitude against Laurier.

DOCTOR SAID SHE WOULD DIE

"Fruit-a-tives" Saved Her Life

RIVIERE À PIERRE, QUE., May 9th 1910

"I look upon my recovery as nothing short of a miracle. I was for eleven years constantly suffering from Chronic Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation. The last two years of my illness, I was confined to my bed nearly all the time. I was so thin I weighed only 90 pounds, and I vomited everything I ate. Even water would not stay on my stomach.

The doctors gave me up to die as the stomach trouble produced heart weakness and I was frequently unconscious.

At this time, a lady friend strongly advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives" and how thankful I am that I did so. When I had taken one box, I was much better and after three boxes, I was practically well again and had gained 20 pounds.

I have taken thirteen boxes in all and now weigh 150 pounds and am absolutely well—no pain—no indigestion—no constipation—my heart is sound and complexion clear".

For Irish Parliament.

London, Feb. 16.—The Nationalist members of the House of Commons came across the Irish Channel in force yesterday for the preliminary skirmish on the home rule question, which arose as the result of an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, moved in the Lower House by Ian Z. Malcolm, Conservative member for Croydon.

Complaining that the obscurity of the Ministerial remarks on the subject of home rule, "which avowedly was one of the main reasons for altering the existing constitution," hampered an effective deliberation on the proposed changes of relations between the two Houses of Parliament, Mr. Malcolm asked on what terms peace had been patched up between the Liberals and Nationalists.

He claimed that the land purchase act, permitting Irish tenants to acquire property, had knocked the bottom out of the demand for home rule and protested against an attempt to smuggle home rule through by a single chamber government.

Perjury Charges Dismissed.

Chatham, Feb. 16.—Late yesterday the Bothwell perjury trials were finished before Magistrate Houston, who dismissed both Mrs. Duncan and Daniel Matthews on the charges preferred against them by John G. C. Irving, Baptist preacher of Bothwell. Irving charged the parties with falsely swearing to property qualifications. In both cases it was proved that the defendants had voted in good faith, and that their names appeared on the voters' lists at the time of the election. Mrs. Duncan and Matthews were summarily arrested on the charge, along with Robert McNeill, who was dismissed in the morning. The cases arose out of the local option campaign in Bothwell last January, in which local option was defeated by a straight majority.

Freed From Kaiser's Authority.

Berlin, Feb. 16.—The commission of the Reichstag further amended the Government's draft of the constitution proposed for Alsace-Lorraine yesterday, wholly freeing the future state from the influence of the Emperor. The commission struck out the clause giving the Emperor the exercise of executive authority, and substituted a provision for a regent who would hold office for life and be nominated by the Emperor upon the proposal of the Bundesrath. The regent also would be removable only by the Bundesrath.

How Ovila Marcotte's Bright's Disease Was Caused and Cured

A cold was the cause and Dodd's Kidney Pills the cure—He recommends them because he has proven them good.

Lafond, Alta., Feb 15. Special.—In these winter days when nearly everybody has a cold, and the cold goes to the weak spot, backache and other symptoms of kidney disease are almost epidemic.

For this reason the statement of Ovila Marcotte of this place is of interest to every one. He had a cold. It developed backache, Kidney disease and finally the dreaded Bright's Disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. Here is his full statement:

"For three years, due to a cold I suffered with Backache, Kidney Disease and Bright's Disease. I was treated by a doctor, who did me no good. It was four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills did the work. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all persons who suffer from diseased Kidneys."

Neglected Kidney trouble brings suffering and disease, that too often proves fatal. When a cold shows you that your Kidneys are weak or disordered the only safe plan is to tone them up with Dodd's Kidney Pills. They always cure all forms of Kidney trouble.

Senator Wood Stricken.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Senator Josiah Wood of Sackville, N.B., was stricken with paralysis while taking breakfast yesterday morning in his down town apartments. Members of his family have been telegraphed for.

Senator Wood, who is a Conservative, was appointed to the Senate in 1895. He was born in 1843.

M. E. Nichols, managing director of The Winnipeg Telegram, and a former member of the Parliamentary press gallery, is a son-in-law of the afflicted Senator.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 16.—The market at opening was influenced by the steadiness in Chicago yesterday, and values were about unchanged to ¼d higher, with the principal strength in May, and shorts covered. Following opening, there was realizing on a limited scale. The market was extremely full, with liberal Australian and Argentine offers. Spot markets were ¼d lower, with some pressure, and European crop advices continue generally favorable with good crop accounts from Russia and lower Buenos Ayres market at the close.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Wheat to-day made a new low record for the season. anti-option and reciprocity were twin bugaboos. A decidedly nervous tone prevailed at the close, which was ⅜c to 1⅛c under last night. Other grain suffered less severely, corn finishing at a net decline of ⅛c to ⅜c, and oats off ⅛c to ¼c. Latest sales of hog products varied from 2½c cheaper to a nickel advance.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 16.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings this morning were 550 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 500 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being well maintained under a good demand and small supplies. The trade was fairly active thruout, and a clearance was made.

A feature of the market was the sale of one extra choice heifer, weighing 1350 lbs., at 7½c per lb., which is the highest figure which has been paid here since Christmas. Choice steers sold at 6½c; good at 6¼c; fairly good at 5¾c to 6c, fair at 5½c to 5¾c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5c per lb. A few choice cows and bulls brought 5½c, and the commoner grades sold at from that down to 3½c per lb.

The market for sheep and lambs was quiet on account of the limited supplies coming forward, and prices ruled steady. Sheep sold at 4c to 4½c, and lambs at 5c to 6c per lb. A weaker feeling developed in the market for calves on account of the increased receipts, and prices ruled lower, with sales at from $2.50 to $12 each, as to size and quality.

The market for hogs was weaker, and prices declined 25c to 40c per 100 lbs., owing to the supplies being much larger than were generally expected. At the reduction the demand was good, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.75 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts were 300 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 400 calves. The feature of the trade was the weaker feeling in the market for hogs, and prices were lower, at $7.60 to $7.75 per 100 lbs. for selected lots, weighed off cars. The demand for cattle, sheep, lambs and calves was good, and the prices realized were much the same as those quoted above.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

Yes; she treated me as an old friend. She told me everything that I already knew in a few sentences as piteous and as simple as a mother's love itself, and she told me other things which Rouletabille had kept a secret from me. The relationship between them had been guessed by the one as surely as by the other. Led by a sure instinct, Mme. Darzac had resolved to take means to learn who was this Rouletabille who had saved her from death and who was of the age of her own son and who resembled the lad whom she had mourned as dead. And since her arrival at Mentone a letter had reached her containing the proof that Rouletabille had lied to her in regard to his early life and had never set foot in any school at Bordeaux. Immediately she had sought the youth and had asked for an explanation, but he had hurried away without replying.

"Why did he not throw himself into my arms when I opened them to him?" she moaned. "Ah, my God! If he refuses to be Larsan's son, will he never consent to be mine?"

I was almost beside myself. I kissed her hands and entreated pardon for Rouletabille. Here was the result of my friend's schemes to save her pain. Under the pretext of saving her from Larsan he had plunged a knife into her heart. I felt as though I had no wish to know any more of the story. I went out of the square tower cursing Rouletabille roundly. I went to the court to look for him, but found it deserted.

At the postern gate Mattoni had come to take the 10 o'clock watch. I saw a light in Rouletabille's room, and I hastened up the rickety stairway of the new castle and quickly found myself outside his door. I opened it without knocking. Rouletabille looked up.

I told him all that I had heard and my opinion of him for his actions.

"She didn't tell you everything, my friend," he replied coldly. "She did not tell you that she forbade me to touch that man. Do you know what she said to me yesterday? She ordered me to go away. She would rather die than see me take issue against my father."

And he laughed. Laughed! Such laughter I hope not to hear again.

His face was not a pleasant sight to see as he uttered the words, but suddenly it seemed to be transformed.

"She is afraid for me," he said softly. "And I—I am afraid for her—only for her. And I do not know my father. Ah, God help me!"

At that moment the sound of a shot rang out on the night, followed by a cry of mortal agony. Ah, it was again the cry that I had heard two years ago in the "inexplicable gallery." Rouletabille tottered; then he bounded to the open window with a despairing burst of anguish:

"Mother, mother, mother!"

I leaped after him and threw my arms around his body, dreading what he might attempt. Quickly he turned on me, threw me off and precipitated himself wildly through corridors, apartments, stairways and courts toward the accursed tower from which had come that same death cry that we both had heard a moment ago and also two years before, when it had resounded through the "inexplicable gallery."

I was still there when the door of the square tower opened, and in its frame of light there appeared the form of the Lady in Black. She was standing upright, living and unharmed in spite of that cry of death, but her pale and ghastly visage reflected a terror like that of death itself. She stretched out her arms toward the night, and the darkness cast Rouletabille into them, and the arms of the Lady in Black closed around him, and I heard no more, only sobs and moans and again the two syllables which the night repeated over and over, "Mother, mother!"

Strange to say, I found no one in the Court of the Bold when I crossed it. No one, then, had heard the pistol shot! No one had heard the cries! Where was M. Darzac? Where was Old Bob? And the Berniers? I saw neither of them.

Rouletabille and the Lady in Black went into Old Bob's parlor.

And they were there alone, clasped in each other's arms, repeating over and over again, "Mother!" and "My little one!" And then they murmured broken sentences, phrases without end, with the divine foolishness of a mother and her child. And then how they embraced each other, as though to make up for all the years they had lost! I heard him murmur, "You know, mamma, it was not true that I stole!"

But where was Bernier? I entered the lodge from the left, for I wished to know the meaning of the cry and of the shot which I had heard.

Mere Bernier was at the back of the room, which was lighted only by a tiny taper. Her features were distorted with fear.

"Some one fired off a pistol!" I said. "What has happened?"

"I do not know," she responded.

And at that moment I heard some one open the door of the tower, and Pere Bernier stood on the threshold.

"Bernier! What has happened?"

"Oh, nothing very serious, I am glad to say. An accident without any importance whatever. Darzac while placing his revolver on the stand beside his bed accidentally fired it off. Madame naturally was frightened and screamed, and as the window of their room was open she thought that you and M. Rouletabille might have heard something and started out to tell you that it was nothing."

"Darzac has come in, then?"

"He got here almost as soon as you had left the tower, M. Sainclair. And the shot was fired almost immediately after he entered his bedroom. You can guess that I had a pretty fright! I rushed to the door. Darzac opened it himself. Happily no one was injured."

"Did Mme. Darzac go to her own room as soon as I left the tower?"

"At once. She heard M. Darzac when he came in and followed him directly to their apartments. They went in almost at the same moment."

"And Darzac—is he still in his room?"

"Here he is now."

I turned, and saw Robert Darzac. Despite the gloom of the place I saw that his face was ghastly pale. He made me a sign and then said very calmly and quietly:

"Listen, Sainclair! Bernier told you about our little accident. It is not worth mentioning to any one unless some one should speak of it to you. The others perhaps have not heard the shot. It would be useless to frighten all these good people. Don't you think so? Now I have a little favor to ask of you. It is only to persuade Rouletabille to go to bed. When he is gone my wife will calm herself and will try to get the rest that she needs. Every one of us has need of rest—and silence."

I pressed his hand with a force which attested my sentiments toward him. I was persuaded that both he and Bernier were concealing something from us—something very grave.

Darzac re-entered his room, and I went to find Rouletabille in the sitting room of Old Bob.

But upon the threshold of the apartment I jostled against the Lady in Black and her son, who were passing out. They were both so silent and wore an expression so unexpected to me, who had overheard their exclamations of love and joy only a few moments before, that I stood before them without saying a word or making a movement. The extremity which induced Mme. Darzac to leave Rouletabille so soon under such extraordinary circumstances as those which had attended their reunion puzzled me greatly. Mathilde pressed a kiss upon the lad's forehead and murmured "Good night, my darling," in a voice so soft, so sweet and at the same time so solemn that it seemed to me that it must resemble the leave taking of one who was about to die. Rouletabille without answering his mother took my arm and led me out of the tower. He was trembling like a leaf.

It was the Lady in Black herself who closed the door of the square tower. I was sure that something strange was passing within those walls. The account of the pistol shot which had been given me satisfied me not at all.

We were at that moment not far from a window in which a light was still burning and which opened upon the sitting room of Old Bob and sloped out upon the sea. This window was not closed, and it was this, doubtless, which had permitted us to hear so distinctly in spite of the thickness of the walls of the tower the pistol shot and the cry of agony that had followed it. The storm was past, but the waters were not yet appeased, and the waves broke on the rocks of the peninsula with a violence that would have rendered the approach of any vessel impossible. The thought of a vessel crossed my mind, because I believed for an instant that I could see the shadow of a vessel of some sort appearing or disappearing in the gloom. But what could it be?

We stood there motionless for more than five minutes before we heard a sigh—a groan, deep as an expiration, like a moan of agony; a heavy sob, like the last breath of a departing soul—which reached our ears from that window and brought the sweat of terror to our brows. And then nothing more—nothing except the intermittent sobbings of the sea.

And suddenly the light in the window went out.

My friend and I grasped each other's hand as if instinctively commanding each other by this mute communication to remain motionless and silent. Some one was dying there in that tower! Some one whom they had hidden. Why? And who? Some one who was neither M. Darzac nor Mme. Darzac nor Pere Bernier nor Mere Bernier nor—almost beyond the shadow of a doubt—Old Bob; some one who could not have been in the tower.

To be continued.

J. J. Warren's Home-Coming.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—J. J. Warren, manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., who was summoned to answer in the Police Court on Friday, a charge of conspiring, with Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, C. S. Smith and J. R. Stratton, to obtain a charter for the Farmers' Bank by fraud. On Monday his two-months-old son died, and he knew nothing of it till he arrived home.

Not as Bad as Painted.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—There are objections in connection with the recent address of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst in Toronto, where she stated that some of the female employes of Hull, Que., received only $1.60 per week as wages. No one can be found accepting anything less than $3 a week, and those very young girls.

DEATH PENALTY FOR TWO YOUTHS

Spectators in Court Cheered at Sentence of Death.

Paris, Feb. 16.—The two youths, Desmarest and Tissier, who murdered a bank messenger in Paris a few months ago, were sentenced to death yesterday afternoon.

Twenty-one questions had been put to the jury, which answered "Yes" to every one of them. When the death sentence was pronounced the immense crowd in the courtroom burst into cheers of "Bravo! Bravo! Justice for once!" and cheered.

The only two calm persons there were the two prisoners, who have shown the utmost cynicism throughout. They had planned their crime carefully, committed it brutally, and, as will be remembered, were taken on information supplied by women with whom they had been drinking in the night after the murder, and who thought their conduct suspicious.

An Englishman and a German fought a duel at Sydney, N.S.W., with swords and both were badly wounded. The quarrel arose over a discussion of Germany's foreign policy.

A Discovery of Vast Importance

It Is Now Admitted That Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Coughs, and Colds Can Only Be Quickly Cured By Mixing a New Medicine With the Air You Breathe.

Scientists acknowledge that medicated air treatment is the only treatment that will cure these diseases, and that stomach medicines are worse than useless.

Catarrhozone air treatment has been found to be the most effective way to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. Its action is so prompt that in less than an hour an ordinary cold is cured, and after a more thorough use of Catarrhozone, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all diseases of the throat and lungs are completely cured.

Catarrhozone is a very simple and powerful method of treatment. You simply breathe it through the inhaler and it immediately passes over every air cell of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes, curing and healing as it goes.

Catarrhozone treatment affords little drops of healing for sore places in the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

Should Not Fortify.

New York, Feb. 16.—As a manifestation of the desire of this nation to promote peace throughout the world, the United States should refuse to fortify the Panama Canal. This assertion is made by Dr. H. S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation, in a letter to the New York Peace Society. He says the question is not one of right, but one of large public policy, and that the only danger existing belongs to those "indeterminate causes" against which no country is called upon to arm itself.

Masked Men Rob Prisoner.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 16.—Two masked burglars broke into the town jail at Warrior Run, Pa., near here, yesterday, and bursting open the door of the cell in which Stanley Jandus, the only prisoner, was confined, robbed him at the point of revolver of $29.

The burglars then escaped, and Jandus, who was being held on a trivial charge, finding himself free, went out and notified the police.

Signed With Pen of Gold.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 16.—With a gold pen made of precious metal mined in California, President Taft yesterday signed the bill designating San Francisco as the city in which will be held in 1915 the exposition signalizing the completion of the Panama Canal. The pen will be exhibited at the exposition.

The Pope Ill.

Rome, Feb. 16.—Pope Pius X. is suffering from a slight attack of influenza, and is confined to his bed. The disease has affected his throat, causing considerable hoarseness, and the bronchial tubes are congested.

Montreal, Too.

Montreal, Feb. 16.—From a report to Chief Engineer Janin of the city yesterday, the serious fact was brought to light that the water in the big reservoir on the mountain is going down at the rate of 10 inches a day. The outlook is very serious.

Wife Murderer Hangs Himself.

Indiana, Pa., Feb. 16.—John McCoombs, who clubbed his wife to death Jan. 23, hanged himself in his cell at the county jail. He had made a noose from strips torn from his blanket.

Building Collapsed.

Winnipeg, Feb. 16.—Nares' Block, in the centre of the city, collapsed at three a.m. yesterday, carrying down in the debris three-score occupants. By prompt action all were rescued.

The Algoma Central Railway has ordered 10 locomotives from the Kingston works.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Faces Water Famine.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—"We are doing our best to relieve the situation," said Deputy City Engineer Fellowes during a brief rest at the shore crib this morning. "We hope to have sufficient pressure to supply all points south of College and Carlton streets by daybreak. Owing to the water being out of the reservoir, it will be difficult to get pressure enough to supply the district north of that until later in the day with the full capacity of the mains, even if we do succeed in removing all of the obstruction by that time."

This was the official statement given out this morning on the worst water famine with which the city of Toronto has ever been confronted. It is but a repetition in a more aggravated form of the trouble with the choking of the intake pipe which cut off the city's water supply on Dec. 31 last. It was caused by the east wind churning up the ice and creating a current which drove a large quantity of floe ice, sand and brush into the intake, causing a stoppage of the water supply and necessitated the tapping of the old wooden intake unused for the last twenty years, in order to get enough water to keep two 10,000,000 gallon per day pumps running to half capacity in order to prevent the entire water supply being cut off.

Spectacular Suicide.

New York, Feb. 15.—The most spectacular suicide that New York has ever known took place at Washington avenue and Montgomery street, Brooklyn, yesterday, when a well-dressed man coolly climbed twenty feet above the pavement, drove a nail to a sign which hung over the street, placed one end of a rope about his neck and tied the other about the nail and then dropped. He was found dead shortly afterward by a policeman.

The man had climbed up one of the poles supporting the sign. The dead man was about sixty years old, and there was nothing in his possession by which he could be identified.

Bad Wreck in France.

Courville, France, Feb. 15.—A bad collision occurred near here last evening on the western section of the State Railroad, when the expresses for Paris and Brest dashed simultaneously into a freight train which was being sidetracked. The wreckage immediately caught fire.

Nine bodies were taken from the wreck up to midnight, and one of the eight injured recovered died, making the total number of fatalities ten. It was apparent, also to the searching parties that other bodies are still uncovered, as charred flesh was visible under the debris, which was still blazing at that hour.

MY DAUGHTER WAS CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"I send you herewith the picture of my fifteen year old daughter Alice, who was restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was pale, with dark circles under her eyes, weak and irritable. Two different doctors treated her and called it Green Sickness, but she grew worse all the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking three bottles she has regained her health, thanks to your medicine. I can recommend it for all female troubles."—Mrs. L. A. CORKRAN, 1103 Rutland Street, Baltimore, Md.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take immediate action and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by its use.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE BIBLE IN THE WORLD'S LITERATURE

More Powerful To-day Than Ever Before—Its 300th Anniversary to be Celebrated at St. Paul's Church Monday Evening

Three hundred years of the English Bible suggests to us its great influence. Wherever this Book has gone it has inspired new ideals of civilization; new models of character; new conceptions of virtue, and hopes of happiness. What a wonderful power the Bible has exercised in literature and art. Were we to lose such works as owe their thoughts, emotions and visions to the Bible then all scripture like Donatello's "David," and Michelangelo's "Moses," all paintings like Raphael's "Sistine Madonna," and Murillo's "Holy Family," all music like Bach's "Passion" and Handel's "Messiah," all poetry like Dante's "Divine Country" and Milton's "Paradise Lost" would have to go. It is marvellous how its imagery suits every age and every land. Born in the east and clothed in Oriental form and symbol, the Bible walks the ways of all the world with familiar feet, and enters land after land to find its own. Into every condition and scale of life it goes, and takes with it a necessary message. Thus entering into every phase of life. It is scarcely to be wondered at that the Bible has exercised an extraordinary influence in literature. It has called into being tens of thousands of other books. English literature is far richer today because of three hundred years of our English Bible. Even before it appeared in its present form it was the inspiration of the masterpieces. But in its present form it has had a wonderful influence. This is partly due to the simplicity of its language. Henry Van Dyke describes it as "a monument of English prose in its prime." It uses a vocabulary of only 6,000 words, yet it is a book which, as Macaulay said "if everything else in our language should perish, would alone suffice to show the whole extent of its beauty and power."

The Bible has had a preservative influence upon our language, keeping it as pure as we find it to-day. It has furnished us with a great number of phrases that are current everywhere. A long list could be given, and in it such phrases as "a good old age," "a mother in Israel, "the valley of decision," "thou art the man," "no discharge in that war," "a drop in the bucket," and scores of others would be found.

Direct quotations from the Bible are found in all sorts of books. One of the latest novels, "The Rosary," has many such. Tennyson has over 500 in his works. Shakespeare clearly reveals the strong influence of the Bible in his description of his characters and uses many passages and references. Browning is crowded with scriptural phrases, reference and quotations. In his longest poem there are over 500 Biblical references. Scott, Ruskin, Stevenson and Kipling use its phrases with great effect. Some works of English literature since the sixteenth century are altogether Biblical. "The Pilgrim's Progress," "Paradise Lost," and "Paradise Regained," are among the number. To these should be added Browning's "Save," and "A Death in the Desert."

The largest and most important influence of the Bible in literature is not in its language, but in the power of the Book to nourish and inspire and guide the inner life of man.

"It finds me," said Coleridge.

"The Bible," said Huxley, "has been the Magna Charta of the poor and the oppressed."

"New light has broken from it," says Van Dyke, "to lead the upward struggle of mankind from age to age. Men have come back to it because they could not do without it. Nor will its influence wane; its radiance be darkened, unless literature ceases to express the noblest of human longings the highest human hopes, and mankind forgets all that is now incarnate only and forever in the central figure of the Bible."

No wonder, then there should be a desire on the part of all who appreciate literature who love liberty, and who crave for righteousness, and who strive to live the life of the pure, the true and the good to meet together and express their gratitude for what 300 years of the English Bible has brought them of these unpurchasable possessions.

BRANCHES OF DOMINION GRANGE TO BE FORMED IN THE COUNTY

Meetings Being Held in Parts of the County to Form Local Associations Along Free Trade Lines

Subordinate branches of the Dominion Grange, farmers' organization, that was so largely instrumental in organizing the huge deputation of Ontario farmers who waited on the Dominion Government last December in conjunction with the farmers of western Canada to press the claims of the farmers for a reduction in tariff schedules, are being formed in Peterborough County. A meeting was held at Warsaw yesterday afternoon. Mr. Drury, of Crown Hill, Ontario, Pastmaster of the Dominion Grange and Secretary of the Canadian National Council of Agriculture, W. L. Smith, editor of the Weekly Sun and H. B. Cowan editor-in-chief of Farm and Dairy, were the principal speakers.

In his opening address Mr. Drury explained to the farmers present the aims and objects of the Dominion Grange. According to Mr. Drury the Grange in its influence is educative and influential. It affords to farmers an opportunity to discuss questions of importance to them which could not be discussed at their farmers' club, where their liberty of speech is curtailed by the fact that the clubs receive government assistance. Mr. Drury then went on and gave an explanation of the position of the farmers on the tariff, showing wherein the farming industry of Ontario and of all of Canada is being injuriously affected by the extra prices which they have to pay on everything that they buy, due to the working of the protective tariff. The sum which the tariff costs each farmer was estimated by Mr. Drury as $200. This is equivalent to a mortgage of $4,000 with interest at 5 per cent. The farmers therefore, must organize and fight for their rights.

W. L. Smith, who followed, pointed out the work which the Grange had already done in political lines for the benefit of farmers. "The Grange" said Mr. Smith, "is not only an organization where farmers can discuss questions of economic importance, but it should be also a social centre for the life of the community." The necessity of bringing the women and children out to the meetings of the organization is to be a permanent success, was strongly emphasized by this speaker.

The addresses were listened to with enthusiasm by all the farmers present and the speeches were interrupted frequently by applause. At the end of the meeting the following motion was moved and seconded and carried unanimously:

"That having listened to the speakers at this meeting we heartily approve of the necessity of the organization of the farming community to look after their interest. Further we believe that in order to have a successful organization it should be independent of government influence. We ask each member of this club to take into consideration the proposition of affiliation with the Dominion Grange to be decidedly finally at our next meeting to be held on the second Wednesday of March at 8 o'clock p.m."

A joint meeting of the Pine Grove Grove and Zion Farmers' Clubs was held in the town hall at Lakefield in the evening, and the same speakers addressed the meeting. It was moved by G. E. Johnson and seconded by W. A. Rosebrough, that a Grange be formed at Lakefield. Here also the audience was almost entirely in sympathy with the idea of organizing granges in preference to Farmers' Clubs, where liberty of speech is denied them.

Meetings are being held at Stewart this afternoon and at Central Smith to-night. At the town hall, Monaghan, at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon a meeting will be held at which the same speakers will be present. In the evening a meeting will be held in Norwood at 8 p.m., Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. a meeting will be held in the Court House at Peterborough. All are invited to attend these meetings. Ladies are welcome.

MRS. COOPER IS IN TROUBLE NOW

Wife of Norwood Man Figures in Another Police Court Case

Hamilton Herald—James Thompkins charged Frederick Henry with being drunk and disorderly. The case is an echo of the Cooper insanity charge, and the prisoner said the whole charge was laid because he attempted to move the furniture, which he had bought when he first started to live with Mrs. Cooper, back to the Metropole Furniture Company. He said he did not own the furniture but that it bought on payments and he wanted to take it back, as he was through with Mrs. Cooper, as she had decided to keep house for the colored man.

"This case is because of the Cooper case and has all been heard before, and that's what the chew is all about," said Henry.

Thompkins said it was not the case but that he had Henry arrested because he used "undecent" language and used his house "brutally" and when asked to stop he would not quit his "inflamed" language.

"What is Mrs. Cooper there anyhow?" asked the magistrate of Henry.

"She's supposed to be the housekeeper," said Henry.

"You can all go. I don't want to hear any more about this case," said the magistrate. He stated afterwards that Mr. Cooper should come back from Norwood and get his children and he would help him to do so.

Fire destroyed the Felix Heber hotel at Edmundston, N.B., loss $10,000.

PLEASURE CLUB HELD AT HOME

Pleasant Evening Spent at St. Alphonse's Lyceum

A very pleasant "At Home" was held last night at St. Alphonse's Lyceum under the auspices of the Pleasure Club.

The first part of the evening was spent in progressive euchre. Miss Lizzie Grady won the ladies' prize and Mr. Jack Deannard the one offered for the gentlemen.

A dainty luncheon was served after which the evening was spent in dancing.

Was Discharged

Frank James pleaded guilty at the police court to-day to a charge of being drunk and disorderly on the 15th Feb. As he has a wife and child who were present in court, and it being a first offence, the Magistrate allowed him to go with a warning.

LIFE AND WORK OF JOHN WANAMAKER

Interesting Lecture by Rev. E. Pogue at St. Paul's Church

Rev. Robert Pogue delivered a comprehensive and instructive address on the life and work of John Wanamaker in St. Paul's church last evening, which was heartily enjoyed and much appreciated by the fair sized audience present.

In commencing his topic, the speaker said that John Wanamaker merited the title of one America's greatest citizens. A personal acquaintance with him, made one feel all the more truly that he was indeed a great man.

John Wanamaker was undeniably possessed of genius also, combining the two qualities in it, namely, imagination and a wonderful capacity for taking pains. The man was great, his achievement so wonderful, his personality so many sided and complex that no word can explain it, except the word "genius."

He was born on July 11th, 1837 in what is now the south-western section of Philadelphia. On his fathers side he was of German stock. His grandfather, John Wanamaker, was described as a tall, austere looking man, but withal of a very kindly disposition. That trait in the old man's character, like a stream flowing down from its ancestral hills, had widened and deepened in the descendants. The present bearer of the name was one of the kindliest of men.

In his early early years he had been persuaded by the late Mr. Moody, to give up business and work as an evangelist, but his mind was made up. While evangelism lost a bright star the business world gained the most princely merchant and the Christian Church and the Sabbath school, one of its most distinguished lay workers and organizers.

At the age of fifteen he went to work, and on drawing his salary, his invariable custom was to buy a book or article of some kind for his mother. One employer spoke of him as the most ambitious boy.

In a very interesting manner, Rev. Mr. Pogue went in to speak of the young man's ambitious efforts during his early days and of his business and church life as he became older, and met with such great success.

IN READINESS FOR EXHIBITION

Hobbies and Curios in Large Numbers—Opening To-morrow

The Boys' Hobby Exhibition at the Y. M. C. A. to-morrow promises to be a great success. As this is the first attempt at anything of this description here, it should receive the patronage of the general public as well as of the parents of the boys.

The time for making entries has been extended to 12 o'clock noon, tomorrow. Among the many entries already in are a model steamboat, two model steam engines and a model aeroplane also relics from India, South Africa and Alberta. One boy has offered to exhibit a newspaper which is one hundred years old.

There is to be something going on all the time. Besides the exhibition there will be side shows, and a good program consisting of vocal solos and instrumentals. Mr. F. W. Miller is to give a cornet solo.

The displaying of the exhibits has commenced and everything will be in readiness for the opening at 4 p.m. to-morrow.

Those who have kindly consented to act as judges for the occasion are Mr. Serigley, penmanship; Mr. Hodgson, natural history; Misses Alford and McCrae, arts; Mr. Hagerman, manual training; Mr. Roy, photography; and Mr. Gilchrist, miscellaneous.

Make Bicycling a Pleasure

Do you remember that slogan: "These are the only Tools you'll need"? With what joy you took to bicycling on Dunlop Pneumatic Tires! That was in 1892, or thereabouts, and Dunlop Bicycle Tires are still in the same commanding position. Nothing in the form of a Bicycle Tire has ever been invented that can approach the Dunlop.

SCHEDULE OF WAGES FOR FIREMEN IN OTHER CITIES

Official Information Abou the Pay of Fire-fighters

As the question of wages for the city firemen, is under considerable discussion at the present time, the following information, which shows the schedules of other cities will be of general interest. The schedules were secured from official headquarters during the early part of last year, and since then increases have been made in some cities.

Kingston schedule—First year, $600; second, $650; third, $700.

Hamilton—$540, $660 and $804.

Brantford—First year, $1.76 per day; second year, $1.80, and $2 for the third.

Chatham—First year, $600 and $620 for second.

Windsor—For first six months the salary is $40 per month, with an increase of $5 per month for the next half year. A further increase of $5 is given each year until the maximum of $65 per month is reached.

Stratford — First year, $45 per month; second year, $47.50; third year, $50.

Woodstock—First year, $1.40 per day; second year, $1.50; third year, $1.64 fourth year, $1.75

London—First year, $517.50; second year, $657; third year, $730; fourth year, $766.50.

In Lindsay the firemen are paid $500 per year and provided with a house, fuel and light. In view of an intended increase a Lindsay alderman, was in the city yesterday inquiring into the schedule here.

When Chief Howard applied for an increase last year for his men the committee instructed him to write to other cities and learn what the schedules were. The figures given above are copied from letters on file at his office and may be seen by any citizens. In every other city but Peterborough the fire department has a foreman, assistant foreman or a captain and lieutenant who receives from $100 to $150 more than the ordinary fireman. These officers of the local department, do not receive a greater wage on account of their positions

Sixty nine men have been employed at the Peterborough Fire Hall since its inauguration.

THE BELMONT CLUB DANCE

The third annual dance of the Belmont Club held at the Conservatory of Music Hall, last night, was very largely attended and the occasion proved to be one of much enjoyment. Music was supplied during the evening by Fraelick's orchestra of four pieces, of Toronto, in a particularly pleasing manner. Varied decorations were profusely hung about the hall and a pretty effect was brought about by the settings on the stage. Supper was served by Coleman Bros. The patronesses were Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Stratton and Mrs. Hay, while the committee in charge of the affairs were Messrs. K. G. Lech, P. Trebilcock, W. G. Cochrane, G. K. Wesley, N. Greenhalgh, H. P. Ecclestone, H. Hall, A. W. Bellighem, W. T. Belleghem was honorary secretary.

CHARGE AGAINST M. PAPPAS OF ROYAL THEATRE DISMISSED

Magistrate Held Defendant Not Responsible for the Crowding

A Case in which the People Could Not Be Held Back

M. Pappas, proprietor of the Royal Theatre, faced a charge at police court this morning of having unlawfully allowed the passage ways and aisles of his theatre to become obstructed on the evening of Feb. 10th. The charge was dismissed by His Worship, it being proved by the evidence that the accused was not responsible for the violation of the law.

G. N. Gordon acted for the defence.

CHIEF THOMPSON.

Chief Thompson, by whom the charge was laid, took the stand first. He stated that on the night in question he gave instructions to Constable Meagher when out on duty to attend the Royal Theatre and see that the aisles were not obstructed. He himself went around to the theatre, accompanied by plain clothes man Newhall, about 8.45 pm. He found the rotunda and the sidewalk outside literally packed with people. They first endeavored to move the people on the sidewalk, but could get no further into the theatre than to the door on the south side. The aisles and passageways, as far as he could see from there, were packed, and the doors were held open. People were packed so tightly that it was impossible to move the lobby doors. The place inside was also very close and ill-ventilated, and just outside one lady fainted in the jam. He spoke to Pappas about the conditions, and was informed that the crowd rushed in without buying tickets.

"One month ago," said the chief, "I instructed all moving picture owners about allowing aisles to be obstructed, and they were all served with a copy of the rules and regulations."

"How many people would you say were endeavoring to gain entrance?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"Between three and four hundred," replied the chief.

"Are the doors of the swinging kind, conforming to the Act?"

"Yes."

Mr. Gordon—"Did you see Mr. Henry or the other employees trying to keep the crowd out?"

"No, not at that time," answered the chief.

Magistrate Dumble—"Was it a minstrel show that was performing?"

Mr. Gordon—"Yes, your Worship; Peterborough is very partial to minstrel shows."

Plain clothes man Newhall took the witness box. He said he was at the theatre on the night in question, continuously for about an hour. Sergeant Adams and P.C. Meagher were also there frequently. About eight o'clock the crowd became such that complaints of not being able to get in became numerous. He then notified the chief, and the two of them tried to make a clearance. The act inside was nearly over, and at its conclusion, the crowd tried to rush in and out simultaneously.

"The people seemed to go clean crazy; they did not mind tramping on children and did not stop at anything," said the witness.

"If anything had happened at that time, what would have resulted?" queried His Worship.

Witness assumed that there would have been a pretty bad mix-up, as the women were just as bad as the men.

BABIES WERE THREE

"Women were there carrying babes only a few months' old," said Chief Thompson.

Continuing, the witness stated that at one time a big crowd came down, evidently from one of the other picture shows, and rushed in without paying or buying tickets. The ushers were powerless to check them. Any amount of people got in that way before the chief came over.

There were three doors in the front, making two exits and one entrance, and also four exit doors at the rear."

Mr. Gordon, for the defence, asked His Worship to have the case dismissed on the ground that the evidence all proved that the crowd was uncontrollable. "It would appear," he said, "that the blocking of the passageways was due to the crowd who came from another picture show and gained entrance forcibly. It was plain to all that Mr. Pappas was not responsible for the affair, as Pappas, Henry and the ushers evidently did all in their power to control the crowd.

His Worship, in deciding on the case, expressed himself very strongly in regard to conditions such as was at hand. "It is the fans and rooters who acquire their training at hockey matches who no doubt were responsible for such happenings. There was no culpable intent on the part of the accused to violate the Act. It was just a case of where the crowd loses their control and good judgment and become reckless. The case before the court should serve as a warning to all other picture showmen, and it should be an example for them as to what might happen if it were not avoided. It was evident that Mr. Pappas did his best to control the crowd, and he was not responsible for the affair."

One of the clauses in the Act applying in cases similar to the one tried to-day reads: "All passageways, aisles, stairways and approaches in places where moving pictures are being shown, shall be kept clear and unobstructed. Failure to comply with the same will compel a forfeiture of the treasurer's license.

PETERBORO' BOY SCOUT NOTES

No Regular Meeting This Week

Owing to the Drill Hall and Band Room being arranged for the Hardware Convention, it will be impossible for the Boy Scouts to hold their regular meeting this week. If any of the patrol leaders are taking no steps to enroll the boys in their patrols these boys should be careful to send in their names to either F. D. Kerr, secretary, or W. J. Neale, as promotions in the future will be based upon seniority of enrollment, regular attendance at drill, and good behaviour generally. All the present officers who do not send in their names on or before Friday, the 24th, inst., will have to enlist as scouts after that date, if they enlist at all. The Scout warrant and badges will in all probability arrive next week.

WOMAN'S MISSION CIRCLE MEETING

Mrs. Fee Gave Talk on Work in China

The regular meeting of the Woman's Mission Circle of the Park St. Baptist church was held at the home of Miss M. Mann, 435 George street, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Fee, of Bethany Tabernacle, gave a talk on her work in China. This was very interesting. Mrs. Lee gave the population of China, the number of missionaries, the number of persons in each parish. The walled cities. The location of the missionaries, and as one listened to the speaker explain the difficulties under which the missionaries have to work, how easy it was to see that it was only the thorough working of the Holy Spirit that those people are reached by the gospel, and some of them won for Christ.

At the close refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

Regimental Promotion

The Canada Gazette of recent date has the following: 57th Regiment "Peterboro Rangers"—to be Captain Lieut. W. R. G. Higgins and vacates the appointment of Signalling Officer, vice R. F. McWilliams, transferred.

THE LOTTERY MAN

As it was heralded, the Lottery Man presented to a good sized audience at the Grand last night was a perfect scream. The characters were irresistibly funny, the situations and climaxes unique and often unexpected, and Lizzie was easily the superior fun-maker of the entire cast.

The Lottery Man is a comedy in three acts and tells the story of a young newspaper man, who, while extremely clever, yet has never been fortunate enough to acquire a comfortable salary, in order to care for his mother as he wished. Driven to desperation, he offers himself as a human lottery to the spinsters of America, and in order to secure him each applicant must send in one dollar to buy a coupon containing a number, the holder of the lucky number thereby securing the newspaper man as a husband.

When he broaches his plan to "getting rich quick" to "Foxey" Peyton, one of the owners of the paper, he is at first repulsed, but his plan is later accepted.

Then follows a perfect stream of of ever-changing situations. Lizzie, who in the role of waiting maid to Mrs. Peyton, fitted the character to perfection, typifying the character of an old maid in every detail

When the coupons are all submitted and Lizzie dramatically announces that she holds the lucky number, 1324, the audience laughed themselves weak with the humor and unexpectedness of the thing.

Jack Wright, the lottery man, who is secretly an admirer of Helene Hever, but is debarred from asking for her hand, handicapped, as he thinks, by his penury, was the life of the play. When in the last act it is discovered that Lizzie had falsely acquired the lucky coupon, thus letting Jack out and at liberty to continue his attentions to Helen, the tension of the play is relieved, and a satisfactory condition of affairs prevails.

Such briefly is an outline of the story, and that the "Lottery Man" scored distinctly with the audience is stating it mildly. Every member of the cast was good, and their efforts were enthusiastically applauded.

The intermediate athletic contest is on the card for to-night, and as some of the association's best athletes are competing there is sure to be some close and exciting contests. You are invited to come along and enjoy the sport.

One of the most exciting games ever rolled on the local alleys was the game between the championship Lancashire Trio and the Midgets. After a most strenuous contest the Midgets succeeded in giving the Trio the first defeat of their career. Score, Midgets 1139; Lancashire Trio 1110.

BASEBALL

Jack Thoney is to be given a trial at first base for the Boston Red Sox.

It is said that Bender, Plank, Coombs, and Russell, star pitchers of the Athletics, are holding out for more salary.

Catcher Fred Mitchell, late of the Highlanders, has launched into the show business, with Toby Lyons, the old umpire, as the headliner. The troupe is appearing in the live towns of New England.

Manager Joe McGinnity of the Newark team is figuring out a new puzzler. The "Iron Man" believes that he is still able to show the young pitchers a few tricks of the trade.

Bill Bradley leaves this week for Hot Springs to get into shape for the Eastern League season.

Bill Carrigan has signed his Boston contract.

The Jamaica Government will join with Canada in asking tenders for a fast steamship service.

SPORT TALK

Barney Oldfield and Jim Jeffries are down in Mexico giving the natives a touch of high life as far as speed in an automobile is concerned, and the big fighter has evidently settled down to a period of peace with never a thought of the prize ring in his mind. Before leaving for Mexico, Jeff gave out a statement concerning his much-talked-of return to the ring for another go at Johnson, and although this has already been published it might not be bad to look it over again, now that some of the boys are getting him matched up again. Said the boilermaker: "Under no circumstances shall I ever again participate in a public prize ring contest or exhibition. I have retired from the ring for all time. This is the decision I made months ago. It is a decision I shall abide by. In effect it is the answer I have given to the question asked in one form or the other, whether I would ever be seen in a ring again. At the risk of being considered arbitrary, peevish, call it what you will, I shall hereafter refuse to answer any query bearing upon the possibility of my ever re-entering the fighting game."

Stanley Cup Trustee Wm. Foran received a challenge from an unexpected quarter yesterday for a series with the winners of the N.H.A. for the trophy. It came from the Prince Albert Club, champions of the Saskatchewan League, in the shape of a wire, and was signed by Secretary W. A. Hunter and President George McDonald.

Mr Foran is in favor of accepting the challenge if the Ottawa club, presumably winners of the trophy, can accommodate the challengers with dates within a reasonable time. Mr. Foran states a club that is willing to put up the money and travel east from Prince Albert is deserving of recognition.

This is the only challenge in to date.—Ottawa Free Press.

Galt, Feb. 15.—Whenever the Galt referee put off a man last night the Waterloo referee would put off two Galt men, and when full time came the score stood 5 to 5, and both teams had only three men on the ice. Why, one of the officials was given pokes by both Waterloo and Galt players when he put them off. It was decided that the game would be played off with the first team scoring one. Herb Clarke, of Toronto, arrived and he went on the ice as referee. The players of both teams put all their energy in the game, and after 25 minutes' play Servise notched the winning goal for Galt.

PUCKLAND

The C. G. E. Tool room seven held a practice at the rink last night, between seven and eight, in preparation of the game with the office team on Saturday.

Parkdale won the championship of district 2, of the Senior O.H.A., by handing out a defeat to St. Michael's last night. The score was 5—3.

The pros will be seen in action at Brock street rink to-night.

If Pete Campbell's bad leg had been O.K. Varsity would just about have won out. He got going a while in the tail half, but after a tumble or two it went back on him, and he lacked his usual spirit of aggressiveness. He camped in on the Orillia nets until Referee Caldwell fenced him. The crowd called him "Insid Home" Campbell.—Toronto Star.

St. Michael's College, ex-O.H.A. senior champions, may be brought here for a game with the local intermediate team.

There were bumps and hilarity at the Brock street rink last night when two teams from the C.G.E. armature department met in battle. Some one was mean enough to say the referee had to be moved about the ice. The score is in dispute.

THE MAT

Montreal, Feb. 15.—Geo. Hackenschmidt defeated Alphonse Steurs, the Belgian champion, on the mat at Sohmer Park to-night in two straight falls in catch-as-catch-can, the best two out of three falls to constitute a win. Hack won the first fall on a foul after minutes wrestling, during which Steurs continued to rough it, gouging, biting and hitting with his fists. The second fall went to the Russian after some remarkably fast work, still characterized by foul tactics on the part of the Belgian.

our hands, and that if anything better developed at the Colonial Conference, Canada was still free to take advantage of it. Proceeding, Mr. Guthrie said that he believed that the agreement contained advantages for both countries. If it was a one-sided bargain it would not last for twelve months, nevertheless he believed that the preponderating advantage was on the side of the Dominion.

In the Senate yesterday the question of a better distribution of work between the Commons and the Upper House was discussed, and a resolution moved by Senator David adopted inviting the Lower Chamber to join in the formation of a joint committee to report on a plan. The Senate representatives on the committee will be Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Messrs. Lougheed, Beique, Power, Belcourt and David.

Senator Macdonald said there should be more young and active men in the Senate, and the membership of both that branch of the Legislature and the Commons itself should be cut in half.

In committee on a bill to prohibit the improper use of opium and other drugs Senator Lougheed expressed the opinion that this measure did not go far enough. Deadly patent medicines were being freely sold and it was time they should be inspected and approved or forbidden by the Government before being put on sale. Sir Richard Cartwright said he would be glad to consider any amendment which was proposed.

Senator Power thought there was a question of provincial jurisdiction to be considered.

Senator Cloran said the bill was within Federal jurisdiction as it made certain offences a crime.

Senator Kirchoffer, chairman of the divorce committee, reported in favor of granting the application of Dr. L. F. Robertson for divorce from his wife Elizabeth Louise Robertson, now of London, England, and in favor of granting the application of Maggie Florence Sadlier of Toronto, from her husband, W. A. Sadlier, barrister, formerly of Toronto.

Casgrain, Not Langelier.

Montreal, Feb. 16.—The report sent out from this city Tuesday night that Sir Francois Langelier would succeed Sir Alphonse Pelletier as Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec is without foundation.

Senator Casgrain is in line for the appointment, and as he has previously had the offer of this post, it is considered as practically certain that he will succeed Sir Alphonse Pelletier. The latter's resignation, however, has not yet been received by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

last night.

Mr. Knox declared that while migrations proceeded as constantly and as freely between Canada and the United States, as between two states of this country, and while the two peoples have been welding together for two centuries, "there is not the slightest probability that this racial and moral union will involve any political change or annexation or absorption."

"If there should be any great world movement, involving this continent, Canada and the United States would, as a matter of course, act in the most perfect concert in defence of the common rights of a common blood and civilization."

Speaking of the provision for free wheat, Mr. Knox pointed out that the transportation facilities of the United States for handling the surplus Canadian crop must be taken into account, thus preventing "the demoralization of prices which results through the dumping of larger quantities upon the European markets, where the world's supply is fixed." He declared that the free admission of grain from Canada would meet the present situation and place the control in the hands of the American growers.

Greatest Opportunity In Years.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—An urgent plea for the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canadian and the United States was made last night by Jas. J. Hill, at the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Mr. Hill said in part:

"There ought not to be one vote in Congress or one voice in the country against an arrangement worth more than armies and navies, more in dollars and cents than the acquisition of other markets for which we are prepared to spend huge sums. Every man in public life who knows the true value and effect of reciprocity, and yet opposes, is willing to sacrifice the most important interests of his country and to close the greatest opportunity to open it in years.

"Any opposition to a project so advantageous to the American people is so extraordinary that the nature and cause of it should be considered first. It comes from three sources; two of which may be summarily disposed of. Such of the monopolistic combinations as find their power to overcharge the people imperilled by reciprocity are naturally against it."

Nearly Perished In Fire.

Chatham, Feb. 16.—At 3.30 yesterday morning Gasparre Favata's fruit store on Queen street was totally gutted by fire. The stock was not large, and there was some insurance.

Favata and his wife and family were sleeping above the store and they did not get out until after the firemen arrived.

Will Act as Administrator.

Kingston, Feb. 16.—Monsignor Masterson, of Prescott, has been appointed administrator of the diocese of Kingston until the new archbishop is chosen, and this, Archbishop Gauthier thinks, will not likely be before five or six months. Monsignor Masterson is the oldest priest in the diocese.

U. S. Judges' Salaries Raised.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The House yesterday voted to increase the salary of the Chief Justice of the United States from $13,500 to $15,000 a year, and the salaries of associate justices from $12,500 to $14,000.

McMASTER LOST THE KERR SHIELD

Victoria College Defeated the Presbyterians in Debate

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Upholding the negative of the resolution that the immigration policy of the Dominion Government as hitherto conducted was in the best interests of Canada, the representatives of Victoria College defeated representatives of McMaster University last night in the final debate of the local Intercollegiate Union, thereby depriving McMaster for the first time in four years of the Kerr Shield. Messrs. M. E. Conron and E. J. Pratt were the debaters for Victoria, and Messrs. James Strachan and Archie Ward for McMaster. There was a large following of both colleges in Convocation Hall, and the result, as announced by the judges, Prof. W. J. Alexander, Mr. J. A. Paterson, and Mr. J. M. Godfrey, was received with much enthusiasm. The only comment made by the judges was that the affirmative had failed to uphold its side of the question.

IT TRAVELLED ON ONE RUNNER

Funny Experience of Cutter-Drivers at Noon

Two ladies and a gentleman in a cutter came within a fraction of an inch of being thrown out on the icy road at the noon hour to-day.

They were driving out Charlotte street, and at the corner of Park the cutter skidded in the groove of the car track, and travelled fully 20 feet on one runner. Passers-by were surprised at the sight, expecting to see the cutter go over at any moment. The only reason known for it maintaining its equilibrium was the rapid speed at which the horse and cutter were going.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL SESSION

Many Matters of Business Transacted at Regular Meeting

The Township Council met on Monday, the 13th inst., in the County committee room at 2 p.m.

All the members were present, the Reeve presiding.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Communications were received from the following.

The Tax Reform League, re assessment of improvements.

The National Sanitarium, asking for a grant.

The Salvation Army asking for a grant to their Rescue Home.

The clerk of Cavan, re Culvert Tile at Springville.

E. M. Elliott, treasurer, showing return of taxes in arrears.

Moved by Messrs. Foster and Robson that the Council hereby authorize the Reeve and Clerk, to endorse the petition of the tax reform league asking the legislature to ammend the assessment act, so as to permit of the assessment of improvements on farm property to be a rate lower than that on land. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. May and Foster that a grant of the sum of $5.00 be hereby made to the Salvation Army Women's rescue and children's Homes in Ontario and the clerk is hereby directed to forward the same. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Morrow and Robson that a grant of the sum of $5.00 be hereby made to the National Sanitarium for consumptives and the clerk is hereby directed to forward same, Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Foster and Morrow that the clerk be hereby directed to notify the Council of Cavan Township that this Council have not authorized in any way the removal of a tile culvert at Springville, and that heretofore they have taken no action in the matter, and further that they strongly object to the division of, or the blocking of any streams until full consideration be given to the same. They are however willing to meet the committee of the Cavan Council to ascertain what action, if any, it may be advisable. Carried.

The clerk was here directed to notify the C. P. Rly. authorities of the danger to persons travelling on the road at the crossing near Leary's Ballast pit.

The auditors for 1910 presented their statement of the township accounts, which on being read was found to require a few ammendments It was then referred to the auditors for revision.

A committee of the whole Council was then appointed to examine the dredge on the 12th and 13th, with a view to finding out the probable cost for its re-construction and if possible to obtain a legislature and county grant towards the same.

The clerk was then directed to ascertain the dates and probable cost of sending a delegation to interview the Minister of Public Works of Ontario, in connection with obtaining a grant to the said dredge and to attend the good roads convention in Toronto.

The Council then adjourned to meet in the same place at the same time on March 6th next.

A KANSAS OPINION

The following is an extract taken from the Emporia (Kansas) Gazette, edited by William Allen White, one of the leading writers of the United States:—

"The man who buys his goods off a mail order house and expects his neighbors in Emporia to buy goods off him or to buy labor off him, or to buy professional service off him is economically a leech. He is sucking industrial blood out of the town and gives none back He sends his profits out of town like a Chinaman and has no more right to a standing in the community than a foreigner. We are all neighbors industrially in town, and the man who sends away for his goods, is not one for us. He is of another industrial system, and deserves no man's support in Emporia.

"The fact that this is economically wrong is recognized by the mail order houses themselves. They protect their customers as thieves by offering to keep people from knowing where the mail order goods come from The mail order houses have no tags on their goods. They say in their catalogues, that none of their goods are marked, and that no one knows where bought. It it is proper to hide the place of purchase of an article, it is wrong to buy the article at that place Only the man who steals is ashamed to say where he got anything he has There is such a thing as "tainted" dry goods, "tainted" groceries, and "tainted" furniture. All of such that are not bought at home, of men who befriended you, of men to whom you owe a living, are "tainted" because they come unfairly.

"The trouble of Emporia is this: So many merchants buy their goods away from home that a systematic jealousy has sprung up. The dry goods dealers don't feel that they have to buy their furniture at home, because the furniture men's wives buy their dry goods away from home. The same quarrel exists in every line of trade, it is disheartening and distressing and paralyzing to the business interests of this town.

"It is time to change and get together. It is time to begin to reform ourselves and our neighbors, by buying everything at home, whether the neighbors do or not. And now is time to begin. The thing to do is for all of us to turn over a new leaf."

We wanted to say something like that ourselves, but we were afraid it was too strong, so we simply quote what Mr. White says to show that others have pretty strong views of this mail order business as well as ourselves.

We want to ask you two fair questions: are you willing to buy the goods you require here in Peterboro if you were assured that you would do as well as by sending away? Are you willing to give the matter a fair trial and find out the facts of the case? If so will you take your mail order catalogue to your dealer and ask him fairly and squarely if he can fur. goods of the same quality at the same prices, after allowing for the expenses you would have to pay for mail and express charges? Unless you will do this, you are not true to the interests of Peterborough and the opening remarks of Mr. White apply in your case.

The staff of the Government Printing Bureau at Ottawa must now register their comings and goings in time clocks.

HOTELS IN PORTUGAL.

Paying One's Bill There Becomes a Duel in Politeness.

When traveling for the first time in Portugal one is apt to become exasperated when he desires to settle up with his landlord at the hotel. When the traveler asks how much his bill is the landlord bows graciously, smiles suavely, rubs his hands together and replies that the bill is as much as the guest wishes to contribute.

This is simply the opening of a duel of politeness, for the hardened traveler at once thanks the landlord for his confidence in him and again very courteously asks for a detailed statement of his account. Still the bill is not forthcoming, for the landlord declares that he does not wish to insult his guest in any such manner. Finally the landlord does reckon up the charges on his fingers. When he has finished he asks the traveler how much the sum total is. If the traveler hasn't kept track of it the landlord very laboriously goes over the account again. If the guest has footed up the bill the landlord is sure that it cannot be so much and insists on a re-reckoning. The result is the same, and the landlord invariably needs to bring two or three more fingers into use for items that had been accidentally omitted.

Needless to state, the traveler not hardened to this process breathes a deep sigh of relief when he "escapes."—Boys' World.

DIET AND AGE.

Proper Eating Would Insure Better Health and Longer Life.

Medical experts, insurance men, educators and teachers of the science of health and happiness generally are in favor of simpler living and a return to nature. The mortality of adult age—of the period between forty and sixty—is increasing, but it is not due to the stress of modern life, to worry and overwork, as some have supposed. It is due, we are assured, to overeating and bad diets. There is every reason why we should live longer and be healthier, for comforts are increasing and inventions are lessening toil and anxiety. But our very prosperity has led to richer and ampler diets, and there is where the mischief lies—there, and in our indoor life. We shun nature; we shut out light and air; we walk little and seldom eat or rest in the open air, in gardens, fields or on porches.

This is all wrong, and the wages of this wrong are ill health, depression, gloom, the shortening of the natural span of life. Habits of outdoor life should be formed early—at school. As much teaching as possible should be done in the open air—and as much playing likewise. After graduation boys and girls should continue to cultivate the outdoor life and families should continue the practice.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Telephone Lies.

At One Hundred and First street and Broadway a man was talking into a telephone. Presently he was heard to say: "All right. I'll come. I am now at Twenty-third street and Broadway. I'll be up in about half an hour."

"That chap seems to have lost his bearings," said a man who had overheard the error in locality.

"He knows where he is all right," said a drug clerk. "He's just putting up a bluff. It is quite a common bluff. Men who have a mighty high regard for truth at all other times do not hesitate to tell a whopper about where they are when talking over the telephone. I have heard persons swear over that wire that they were telephoning from points all the way from Hoboken to Amityville. They were not seasoned liars, either; just wanted a few minutes' grace apparently and thought the easiest way to get it was to make out they were a mile or two farther away than they really were."—New York Press.

Custom in Spain.

One thing specially is vital in Spain: "Costumbre," they say ("It is the custom"). It explains commercial honor tersely for the Spanish business man to keep his word and pay his bills; exactly as it is equally customary for him to lack what we call "honor" in some other departments of life. It is customary to do or not to do, to like or not to like, a thousand things. Why? "Custombre" is the only reply. It is customary, moreover, not to yield readily to an improvement or a luxury, even as it is again equally customary, once the Spaniard has yielded to a given thing, to hold to it like adamant. —Arthur Stanley Riggs in Century.

BIG GUNS ON RECIPROCITY

protest with respect to reciprocity, or a memorial against it to the Dominion Government.

Sir James considered it amusing that not one of Col. Matheson's critics agreed with another as to how much of a deficit there was. They varied from a half to three millions. If there was anything wrong with that financial statement he could safely say that none of those men were the proper persons to rectify it. There had never been a clearer or more concise accounting of the Government's affairs given on the floor of the House.

The Premier would have the honorable, the leader of the Opposition remember when he charged the Government with giving away pine lands, that when the Conservatives came into power, they found all the desks and drawers swept clean, and the papers had been burned so that no trace could be got of what the Liberals had done.

"When a prospective purchaser offered us $72,000 for a piece of it, we found that the Minister of Crown Lands had, with his own hand, marked an extension of the limit in lead pencil upon the map, and we had to forego the sale. The records, being destroyed, we could not get at the actual state of affairs. So that $72,000 represents one instance, at least, where the province was robbed of cold cash by the old Government."

"We are told by a foreigner that we are at the parting of the ways with England. Are we willing to abandon that tie that has for fifty years inured to our peace and prosperity? Are we prepared to let the American millionaires swamp us out?"

The amendment was negatived on a division, the ayes being 16 and nays 30.

PAINS THAT MAKE MISERY.

A Talk With Our Lady Readers

Have you ever noticed how miserable and unhappy the little pains and aches make one? A stinging cut, badly chapped hands, a nasty burn, a sore foot, a poisoned finger—none of them wounds or ailments ever likely to cause serious trouble, which come to every woman—and man too—and are just sufficient to take the edge off one's temper and give one a "grouch."

Zam-Buk is just the thing at such times. As soon as you put it on to a sore, a cut, a burn, or any skin injury, it stops the pain, and the smarting, and starts up healing. Don't make the mistake that because Zam-Buk is so widely used by medical men, by nurses, and for serious skin diseases and accidents, that it is only for serious cases. Keep it handy and use it immediately you get some trivial injury or have some little sore.

Mrs. Chas. H. Barrett, Harmony Road, Truro, N.S., says: "I had an ingrowing toe nail, which caused me acute agony. Sometimes the pain was so severe I could not sleep. It became so bad that I feared blood-poisoning had set in. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and bound up the sore toe with it. In a few days it was much easier, and I continued the treatment. The result is that to-day the toe is sound and I have no more trouble with it. We always keep Zam-Buk in our house and I would strongly recommend it to every housewife."

Zam-Buk is just the thing, too, for the little ones. Pure in its composition, and herbal in nature, it is suitable for the most delicate skin. It also cures piles, eczema, varicose ulcers, cold sores, abscesses, blood poisoning, ring-worm, and all similar skin diseases. Sold everywhere at 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

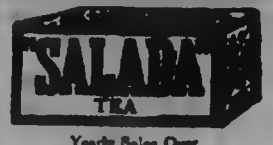
His Preference

"You can get an armful of daisies for a dime," pointed out the optimist, "and just look at their bright, merry little faces!"

"What do I want with an armful of daisies?" growled the pessimist. "I'd rather have a cheese sandwich."—New York Journal.

A Snake Tale.

A man took his small son to the park. They fed bread to the swans and then stood for a long time in front of a cage of serpents. The boy looked at them with fascinated eyes. At last he exclaimed. "I like these tails all right, but where are the animals?"—Lippincott's.



Tea Time Talks
Tea Spoils with Age

No tea is fit to drink after it is two years old. That is the age limit of tea quality and benefit. The best tea is the freshest.

"Salada" Tea owes much of its world-wide reputation to its sale fresh from the plantation. The leaves are fresh picked every week the year 'round; then dried, sorted and packed in air-tight lead packages. Every five weeks a new picking of "Salada" comes fresh from plantation to purchaser.

Bulk teas, carried year after year, lose their freshness.

FOOD AND INFLUENZA

By William Allison Mayson, M.D.

That our diet plays an important part in either attracting or repelling disease there seems to be no room for doubt. In this influenza season, therefore, may we not by care in that matter increase our chances of escape and decrease the violence of an attack, if it should come?

The primary precaution is to eat and drink moderately, but at the same time nutritiously. Excess in living is a well-known favoring cause of the disease. Great meat eaters fall easy victims. But others suffer severely too, which shows that neither extreme is to be recommended. For defence against the influenza germ, in fact, we need more nerve-making, stimulating animal food, but not too much of it. Too much meat leaves waste products in the body which very greatly lower the power of resistance to influenza and most other maladies.

A rather good plan, when influenza prevails, is to act in the matter of diet as if one was expecting an attack of indigestion.

SMALL MEALS.

In this case rather small meals would be advisable. Not much fluid would be taken in at a meal, say one cup of tea or coffee for breakfast less than half a pint at lunch (and no fluid is required if soup and fruit be taken) as much tea as one cares for but no solids, in the afternoon, and not more than half a pint at dinner. Then only tender meat and not rich dishes would be taken. Extremely digestible and at the same time most nutritious are chicken, breast of pheasant, turkey, pigeon, boiled or grilled sole, whiting flounders (no rich sauce), grilled bacon and eggs poached, boiled, in omelettes and many other forms. Little less digestible are mutton cutlets, pounded beefsteak and many varieties of game. Purees of potatoe, carrot, onions, peas, and lentils are highly nutritious, and better than clear soups for those depending on diet as a bulwark against disease.

GO TO BED.

Should the disease come, the one prudent course is to go to bed at once. In bed, if one were to take nothing but oranges, apples, grapes and other fruit with some toast, tea, a little beef-tea, and some wine, probably many cases would be cured in a couple of days.

This diet would be suitable to the hitherto strong and well nourished. After a day or two of it, and provided the disease was checked, the usual convalescent diet would become appropriate.

After influenza, even more than before, the diet should be a subject of great care. The prostration of mind and body, so common a sequel, needs to be combated with nourishing and stimulating food. A good breakfast light luncheon and generous but not excessive dinner should be the rule.

THE ORIGIN OF THE RED CROSS

Jean Dunant Inspired With Idea During Italian War

During the Italian War of 1859, young Jean Dunant was traveling in that country. After the battle of Solferino, he visited the field, and seeing the terrible sufferings of the wounded soldiers who lay around untended, he with the assistance of several peasant women, formed an ambulance service, with its headquarters in a little church at Catiglione. He helped with his own hands to bind up the wounds of Frenchmen, Italians, and Austrians alike. "They are all brothers," he said. "A wounded enemy is an enemy no longer." And he and his corps of helpers brought water and medicine and smoothed the pallets of straw, and cheered the unfortunates, and closed the eyes of the dead and performed the last kind offices for the dying. Dunant was regarded by the hundreds of wounded as a miracle of goodness—little less than an angel. "The gentleman in white" was the way in which the officers spoke of him, as he moved around among the sick, his light clothing making him conspicuous on the field.

His experiences at Solferino where he saw that the willing hands of a few untrained helpers actually saved many lives and comforted hundreds of others, inspired him with the grand idea of an organization—the Red Cross."

TIMBER HELD IN FEW BIG HANDS

U. S. Forest Wealth Concentrated Among Few Interests.

Washington, Feb. 1st.—Concentration of the control of the standing timber in a very few hands, vast speculative holdings "far in advance of any use thereof," an enormous increase in the value of this diminishing resource" with great profits to its owners" and incidentally" an equally sinister land monopoly," and a "closely connected railroad domination"—these are the finding reported to the president by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, in the first instalment of his long awaited report-ed on the lumber industry in the United States. The report, dated yesterday, was made public to-day by the president sending it to congress.

The commissioner's conclusion in a forecast of the future, partakes of the sensational. "There are many great combinations in other industries," he said, "whose formation is complete in the lumber industry, on the other hand, the bureau finds now in the making a combination caused, fundamentally, by a long standing public policy. The concentration already existing is sufficiently impressive. Still more impressive are the possibilities for the future.

"In the last 40 years concentration has so proceeded that 195 holders many inter-related, have now practically one half of the privately owned timber in the investigation area (which contains 80 per cent of the whole.) This formidable process of concentration, in timber and in land, certainly involves great future possibilities of impregnable monopolistic conditions, whose far reaching consequences to society it is now difficult to anticipate fully or to over estimate."

The commissioner reserves for later report the subject of combinations in the manufacture or sale of timber "as distinguished from ownership" of standing timber.

MARIE HALL IS NOW MRS. BARING

Wedding of Celebrated Violiniste Quite a Surprise.

London, Feb. 15.—Considerable surprise was expressed in musical circles here last week, when it was announced that Miss Marie Hall the celebrated violiniste had been quietly married to Mr Edward Baring of the firm of Baring Brothers the well known impresarios.

Nobody knew that Miss Hall was even engaged outside a small circle of intimate friends and they kept the secret very well indeed.

This marriage is the sequel to a romance that began a few years ago when Miss Hall was a comparatively unknown player, and Mr. Baring undertook her first round-the-world tour which resulted in a fortune for both violiniste and impresario.

BEDBUGS WERE AFTER TENANT

His Complaint Was Sustained by the Court

Weisbaden, Germany, Feb. 16—The County Court decided that a tenant may break his lease in case he finds his flat occupied by others—bedbugs, for instance. The case involving the decision was a curious one, because the absconding tenant came into court with 112 pins, on which bedbugs had been stuck, as a warning to others.

The landlord sued not only for the rent, but for injury to his feelings and reputation, no account of these lanced bed-fellows, but the court decided against him, stipulating that he pay not only the costs of himself, but also those of the accused tenant.

Then to get even the landlord summoned the tenant for cruelty to animals, maintaining that it isn't humane to spear even a bedbug, and that to stick a pin through him while alive is a grave offence. The tenant's reply is that he lanced the bedbugs while the animals were attacking his wife.

HOW THE RECALL VOTE WAS WORKED

Seattle Mayor Turned Out of Office by Women

Telegraphic despatches a few days ago announced that Mayor H. C. Gill, of Seattle, had been turned out of office by a plurality of 6,600 on a recall vote. The following from a Seattle paper throws further light on the efficiency of the recall system in civic government, as well as the part played by women suffrage in stamping out gambling and other evils. It is worthy of attention in every Ottawa home.

The most bitterly contested election Seattle ever passed through was that just won by George W. Dilling by a plurality of 6,000 votes over Mayor H. C. Gill. The decisive votes are believed here to have been cast by women.

In marked contrast to the mudslinging since the recall was established was the election itself. Strict order was preserved and the women voted with all the eagerness of a child enjoying a new toy. Out of a registration of 71,000 approximately 60,000 votes were cast. It is estimated that nearly 60 per cent. of the total vote was cast by women, who defeated Gill.

THE WOMEN'S PART.

The law permitting them to participate in a recall when they did not take part in the election that placed Gill in office was a heavy blow to the Gill supporters. Discussing the election and its phases, one of the most prominent of the woman suffrage leaders in the state says:

"The vital point at issue was the home. The election of Mr Dilling tells the world where Seattle really stands on the moral question. Decency triumphed at the polls and the women of this city stood shoulder to shoulder in bringing about the result.

"It is no use and it is evidently out of place to picture the things that have been hinted at during the campaign, but suffice to say that where there is such a cancer as that upon the body politic its tendrils will reach out into every line of business and into every school of the city, even into the churches.

WOMEN PROTECTED CHILDREN.

"Boys can be reared decently. Women must work and pray and think over such questions as are involved in the conduct of a city's affairs. They must be active on moral questions. It all goes back to the home, and the women did their share in expressing disapproval of open gambling and widespread vice."

When Gill was elected a year ago he received a plurality of 3,030 votes. Eight months after he was elected the women of the State of Washington were enfranchised.

Of the 71,000 votes registered, 22,000 were of women, and a large majority of them, it is admitted, voted for the recall of Mayor Gill. The voting was heavy in all parts of the city, but the most notable increases were in the residence sections.

Gill must relinquish his office at once. It was alleged by the recall leaders that Gill and Chief of Police Wappenstein farmed out the privileges to a syndicate and collected a large percentage of the receipts therefrom.

Women were extremely active at the election. They stood in lines at the booths and appeared to be as apt and quick at casting their votes as the more experienced men voters.

ELECTION "AT LARGE."

Under a provision adopted by the people last March, Seattle will elect on March 7 a council of nine members chosen from the city at large to succeed the present council of fourteen, chosen by wards. The new councilmen are to be well paid and to devote all their time to city affairs, and the scheme is a modification of the commission form.

MARRIED TWICE DURING THE DAY

Pretty Japanese Girl Had Two Suitors Who Raised a Row.

Tokio, Feb. 15.—An amusing matrimonial comedy has been recounted by the "Japan Herald." Briefly put, the story is this. Tsune, a pretty girl of 21, took service in Tokio at the house of a peer. Her uncle, Bunzaburo, who got her the post, introduced to her at the end of the service Sentaro, a young merchant, who sought her hand. Tsune, or rather her uncle, gave it, and the wedding day was fixed. But Tsune had an elder brother, named Yokei, who did not know of these things, and promised Tsune in marriage to his friend, Shojoro. He told Tsune he had arranged for the ceremony and, hearing she was already engaged ordered her to cancel the previous engagement. Bunzaburo at this stage took a hand in the game and protested. On the wedding day of Sentaro and Tsune Yokei arrived. He wished he said, to congratulate his sister. He did not stop short at this formality. In addition, he removed her in a riksha to the house of Shojoro. Here everything, to a bridegroom was in readiness for a wedding ceremony, and the ceremony began. Sentaro, with the aid of the police, at length discovered Shojoro and his bride. There was much wrangling and a sensational struggle but the police insisted that Tsune was Sentaro's in virtue of the prior attachment and engagement. So Tsune went off to Sentaro's home and was married all over again.

GIRL MAKES A GRAFT FIGHT

Starts a Newspaper to Get Rid of the Evil

West Hammond, Ind., Feb. 14.—The Searchlight, a semi-weekly newspaper, published by Miss Virginia Brooks, will make its initial appearance to-morrow, and will declare editorially that the editor will continue the publication regardless of expense till corruption is driven out of the city.

Miss Brooks, who is known as the Joan of Arc of West Hammond, has been making a campaign against graft and other phases of official corruption in this city for two years, and at the last election was the most potent factor in changing conditions by driving out some officials and voting in others. She is 22 years of age, a property owner and thoroughly imbued with the spirit of reform.

When Miss Brooks began her campaign two years ago her first assaults were made upon gambling, and she forced the local officers to make raids on gambling houses and arrest gamblers till she had rid the town of them. She has been greatly instrumental in ridding the town of other criminals, and she now proposes to proceed against delinquent officials and expose graft in taxes and to expose those who have gained control of property by questionable means.

The new paper will start with a large subscription list and with good advertising patronage.

RECIPROCITY A GREAT PERIL

Toronto Board of Trade Condemns it Strongly

Sir Edmund Walker Strongly Opposed

Toronto, Feb. 17.—At a big meeting of the Board of Trade in this city yesterday prominent men from all over the country an anti-reciprocity resolution moved by Sir Edmund Walker and seconded by J. W. Flavelle was passed by a vote of 249 to 13.

The speakers were Sir Edmund Walker, J. W. Flavelle, J. D. Allan, W. F. Cockshutt, Brantford, Col. G. T. Denison, Albert J. H. Eckhardt, F. W. Hay, Listowel, and J. E. Atkinson. The three last named supported the reciprocity agreement.

Sir Edmund Walker, in explaining his motion, said he had always been a Liberal, but this issue was beyond party. The resolution said:

"(1) That the present unexampled prosperity of Canada is the result of the policy which has been pursued in the development of her trade and of her natural resources, and that any policy which would hamper the development of Canada's resources in her own way and by her own people, or which would check the development of trade between the various parts of Canada with each other or between Canada and the various parts of the Empire, would be detrimental to the true interests of Canada and to Canadian nationality.

"(2) That very large expenditures have been made upon railways, canals, steamships and other means of transportation between east and west and west and east to promote such development and trade, and that the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United States of America would seriously check the growth of such development and trade and would curtail Canada's freedom of action with respect to her tariff and channels of trade.

"(3) That any present benefit to any section of Canada or to any interest therein which might accrue from said agreement would be more than offset by the loss and injury to other sections and interests.

"(4) That the proposed agreement would weaken the ties which bind Canada to the Empire.

"(5) That to avoid the disruption of

EXEMPTION BILL GONE

Measure to Tax Church Property is Withdrawn

Discussion on Bread Question in the Legislature

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Church exemptions, increased indemnities, and school holidays afforded members of the Ontario Legislature material yesterday afternoon upon which to dilate, while considerable progress was made with a number of consolidation measures. The latter included the second reading of Hon. W. J. Hanna's bill to place the control of costly local improvements under the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, which is strongly opposed by the Toronto city law department.

Hon. Mr. Hanna's announcement in regard to the bread bill was another feature of a laborious and progressive afternoon. The Provincial Secretary said that there would be no need of bread legislation this year, because the Court of Appeal had upheld the Government's measure of last year. Big loaves would prevail.

W. K. McNaught, North Toronto, made a spirited protest against the requirement of two years' residence in Canada of aliens, before being entitled to qualify as stationary engineers. He considered six months ample, but was willing to compromise at one year.

The suggestion of the member for North Toronto was accepted

A. Studholme argued for a requirement in the bill that two certificated engineers should be required in case of mills and factories which worked day and night.

Sir James Whitney took the view that the statute, if enforced, would suffice, as the employment of a fireman who acted as engineer even in the latter's temporary absence, was prohibited under a penalty.

C. R. McKeown, Dufferin, moved the second reading of his bill to abolish exemptions on church lands, and the sites of religious and philanthropic schools. It was unjust that Havergal Hall, the Loretto Abbey and Bishop Strachan School should be free from taxation while the home of the poor wicked was taxed out of due proportion in consequence.

Hon. Mr. Hanna said that in view of the fact that the bill would be overwhelmingly defeated both in the committee and the House, it should be withdrawn, as it was a few years ago thoroughly discussed in committee.

Mr. McKeown said as a loyal Conservative he would withdraw his bill.

Mr. Bowyer's bill to amend the Public School Act, so that the summer vacation in rural districts would be extended to two months, as maintains in urban localities, was given its second reading and was referred to the committee on education.

Hon. A. G. MacKay was opposed to it and would advise hesitation until the returns for August were shown, to see if the attendance was short.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, in closing the debate, stated that in August the schools were poorly attended, and he advised that the motion go to committee.

Sir James Whitney's bill to have laundries, Chinese et al., put under Evidence by Inspector Duncan and Secretary Knight—Fielding Had Written Asking About the $80,000 Rumor.

Special to The Review.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Magistrate Denison this morning commenced the hearing of the charge against J. R. Stratton, M.P., president, and J. J. Warren, general manager of the Trusts & the Trusts and Guarantee Company, who are charged with the hypothecation of the Farmers' Bank notes to enable the bank to raise $80,000, making up the $250,000 cash required to obtain a charter.

The chief witness was Inspector Duncan, who produced cheques and other documents showing that the Guarantee Company had ordered the Bank of Montreal to pay to the Dominion treasury board various sums of money, amounting to $80,000 on the Farmers' Bank account. For these the Guarantee Company was to receive ten per cent and bonuses of $1,500.

Crown Attorney Corley charged that the money had been paid back by the Farmers' Bank to the Guarantee Company by a circuitous route. Correspondence was produced showing that Hon. Mr. Fielding had written Travers before the charter was issued, asking if the report was true that some of the money had been raised on notes, and did not represent cash paid up. In reply, Travers had stated that none of the money had been raised in this way. The charter had then been issued.

SECRETARY KNIGHT.

Mr. Knight, secretary of the Canadian Bankers' Association, gave evidence saying that he had come to Toronto shortly after the bank began business, to find out if it was true that the $80,000 was represented by notes. After some warm words with Dr. Nesbitt, a deposit receipt had been produced showing the Farmers' Bank to have had $80,000 on deposit with the Trust and Guarantee Company.

Mr. Corley said he understood that there was no such money on deposit, but Mr. Warren's counsel declared that there was. Mr. Knight, however, admitted that he was sceptical about it, and went to the Trust & Guarantee office to see Mr. Stratton, who, however, was absent. He had reported his visit to the Canadian Bankers' Association.

At this point the hearing was adjourned till 3 o'clock.

WILL SUE THE FARMERS' BANK DIRECTORS TO RECOVER MONEY

Civil Proceedings to be Taken Against the Officials of Defunct Institution.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Civil proceedings against the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank have been discontinued, and a further action against all the directors, both permanent and provisional, has taken its place. Application will be made by Jas. Laidlaw, K.C., acting for Liquidator Clarkson, for permission to institute court action against them, or, rather, against all those who are considered liable for the return of moneys wrongfully paid to or by them.

The new action came out yesterday afternoon at the hearing before the official referee of the defunct bank, in the bank office. Mr. Laidlaw explained that until he had had further conference with the liquidator he would be unable to state the names of the parties who will be the defendants.

A week was allowed Mr. Laidlaw to file his affidavit by Referee McAndrew and there will be a hearing next Thursday in the office of the liquidator.

De Lassy was sentenced to penal servitude for life, and Pantchenko to fifteen years' imprisonment.

AH! THEY REALLY DREW BLOOD

Paris, February 16.—M. Ripp and Fiers, two of the most prominent music hall review writers in Paris, fought a duel yesterday with swords, and, contrary to the usual custom, blood was shed, but only to the extent of a few drops, sufficient, however, to appease honor. The trouble was due to M. Fiers introducing M. Ripp into his review of the Folies Bergeres, to which the latter took offence, notwithstanding the fact that his own reviews owe their success to their unbridled personalities. M. Fiers was much the better swordsman and he played with Mr. Ripp throughout the thirteen bouts, disarming him thirteen times. Practically tiring of the sport, M. Fiers, at the close of the last bout, scratched his opponent's hand and the seconds declared the duel ended.

SCHOOL BOARD IN GRAFT PROBE

Startling Conditions Discovered in Pittsburg Inquiry.

Pittsburg, Feb. 17.—Graft in the Pittsburg school boards, as exposed in a bulletin issued to the public by the Voters' Civic League yesterday, has not yet received official notice from the district attorney, who, after reading the bulletin, said he would wait to ascertain if the league would make informations, and take up the prosecution of the alleged offenders as it did in the councilmanic graft cases last spring.

The personnel of the school boards of the individual wards is attacked, the charge being made "that the majority are gamblers, bartenders, saloonkeepers, political employers, placed on the boards to control votes, mill workers and laborers, with inadequate education to govern the instruction of children," and a score of more characters of men, equally objectionable in the judgment of the voters' league.

A few cases cite that as low as $25 was paid board members and as high as $1,000 for votes to place contracts. On one contract of $200,000, it is asserted that one-third of the amount was paid to the school board members in graft.

"Teachers have been forced to pay for their appointments, janitors and truant officers held up, and when everything failed the grafting directors can always borrow money from agents of the contractors who do business with the schools. The money is never returned," says the report.

"Some of the school picnics have been nothing more than drunken orgies for the directors and their dissolute and disreputable friends. Children have been taken to picnics with men and women of the underworld. They have seen drunken women from the tenderloin on the dancing platform, and gamblers playing their vocation on the grounds."

Raised a New Point of Municipal Procedure, and Stands—Ackerman and Lock Co. By-laws Must Go to the People.

Bonner-Worth and Natural Gas By-laws Passed, and Other Minor Ones.

The Peterborough deputation which waited on the Ontario Legislature Private Bills Committee yesterday morning got a good reception from the committee, and although not every request of the city was granted, much of the legislation desired was passed. The deputation consisted of Mayor Morrow, Ald. Graham, Ald. Duncan, City Solicitor Hall, City Clerk Armstrong, S. F. Ackerman, T. H. Fortye, Rev. Father McColl, D. O'Donnell and Commissioner Duggan.

IS LAID OVER.

The principal clause of the bill which did not receive an assent from the committee was the by-law on the Protestant Home. This was refused until the committee has a chance to further look into the matter, as it involves a new point of legal and municipal procedure. It will come up again on Thursday next, it is expected. The by-law was for the granting of $10,000 by the city towards the Protestant Home, on condition that the Home Association should erect a building costing at least $30,000, such debenture rates to be paid out of rates collected from Protestant ratepayers, and such Protestant taxes as were necessary to be used for the keep in the Home of such persons admitted on order of the city. The bill further provided for the maintenance at the House of Providence of persons ordered admitted thereto by the city, out of taxes assessed on the Roman Catholic ratepayers.

BRIDGE FUND BY-LAW.

The committee granted the request of the city for authority to spend the $4,041 the unexpended balance of the creek bridge fund, on culverts and similar work in other parts of the city.

The second request was also granted, being the Peterborough Cereal Co's. request for permission to deed to the Otonabee Power Company, the land now occupied by the sub-station. The clause covering this read as follows:—The said Council and the Peterborough City Trust are authorized and empowered to convey to the Peterborough Cereal Company, Limited, in fee simple free from all conditions, restrictions, or provisos whatsoever, that part of the reserve along the River Otonabee and of the land formerly covered with water opposite the same described in by-law No. 1126 of the corporation, on payment to the corporation of the sum of $1,000 therefor.

BONNER-WORTH CARRIED.

The Bonner-Worth clause was carried, and Mr. Fisher, M.L.A., of Paris, when the matter was under discussion, took occasion to refer to Messrs. Bonner and Worth, whom he knew personally, saying that they were excellent business men, had put up money themselves and some of their friends in the proposition, and he was only sorry that they did not stay in Paris with the factory. He said it would be one of the best managed institutions in the province. The promoters will go ahead now as fast as possible with the arrangements, the by-law granting them the assistance required having been confirmed.

MUST GO TO PEOPLE.

The Ackerman by-law and the Peterborough Lock Company by-law were not confirmed, the committee ordering that a vote of the people be taken on it, and in order to carry must receive at least a three-fifths majority of the voters. The Ackerman by-law is to fix the assessment of the company at $15,000 for ten years on the proposed addition to the factory, by which 50 or 75 more employes shall be added to the staff.

The Peterborough Lock Company by-law is to fix the assessment at $25,000 for the next ten years, the

DEBATE ON THE TARIFF

Haughton Lennox, M. P., Points Out the Sacrifice

Trade Within the Empire Should be the Goal.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Another day passed in the Commons yesterday in the discussion of the tariff. The Liberal speakers followed party lines and denied that any harm was coming to the fruit growers, packers and others by the treaty.

Continuing the debate on the reciprocity agreement, Haughton Lennox (South Simcoe), said that it could not be stated with truth that no interests had been sacrificed, in view of the representations made to the Government by the fruit growers. He criticized the Government for having made the agreement without consulting Parliament and without having a mandate from the people, and said that Canada now has an order-in-council Government.

Referring to the argument advanced by Hugh Guthrie on Wednesday, that it was not wise to ignore geographical conditions, he would remind Mr. Guthrie and the Government that the United States had insisted for forty years on ignoring geographical conditions.

Mr. Lennox did not believe that there was any reason to believe in view of the fact that the price of wheat was fixed in Liverpool, that there would be any substantial increase for the Canadian farmers. The wheat would, however, find its way to the market via American routes. Mr. Guthrie had dilated on the immense benefits which would result to Eastern Canada should one million more farmers settle in the west. It would not do Canada much good if their products were shipped to and through the United States.

A considerable list of articles which Britain could supply had been placed on the free list, and, owing to the longer haul from the Mother Country, the U. S. would have a distinct advantage. This was discrimination against Great Britain.

A. B. Warburton (Queen's, P.E.I.) took up cudgels on behalf of the island province. He did not believe in placing the tariff altogether under the control of a permanent committee, because it would abrogate the duties of the Ministers of the crown. In all matters of fiscal policy, the Government should assume full responsibility. He did not agree with the argument of the Opposition that Canada should leave well enough alone. That would eliminate any question of future progress.

In reply to Mr. Lennox's statement that the U. S. would receive an advantage over the Mother Country regarding goods on the free list by reason of discriminatory rates, due to the longer haul, he said it costs us more to bring freight from Halifax to Prince Edward Island, than from Liverpool to Halifax; and so it likewise cost more to bring goods from New York than from both ports.

J. E. Armstrong (E. Lambton), prefaced his remarks by drawing a scheme for imperial trade. The meaning of Confederation was the welding together of the British Empire. Everything a nation needs was grown in the British Empire. Canada had the grain, minerals and lumber. Australia produced meat and wool. India and Egypt provided the cotton, and Britain herself was the manufacturing clearing house. This was a combination that could not be beaten. Reciprocity with the U. S. was the first step towards empire disintegration.

Picturing an era of trade depression and financial ruin in Canada when the railways would be without tonnage and the great lake ports would be without cargoes, Mr. Armstrong charged that the Finance Minister, in his local campaigns in Nova Scotia, had preached secession. He feared direct taxation would follow. There was no object in offering amendments to the deal; an amendment would void the whole agreement.

Additional light was thrown upon the agreement by answers by Mr. Fielding to questions put by S. Sharp (North Ontario).

In the case of a few articles which are not to be found in the French treaty, the favored nation countries will be entitled to receive the concessions on the same terms as the United States, but France will not be so entitled. Although not arising from any agreement, in no case has any advantage been granted to any foreign country that did not extend at the same time to all parts of the British Empire. In the few cases to which the rates to be established are lower than those already enjoyed by British countries, the reductions will apply to such countries.

Mr. Sharp asked if, at the recent conferences at Washington, any understanding was reached that the Canadian tariff on articles not specifically mentioned in the treaty would not be included.

Mr. Fielding replied: "There is no understanding of any kind except what is found in the correspondence and schedules already before the House."

WHY BE ASHAMED?

Why should these "annexiprocity" enthusiasts be ashamed of Champ Clark and Bennett? Are they not pointing the searchlight in the right direction? Does not the beautiful prospect of flourishing the Stars and Stripes charm away our regrets at leaving the Union Jack, the flag that has "braved the battle and the breeze for a thousand years?"

WHY REFUSE IT?

Representative Bennett would lead us into the Republican fold tenderly, carefully, lovingly. Shall we be so blind as to refuse such a generous offer? What matters it that we once aspired to be a nation ourselves! Let Laurier finish his work.

A SAD MOCKERY

If, after what Champ Clark has to say about annexing Canada, about old Glory floating proudly over the continent to the Arctic; after what Mr. Bennett has to say about negotiating with Britain for the annexation of Canada, Canadians remain deaf and blind to the situation, then their boasted loyalty, their patriotic perorations, their pretence of national aspirations are but a sad mockery. A mockery almost tragic in its proportions!

FIREMEN AND WAGES

The information which has been gathered by the firemen as to the rates of pay in various Ontario cities and towns confirms the impression that the Peterborough brigade men are not being fairly dealt with in the matter of wages.

Kingston firemen get at least $100 more a year; Brantford 30 cents and upwards a day more, and even little Woodstock pays her firemen more. Peterborough firemen's pay is the lowest of any Ontario city of this class, and it should be increased to at least a living level.

The people are said to be kicking at the 22 mill rate, and wondering where all the money goes to. It goes very largely toward the payment of interest on the $1,360,000 of debentures issued by Peterborough. The civic financial statement shows that in 1904 the civic debt of Peterborough was $657,000, and that in 1910 it is $1,861,000. The rate has increased from a fraction over 2 mills to a fraction over 5 mills on the greatly increased assessment. The exemption habit is a curse to the municipalities and the bill which is being put before the Legislature prohibiting all bonusing, all concessions or exemptions by municipalities not provided for by law—as in the case of churches—will prove a God-send to the citizens of places like Peterborough, which are endeavoring to get industries against superior inducements offered by other places.

It is this system of municipal government that makes it so hard for the firemen, and for other civic employees to get proper pay from the city. There is even now on foot a movement to abolish the exemptions on churches—it being figured that these exemptions mean that the citizens generally pay about 4 or 5 mills more than would be necessary if they paid their proper proportion of the taxes. Of course, the people would pay just as much in the long run, as the money which they now pay into the treasury as the taxes for the churches would have to be paid to the churches and thence to the city. It would be putting a premium on the non-church resident, and forcing the church supporter to bear his own and his neighbor's church tax burden.

The firemen in Peterborough certainly are entitled to the increase of pay they have asked for, and the Fire, Water and Light Committee would do well to reconsider its action, as the increase means an added expenditure of only $365 a year.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Champ Clark is, in the opinion of President Taft, more like "Chump" Clark.

The scarcity of water in Toronto will be of no consequence to the small boy; but it will make a great difference to the bartender. It's an ill-wind, etc.

"Let Laurier finish his work," said the party in the year of our Lord 1908. If Laurier gets another lease of power, his work will just about finish Canada.

A sailor was jabbed by a hat pin in Boston on a crowded street car, and died in great agony from blood poisoning. The day of the fishing rod hat pin is doomed, and not a day too soon.

Mr. Bennett, who moved the famous "annexation" motion, says he is serious. He says that reciprocity is only a step, a means toward an end, and he doesn't see why all the good years should be wasted in getting to the point. Do you see the point?

The fact that famine-stricken Chinese are turning cannibals in their terrible straits indicates the prompt need for action in subscribing to the Chinese relief fund, of which Mr. John Craig, manager of the Dominion Bank, is treasurer. The Chinese have souls and bodies as well as we have. Have you subscribed?

The Toronto Star quotes the Victoria Colonist and the Kingston Standard as two "leading" Conservative papers strongly favoring the reciprocity business. Those who are acquainted with either one will understand their Conservatism. The editor of the Kingston Standard is practically an American. Though Canadian born, nearly all of his business life has been spent in the United States, and he is about as much Canadian as Champ Clark. The Victoria Colonist is a chronic insurgent. If the Grits cannot produce better Conservative quotations than these, they would do well to cut it out.

OBSTINATE OPEN SORES ARE HEALED BY ZAM-BUK

For sores which defy all ordinary remedies, Zam-Buk should be tried. Old wounds, varicose ulcers, cold cracks, blood-poisoning and chronic skin diseases cannot resist the healing influence of this great herbal balm.

Miss Alma Bourgue, of Notre Dame, Kent Co., N.B., gives the following account of what Zam-Buk did for her after various other ointments and salves had failed. She writes—

"For months I suffered with a running sore on my leg. I tried several ointments and salves, but none of them could bring about a cure. The sore would just heal over, and then break out again. I read in a newspaper, one day, of the good Zam-Buk had done, and so a determined to try it and see what this balm would do for me. I also purchased some Zam-Buk Soap.

"I washed the sore night and morning with the soap, and then applied the balm. I continued with this treatment, and after using Zam-Buk for a few weeks the sore was completely healed. I have recommended Zam-Buk to one or two of my friends for sores, and in their cases it has been equally effective."

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box or may be had post free from Zam-Buk Co., for price. It is a sure cure for piles, chapped places, cuts, burns, scalds, chapped hands, ulcers, eczema, scalp sores, and all similar diseases and injuries. Refuse harmful imitations.

REDMOND BEING GIVEN ATTENTION

His Speech on Home Rule is Widely Commented on

London, Feb. 16.—All England is discussing John Redmond's Home Rule speech in Parliament, in which, for the first time in the history of the Irish Nationalist movement, an Irish leader has publicly proclaimed his willingness to accept local self-government as a full measure of Irish demands and to acknowledge England's King as ruler of Ireland.

Hitherto the Nationalists have consented to accept whatever England granted as a step toward final separation, but the Irish leader yesterday, in endorsing the Prime Minister's statement of the measure of Home Rule to be granted, astonished all his hearers by applauding the autonomy granted to South Africa by King Edward and expressing the hope that King George would open the Irish Parliament and so hasten the day when Ireland, reconciled, would become a loyal unit of the British Empire. His speech was hailed with joy by the Government leaders and Liberal newspapers.

Premier Asquith's brief speech drew forth vigorous cheers from the Irish and Liberal benches.

The Christian mission at Chee Foo, China, is cut off from the outside world, as it is the centre of the disease plague district. The dreaded disease has penetrated the mission compound.

THE KICKER.

An Entirely Different Sort of Man From the Growler.

There is a world of difference between the man who kicks and the man who growls.

The man who kicks—who truly, earnestly and honestly kicks—is a good kind of man to have about. He kicks because things are not as they should be, and he proposes to correct them. The man who growls is merely a negative quality. He may know that things are not going right, but he hasn't any idea of trying to do anything about it. He just sits round and complains.

You remember Mark Twain's story about the kicker and how successful he was in securing everything that belonged to him. He was a producer in the best sense of the word, just as every man who kicks in the right way is certain to be. You probably know just such men—men who are chronic kickers. Let anything go wrong and they go "up in the air" in a minute, but you can depend upon it that that particular thing will never go wrong again if they can prevent it.

A kicker may not be the most agreeable person to have around, yet he is a healthful factor in almost any establishment. He has his faults, but it is possible to overlook them for the sake of the productive value that he represents.

As to the growler—there seems to be no place for him in the work of the world. He may complain loudly and whine and talk about other people, but he remedies no faults, he repairs no leaks—he just makes trouble.

That is the difference between the kicker and the growler.—Business.

WEB OF THE SPIDER.

Thousands of Strands In Each of Its Silky Threads.

For a long time the web of the spider was supposed to be a simple strand of wavy silk, but later it was found that such was far from being the case.

Under the microscope we can get at the secret of the spinning very nicely. We see that there are either four or six teats on the spider near the lower part of the abdomen, almost exactly similar to the teats of a cow. From these issue four or six strands, as the case may be. But these strands themselves are not simple, but are composed of at least a thousand fibers each, for it has been proved that in each teat there is a sieve of at least a thousand holes, through which the silky matter is strained. Thus we see that, fine as is a spider's web, it is yet composed of from 4,000 to 6,000 fibers. Leuwenhoeck states that it would take at least 4,000,000 of the completed threads to make a thread as strong as a silk thread of the size of a hair.

As to the color of the thread, our ordinary spiders spin one of a uniform gray color. But in the riotous tropics there are found spiders that spin varicolored webs. One particularly produces red, yellow and black threads, which it binds together with a pleasing color effect.

In the thread of the spider lies dormant a great industry once it is properly studied.—Popular Magazine.

Struck a Coincidence.

It was the hour of family confidences. Mr. Buggins had finished his evening papers and in slippers and dressing gown was toasting his toes before the asbestos fire log, while the wife of his bosom was putting a few stitches in the table cover she was doing for Aunt Mary.

"I did something today that I've been screwing up my courage to do for a long time," said Mrs. Buggins.

"Yes?" said Mr. Buggins, mildly interested. "What was it?"

"You know that odious Mrs. Bjones?" replied Mrs. Buggins. "Well, I paid her a call that I have owed for nearly a year."

"My dear, I can sympathize with you," said Mr. Buggins. "Today, by a strange coincidence, I paid that odious Mr. Bjones a bill I had owed him for quite as long."—New York Times.

Throne Jewels.

In the "gold pantry" at Windsor castle, one of England's chief royal palaces, is the gold tiger's head taken from Tippo Sahib's throne in 1799. It is life size, and the teeth and eyes are of rock crystal. Another relic captured at the same time is the jeweled bird called the uma, shaped like a pigeon, with a peacock tail. The feathers blaze with precious stones, and a great emerald hangs from its breast. According to an old Indian legend, whoever owns this bird will rule India.

It Depends.

Bill—They tell me that a goat eats twelve times its weight in a year.

Jill—Does that represent much food, do you suppose?

"Well, it all depends whether what the goat eats happens to be paper covered novels or lead pipe!—Yonkers Statesman.

An Exception.

"Emerson says there is always a best way of doing everything."

"Is there? I wonder if he ever found a best way of wearing a pair of shoes that were about a size too small."—Chicago Record-Herald.

No Chance.

"Do you always do a little more than is expected of you?"

"No; my boss always expects a little more than you can do."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Russo-Chinese war talk, export sales and belief that the anti-option bill would not include grain, put up the price of wheat to-day. The close was firm at a net advance of ⅛c to ⅜c. Corn was ⅛c to ½c higher than last night. Oats unchanged. Hog products down 2½c to 10c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ⅛d to ¼d higher than yesterday on wheat, and unchanged to ⅛d lower on corn. Antwerp closed ⅛c lower on wheat, Buda Pest ¼c lower, and Berlin ⅛c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 16.—There was an active demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat at an advance in prices of 1½d, but exporters were not disposed to accept all the bids, and sales of only 100,000 bushels were made. In sympathy with the further weakness in the Winnipeg market for oats, prices here scored another decline of ½c per bushel. There was no improvement in the export demand for flour, but a fair trade was done for local account. The market for eggs is weak, and prices have declined 3c to 5c per dozen. Demand for provisions and dairy produce is fair.

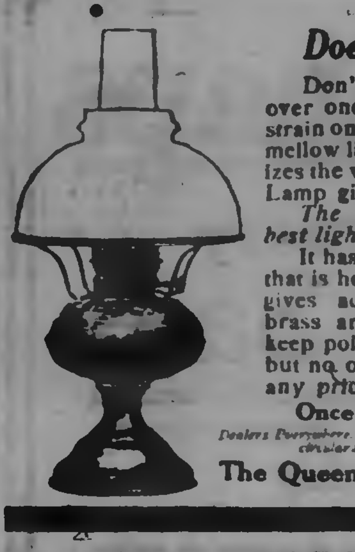
The Famous Rayo



Does Not Strain the Eyes

Don't use a small, concentrated light over one shoulder. It puts an unequal strain on your eyes. Use a diffused, soft, mellow light that cannot flicker, that equalizes the work of the eyes, such as the Rayo Lamp gives, and avoid eye strain.

The Rayo is designed to give the best light, and it does.

It has a strong, durable shade-holder that is held firm and true. A new burner gives added strength. Made of solid brass and finished in nickel. Easy to keep polished. The Rayo is low priced, but no other lamp gives a better light at any price.

CHAPTER XII.

The Quivering Body in the Potato Sack.

LEANING against the parapet, our necks stretched toward that window through which there had come to us that sigh of agony, we listened. Rouletabille pointed out the window of his own room in the new castle, which was still illuminated. I understood it was necessary to extinguish this light and return. Five minutes later I was back again with Rouletabille. There was no other light in the Court of the Bold than the ray which told of the vigil of Old Bob in the basement of the round tower and the light at the gardener's postern where Mattoni was sentinel.

I had scarcely time to steal back to Rouletabille before we distinctly heard the door of the square tower moving softly upon its hinges. As I attempted to leap farther out of my corner and see farther down into the court Rouletabille pushed me back and allowed only his own head to look over the wall. But I looked over his head, and this is what I saw:

*First, Pere Bernier, perfectly recog*nizable in spite of the darkness, who came out of the tower. In the middle of the court he paused, looked up at the side where our windows were and made a signal, which we interpreted as a sign that all was well. To whom was this signal addressed? Rouletabille leaned still farther over, but he quickly retreated, pushing me back with him.

When we dared to look out in the court again no one was there. But in a few moments we again beheld Pere Bernier. And then we heard something which climbed under the arch of the gardener's postern, and Pere Bernier reappeared with the black and softly rolling form of a carriage beside him. We could see that it was the little English cart, drawn by Toby, Arthur Rance's pony.

Pere Bernier, reaching at length the oubliette, raised again his face toward our windows and then, still holding Toby by the bridle, came to the door of the square tower. Leaving the little equipage before the door, he entered the tower. A few moments passed by, which seemed to us like hours, particularly to Rouletabille, who was seized with a fit of trembling which shook his frame like a leaf.

Pere Bernier reappeared. He crossed the court alone and returned to the postern. A beautiful moon had arisen, which stretched its radiance across the court. The two persons who came out of the tower and approached the carriage appeared so surprised that they almost recoiled at what they saw. But we could hear the Lady in Black repeat in low, firm tones: "Courage, Robert! You must be brave now!"

And Darzac replied in a voice which froze my blood, "It is not courage which I lack!" He was bending over something which he dragged before him and then raised in his arms as though it were a heavy burden and tried to slip under the long seat of the cart. Rouletabille's teeth were chattering. To move this sack Darzac was making the greatest efforts. Leaning against the wall of the tower, the Lady in Black watched him without offering any assistance. And suddenly, at the moment that M. Darzac had succeeded in loading the sack into the cart, Mathilde pronounced these words in a voice shaken with horror:

"It is moving!"

"It is the end!" said Darzac, wiping his forehead with his pocket handkerchief. Then he took Toby by the bridle and started off, making a sign to the Lady in Black, but she, still leaning against the wall, as though she had been placed there for some punishment, made no signal in reply. Darzac seemed to us to be quite calm. His figure straightened up; his step grew firm. One might almost say that his manner was that of an honest man who has done his duty. Still, with the greatest precaution, he disappeared with his carriage at the postern of the gardener, and the Lady in Black went back into the square tower.

After this Bernier came up to the postern and crossed the court, directing his way again toward the square tower. When he was not more than two meters from the door, which was closed, Rouletabille glided softly from the corner of the parapet and stepped between the door and the figure of Bernier, who was struck with terror. He put his hands upon the shoulders of the concierge.

"Come with me!" he commanded.

"It will be a great misfortune if you don't tell the truth," muttered Rouletabille. "But if you conceal nothing the trouble may not be so great. Come this way."

And he drew him, clasping him by the fist, toward the new chateau, I following. I saw that a great change had come over Rouletabille. He was completely his old self again.

Bernier walked in front of us, his head bent, looking like an accused man who is being led on his way to trial. And when we reached Rouletabille's room the young reporter bade Bernier sit down facing us. I lighted the lamp.

"Well, Bernier, how did they kill him?"

Bernier shook his head.

"I have sworn to say nothing, and I will say nothing, monsieur. And, upon my word of honor, I know nothing."

"All right," went on Rouletabille unconcernedly. "Tell me what you don't know, for if you do not tell me what you don't know, Bernier, I will be responsible for nothing, no matter what happens."

Then he paused and went on. "Where was he—in the square tower?"

Bernier did not speak, but he nodded assent.

"Where—in Old Bob's bedroom?"

"No." Bernier shook his head.

"Hidden in your rooms?"

Bernier shook his head vehemently.

"Well, where was he then? He could certainly not have been in the apartments of M. and Mme. Darzac!"

Bernier bowed his head.

"What! You acknowledge that he was in the apartment of M. and Mme. Darzac! Who, then, gained him entrance to that apartment? No one but yourself—you, the only person who had the key when the Darzacs were not there!"

"M. Rouletabille, do you accuse me of being an accomplice of Larsan?"

"I forbid you to pronounce that name!" shouted the reporter. "You know very well that Larsan is dead and has been dead for months!"

"For months!" echoed Bernier ironically. "Yes, that is true. I was wrong to forget it."

"Listen to me, Bernier. I know that you are a brave man, and I respect you. It is not your good faith that I am questioning, but I am censuring your negligence."

"My negligence!" Bernier, as pale as his face had been, flushed crimson. "My negligence! I have not budged from my lodge, not even from the corridor. I have always worn the key in my breast pocket, and I swear to you that no one entered that room, no one at all, after you were there at 5 o'clock, except M. and Mme. Darzac themselves.

"What!" exclaimed Rouletabille. "Do you want me to believe that this individual—let us call him 'the man'—that the man was killed in M. Darzac's rooms if he was not there?"

"I do not. I can swear to you that he was there."

"Yes. But how could he have been? That is what I ask you, Bernier. And you are the only one who can answer. M. Darzac never took the key with him when he left the room, and no one could have got into the room to hide while he was there."

"That is the mystery, monsieur. That is what puzzles M. Darzac more than all the rest. But I have only been able to answer him as I have answered you. There is the mystery."

"When you left the room with M. Darzac, M. Sainclair and myself did you lock the door immediately?"

"Yes, monsieur."

"When did you open it after that?"

"Not at all."

"And where were you in the meantime?"

Bernier quickly explained.

"In front of the door of my lodge, watching the door of the apartment. My wife and I took our dinner in that spot at about half after 6, on a little table in the corridor, because on account of the door of the tower being open it was quite light and was pleasanter. After dinner I sat in the doorway of the lodge, smoking a cigarette and chatting with my wife. We were so seated that, even if we had wished to do so, we would not have been able to withdraw our eyes from M. Darzac's rooms. It is a mystery—a mystery more extraordinary than "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

"And from 5 o'clock until the moment of the tragedy you declare that you never quitted the corridor?"

"Ah, pardon, monsieur—there was one moment—the moment that you called me, but I was not away from my post more than an instant or two, and M. Darzac was in his room then. He did not leave it while I was gone."

"How do you know that M. Darzac didn't go out during those moments?"

"Why, because if he had done so, my wife, who was in the lodge, must have seen him. No one has entered that room except M. Darzac at 5 o'clock and you two at 6, and no person got in between the time that M. Darzac went out and the time when he came in at night with Mme. Darzac. He was like you—he didn't want to believe me. I swore it to him upon the corpse that lay before us!"

"Where was the corpse?"

"In M. Darzac's bedroom."

"It was really a dead body?"

"Oh, he was breathing still—I heard him."

"Then it was not a corpse, Pere Bernier."

"Where was the difference? He had a bullet in his heart."

He told us that he was going to his lodge, feeling drowsy, when he and Mere Bernier heard a commotion in the apartment of M. Darzac. The furniture was being thrown about and blows rained on the walls.

They heard the voice of Mme. Darzac shouting "Help, help!" This was the cry that we, too, had heard in the new chateau. Pere Bernier rushed to the door of M. Darzac's room and beat against it. He heard the labored breathing of two men, and he recognized the voice of Larsan when he heard the words, "With this blow I shall have your life!" Then he heard Darzac, who called his wife to his aid in a voice almost stifled, as though he were gagged. "Mathilde, Mathilde!" Evidently he and Larsan must have been engaged in a life and death struggle when suddenly the pistol shot had saved him. One would have thought that Mme. Darzac, who had then uttered a cry, had been mortally wounded. Why did she not admit him to help her husband? Finally the door was opened. The room was dark. It was Mme. Darzac who had opened the door, and Bernier could distinguish through the gloom the form of M. Darzac leaning over something which the concierge knew was a dying man. Bernier had called to his wife to bring a light, but Mme. Darzac had cried: "No, no! No light, no light! And, above all, be sure that he knows nothing!" And immediately she had rushed to the door of the tower, calling out: "He is coming, he is coming! I hear him! Open the door, Pere Bernier! I must go and meet him!" And Pere Bernier had opened the door, the while she kept on moaning: "Hide yourselves! Go in! Don't let him know anything!"

Cannibalism In China.

Pekin, Feb. 17.—Several cases of cannibalism, the result of the great Chinese famine, were reported yesterday from the Province of Kiang-Si, the centre of the starvation zone. According to these reports a man, a woman and two children were killed and their flesh eaten by villagers in the community west of the Tayuling Mountains just south of the tea district.

From Canton and Shanghai despatches were received from missions, which confirm the stories of barbarism. Missionaries in the field in the famine belt have sent word that the famished people are insane from suffering and that rioting is frequent. Soldiers sent into the districts have been attacked.

Ask For Injunction.

Concord, N.H., Feb. 17.—A bill in equity, intended to enjoin George W. Glover and his attorneys from proceeding further in his legal action to have declared void the will of his mother, the late Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy, founder of the Christian Science Church, was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by counsel for H. M. Baker, executor of Mrs. Eddy's will. A hearing is asked on the bill for Feb. 20.

The injunction is asked on the ground that Geo. W. Glover, with Dr. E. J. Foster Eddy, Mrs. Eddy's adopted son, signed an agreement to forego all rights to any part of Mrs. Eddy's property on her death, in return for a considerable sum paid to them at the time.

Moorehead agreed to make complete restitution to Bellamy and pay the costs of the court. Moorehead, claiming to be a promoter for the Walker Car Co., managed to get Bellamy to loosen up to the extent of $1,160 in cash and notes. He claimed to be a contributor to several leading American magazines, and while in jail spent his time writing poetry.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

CITY OF DERRY AND ITS HISTORY

Interesting Illustrated Lecture by Rev. Jos. Northey at the

It was a very large audience which heard Rev. Joseph Northey of Belfast, Ireland, as he lectured on Derry and its siege, at the Foresters' Hall last evening. Many beautiful illustrations were given.

After having described the location of Derry, he gave some of its history. In the year 1608 Sir Cahir O'Doherty attacked the city, and after killing the commander, burned the city to ashes. Then sprang up the city of the siege. It was built by an Irish society founded in London in the year 1609. The walls were pierced by four gates, twenty-four feet high, and from six to eight feet in width. These walls may be seen standing to-day.

Rev. Mr. Northey described the events leading up to the siege in a very entertaining manner, and then spoke of the landing of William of Orange, and the departure of King James II. Ireland was treated by James in much the same way as Scotland and England, and this enraged the feelings of the people of the north.

The people had a wrong impression of the intention of a regiment led by the Earl of Antrim, who came to replace the withdrawn garrison of Derry, and the gates were closed against him. When William was crowned Derry took his side and with a garrison of 7,000 men fought manfully against the troops of James. The speaker referred to the stirring incidents of the siege and depicted the thrilling passage of the river, by the ships of rescue and the breaking of the boom.

In conclusion, he asked intending visitors to the city of Derry to visit the mound in the old church yard, lie the bones of hundreds who perished in the seas in their effort to maintain the God-given liberty, and do their best for their country's good.

A series of interesting pictures were shown on the screen, illustrating modern Derry and other places in the north of Ireland. Over twenty views of the greatest linen industry in the world, lent by Sir William Crawford, were particularly interesting. This industry employs 4,500 people, has 1,000 looms and 100,000 spindles. Enough yarn to circle the globe five times is spun every day. Each week between fifty and sixty tons of flax are spun and woven. Gallagher's tobacco factory, the largest of its kind in the world, was shown and also a number of views of the Belfast Rope and Twine Works, which covers thirty eight acres.

"MY CINDERELLA GIRL"

"My Cindrella Girl" a musical farce in three acts by Richard Walton Tully co author with David Belasco of "The Rose of the Rancho" and Robert M. Baker with music by William Frederick Peters, composer of the "Mayor of Tokio" and other successful musical comedy scores, will be presented at the Grand Theatre on Wednesday night next, for the first time here coming direct and intact from a record breaking summer run of over three hundred performances at the Whitney Opera House, Chicago, and engagements in the leading high priced theatres of the principal cities of the West.

This attraction is said to be entirely out of the ordinary and a distinct novelty, it was a successful farce originally with enough good hearty laughs for a dozen ordinary farces, in fact the only criticism was that there were too many laughs, as the audience did not get time to breathe or rest between them, so it was decided to give it the same treatment that "Three Twins" received, viz. to punctuate laughs with some tuneful musical number, and graceful dances, this was done and "My Cinderella Girl" has since then scored one of the most pronounced successes of any musical attraction on tour.

It has been given a strong cast, a stunning chorus, and a magnificent scenic production; in fact nothing has been left undone to make it the laughing musical success of the present season. The seat sale opens Monday evening.

SOUTH END RESIDENTS ENTER PROTEST AGAINST C.P.R. PLANS

Want the Subway at Mervin's and Object to the Closing of the Streets as Planned by the C.P.R.

A protest meeting was called by R.C. Braund at his store last night of the property owners of the streets to be affected by the proposed C.P.R. subway, who were well represented. Ald. Buller and Morgan were also present.

Mr Braund called the meeting to order and explained the purpose of the meeting. It was not to take any steps about the C.G.E. siding, which a great many had conflicted with this issue, but it was about the closing of the streets. Last year a petition was presented to the Council, signed by the ratepayers of the South Ward, against the closing of the streets. Nothing more was said, but as soon as the new council came into office the C.P.R. renewed its application. The speaker considered it a detriment to the city to have those streets closed. Manufacturers must soon go south as there was no property suitable in the other end of the city. The people would want to live around Byersville to work in the factories, but if those streets were closed, there would be almost no way of getting out. As far as he, Mr. Braund, was personally concerned, it would be a hardship. Half of his trade was on each side of the track, and he would have to give up one half or the other. Thus the property was robbed of its value. Mr. Braund had a map of the proposed siding and the streets to be closed which he had had prepared as accurately as possible.

Ald. Buller said he had never seen any map of this kind and could not certify as to its correctness. The council of 1910 and 1911 fought the question as well as lay in its power. They proposed putting the subway at Mervin's and those representing the C.P.R. seemed to agree. The first learned to the contrary by the council was, when it was notified by the Railway Commission that these streets were to be closed. The aldermen did all in their power to stop the cutting up of the property, but the Railway Commission had the say. It would certainly be a detriment to the South Ward, the banner ward of Peterborough. He advised the meeting to endorse the action of the council in asking for the subway to be put at Mervin's on the boundary.

Ald. Morgan upheld Ald. Buller in his views.

R. C. Braund intends to interview the Railway Commission in company with the civic officials. He was authorized to look over the proposition of the council and bring it before the property owners next Wednesday evening.

SOMETHING THAT WILL INTEREST LOCAL PEOPLE

Regarding the Principle of Exemption—Bill to Have New Clause

The following article taken from today's Mail and Empire is directly in line with the agitation against exemption which occasioned so much excitement in Peterborough last January. It is evident that the legislature agrees with those people who are opposed to the priciple of exemption.

It did not take the members of the Private Bills Committee very long yesterday to decide on the principle that in future no Y.M. C. A. or similar association should be exempt from school taxes, no matter what others they are not called upon to pay. They decided also that every Y.M.C.A. or Y.W.C.A. would have to pay all taxes on every building used for revenue-producing purposes.

The question was raised when the bills presented on behalf of the Hamilton Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations were under discussion, they having been left over from Wednesday, so that the committee could arrive at some definite decision on the question of exemption from taxation. The unanimous opinion of the committee was that school taxes should be paid by every institution, and that question was settled in short order. But on the question of exemption on buildings used for revenue-producing purposes there was a longer debate. Some of the members drew attention to the fact that a Y.M.C.A. could erect an office building, use one floor, and rent the remainder, and be exempt from taxation. There was a difference of opinion as to the wording of the new regulation, and a committee composed of Messrs. Gooderham, Brewster and McGarry, was appointed to confer with the law clerk to draft a new clause in a bill which will be introduced in the House.

EGG THIEVES WILL DO TIME IN CENTRAL AND KINGSTON

Fred Roy Gets 25 Months Sentence—Gougon Goes to Central for Two Years

Six Months Term for Bruce Roy

Clement Gougon alias Albert Legener, will spend two years, less one day, in Central Prison; Bruce Roy, six months in the same place, and Fred Roy twenty-five months in Kingston Penitentiary, they having been found guilty of a series of depredations in the city, the evidence submitted having tended to prove conclusively that they were a desperate trio.

The young men named are the parties who broke into Wm. Scott & Company's cold storage warehouse and stole eggs and fowl, the particulars of which have been previously recounted. They attempted to enter the residence of S. W. Londry, Aylmer street, and were found in possession of three revolvers.

They hail from Montreal and were staying at the home of Robert Powell, Park street.

Gouzon is French and speaks broken English. He was not at all dangerous looking, and was very well dressed.

G. N. Gordon, who defended the trio, addressed his Worship in their behalf as follows—

"These boys," he said, "are charged with the crimes. They were in East City, saw the window of Scott's warehouse easy of access, and yielded to the temptation to steal and from that time they commenced a career of crime. While their crimes were bad, still they might have been worse. It must be admitted there were several nasty features about the case, chiefly that the boys were out at night, and that they carried fire-arms, but on account of their youth they evidently did not have an appreciation of the seriousness of their offences. Seeing that the boys were just at that foolish age when their minds were doubtlessly fired by pernicious reading, it is possible to be slightly lenient with them and they might be taught a severe lesson by their present experience, and ultimately be redeemed."

R. E. Wood, who prosecuted, said that while it was true that the boys were young in years, still their crime was too serious to permit of it being passed over. The artillery, consisting of the three revolvers, which the culprits carried, showed that they would not hesitate to do violence if necessary. Also a lock pried off the inside compartment of Mr. Scott's safe was another damaging piece of evidence, as it was their work. The guilty parties also admitted that the revolvers were on their persons on the night of the robbery. Had the boys been forced to use them on that night they might easily have faced a murder charge. "It has been clearly proven," said Mr. Wood, "that the prisoners have a bad record. They came here from Montreal, and when arrested gave fictitious names."

His Worship Magistrate Dumble, before pronouncing sentence, remarked that it was a most unfortunate condition of affairs.

The prisoners were evidently a band who had organized themselves for unlawful purposes and had armed themselves with deadly weapons. He would much prefer to sentence three older and more experienced criminals. Three young fools who start out with the intention to use their guns at the slightest reason are a menace to the public. To deal lightly with them was impossible, and in sentencing them he hoped that the lesson they would e taught would bbe of incalculable good to them. There is altogether too much mawkish feeling existing in regard to criminals at the present time," said His Worship.
present time," said His Worship.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

In regard to the charge against Robert Powell, of having received stolen property, namely, eggs and fowl taken from Scott's cold storage, sentence was suspended according to the wishes of his counsel, G. N. Gordon. Mr. Scott, Chief Thompson and Plainclothesman Newhall each gave considerable evidence which agreed.

Powell having a wife and two two children, one of whom is ill, His Worship decided to suspend sentence, the accused, however, agreeing to report to the chief the first of each month.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

THREE FAMOUS RING FLUKES

There have been many famous battles where the decision was awarded through strange luck or curious accidents, and some of the most desperate contests of the past fifty years have ended with surprise-parties to all concerned. In all probability, however, the three most remarkable "fluke" victories in prize-ring history were, The second fight between Jem Mace and Tom King, the second battle between Jack Dempsey and George La Blanche, and the combat between Solly Smith and Johnny Griffin.

Tom King, a long, lean, sinewy young fighter who had ambitions for the summit of the bare-knuckle brigade, met Jem Mace early in his career, and was beaten—beaten good and plenty, and forced to give in after receiving as sound a trimming as the gypsy ever gave a man. After a couple of years' rest and meditation, King, having proven his mettle by defeating John C. Heenan, again challenged Mace, who had gained universal recognition as England's champion since the retirement of Tom Sayers.

Mace and King met in 1862, and for forty rounds their fight was a repetition of their first battle. The scienced crafty Mace was all over the younger man. He slashed Tom with his sweeping knuckle drives; he jabbed him and jolted him, and there was no stage of the fight at which Mace was not the absolute master. King seemed to keep on his feet through sheer gameness and recuperative power. Finally, in the forty-second round, the game youngster was all in. He staggered back towards the ropes, and the gypsy crept cat-like after, eager to land the final drive. King seemed wholly helpless, and Mace started a long right-hand swing that should bring down the bacon.

As the swing started, King hammered his right fist downward, blindly, hopelessly with both his eyes shut tightly, so he told it afterwards. The blow was no orthodox fighting blow—it was the chopping smash of a blacksmith bringing down the hammer on the anvil. And that mad, hopeless wallop came down full and fair in the centre of Mace's face, getting double force from the very impetus of Mace's head and body as Jem lunged forward in his mighty swing!

Mace's entire face seemed to flatten out beneath the blow. He sank like a hammered steer, and it was half an hour before he gained his senses. King, well knowing himself the luckiest of mortals, would never fight him again, and the title passed back to the gypsy by default soon after.

When Jack Dempsy first fought George Le Blanche, the marine, he beat the Frenchman to ribbons, and when they were rematched for San Francisco the bout was looked upon as a picnic for the Nonpareil. And so it proved for thirty-eight long rounds, La Blanche tood a dreadful beating, and only the fact that Dempsey was no K.O. puncher saved him for the finish.

In the thirty-ninth round Dempsey was pressing the marine furiously, and the finish seemed at hand. Reeling away from a clinch, La Blanche leaped up and spun clear around in the air, swishing out his right hand in the whirl, and the gloved fist caught the astounded Dempsey fair upon the chin, flattening him as if a ton of coal had fallen on his skull. It was a pivot blow, a blow which might not land once in 10,000 times and which, in this one case, went home straight and true. La Blanche would never fight Dempsey again, and never cut any ice in the boxing game thereafter.

At Roby, Indiana, in 18[illegible], Johnny Griffin "the Braintree Lad," the man that George Dixon's backers feared most of all the feathers, was chopping Solly Smith, of California, into little pieces. Smith hadn't a chance on earth. He was out-boxed and outgeneraled. He was reeling aimlessly round the ring when Griffin—whose eyesight was very poor—leaned forward to peer at him and locate him for the final wallop. And just then—bang! A frantic, despairing swing from the beaten Smith whirled over, getting Griffin just below the ear. Johnny fell unconscious to the floor, and Smith could hardly stand while the referee was counting.

There have been other famous flukes, but these three perhaps, were the most wonderful in all the annals of the fighting game.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

The intermediate all-round indoor athletic contest at the Y.M.C.A. last night brought out some more good material. In the 60 yard potato race Harold Hill equalled the Canadian record for this event. Walter Flowers won the all-round championship, beating Hill by 9 1-2 points. The events and the standing of the first four competitors in each, are as follows:

As Demonstrated by Belleville and Port Hope Teams

HOPERS WON 15—5

Crowd of Four Hundred Witnessed the Engagement

Forgive us kind reader, if in the course of this doleful narration, the word hockey is used or applied.

The blow as expected, was delivered last p.m., at the ice works and it was one of that kind that put James J. forever miles wide of the gladsome glare of the spotlight.

But before going further, it might be mentioned that some ill-disposed person, or several of them, who would blushingly aver that the village of Belleville claims them as her own, pulled off something that was entirely unexpected and painful indeed.

The something was in the form of a neatly folded sheet presented to one J. Mcbarry, which stated that seventy bucks and a small quantity of pool coin was desired from the total receipts at the wicket.

This was to cancel certain meal ticket accounts which had been contracted in the burg where nothing but unkind remarks had been the lot of seven of our visitors of the evening.

And this all happened while the fourteen unsuspicious victims were out on the frigid material endeavoring to earn a few shekels, by which they might purchase a few unbuttered sandwiches and have sufficient for train fare to enable them to move on to Suckerville, north.

Such was the preliminary of the program—the rest as we said of Lizzie, was a scream.

Now we know why Duckling Irving gathered together his possessions and covered the railway ties towards the west and for which he can scarcely be blamed. We also can extend our somewhat belated condolence to Culverwell ville and several other hamlets where 'tis said tha gag was worked very nicely for several moons—and then they woke up.

But deliver us from any more of it, as 'twas advertised. Under any other name we might survive another sixty minutes, that is of course, provided wooden wares such as are put into commission still exist. Under those conditions the ordeal might be gone through again—if we were also paid.

For he who plays the O.H.A. may look towards another day, but he who starts in profesh fray can cast all hopes for life away.

From the moment Bobby Mercer shook hands with those dear old and beloved goal posts and dreamed for a few seconds of those good old bygone days, up to the time when the attendance began to make tracks for the outlets, there was something doing. When that sturdy young youth Frederick Doherty, wasn't manufacturing kindling, or handing them out in a truly impartial manner, the others were. And talk about there being no such thing as human mops—well not after the entertainment was well under way.

And posing—why a blackhand bomb wouldn't have made some of them budge.

Without wishing to be charged with rudeness we would pause to ask Bill Chipchase who did the Wanderers ever beat anyway.

And apparently the star over the top piece of Mr. Chas. Lightfoot, he of the once famous Stratford Midgets is on the descent never to look upward again. Such is life dear Chas, but you were a pippin one day.

To go into the details would be shocking. This much must be said; Mr. Randall can go some—in fact much more so than when he drew the glad hand in Scuggsville. Messrs. Crossett, Rowden, Baker and several others are also still going strong.

The officials were Messrs. Sproule and Waghorne.

It is impossible to publish the complete penalty list to-day and it would not be satisfactory to hand it out in instalments.

PUCKLAND

Peterborough junior hockey team might just as well have defaulted to the Frontenacs as to again go on the ice and be made "monkeys of," as they were on the Peterborough rink last night, when James Sutherland's speed boys went for the Grillers again and trimmed them by the score of 9—3. A week ago the Frontenacs beat Peterborough on the latter's ice by 11 to 4, or by a margin of seven goals. Last night the locals won by six goals, and, no doubt, would have made the score larger had "Bouncer" Brouse been at his best.—Kingston Whig.

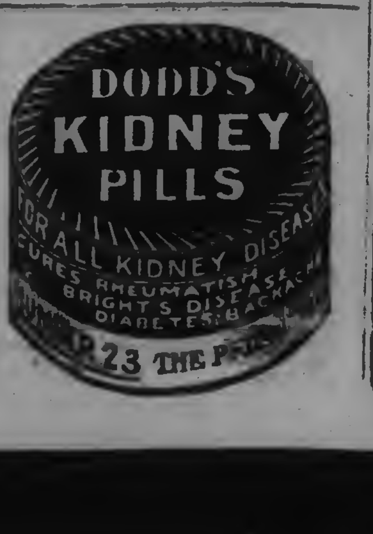
This is the way they do it in Kingston.

It is proposed by the followers of the junior Frontenacs to take Oshawa by storm, next week, when the team goes there. In all probability a band will be taken, consisting of about ten pieces, and a band of rooters numbering a hundred or so will make things lively. Excitement is now at its height, and the fans here want to see Sutherland's "Pirates" trim the Oshawa bunch the way they did Peterborough.—Whig.

Trinity College School of Port Hope defeated Varsity III. by a score of 3 to 2 in a junior inter-collegiate match at Mutual street rink, yesterday afternoon. T.C.S. and Varsity II. are both winners of their sections. The game was evenly contested all through, T.C.S. being a shade more aggressive than their opponents. For the winners, Macaulay and Denison starred, the latter scoring the winning goal. For Varsity III, Beady, in goal, and Bailey, at cover, showed up well.—Mail and Empire.

The Grillers left this morning for Kingston to play the return game with the Frontenacs.

Several Mercantile Leaguers were noticed at last night's exhibition, but did not appear at the finish as having shown anything.



GATE RECEIPTS WERE GARNISHEED

Thunderbolt Dropped Into Camps of the Pro Aggregation

The gate receipts of the pro game last night were garnisheed for $85.96, of which sum $74.85 in the account of Belleville people for accounts contracted by members of the team of that place.

The summons was served on the manager of the rink by Bailiff Loplante.

BASEBALL

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 17.—Cy Young wants more work next season. He is willing to work every fourth day. He says he can pitch better ball when worked often and regularly.

Cy has not been on the scales and does not know his weight. He looks the same as when he went back to his farm last fall. He weighs 207 in playing shape.

"I have not worked any harder this winter than in any other year," said Cy. "I have followed my usual winter program. I get up at 4.30 or 5 and go to bed between 7 and 8."

Cy will go to Hot Springs about Feb. 20. He will climb mountains and take baths. Most of his work on the diamond will be in the outfield, as in former years. He does no early pitching.

St. Louis will give Outfielder Covel-eski, brother of the late lamented Cincinnati pitcher, a trial.

National League baseball writers are criticizing Fred Tenney severely for releasing Beck to Cincinnati. A 275 hitter with a tail-end team, Beck ought to bat 300 with the coming pennant winner. Within three years Boston has released three great outfielders, and their names all begin with B: Bates, Becker, Beck.

Rube Waddell received a base on balls last season while a member of the Browns. Which shows how bad a major league pitcher can get at times.

Jimmy Slagle, formerly of the Chicago Cubs, is to be released by Baltimore. It is practically certain that his days of fast company baseball are ovr. In his day the Rabbit was one of the best outfielders in the game.

Goldsmith's ball may be official in the National League in 1912. E. J. Goldsmith, the Cincinnati sporting goods manufacturer, will attend the New York meeting to present his bid for the privileges of stamping his name on the balls.

Herzog's 1910 contract with Boston called for $3,000, and he collected a $600 bonus. Are ball players underpaid?

Iron Man McGinnity suggests pay-as-you-enter plan for ball parks. Instead of ticket sellers, men would be employed as change makers.

Jeremiah Shea, aged 79, was given a year in the Central Prison for assaulting a man at Hamilton who had refused him 10 cents.

SPORT TALK

London, Feb. 17.—No surprise was occasioned to-day by the announcement that the late Tom Loates, one of the greatest of English jockeys, left an estate of $721,720. This is believed to be the largest sum ever amassed by a jockey, but it is not within $150,000 of Loates' total winnings, as he was a good sport and had disposed of much of his property before his death.

Practically all of Loates' fortune was made in riding.

What is said to be a world's tournament bowling record was made at St. Paul, Minn., by George Vandertunk and Henry Martin of St. Paul in the two men event of the international bowling tournament, scoring 1,308. This is four pins higher than the record made by the "Kandy Ki s" of Chicago at the Detroit tournament of the American Bowling Congress last year.

SOMETHING WELL WORTH ATTENDING

The Boys' Hobby Exhibition opened at 4 o'clock to-day and promises to be a grand success. Mr. Tait and a couple of assistants have been working hard all day displaying the exhibits and preparing the side-shows and their efforts are being met with the approval of all who have visited the exhibition. The number and variety of exhibits are even beyond the greatest expectations of the committee in charge. Among those worth special mention are a penknife and note book and pocket book, which are over one hundred years old. An old book, which may yet be read, was published October 1, 1678. Relics of all descriptions are very prominent. An old article is a piece of drape from India which is made of the wings of beetles. There are eggs of nearly all our Canadian birds, many odd pebbles, such as are often picked up along the seashore also a piece off a meteor; an old buffalo horn, cases of insects, drawings and photography. The model steam yacht is almost perfect. Mr. J. J. Thompson has his model steam engine set up and it will be running to-night. These are just a few of the exhibits and they can only be appreciated by one who goes to see them.

At 8 o'clock to-night there will be a good program given in the boys' game rooms. The proceeds will go towards the Boys' Department Library.

BETHANY

Special to The Review.

Bethany, Feb. 16.—The Very Rev. Bishop Sweeney, of the Diocese of Toronto, preached to a large congregation last evening in St. Paul's church. The reverend gentleman visited Bethany in aid of the North-west Missionary Society.

The skating rink is now par-excellence, everything being in tip top order. The ice is in fine condition and skating is enjoyed by hundreds every night. The most attractive feature on the rink is a gramaphone operated by the manager, Mr. A. Delong, which discourses delightful music every night to all who attend the practices.

A St. Valentine's skating carnival was held on the rink last Tuesday evening and was a great success and far surpassed all previous efforts in skating festivals. It was attended by a large concourse of people from near and far, who well enjoyed the pleasant evening well spent.

Charles J. McMullen and W. A. Driver spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. Arnott, Fleetwood.

CAVAN NEWS

Special to The Review.

Cavan, Feb. 16.—A very destructive fire occurred last Saturday night, when the building known as Needler's flour and grist mill, was destroyed by fire. Despite all efforts of the citizens of Millbrook to deter the fiend from its destructive course the fire swept all before it, leaving but a trace of what was once a prosperous and enterprising place of business. Friends of Mr. Needler no doubt will sincerely regret this incident, as it will necessitate changing their custom to another mill until the destroyed one is under way again.

The Official Board of St. John's church propose graining the woodwork of the tabernacle, and having it renovated. The chancel was raised to the level of the church a few weeks ago, it having sunk below the rest of the building to the extent of four inches or more. In connection with the above church an entertainment is under consideration. We fervently trust it will materialize in the near future, as the one that was provided last week proved not very encouraging.

Messrs. Finlay, of Peterborough, having recently erected a large factory in town for the manufacture of furniture, have representatives sent out to Cavan and district purchasing timber in the log. Mr. Nill, a well known member of our community, has sold them fifty acres of wooded land for timber, and has also purchased from A. B. Kennedy an acre of swamp land, the logs from which he is also drawing to the station to load on cars for shipment to Peterborough.

Jack Douglas is very busy these days recleaning clover seed. He has been and still is, buying seed of superior grade for export from not only the growers around here, but also from the Peterborough and other county factors. Mr. Douglas has clover seed stacked up in huge piles over his barn in the mows, and on the floor, where straw ought to be. He contemplates shipping three thousand bushels of seed to Montreal in the near future.

THE EXEMPTION QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—It will hardly be denied by even the most ardent advocates of special privileges for institutions of a less than public nature, that their contention has met with a flat refusal by the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature at its recent sessions. Some people were inclined to feel that considerably less than justice was being done by our city council in December last, when it refused to aggravate or countenance the growing and patent injustice of exempting portions of a community at the expense of the rest without that rest's consent. Probably things will begin to be seen in their true light henceforth, and a broader spirit of fair play and sound principle to prevail.

argument being presented that rival manufacturers are getting such concessions in their respective localities.

The natural gas by-law was confirmed.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Mail and Empire:—Several bonus by-laws were embodied in the Peterborough Bill, which caused the discussion on the two-thirds majority of the electors. Dr. Jessop called attention to the fact that it was almost impossible to get a two-thirds majority of all the voters on the list, but if a two-thirds majority of those actually voting was all that was necessary it would be an easy matter to carry all bonus by-laws. His St. Catharines bill had been sent back last year, he said, because of the lack of a majority, but when the committee decided that two-thirds of the voters actually voting was sufficient, the by-laws were carried by good majorities. The Peterborough bill therefore was allowed to stand so far as the bonus by-laws were concerned, but the committee decided that two-thirds of those actually voting would in future be sufficient to carry such by-laws. The city also wanted to grant a site and $10,000 toward the cost of erecting a Protestant orphanage, but the committee decided to get a report from the Provincial Secretary's Department before taking any final action.

EXEMPTION BILL GONE

factory inspector regulation, received its second reading.

A. Studholme said the principle was O. K. from labor's point of view, and the leader of the Opposition didn't object to it.

The bill of Mr. Ferguson (Simcoe) to restrain traction engines from running on roads in May and December, because of the damage they wrought in soft weather, was read a second time.

Hon. Mr. Hanna opposed it, saying there had been no demand made, and while it might be necessary in a few isolated instances, it would hardly do to tie up the whole province.

Mr. Elber's bill to do away with arbitration troubles and expense in respect to snow fences, by recognizing a simple agreement between the person owning the property affected and the local council, was given its second reading.

The House went into supply on the supplementary estimates, and passed a number of items.

The vote for the statute revision commission, $9,546.50, was challenged, and was allowed to stand for further information.

W. F. Nickle, Kingston, moved that the item of $42,400 to increase the appropriation to $1,400 per member, be struck out.

Mr. Studholme agreed with Mr. Nickle.

Sir James Whitney said that the item would not be withdrawn. In introducing the proposal he had assumed the usual responsibility of a Government. He did not desire to shift his responsibilities to anyone else's shoulders.

ADMIRAL IS MADE G.C.B.

New York, Feb. 16.—Admiral Sir Archibald Douglas, K.C.B., of the British navy, came here on board the steamer Clyde, of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company's line yesterday, from the West Indies, hurried ashore, and took the first taxicab in sight, catching the Campania, of the Cunard line. Within half an hour he was on his way to England in response to the call of the King.

It was a pleasant command from King George although it broke up a vacation that the distinguished officer was taking.

Admiral Sir Archibald had taken passage at Southampton for the round trip and just as the steamship was leaving Antilla, Cuba, a wireless told of a cable message that had chased the officer thousands of miles.

It commanded the admiral to be at Buckingham Palace on February 23, to be invested with the Order of Grand Commander of the Bath.

Two men, D. R. Dyer, aged 28, and Philip Libarre, had their skulls fractured in Montreal yesterday by falling icicles.

Because of snow filled roads the inquest into the Lobinski murder at Wellesley was not resumed yesterday.

CRUEL BLOW TO LOVING HUBBY

Toledo, O., Feb. 17.—Eclipsing all efforts of suffragettes, twelve mere men are being denounced here because as a jury they O.K'd the proposition that a wife may rifle her husband's trousers' pockets and not incur the penalties of the law.

When Mrs. Florence Phillips, of Maumee was brought to trial on a charge of stealing $700 from her husband, Judge Brough ruled that the "theft" of money by a wife did not constitute larceny.

THE CHIMES

Many encouraging expressions of approval have been heard since the announcement in the local daily papers of the intended enlarging of the people's chimes and $76 has been received in new subscriptions. Old subscriptions are also being gradually paid.

Out-of-town donations have been received from Mrs. Ketchen, of Toronto (formerly Miss M. J. Davidson) and Mrs. C. A. Gossage of Gravenhurst, (formerly Miss G. E. Davidson). Both these ladies are sisters of Rev. Canon Davidson.

The total cash receipts, including $300 for one of the extra bells, now amounts to the handsome sum of $3438.59. In addition to this there are thirty-six unpaid subscriptions, with promises of payment in the immediate future.

A letter received from a lady residing in a city possessing chimes, says it is pleasant to see, on a summer evening, old men and women sitting on the steps of their homes listening to the bells. "Sick people have told me," the lady writes "that the message from the chimes helped them wonderfully."

RECIPROCITY A GREAT PERIL

trade which after some years under said agreement would result were said agreement terminated and a protective tariff against Canada established by the United States, Canada would be forced to closer trade relations with them, which would still further weaken those ties and make it more difficult to avert political union with the United States.

"Be it resolved that in the opinion of this board the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United States of America is opposed to the true interests of Canada, threatens Canadian nationality, and should not be consummated."

OBITUARY

JOHN BLACK.

The death occurred this morning at 11 o'clock of John Black, aged ninety-one, and a resident of Bridgenorth. He came to this country from England in 1842, and has had a long and useful life.

Surviving him are one brother and one sister, namely, James Tyndall, of Smith, and Mrs. Wm. Edmondson, of Bridgenorth.

Deceased was residing at the time of his death with his nephew, Thomas Black.

Funeral arrangements are not yet completed.

Harbor Improvements.

Kingston, Feb 17.—The directors of the Ontario Exploration Syndicate were here yesterday to sign the agreement which the City Council passed Monday night. The syndicate pays the city $4,000 for making a wider span in Cataraqui Bridge, and deposits $10,000 as a guarantee of good faith.

Died From Eating Wall-Paper.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 17.—The three-year-old daughter of George Holding is reported dying from the effects of chewing a scrap of green wall paper she picked up while paper-hangers were busy in the house on Wednesday. The child was poisoned by the arsenic in the paper.

A Big Labor Fund.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has sent to all labor organizations throughout the country a circular asking aid in releasing a fund of half a million dollars to be used in fighting opponents of organized labor at Los Angeles.

Married 91 Years.

Florence, Colo., Feb. 17.—Mrs. Francis Esper, 108 years old, said to be the oldest woman in Colorado, died in the arms of her 111-year-old husband Wednesday night, from burns received when her clothing caught fire from an open grate. Mr. and Mrs. Esper had been married 91 years.

Disappearance of Student.

Rome, Feb. 17.—The Government is now inclined to fear that the disappearance of Henry L. Wolfe, the art student of New York, was the result of a crime, and yesterday offered a reward for the discovery of the missing man.

An Inquest Opened.

Guelph, Feb 17.—The inquest on the bodies of Gilbert Jones and Henry Wenmark, sectionmen killed at Guelph Junction by a snowplow, was opened at Campbellville Wednesday night and adjourned for seven days. Dr. McColl of Milton is the coroner.

The Pope's Condition.

Rome, Feb. 17.—The Pope had a slight rise in temperature last evening, but Dr. Petacci found his holiness in a satisfactory condition and expects that with a few more days of care and rest, his health will be completely restored.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

Would Annex Canada.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Representative Bennett of New York yesterday introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives calling upon President Taft to open negotiations with the British Government, through Ambassador Bryce, for a treaty providing for the annexation of Canada by the United States.

Representative Bennett, with Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, and one or two others, opposed the proposed pact, obtained an opportunity to fill the air with smoke yesterday, and it is now believed that unless President Taft can find some way of halting the annexation talk, the opponents of reciprocity in the Senate will make use of their opportunity to kill the pact in the Senate finance committee, where the bill now awaits action.

In speaking of his resolution in the House yesterday, Representative Bennett insisted that he was both serious and sincere. He declard that, to his mind, annexation was the logical result to be looked forward to following reciprocity.

Veto Bill Has Clear Track.

London, Feb. 17.—In the House of Commons yesterday, after a nine hours' debate, Premier Asquith's motion appropriating the whole time of the House until Easter to the veto bill, in order to get through before the coronation, was carried under closure, 196 to 118.

During the course of the debate the Prime Minister said he expected that the veto bill would be sent to the House of Lords early in May, and that the Lords would give their decision thereon before the coronation. This optimism on the part of Mr. Asquith is interpreted in some quarters as indicating the possibility of a compromise being arrived at, as it is contended that otherwise it would be vain to hope that the bill could be disposed of so quickly. Thus far, however, the Unionists give no sign of relenting.

B. C. Condemns Reciprocity.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 17.—The British Columbia Legislature yesterday adopted the resolution introduced two days ago, condemning the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States. There was only one dissenting vote.

Premier McBride spoke at length on the resolution, asserting that he regards reciprocity with the United States as unnecessary and uncalled for. He said that, although he believed freer trade with the United States would not weaken Canadian loyalty to Great Britain, it would not assist in bringing the Dominion and the Mother Country closer together. He interprets the agreement as a departure from the established policy which both parties in Canada have recognized as vital to the welfare of the Dominion.

Relations Are Strained.

London, Feb. 17.—The relations of Russia and China are strained to the breaking point. Russia yesterday notified the Governments of Great Britain, France and Germany of her intention to make a military demonstration on the Russo-Chinese frontier owing to China's persistent violation of the St. Petersburg treaty of 1881.

Russian troops will be sent forthwith to the district of [illegible]

The extent of the demonstration, it is added in the diplomatic note, will depend entirely upon the attitude assumed by China.

The vital questions involved are free trade in Mongolia; the extra territorial rights of Russians in China, and the establishment of a Russian consulate at Kobdo, Mongolia.

National Breeding Bureau.

New York, Feb 17.—At the Horsemen's dinner held here Wednesday night August Belmont announced that he would offer to the Government six stallions to start a National Breeding Bureau following the lines of Canada, France, Germany and other countries. Included in the six are "Henry of Navarre," which once brought $30,000 at auction, and Octagon, the sire of Beldame, winner of a suburban handicap.

14,618,761 Catholics In United States.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 17.—There are at present 14,618,761 Roman Catholics in the United States, according to the 1911 Wiltzius official Catholic directory, which is now in press. These figures are regarded as official in Catholic circles, as the information is furnished direct from the various Catholic Chancery offices.

Further Intellectual Relations.

Berlin, Feb. 17.—Leopold Koppel, a banker, has donated $175,000 for the erection of a physical chemistry research institute and will make a further gift of $87,500, extended over the next ten years, for the maintenance of the institute. The object of Herr Koppel is the furtherance of Germany's intellectual relations with foreign countries.

A Chinese Contributor.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Liang Tun Yen, former Minister of Foreign Affairs of China, who is now in Washington, yesterday contributed $1,000 to the fund which the Red Cross is raising for the relief of the famine sufferers of his country. The former Minister is traveling for the benefit of his health.

Cambridge Bye-Election.

London, Feb. 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Cambridge University bye-election, Larmor (Unionist) received 2,308 votes; Cox (Independent Unionist) 1,964 votes, and Page (Independent Unionist) 322. There was no change.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION

The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertized article. In refusing a substitute he protects himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.

Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materials embracing their make-up. The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

You are safe in rejecting the article offered as "just as good."

BANQUET HELD AT HOOPER'S BY THE FAIR DIRECTORS

Discuss Questions in the Interests of the Exhibition

The directors of the Peterboro' Industrial Exhibition gathered around the festive board at Hooper's palm parlors last evening, and discussed matters of vital importance, both to themselves and to the citizens in general, relating to exhibition affairs.

R. H. Leary, the president, was an ideal chairman.

After the fare was sampled, the chairman in a few suitable words, expressed his pleasure at being present. Such gatherings, he said, were intended to be but the fore runners of dinners given by the fair directors and modelled after the manner of the Canadian Club dinners. Invitations would be sent out, noted speakers on agricultural subjects secured to speak and a wide spread enthusiasm created among citizens and farmers in such matters. J. Lockie Wilson, the prominent agriculturist had announced his willingness to speak at such times as he could find convenient and there were others who also were agreeable. It was a well known fact that there was undoubtedly a growing interest in such subjects, and the vast amount of good which the industrial fairs were doing, was becoming more evident every year.

Mr. Leary gave some reliable figures of the number of horses which are being shipped into the West through Port Arthur. In 1910 there were 33571 horses sent through Winnipeg, which represented an expenditure of over $10,000,000.

The fall fairs thoughout the province are also furthering the work.

"The main reason however," said the chairman "for their assembling was to discuss plans for the betterment of conditions at the fair grounds, and it was only by meeting together that it was possible to ascertain where the directors were placed." It had been previously and definitely decided that conditions at the present grounds could only remain for another year as they were. Exhibitors have refused to put their exhibits and stock in the present buildings as they were not in proper shape to satisfactorily accomodate them.

Mr. Leary was of the opinion that it would be a pity to let the fair fall through, owing to unsuitable grounds and buildings, thereby allowing the funds which have been raised to revert back to the Government. There must be some radical change and it was up to the business men of the city to obtain more suitable conditions.

It was the intention of the directors to hold a banquet in March to which shall be invited the City Council business men and Board of Trade etc. for a general discussion of the matter.

At present there was existing only a verbal option of $30,000 on the exhibition grounds.

After the chairman's address, V. Eastwood suggested the securing of options on suitable properties and thus do something definite towards securing grounds. He advised that a committee be appointed to secure such. There were several valuable ones to be secured in the mentioned manner.

J. J. Turner, sr., took a very common sense view of the situation. He was for buying the present grounds even at $30,000 for the reason, he said that no other grounds can equal the present site. The race track was one of the best in America, the street cars ran right up to the gate, and there were other advantages.

If the purchase was delayed it was evident that it would be impossible to purchase at $30,000, as they would increase in value. If the other members of the board were agreeable, he would do his part in sharing the expense. In a few years Peterborough would then be able to put on a week's exhibition. He was strongly in favor of immediate action being taken; that the grounds should be all retained and not part of them sold, as had been urged. He favored the midway which was installed at the last exhibition, as it had proved a delightful and money-making attraction, clearing $100

"People," he said, "are beginning to realize that the Peterborough exhibition is of some consequence. In the years to come Peterborough would be able to hold an exhibition which, while perhaps not as large as the Toronto fair, still might be a good second to it." Mr. Turner's words were heartily applauded.

J. H. Garbutt, the vice-president of the exhibition, was called on for his opinion. In regard to purchasing grounds he said that he hoped some suitable means might be devised for obtaining them. For buildings on the present ground he felt that an expenditure of $8,000 or $10,000 would not be amiss. The holding of exhibitions brought the owners of stock together, and if any standard breeds were located, those buyers could be satisfied in this county, when buying up their car-loads.

J. H. Conway, treasurer of the fair, when called on, stated that the receipts last year showed an increase of $600 over the previous year, but the amount was lessened by the outlay of $350 for building a new fence to replace the one destroyed by fire.

The last gate took in the most money, but he felt that a grand entrance should be built where people and horses could enter at the end of the new streets which ran into the fair grounds.

The receipts last year were $4,200, the year before $2,690, the increase being very satisfactory. Against this, however, must be placed a loss through the work of hucksters on the grounds serving meals. He also favored a suitable grand-stand being built to provide better accommodation for visitors, and remarked that perhaps Mr. Turner might be gracious enough to provide a canvas canopy for one, out of generosity.

Speeches were the order of the evening, and many interesting opinions on the subject were advanced. Some of the other speakers who expressed themselves were Ald. Butler, George Elliott, Robert Fair, Ed Elliott, A. G. Gillespie, R. N. Scott, J. Collins, F H Dobbin, Roland Denne, Mr. Young, of Ennismore, ex-Ald. Phelan and others.

The only decisive action taken at the meeting, however, was a motion moved by Vincent Eastwood, that a committee, composed of Ald. Butler, and J. H. Garbutt, be authorized to secure options on suitable sites for exhibition purposes, together with all information as to their suitability and and submit their efforts to the general meeting and banquet to be held in March. His motion was seconded by George Elliott and carried. Mr Eastwood's name was added to the committee by the consent of the gathering.

Dead Man's Island May Change Hands

Vancouver, Feb. 17.—At the meeting of the civic finance committee last evening Mayor Taylor stated that he received a letter from Mr. E. P. Davis, K.C., with reference to Deadman's Island which would be placed before the council on Monday night. The action on this letter might alter the present position of affairs with reference to the city's appeal to the Privy Council concerning the control of the island. The mayor intimated that Mr. Davis' letter suggested the possibility of the city acquiring the rights of Mr. Ludgate by purchase and the subject was laid over without inquiry.

The question of Deadman's Island arose because of an inquiry from Mr. W. A. McDonald, K.C., as to whether the city desired him to go to London and assist in the argument before the Privy Council. This letter was laid over pending consideration by the council of the letter from Mr. Davis.

WEDDING BELLS

BATHGATE—JOHNSTON

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 8 at 6.15 a pretty wedding was solemnized when Frankie May Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Johnston of this city became the wife of John W. Bathgate of this city formerly of Peterboro, Ont., at the church of the Redeemer, the Very Rev. Dean Paget officiating.

The bride looked most charming in a navy blue tailored suit with hat to match.

After the ceremony the happy couple repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a wedding supper was served to a number of their friends.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of beautiful gifts from Calgary and eastern points, a handsome silver service being the gift of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Bathgate will reside at 204 Fifth avenue, west, where they will be at home to their friends after Feb. 20.—Calgary Herald.

Previous to leaving this city in 1903 Mr. Bathgate held a position in Macdonald's drugstore. He is now in the real estate business at Calgary.

LEAVES FOR THE WEST TO-NIGHT

Wilfrid D. Morrow, son of W. G. Morrow, Water street, who for the past two years has been the efficient secretary of the Davis-Thompson Insurance Company leaves this evening for Edmonton, Alta. Mr. Morrow is probably one of the brightest young business men of this city, and his ability has been recognized in whatever branch of work he has been connected with. For some years he was assistant principal of the Peterborough Business College, under the late Wm. Pringle. He has also been actively identified with George St. Methodist Church occupying the office of treasurer of the Sunday school, and also of the mission fund of the church.

The position which he has accepted Edmonton is the management of the insurance department of the firm of Magrath, Colgate & Co., real estate and insurance dealers which is one of the largest and most prosperous concerns in the west.

The employees of the Davis-Thompson this afternoon presented Mr. Morrow as a token of remembrance, with a serviceable club bag.

The most sincere and hearty wishes of his host of friends in this city will accompany Mr Morrow to his new field of employment.

WHY THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ourselves. There are Optometrists and Opticians who do a smaller, but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our way. LIBERAL WHIP HELPED TO GET CHARTER OF FARMERS' BANK FROM FINANCE MINISTER

TRAVERS TELLS SENSATIONAL STORY

Story of How the Charter Game Was Worked Told by ex-General Manager—The Stratton Case.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Sensation followed sensation thick and fast in the hearing of the conspiracy charge against the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank and others in the Police Court yesterday morning. Of the nine charged with conspiring to secure the certificate of the Treasury Board of Canada by fraud, six were present, three are absentees from this and other charges. Those who answered to their names and pleaded not guilty were J. R. Stratton, M.P., president, and J. J. Warren, manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co.; John Ferguson, Alex. Fraser, A. S. Lown and John Watson, provisional directors. Those absent were Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, former president of the bank; W. J. Lindsay, stock seller in the organization, and C. H. Smith, secretary of the provisional board.

Even the morning session, though largely taken up by the filing of exhibits, was filled with sensation toward the close. At the afternoon sitting, which opened at 3.15 and closed at 4.45, surprise after surprise was sprung until the senses were dulled against all but the most startling developments.

During this hearing, taken up with the examination of W. R. Travers, and which was not completed, Magistrate Denison asked why the name of W. H. Hunter, solicitor, had not been included among those charged; it was promised that Travers' statements would be investigated and, if supported, the name would go with the others before the grand jury. Travers charged that William Laidlaw, K.C., had approached him to be appointed solicitor for the bank and to receive a share of Travers' commission, for which he would get his brother to take $5,000 stock and go on the board of directors, failing which he would put the bank out of business.

Travers further declared that to baulk the investigation of the Bankers' Association's secretary, John T. Knight, he had secured a deposit slip from the Trusts & Guarantee Co. for $80,000, for which he had paid no money into the company, but had manipulated back a former loan (made to secure money to complete the deposit with the Finance Minister and which had been repaid), to stand as a deposit in order that he might present such deposit slips to Mr. Knight.

Mr. Hunter explained later, out of court, that this had been a purely legitimate transaction in the regular routine of business.

The morning session was taken up by the reading and filing of various books and documents by Inspector Duncan as exhibits in the case and with the hearing of the evidence of Secretary Knight.

The checks of the Trust Company making the loan to the bank were produced and filed, and these were for $80,000 and $20,000, and were drawn in such a way that they could be used by the bank only for deposit with the Minister of Finance at Ottawa.

Travers, during his evidence, declared that he had paid $1,800 to C. H. Smith, secretary for the provisional board in Ottawa as a compromise for the $2,500 which Smith claimed as still due in addition to his salary under the agreement in which Travers had agreed to allow the provisional board and Smith $20,000 for their services.

Travers explained that while in Ottawa he had been introduced to W. S. Calvert, then Liberal whip. Mr. Calvert had gone with him to see Mr. Fielding, and in a 15-minute interview with the Finance Minister, had done all that he could to further the granting of the charter.

Travers was asked if Mr. Calvert had got anything for this. He said no. He was asked if anything had been promised. He said no. He was then asked if he had leant Mr. Calvert money and said that he had lent him $6,000 on his note, which had not been endorsed. This had been repaid. It was lent through the bank in the ordinary course of business.

One more information was laid by Inspector Duncan yesterday in connection with the Farmers' Bank. It charged W. S. Morden of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., with Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren, with hypothecating the bank's notes (currency), contrary to the provisions of the Bank Act. This was in July, 1910, and the amount was $50,000.

It was said at the close of the hearing that W. S. Fielding, Dominion Minister of Finance, would be subpoenaed to tell just what persons had intervened with him to secure the granting of the certificate to the bank and just what had been the nature of the intervention.

VOTE IS MUCH TOO LARGE

Opposition Criticized Estimate for London Festival.

More Money Should be Spent on Agriculture.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—In committee of supply on an item of $100,000 for exhibitions yesterday, Hon. Sidney Fisher explained that it was for an expenditure incurred during the present year in connection with the exhibit Canada will have in the Crystal Palace grounds, London, as an adjunct of the festival of the Empire, which will be a feature of the coronation celebration. The exhibit will be in a building which will be a reproduction on a small scale of the Canadian Parliament Buildings, and another vote of over $150,000 will be required to cover the total expense which will be incurred.

Then there was some criticism of the nature of the proposed expenditure, during the course of which the Minister explained that Canada's only contribution to the pageant of nations would be two thousand pounds sterling for rental of space in the grounds for the Canadian building.

Mr. Fisher explained that all the other countries which make up the British Empire would be well represented with exhibits, and that the Government would not be doing its duty if Canada did not make her usual good showing.

Glen Campbell (Dauphin) introduced a criticism of Wm. Hutchinson, Dominion exhibition commissioner, by referring to the fact that he is given an allowance per day in addition to his salary. He subsequently explained, however, that he did not object to Mr. Hutchinson being well paid, but to the system of salary and allowance.

Dr. Reid replied that "a small fair such as they have in Ottawa would be no proper training for the big expositions."

Dr. Reid (Grenville) then launched into a general criticism of the Minister for not getting larger votes for agricultural purposes. He said that Mr. Fisher was losing influence with his colleagues, and that the Minister of Labor would soon have as big a

All Chauffeurs to be Required to Have License.

Toronto, Feb 18.—Routine business, in a thinly attended House, was the order at the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon. Hon. J. J. Foy's bill for the consolidation of the statutes respecting pawnbrokers was put through committee.

Mr. Neely's bill to confirm the bylaw of the town of Petrolia for the acceptance of the Eleanor Englehart Hospital was read a second time.

Valentine Stock, South Perth, gave notice of a bill to require chauffeurs or other drivers of motor vehicles to carry a license or permit with them when driving. The permit to be endorsed by a magistrate in case of a first conviction for reckless driving, and on a second conviction to be endorsed and sent to the Provincial Secretary.

Notice of motion has been made by W. Proudfoot, Centre Huron, of a bill to amend the liquor license act. The member for Centre Huron had left the Parliament Buildings when the notice was announced. It is stated in some quarters that Mr. Proudfoot intends moving the repeal of the three-fifths clause in relation to local option.

The horses became wedged under the baggage car and it had to be jacked up and the carcasses of the dead animals removed before the train could proceed.

CONSPIRACY OF SILENCE BY UNITED STATES NEWSPAPERS

English Editors Opinions of the Annexation Sentiment of the U.S.

London, Feb. 18.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Standard says: "The conspiracy of silence on the part of the American press cannot prevent the Canadian people from discovering what is being said and done on the other side of the frontier. Annexation sentiment may be dormant, but it has never been quite extinguished. The mere prospect of union with Canada fills ardent Republican Chauvinists with exultation which they are unable to repress. The President is naturally not anxious to frighten Canadians too soon, otherwise the agreement may be rejected. It is easy enough for Canadians to get into reciprocity, but getting out is different."

The Daily Express says that reciprocity leads to annexation. Canada seemed to have been lulled by Laurier into an utterly false sense of security. These delusions had been dissipated through Champ Clark's words.

Quebec's Interests First.

Quebec, Feb. 18.—Replying to a question put by Henri Bourassa in the House as to the attitude of the Provincial Government regarding the reciprocity negotiations, and whether the Government would make any change in its decision as to the exportation of pulpwood, Premier Gouin stated that Quebec was waiting to see what might happen.

The desire of the Government was to make Quebec the centre of the pulp and paper industry of the world. If the choice lay between Quebec and Ottawa, the interests of Quebec would certainly receive first consideration.

NEED FOR EMPIRE SECRETARIAT

Melbourne, February 17.—The need for a secretariat for communications between the overseas Dominions is strongly advocated by Prime Minister Fisher of the Commonwealth. He intends to take up this subject at the meeting of the Imperial Conference in London. His idea of secretariat work is made clear in the following statement—

"I think the Prime Ministers of the overseas dominions should negotiate direct through a secretariat with each other; the British Prime Minister controlling the work of the organization."

AMERICANS LYING LOW AND PLAYING A CUNNING GAME

D. HUGHES CHARLES,
Whose evidence is wanted in the bank case.

Wire-pulling and Manœuvering to Keep the Newspapers in "Line."

Large Fund Raised to Secure Endorsation of Reciprocity Pact.

Washington, February 18.—An interesting side-light on the way in which the fight for reciprocity is being conducted here is given by the publication of the following "private and confidential" message which was sent broadcast to all important newspapers in the United States—

"New York—By request—Private to Editors. It is of vital importance to the newspapers that their Washington correspondents be instructed to treat favorably the Canadian reciprocity agreement, because print paper and wood pulp are made free duty by this agreement.—Herman Ridder, President American Newspaper Publishers' Association."

Seen in conjunction with the equally well-engineered effort to suppress or, at least, minimize Champ Clark's announcement of his annexation policy and its endorsement by prominent Republicans, it takes on an added significance.

Canadians are utterly ignorant of the manoeuvring that has been going on in connection with the reciprocity negotiations. For the past three weeks the chief wire-pullers have been disciplining and instructing the various forces, Republican and Democratic. Every congressman, every senator, every newspaper man has been cautioned to keep quiet while the Canadians are walking into the trap. Champ Clark gave the thing away, and is now being scolded by the newspapers and wire-pullers for his indiscretion. It is admitted here that Clark told the truth when he said, "We are preparing to annex Canada."

I am able to tell you that a large fund has been raised to secure endorsation for the pact. Part of the plan is to use a generous appropriation to bribe certain Canadian newspapers and certain Press Associations dealing with Canada.

If a referendum on the subject were submitted to the Canadian people, it is safe to say a million dollars would go from Washington to influence and encourage the press and to aid the organization in pressing for a favorable verdict.

WOULD HAVE AN IMPERIAL BODY

New Zealand Suggests it Instead of Colonial Office.

London, Feb. 18.—The Government has issued the correspondence with the overseas dominions setting out the subjects for discussion at the Imperial Conference.

New Zealand suggests an Imperial Council, with representatives from all parts of the Empire, and a secretary of Imperial affairs instead of the Colonial Secretary, with separate departments for the dominions and crown colonies, and the high commissioners raised to the status of ambassadors.

South Africa proposes that matters affecting the self-governing dominions be placed directly under the Premier.

Australia raises the question of the Declaration of London, regretting that the colonies had not been consulted, opposing the provisions affecting food supply and the destruction of neutral vessels.

Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt, the Colonial Secretary, hopes that the conference will meet fifteen times between May 22 and the coronation, June 22. Firstly, it will decide whether it will sit privately.

The all-red route with a state cable with a line across Canada are also subjects.

Newfoundland proposes a line of steamers subsidized by Britain, Canada and Newfoundland to link up the three.

Another topic for the imperial court is the appeal of New Zealand and Australia suggesting overseas representation in the Cabinet.

British West Indies raises the questions of labor exchange, uniform design for stamps, the expulsion of undesirable aliens.

Canada has no special proposals, but would welcome suggestions for a uniform naturalization law.

South Africa cabled Jan. 30, suggesting the consideration of replacing the trade preferences by contributions to the Imperial naval and local defence, but these suggestions were withdrawn on Feb. 10.

TRAVERS IS TAKEN TO PEN

Sudden Move in Farmers Bank Case

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—W. R. Travers, general manager of the Farmers' Bank, was taken to Kingston this morning, and it is reported that this unexpected move has been made that he may not give further evidence and assistance to the prosecuting authorities. The responsibility for keeping him in Toronto rested with the sheriff, but now that he is lodged behind the walls of the penitentiary, an order from the Minister of Justice must be made to bring him back. This move puts the Travers end of the affair in the hands of the Ottawa government, which granted the charter that caused so much trouble.

HUGHES CHARLES WANTED IN COURT

Former Peterborough Man to Testify in Bank Case

Special to The Review.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Crown Attorney Corley this morning stated that if D. Hughes Charles, broker, of Montreal, whose evidence in the Farmers' Bank case is wanted by the Crown, does not show up by Monday morning, a warrant will be issued for his arrest.

Mr. Charles is well known in and around Peterborough. He was until a comparatively short time ago manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce, and left to go into the brokerage business in Montreal. He was prominent in sporting circles, and the information that he is wanted to add light to the bank affair is of great interest to Peterborough people, among whom he numbers many warm friends.

Clue In Lobinski Case.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—What may prove to be a clue in the Lobinski murder case has been brought to light here in the discovery of a blood-stained coat. The garment was brought to a local cleaning and pressing establishment Thursday to be cleaned, and when one of the employes went to work on it he found spots of blood. Detective Boyd and Constable Huber are satisfied the stains are those of human blood, and the detective says that they may lead to important discoveries in the case.

OPERATORS MAY STRIKE

The G.N.W. Having Trouble Again.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—For the third time in seven years is the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. threatened with a strike of its operators. From the present temper of the men and the uncompromising attitude assumed by the company, there seems little doubt but that the trouble will at least reach the point of an appeal for the appointment of a board of conciliation under the provisions of the Lemieux Act.

International President S. J. Konenkamp of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, arrived in the city from Chicago yesterday evening to take charge of the situation. While there was no question, he said of union recognition in the dispute, the union would render the committee appointed by the men every support possible in their fight for a reasonable salary schedule.

While the trouble has come to a head in Toronto, three dismissals following the presentation of a new schedule, he pointed out that the entire staff of operators, from Winnipeg to the Atlantic coast, would be affected by any action that might be taken.

Twenty-five men have been discharged by the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. since Jan. 1 as a result of a campaign among the telegraphers of that company which had for its purpose higher wages. Telegraphers' wages have not generally kept pace with the times and the minimum salary remains at $25 per month, with a maximum of $70 with the G.N.W., the same as ten years ago, despite the increased cost of living. The men sought to obtain relief first by petitions and finally by organizing.

A new schedule of wages, asking for a minimum salary of $30 per month, was presented to the management on Feb. 2 by a committee holding authority from the great majority of the employes, and the committee asked for a conference. The company replied by first discharging the committee and then dismissing eight of those who refused to sign a paper which stated that they were satisfied with present conditions and that the committee was not authorized to act.

This happened on Wednesday. Despite the dismissal of some of those who refused to sign the paper, it is understood only 20 of the 80 telegraphers employed in the Toronto office signed. Some of those who did sign were promised an increase of $5 per month, to take effect April 1.

Approximately twenty-five employes have been dismissed so far, and it is reported that others will follow as rapidly as men can be obtained from the United States to fill their places.

President Konenkamp said that a conference of the general committee, representing all the G.N.W. employes, would be held within the next few days, and that until this took place he did not feel competent to discuss the matter at length. He pointed out, however, that all the committee had done was to submit a proposition on behalf of the employes and ask for a conference. It was inconceivable, he said, that men should be dismissed for such a cause. The schedule presented by the men had been approved by him in accordance with the laws of the union.

ONE MILLION WAS TAKEN FROM BANK

Vaults Looted and Two Watchmen Killed

Special to The Review.

Rome, February 18.—Burglars or anarchists looted the vaults of the Exchange Bank during last night, and made their escape with a vast sum of money in their possession. It is thought that the sum taken will amount to one million dollars. Two nightwatchmen were killed.

IS PRINCIPAL ASST. ENGINEER

Luman P. Sherwood of This City Takes a Step Up

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—Lumen P. Sherwood, of Peterborough, has been appointed principal assistant engineer of the department of Railways and Canals, having won the position through a competitive examination. He was formerly on the staff of the Trent Canal.

Mr. Sherwood, who resides at 529 Weller street, has been identified with the local department as assistant engineer.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

The Czar has become a newspaper editor. He must be hunting for trouble.

The Chinese are so famine stricken that they, like Dodo, "eat 'em alive."

A news dispatch says rats are invading Winnipeg. What! Are the ladies so slow as that?

Travers has gone to Kingston to the silence of the cells. Has he any more to tell? Why did he go so soon!

"Good day!" This isn't June yet, so hang on to your furs.

SCIATICA

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

CURED SIX YEARS

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 50 cents per bottle, trial size, 25c; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

SIR EDMUND'S WARNING

Sir Edmund Walker, a Liberal, and president of one of Canada's biggest banks, out of the ripeness of his great experience utters a warning against reciprocity. At the Toronto Board of Trade he voiced his sentiments strongly:—

"For fifty years," said Sir Edmund Walker, "I have had business relations both in the United States and Canada, and during that time I have found myself that it was to the interest of Canada to work out her own laws, her own resources and her own policy without interference with the republic to the south of us.

"Every year it is our duty to nationally, politically and ethically develop our nation in our own way.

"Some have thought during the past few years that annexation with the United States has been considered dead there, and that no man dared to raise the question politically, and that the United States had no idea that it would take place.

"That this idea has been unduly dispelled, whatever President Taft's idea may be has been shown most effectively. Champ Clark, honest Democrat that he may be, poured out only what was in every man's breast."

Sir Edmund Walker pointed out that Philander Knox might try and say that Clark was mistaken, and didn't really represent the big majority of the people, but this was not so.

"We should be very foolish if we doubt for one minute," he continued, "that in the minds of 100,000,000 people the hope had not been raised that they would see the Stars and Stripes floating at the North Pole eventually."

A PARISIAN THOUGHT

Even in Paris they are hammering at the reciprocity situation. The Temps published a leading article yesterday afternoon summing up the Canadian-United States reciprocity situation. The paper thinks that the speech made by the Representative Champ Clark seriously compromises the success of the agreement, as it rudely awakens the slumbering inquietudes of Canada and England that the United States seeks the absorption of Canada.

From the start, the Temps maintains, England has failed to recognize the importance of the negotiations and, generally speaking, has conducted the whole question "with the same feebleness and slackness that has characterized her action in other parts of the world."

LET HIM ANSWER

We hope it is true that Finance Minister Fielding will be called into the witness box in the Farmers' Bank case to tell about that charter. Mr. Fielding may feel the need of an opportunity to clear the Department from the gathering suspicions. It has been established that the Department knew of the fraud by which the charter was obtained. Why was it inactive, an accessory before and after the fact? Let Mr. Fielding answer!

STRIKING EVIDENCE

Only thirteen members of the Toronto Board of Trade, out of 300, voted for reciprocity. They included strong Liberals, such as Sir Edmund Walker and Hugh Blain, a director of the Globe. Is this an evidence of the strength of public opinion behind Sir Wilfrid Laurier in consummating this tremendous reversal of Canada's established policy? The strong stable sentiment of the country is against it—the sentiment which says little, but thinks much—and marks ballots!

ELECTION TIME

The Ontario Legislature is considering bills which change the time for voting from New Years to late in the preceding year. In Manitoba the elections are held on the third Tuesday in December, which is a few days before Christmas. A law for Ontario in general that would work out well would be for nominations the first Monday and elections the second Monday in December. The big cities have a decided liking for a New Year's election, however, especially as it falls on a holiday, and a change to an ordinary working day would be a hardship. The matter will be threshed out thoroughly in the Legislature later in the session.

CHAMP ISN'T ALONE

The Toronto Globe and others of its ilk are trying to belittle and make light of the utterance of Champ Clark, the American Democrat leader, in saying that he looked for the American flag to float over all the continent to the North Pole; that the Americans were just preparing to annex Canada. The "annexiprocity" press is prepared to assert that Clark's statement was made by an irresponsible, that he represented no body of Americans, and that what he says is not a representative opinion at all. "None is so blind as he who will not see"—and in their fatuity, these Canadian annexiprocity" organs would shut their eyes to undesirable features of a bargain with Satan, if they thought Laurier was in a hole.

Let us see for a moment if Champ Clark is alone in his annexation statements. Let us see if nobody else around Washington shares those lofty ideals and aspirations to own the whole American continent! Here are some quotations from prominent senators on the subject, gathered for Canadian delectation by a Washington newspaper correspondent—

Senator Beveridge, a leading insurgent, of Indiana, said—

"Champ Clark's utterance probably will defeat the reciprocity pact in Canada."

Senator Jones, of Washington, stated—

"Canadian annexation is not an impossibility. It is remote, much as I would like to see Vancouver and British Columbia an integral part of the American Union."

Senator Smith of Michigan—

"Champ Clark spoke in prophetic vein, and I am not surprised at his deductions. Mr. Clark's views, as expressed by him on the floor of the House on Tuesday, almost carry as much weight as if the Prime Minister of England had spoken. No doubt the jingoes in England will do all in their power to use the Clark incident to defeat the Canadian reciprocity pact, if for no other purpose than the fact that reciprocity between Canada and the United States probably will shatter the well-laid plans of England's statesmen to create a central Parliament in London—a Parliament that would make its purpose to secure advantage over trade relations between all countries flying the Union Jack and the world. Mr. Clark's utterances are bound to cause uneasiness in Europe, and are a blow at the English scheme of centralization, the feasibility of which is apparent to any one who studies the wonderful resources of the British Empire."

Senator Cummings, of Iowa—

"I am for the annexation of Canada. I have always been, and if it were generally understood that Canadian annexation was the purpose of the pending pact, it doubtless would help the measure in becoming a law here. Mr. Clark's speech may have some effect on the outcome of the measure in England and Canada, but surely not in this country."

Senator McCumber, of North Dakota—

"Canadian annexation is the logical conclusion of reciprocity with Canada. Once the Canadian farmer has tasted the advantages of our market, he won't want to withdraw. It would be a signal for a universal demand for annexation."

These men are the leading statesmen in Washington.

They voice the general idea of the United States with regard to reciprocity.

WON'T DARN HER HUBBY'S SOCKS

Wife Prefers to Work and Support Herself

Savannah Ga., Feb. 16.—"I'd rather work for a living than sit at home and darn socks," said Mrs. Myra G. Brown to the judge in the Superior Court here yesterday, explaining why she wanted an injunction to prevent her husband from interfering with her keeping her job. The court showed his sympathy by making the restraining order permanent.

The husband, Gilbert Brown, who is second officer on a steamship plying between Savannah and New York, is well-to-do, and his wife made no denial of his statement that he had provided well for her.

When he found that she had left home to take a business job his protests took the form of rather violent language and Mrs. Brown decided to fight rather than yield to his demand that she "darn socks and cook."

The decision means that no husband in Georgia has an exclusive claim on his wife's services, and that they are at the beck and call of any one who offers inducements alluring enough to tempt her.

RHEUMATISM

Cured by Booth's Kidney Pills

T. E. Foster, of St. John street, Fredericton, N.B., says: I have found more actual relief from Booth's Kidney Pills than in all else I have ever tried for rheumatism. THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—A fresh low record for the season was made to-day in the price of wheat. Every option sold cheaper than at any previous time for the crop. Closing figures were 1⅛c to 1¼c to 1⅜c under last night. In corn the outcome was a net loss of ⅛c to ¼c. Oats finished unchanged to a shade off, and provisions at 2½c to 12½c advance. The wheat market had one sharp advance, due to news from Washington that the grain clause of the Scott Anti-Option Bill had been left out. Short selling on a big scale by a leading speculator proved especially disconcerting to believers in higher prices for the July delivery. Towards the end the market showed no recuperative power to speak of, and the final tone was decidedly nervous. May ranged at from 90⅞c to 90⅜c to 89⅞c, closing 1⅛c net lower, at 89⅞c to 90⅛c.

The Liverpool market closed on wheat ⅛d to ¼d lower than yesterday, and unchanged to ⅛d higher on corn. At Berlin, wheat closed ⅜c higher, at Antwerp ⅛c higher, at Budapest ⅛c lower, and at Paris ⅛c to ⅜c higher.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1908, by Brentano's.

Pere Bernier went on:

"You came like a waterspout, M. Rouletabille. And she drew you into Old Bob's sitting room. You saw nothing. I stayed with M. Darzac. The rattle in the throat of the man on the floor had ceased. Darzac, still bending over him, said to me, 'Get a sack, Bernier—a sack and a stone—and we will throw him into the sea, and no one will ever hear his voice again!'

"Then," Bernier went on, "I thought of my sack of potatoes. My wife had gathered them up and put them back in the sack after you had emptied them out. I emptied the bag again and brought it to him. We made as little noise as possible. Moving very quietly, we had slipped the body, which Darzac had tied up, into the sack. But I said to Darzac: 'Let me beg of you not to throw it into the water. It is not deep enough to hide it.' 'What shall we do, then?' inquired M. Darzac. I answered, 'Heaven help us, I don't know, monsieur!' And I went out of the room and found you in the lodge, M. Sainclair. And then you went for M. Rouletabille at the request of M. Darzac, who had come out of his own apartment. As for my wife, she was almost swooning with terror when she suddenly saw that both M. Darzac and myself were covered with blood. See, messieurs, my hands are red! Pray heaven, it doesn't bring us misfortune! But we have done our duty. Oh, he was a miserable wretch! Why should they hide the facts? Isn't it an honor to have killed Larsan? Mme. Darzac promised me a fortune if I would keep silence. What do I care for that? Why should she have feared? I asked her when we thought that you had gone to bed and that we three were all alone in the square tower with our corpse. I said to her: 'Tell every one that you have killed him! All the world will praise you!' She answered: 'There has been too much scandal already, Bernier, and as much as it depends on me to do and as much as is possible I will hide this new horror forever! It would kill my father!'"

Bernier turned toward the door, showing us his hands.

"I must rid myself of the blood of the accursed pig!" he said dryly.

Rouletabille stopped him.

"And what was M. Darzac saying all this time? What was his opinion?"

"He repeated: 'What Mme. Darzac says is right. She must be obeyed.' His shirt was torn, and he had a slight wound in his throat, but it did not seem to bother him at all, and indeed there was only one thing in which he seemed interested, and that was as to how the miserable wretch had got into his rooms. I told him what I have told you—that he could not have entered without my seeing him."

"And the body? Where was it?"

"It lay in the sleeping room of M. Darzac."

"And how was it decided that it should be disposed of?"

"I can't say as to that for certain, but their resolution was taken, for Mme. Darzac said to me: 'Bernier, I am going to ask of you one last service—get the English cart and harness Toby to it. If you wake Walter and he asks for explanations say to him, "It is for M. Darzac, who must be at Castelar at 4 o'clock in the morning to see the tournament in the Alps."' Mme. Darzac said also, 'If you meet M. Rouletabille say nothing to him and do nothing that may attract his attention.' Now you know as much as I. God help us!"

When Bernier had finished relating this incredible story Rouletabille put his hand on his arm, thanking him most earnestly for his great devotion to his master and mistress, and offered him to say nothing to Mme. Darzac of anything that had passed between them.

"Well," I said when we were alone, "Larsan is dead!"

"Yes," answered Rouletabille. "I fear so!"

"You fear so! Why?"

"Because the death of Larsan, who is carried out dead from a place which he never entered dead or alive, terrifies me more than his life itself!"

CHAPTER XIII.

"When My Father Wears a Wig It Will Fit."

It was literally true that he was frightened. And I was more terrified myself than words could express. I had never seen him in such a state of mental inquietude. "I want to ask you, my boy, whether your mother told you the story of the accident with the revolver?"

"No," he answered, "and I asked her nothing."

"And you swore to see nothing and hear nothing without her saying anything to you about the pistol shot and cry?"

The young man now gazed at me intently.

"It was necessary for me to believe For my part, I respected the secrets of the Lady in Black. I had nothing to ask of her when she said to me, 'We must leave each other now, my child, but nothing can ever separate us again!'"

"Ah, she said that to you?"

"Yes, and there was blood upon her hands."

We looked at each other in silence I was now at the window and beside the reporter. Suddenly his hand touched mine. Then he pointed to the little taper which was burning at the entrance to the subterranean door which led to Old Bob's study in the tower.

"It is dawn," said Rouletabille, "and Old Bob is still at work. We will go and have a peep at him."

A few moments later we descended into the octagon room of the Tower of Charles the Bold. The lamp was burning on the table, but there was no sign of Old Bob.

He picked up the lamp and examined everything. We came to the little desk table. There we found the skull, and it was true that it had been spattered with the red paint of the wash drawing which Darzac had set to dry upon that part of the desk which faced the window. I went from one window to the other and shook the bars to assure myself that they had not been tampered with.

"What are you about?" asked Rouletabille. "Before thinking about how he could have got out at the windows wouldn't it be better to find out whether he went by the door?"

He set the lamp upon the parapet and looked for traces of footprints. Then Rouletabille said:

"Go and knock at the door of the square tower and ask Bernier whether Old Bob has come in. Ask Mattoni and Pere Jacques. Go—quick!"

Five minutes after I went out I was back with the information. No one had seen Old Bob in any part of the fortress. Rouletabille said:

To be continued.

Father Morriscy's Remedies

Now on Sale in Ontario

When Father Morriscy, the famous priest-physician of Bartibogue, N. B., died a year ago last spring, he left his prescriptions to the Sisters of the Hotel Dieu, at Chatham, to be used for the benefit of humanity and of the church.

Not being in position to make up and distribute the prescriptions themselves, the Sisters arranged with a number of gentlemen, who had been Father Morriscy's friends, to do it for them. These gentlemen working under the name of the "Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited," had by the first of the year placed the remedies in nearly every store in the Maritime Provinces.

So gladly were they received, and so satisfactory has been their record of cures, that the Sisters and the Company have decided to place them on sale throughout Canada.

Father Morriscy's "No. 7", for Rheumatism and the Kidneys—"No. 10", Cough Cure and Lung Tonic—"No. 11", Stomach Remedy—"No. 26", for Catarrh, and "Father Morriscy's Liniment" can now be obtained from most dealers in this Province. If yours does not keep them write the Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited, Chatham, N.B.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS FOR ALL BABIES

Every mother of young children should keep a box of Baby's Own tablets in the house. No other medicine has relieved so many little ones of the ailments that afflict them as have Baby's Own Tablets—no other medicine can be given baby with that absolute sureness of safety as can these Tablets. The mother has the guarantee of a Government analyist that they do not contain a particle of those harmful drugs that make those so-called "soothing" stuffs so dangerous to the life of the little one. The Tablets never fail to be of benefit. Concerning them Mrs. Jno. A. Albert, Caraquet, N.B., writes—"I am happy to state that I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation for my two children with great satisfaction." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mr. Fisher contented himself with the remark that it would take more than Dr. Reid's assertions to make the farmers believe it.

Geo. Taylor caused some amusement by discovering that seven cases of cocktails had been bought at St. Hyacinthe for the Seattle Exposition.

Mr. Fisher laughingly remarked that he did not know anything about this transaction, but would enquire.

A. Haggart of Winnipeg brought up the matter of the Selkirk Exposition. He said the people would be glad to hear what was the attitude of the Government towards it.

Mr. Fisher explained that these estimates were for the current year only. Already the Prime Minister had stated to the House that the matter of a contribution was still under advisement.

Mr. Haggart said that this being a world's exposition, they must have three years to prepare.

Mr. Staples asked the Minister to state definitely if he would use his influence to get for the agriculturists of this country what they deserved. "Jump and take a chance. You will come out all right," he said.

Dr. Reid of Grenville read a letter which he had received from Washington regarding the Long Sault dam proposition. The letter stated that after investigation, it was found out the company was endeavoring to get legislation to develop power south of the boundary line, independently of the Canadian Government. The bill omitted any provision for the consent of Canada, but expressly stated that the company could construct and operate.

Sir Wilfrid said he could not agree with some of the conclusions, but he had communicated with the Government at Washington, and the correspondence would be brought down in due course.

Martin Burrell (Yale-Cariboo) read a telegram from the ratepayers of Coldstream and Vernon, B.C., deploring the reciprocity agreement, and declaring that there can be no difference of opinion, but that if there is to be protection, there should be protection all round. They believe that it is more necessary to protect the fruit growing than manufactures, and that there is no justice in sacrificing an infant industry and protecting a full grown industry.

The wreck at Courville, France, when 10 were killed, was caused by a station agent allowing a freight to switch expecting that the express would as usual be late.

At the Samaritan Hospital, Philadelphia it has been demonstrated that skin taken from one person may be kept on ice several days and then successfully be grafted on another.

Bennett Gets His.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The fame of William S. Bennett, as the man who would annex Canada to the United States at once by resolution, went up like a rocket and came down like a stick. Solemnly introduced in the Congress Thursday, the resolution to commence negotiations with Great Britain to this end met an untimely and undignified end in the committee of foreign affairs yesterday morning, and there was none save Mr Bennett to do it honor. When it emerged from nowhere Thursday it at once took a place in international politics, and the friends of reciprocity felt that it could only arouse unnecessary prejudice and prevent a rational consideration of the bill upon its merits. It was, therefore, thought desirable that there should be an immediate decision to place the resolution where it belonged.

Trolley Along the Welland.

St. Catharines, Feb. 18.—The Port Colborne division of the Niagara, St Catharines and Toronto Railway opened for traffic at 6.30 this morning, with a two-hour service until midnight. The road is now in operation from Port Dalhousie to Welland. The new section, 8 1-2 miles in length, gives a trolley service the entire length of the Welland Canal.

To Jail In His Auto.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—"Jake" Saunders did not need a patrol to take him to the jail to serve his sentence of ten days' hard labor, imposed on him yesterday morning by Magistrate Denison, but instead scooted off in his big new touring car. He was arrested on a charge of keeping a common gaming house, and, as he is known all over the city as a sportsman with plenty of the necessary, the magistrate did not give him the option of paying a fine, knowing that he would gladly do so and escape punishment.

A Sensational Attack.

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—A sensation was furnished in the Legislature yesterday by W. Molloy Laverandle, who charged Conservatives with having tried to steal every seat in the province, and declared that a conspiracy to tamper with the ballot boxes in his constituency was frustrated. A statement that he does not care whether Manitoba's boundaries were ever extended, as the country north is practically valueless, called forth Government protest.

Scrutiny to Go On.

Cornwall, Feb 18.—In the Alexandria local option muddle, the solicitor for the hotel keepers moved to set aside the order for a recount, the principal ground being that the returning officer had not declared for or against the bylaw, on the ground that the deputy returning officer's statement for one of the polls was not in the box. Judge Liddell has given judgment, directing that the scrutiny be proceeded with on Feb. 21.

Search For Father-in-Law.

Detroit, Feb. 18.—Fred Garton, a barber, was shot five times yesterday at his shop on Campau avenue, and taken to Grace Hospital in a dying condition, and the police are searching for his father-in-law, George R Bather, of 187 Dragoon avenue. Bather was enraged over the marriage of his step-daughter and Garton a week ago.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—Col. Sam Hughes left yesterday for Washington on private business. He said before he left that he would have a word or two to say to Champ Clark about that scheme of annexing Canada.

French Give Ultimatum.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—At a special meeting of the executive of the French-Canadian Educational Association, held last night, it was unanimously decided not to present an address to Archbishop Gauthier on the occasion of his enthronement on Feb. 21, if Bishop Fallon is present.

This stand is taking owing to Bishop Fallon's attitude toward bi-lingual schools and to French-Canadian aspirations in Ontario, which is termed, "unjust and iniquitous," in the resolution.

Alien Importers Fined.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 18.—John Jones and Samuel Lewis, local Hungarians, were arrested yesterday on charges of bringing three rejected aliens into the country. Catarrhozone

Cures Permanently BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CATARRH

Throw medicine to the dogs. At best they are unpleasant, often useless. You are suffering from some disease of the throat, nose, or lungs. Doctors call it Bronchitis, Asthma, or Catarrh, or it is a slight or severe cold. Germs cause these diseases—they have a common root.

Catarrhozone destroys disease germs, but it does more, it heals disease tissue.

CATARRHOZONE is little drops of healing carried by air to the exact place where Catarrh exists. Observe, Catarrhozone not only destroys the cause, but immediately repairs the result of diseased condition.

Catarrhozone means little drops of healing carried by air and placed over the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by doctors, druggists, and by thousands of Canadian people who have used it.

Catarrhozone

Yes, Sir, it is taken in air.

"Little drops of healing" carried by air to weak places in the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

Three sizes: 25c, 50c, and $1.00, at druggists, or by mail postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

"MY CINDERELLA GIRL"

In the slang of the day, it is "some show" that can play an engagement of three hundred performances in Chicago, not even closing during the hot weather. This is the unequalled record of "My Cinderella Girl," the musical farce which comes to the Grand Theatre on Wednesday night, February 22nd.

To begin with, if there was not a musical number in the piece, it would be a comedy on a par with "The College Widow" and other famous satirical successes. But it has been given a capitvating musical score, wherein real song hits predominate, a cast of clever comedians and comediennes and singers, and what may be justly termed, a real beauty chorus.

In the few neighboring cities where the company has recently appeared, the critics are unanimous in their praise of this organization.

The St. John's Guild of Goodfellowship will meet as usual in the Princess Theatre to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and will discuss the subject, "A Wonderful Library," from a different standpoint than last week. A hearty invitation is extended to all men of 18 years or over.

The subject chosen is an interesting one, and will deal with matters that are not widely known, so no doubt a large number of men will endeavor to be present in the Princess Theatre at 3 p.m.

The syndicate deal to purchase the Tooke Bros. plant at Montreal is declared off.

EXHIBITION WAS A GRAND SUCCESS

Large Attendance to See the Work of the Y.M.C.A. Boys

The Y.M.C.A. hobby exhibition last night was well attended, and everyone was satisfied with the program given by the boys. About three hundred people saw the exhibition, and two hundred of this number remained for the entertainment.

The boys' reading room was arranged as the show room and the exhibits were artistically placed by Mr. Tait and a couple of helpers. There was keen competition in nearly every class, and the judges were in doubt as to who was deserving of the prize. As there were only about twenty prizes everyone could not win, but all the boys were satisfied, since the exhibition was such a success. In the boys' game room were the candy booth and fish pond. These were well patronized by the people. When the time for the programme came round there was hardly room for those who were to take part.

After this the show broke up. This is the first attempt at anything of this nature at the "Y" and Mr. Tait and his educational committee are to be congratulated.

TREAT IN STORE FOR THE PEOPLE

ALBERT CHEVALIER IN "DADDY DUFARD."

One of the immediate attractions to be seen at the Grand next Saturday, February 25th, will be Albert Chevalier, the famous English character actor, in a new play of life, in and about the London Music Halls, entitled "Daddy Dufard." Daddy Dufard is an old French actor, who, at the time of the opening of the play, is not as prosperous as he once has been. He has a daughter Rose, whom he has taught the art of the actor. There appears to be an opening for Rose at the Caledonia theatre of varieties, in a part which another and more famous actress, Celia Fitzjames has been cast for, but which Celia thinks she will refuse.

When Celia decides she does not wish to appear in the part, at the Caledonia, it seems to be the chance that Rose has been waiting for. She has been so thoroughly rehearsed by her father that he knows there is no possibility of her failing. All preparations are made for her appearance at the music hall, which is the setting of the last act. While waiting for the new piece the audience is entertained by the most noted singer of the time—Albert Chevalier, and it is Chevalier himself who obliges. Daddy Dufard has been seen by the audience around the front of the theatre arranging for the throwing of bouquets to Rose when she shall appear. The ticket taker tells him that Chevalier is about to go on, and advises that Dufard goes inside and listen to the singer. Daddy says "No, he will go back and see his daughter." As he exits the doors of the theatre open, disclosing the stage, and Chevalier comes out in his famous characterizations. It is a very quick change.

Rose meanwhile is already to go on in the new play, when Celia, who has experienced a change of heart, and now fears to let her younger rival appear before the first night's audience, arrives at the theatre, and calmly announces her intention of playing the part. Rose is almost in tears. Toft, manager of the theatre, is forced to side with Celia, whom he has advertised as the attraction, and whose reputation is made. It is here that Daddy Dufard plays his big trump, in a manner that would be unfair to reveal in advance of the actual performance. He saves the day for his daughter, and is the most enthusiastic witness of her success.

The seat sale for this attraction opens at the box office on Thursday, Feb. 23.

To the Business and Professional Men of Peterborough

BEFORE THE CONVENTION
We want you to think about your need of a reliable Safe. Every business or professional man needs a fire-proof, burglar-proof Safe just as sure as he needs insurance on his general property. In fact his private papers—valuable records—legal documents—books, etc., as a rule present more wealth than the property he insures. If a resident of the city buys one of our Safes during convention we will put it on his premises at our expense.

DURING THE CONVENTION
We want you to be sure to look over our exhibit and have demonstrated to you the features that make our Safes worthy of their reputation. Ask our man and learn the "Reason Why."

GOLDIE & McCULLOCH FIRE PROOF SAFES
Have won their reputation on straight quality merit—and as absolutely fire resisting. Goldie & McCulloch Safes went scatheless through the fiercest heats of the great fires of Toronto, Ottawa, Hull, Campbellton, Carleton Place, Three Rivers, Que., Fernie, B.C., Sydney, C.B., Woodstock, N.B., and others in perfect safety of contents stored.

TO VISITING HARDWAREMEN AND OTHERS

DURING THE CONVENTION
We're going to sell our entire exhibit of Goldie & McCulloch Fireproof Safes. We do not intend to ship a single Safe back to Galt.

AFTER CONVENTION
We'll ship right from Peterborough to purchaser, and we'll pay freight too.

BUT NOW
Is the time to buy a first class reliable Safe at a price you won't have an opportunity of getting again. If you have an old Safe which is too small or is not absolutely reliable we will make you an allowance on it.

OUR EXHIBIT
Will be located at the west end of the Armouries among GALT MANUFACTURES. Be sure to look us up.

BOOKS NOW TO BE HAD AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Toronto Daily Papers for the Ladies' Section

The public will be pleased to learn that books can now be obtained at the Public Library. Great inconvenience has been caused by the non arrival of the proper cards but everything is being done to accomodate those who are desirous of obtaining reading matter. It is hoped that when the cards arrive the process of becoming eligible for its advantages will be rendered considerably easier.

The Library committee has ordered copies of the Toronto daily papers exclusively for the ladies' section. These will be found on file every day.

The juvenile books are being collected together as quickly as possible in one section so that children need not roam all over the stack room hunting for suitable literature. The reference books have been moved to the reference room and the juvenile works placed on the shelves formerly reserved for the reference books. Several articles have been left in the reading rooms at various times. These are in the librarian's hands and will be handed over to those persons having a just claim to them, on application at the librarain's desk.

RAGING HEADACHE STOPPED AT ONCE

When He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

SHANLY, ONT., Sept. 23rd, 1910.

"You certainly have the Greatest discovered Headache Cure in the world. Before "Fruit-a-tives" came before the public, I suffered tortures from Headaches caused by Stomach Disorders.

"One of your travellers called on me when I had one of my raging headaches and had my head almost raw from external applications.

"I hated to see any person coming into the store (much less a commercial traveller) and I told him very curtly that I had a headache but he insisted on my trying "Fruit-a-tives".

"I did so, with what I would call amazing results. They completely cured me and since then (nearly six years ago) it is only necessary for me to take one occasionally to preserve me in my present good health. I was 65 years old yesterday and have been a general store keeper at the above address for twenty-five years". WM. PITT

As Mr. Pitt says "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest headache cure in the world.

Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives" at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

TO MEET ALL DELEGATES TO THE HARDWARE CONVENTION

Committees to be on Hand on Arrival of the Trains

At a meeting of the Reception Committee of the city council last night, committees were selected to meet the delegates to meet the Hardware Convention to be held here next week on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Armories.

The meeting was attended by representatives from the hardware concerns of the city, and who were: Messrs. Reece, of the Rapid Tool Co.; T. H. Fortye, Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co.; E. P. Clarkson, Lundy Tool Co.; W. D. Campbell, Best Stove Co.; H. P. Morgan, Peterborough Hardware Co. and R. G. Kingan, of Kingan Hardware Co.

All trains from Monday evening to Wednesday at noon, with the exception of the C.P.R. morning local, will be met by a committee of two at least.

The schedule is as follows:—

Monday, G.T.R., 5.30 p.m.—Ald Graham and R. G. Kingan.

Monday, C.P.R., 7.47 p.m.—Messrs. Campbell and Kingan and Ald. Anderson.

Monday, G.T.R., 9.00 and 10.15—Messrs. Turner and Morgan and Ald. Edgar.

Tuesday, G.T.R., 8.10 a.m.—Messrs. Morgan and Clarkson and Ald. Graham.

Tuesday, G.T.R., 11.10 a.m.—Messrs. Morgan and Fortye and Ald. Kerneghan.

Tuesday, C.P.R., 11.28 a.m.—Messrs. Reece and Higgins and Ald. Edgar.

Tuesday, C.P.R., 4.38 p.m.—Messrs. Lavell and Ackerman and Ald. Graham.

Tuesday, G.T.R., 5.30 p.m.—Messrs. Taber and Richardson and Ald. Edgar.

Tuesday, C.P.R., 7.47 p.m.—Messrs. Morgan and Kingan and Ald. Kerneghan.

Tuesday, G.T.R., 9.00, 10.15 p.m.—Messrs. Reece and Clarkson and Ald. Edgar.

Wednesday, G.T.R., 8.10 a.m.—Ald. Graham and H. P. Morgan.

Wednesday, C.P.R., 11.28 a.m.—Messrs. Higgins and Kingan and Ald. Graham.

Wednesday, G.T.R., 11.40 a.m.—Messrs. Campbell and Morgan and Ald. Edgar.

The delegates are to wear a design of a shaving brush and each of the reception committees are to wear a badge, the secretary last night being authorized to secure them.

The executive of the convention is to arrive here Monday afternoon on the 5.30 G.T.R. train, and the convention is to be formally opened at 1.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

ABOUT THE CONVENTION.

The latest number of Hardware and Metal contains reproductions of some of this city's manufacturing concerns, and also much information relative to the convention to be held here next week. The official program is as follows:—

Tuesday:
9 to 12 a.m.—Exhibition in Armories, open.
Visit to manufacturing plants.
1.30 to 4.30 p.m.—Convention meeting in band room of armories.
4.30 p.m.—"Travellers' Hour" and discussion on "Methods Salesmanship."
Evening—Band concert in Exhibition Hall.

Wednesday:
9 to 12 a.m.—Exhibition in Armories, open.
Visit to manufacturing Peterborough plants.
1.30 to 4.30 p.m.—Convention meeting.
Evening—Question box discussion in Collegiate Institute Hall. Band concert in Exhibition Hall. Exhibition open to general public.

Thursday:
9 to 12 p.m.—Exhibition in Armories, open.
Visit to Peterborough manufacturing plants.
1.30 to 4.30 p.m.—Convention meeting.
Evening—Social evening in Collegiate Institute Hall. Address on "Price Maintenance," by Wm. Maxwell, Fitchburg, Mass. Program of entertainment by Harry Bennett, Toronto, Glidden's orchestra, etc. Buffet luncheon during the evening.

Friday—Morning, Convention session.

WINDOW COMPETITIONS.

After consulting with the hardware and stove dealers of Peterborough, the executive have arranged window competitions, which will be a splendid educative feature of the convention. The competitions will be open to any hardware merchant or clerk, and prizes will be given for the best windows displaying hardware, stoves and paints.

Prizes for these competitions are offered by the Association as follows:

I.—Hardware window, made up of mechanics' tools, builders' hardware or similar goods.

First prize, $10 in cash.
Second prize, $5 in cash.
Judging to take place by 6 p.m. Tuesday.

II.—Paint and brush window.

First prize, $10.
Second prize, $5.
To be judged by 6 p.m. Wednesday.

Stove and Housefurnishing Goods Display.

First prize, $10 in cash.
Second prize, $5 in cash.
To be judged by 6 p.m., Tuesday afternoon.

The judges in these competitions will be: George Matthewson, Toronto; Milton Adams, Picton; F. W. Otton, Barrie; G. A. Burns, Newmarket; C. R. Bailes, Oshawa; S. B. McClung, Trenton; J. W. Zavitz, Wallaceburg.

The Peterborough hardware stores have been kind enough to place their windows at the disposal of outside hardwaremen or clerks, who desire to enter the competition.

DESCRIPTION OF ARMORIES.

The armories at Peterborough furnish an ideal building for the holding of a large convention. The situation, fronting a very handsome public square, is splendid, especially as the fine Collegiate Institute is adjoining, and the new Public Library is across the square.

The large hall in the armories, 176 feet by 80 feet, has been fitted up for the exhibition booths, each of which will have a frontage of 12 feet, and a depth of 10 feet. Over sixty exhibitors have been accommodated with booths, and the result will be the greatest exhibition of hardware every brought together in this country.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL AT HOME

The annual "At Home" of the Peterborough Normal School held last evening in the spacious halls of the splendid building was undoubtedly one of the most pleasurable and high-class social events of the season.

The "At Home" is always an affair looked forward to with pleasure and eagerness, both by students and the public alike, and the students have established an enviable reputation for providing most successful entertainments. That the popularity of the "At Home" is increasing was evidenced strongly last evening, the assembly hall and corridors being thronged the entire evening.

An unusually enjoyable program was given in the earlier portion of the evening in the assembly hall, the talent being mainly supplied by the students of the Normal.

To elaborate on each number would be scarcely just, suffice to say that each and all were given in a finished manner, which seemed to lack nothing, and which reflected extreme credit on the performers themselves.

Mr. Clubine, president of the Literary Society, presided during the program most acceptably, and on behalf of the Normal students welcomed the visitors and friends to the entertainment. Mr. Clubine also expressed the warm feelings of gratitude entertained by the Normalites towards the citizens for the welcome and friendship extended to them during their sojourn here. The other numbers of the program followed.

The scarf drill, an intricate and artistic performance by nine young ladies, drew appreciative applause, and deserves special mention. Not a hitch was discernible in the manoeuvres, and many unique designs were made by the girls with the scarfs.

A scene from "The Merchant of Venice" was also given with a fair amount of dramatic ability.

At the conclusion of the program the promenades followed, in which the majority of those present participated, Halpeny's orchestra served up most tuneful and pleasing music.

Refreshments were served in the gymnasium after the promenades, thus bringing the brilliant affair to a close.

Mr. Keyes exhibited a large number of slides during the evening in one of the rooms, a feature of the affair which commended itself favorably to the large number who took advantage of viewing them.

Messrs. Coleman Brothers catered, and were kept busy.

The students have good reason to be rightly elated at the success which attended the affair last evening, and many expressions of praise were heard concerning their efforts.

The gathering broke up about one o'clock.

The following was the program given—

Address of welcome—Chairman.
Chorus—Glee Club.
Reading—Miss K. Leary.
Cook's Drill—By seven boys.
Play—"Merchant of Venice."
Scarf Drill—By nine girls.
Violin Solo—Dr. Park.
Promenade.
Refreshments.
Lantern Slides—Mr. Keyes.

SATURDAY EVENING
In the Greene Music Building—Special attractions:—The Greene Quartette Party, Player Piano Selections—Sembrich, Tetrazzini, Scotti on the Victrola.

Mark Spencely Grateful

Mr. Mark Spencely desires to thank the citizens of Peterborough for their liberal and generous contribution toward the fund for the purchase of his artificial limb, and also he is thankful to the band boys and his comrades of the Salvation Army for the benefit concert which they held in his aid.

He also is very grateful to W. A. Edwards, of the Crystal Theatre, for his help in devoting the proceeds of an afternoon's business towards the fund.

REALIZED WELL ON FANCY WORK

The Ladies' Aid of Park street church held a successful sale of home-made articles of bakery, fancy-work, etc., yesterday and realized a goodly sum.

Rev. W. C. Riddiford, in the capacity of chairman, made a short address at a concert which was given in conjunction with the sale.

The following was the programme;
Instrumental—Miss Hazel Gillespie.
Solo—Miss Hill.
Ten minute address—Chairman.
Instrumental—Harold Follis.
Recitation—Miss Hill.
Instrumental—Miss Hazel Gillespie.
Recitation—Miss Hill.

R. J. Reid, a Kingston undertaker, fell under his team of horses, which were stalled in a snow bank, but escaped uninjured.

OBITUARY

JOSIAH HUNTER, SR.

The death occurred at Lakefield on Thursday afternoon at four o'clock, of Josiah Hunter, sr., after an illness of only a few days. He was in his 89th year.

The late Mr. Hunter was taken ill on Saturday last but was up and around on Tuesday. He was compelled to take to his bed again and passed away. He was a highly respected resident of Smith and had lived practically all his life at the homestead on the 6th concession of Smith. Eighteen years ago he moved to Lakefield but always took a great interest in the old home and up to a few days before his illness walked to the farm for a visit. His wife predeceased him three years ago.

Surviving are five sons, Messrs. George of Rochester, Lewis of Douro, William A. of this city, Sidney of Lakefield, and Josiah at the homestead. The only daughter is Miss E. J. Hunter, who resides at home.

The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Lakefield cemetery. Rev. Mr. Gregory of the Lakefield Baptist church, of which the deceased was a member, will conduct the service.

A. C. Pratt, M. P. P., addressed the Clifton Club, of Niagara Falls.

LOCAL CURLERS FINISHED 7 UP WITH TORONTO RINKS

Visitors Were Ahead in the Afternoon Games—The Rinks and Scores

Peterborough rinks finished seven up in the games with the five rinks from the Toronto Curling Club at the rink yesterday afternoon and evening. At the finish of the afternoon games the visitors were eight shots to the good, winning on three ices, with a sufficient margin to overcome the other two defeats.

In the evening there were two tie games. Skip Connal had an easy win from his opponent, finishing 14 shots to the good, and with another win by Skip Wightman, the locals were 15 up, thus giving them a win on both results by 7 shots.

The Toronto rinks were here under the leadership of A. J. Taylor. They travelled in a private coach, and returned home early this morning.

The rinks and scores were as follows—

The East City hockey team defeated the Northern Lights last night by a 1—0 score. The skymen were heavier but didn't have the speed.

The C.G.E. office and tool room sevens of the Mercantile League meet in what promises to be a warm struggle at the Brock street rink to-night from seven to eight o'clock.

The Grillers lost to Kingston in their return game with the Frontenacs, who were to the front at the finish with the count at 7—3. Half-score was 6—1. The local lineup was Goal, Patterson; point, McMartin; cover, Hefferman, rover, Giroux; centre, Quigley; wings, Elliott and Short.

Joe Quigley, who has been with the Oshawa intermediates for the season, was secured at the last moment. The game had previously been defaulted.

The pro game is a gone goose in Brantford, the management of the rink, demanding a deposit of $50 before each game.

Midland won in Whitby last night in the first of the home and home program 6—5. Preston won from Listowel by 10—1.

Nothing has been heard of the Port Hope and Belleville pro teams since late yesterday afternoon. A game was to have been played last night in Lindsay. Another freight is expected here this evening.

Listen to the wail from the Trenton Courier :—

Whitby outshone our boys. And certainly if they have been instructed by their instructor to save a goal by tripping and to suffer penalty if caught, they are the most apt scholars we have ever seen on the rink. For time and again—where one or two of our boys went down with the puck, invariably he was sent sprawling on the ice from a trip from behind. This is not hockey. It is most dangerous and the sooner the O.H.A. instruct their Referee to penalize severely for this offence the latter for this offence the better for the game and the safer for the players. What we would suggest would be the ordinary penalty for the first offence double for the second, double that for the third, and off for the game for the fourth.

A unique hockey match is being arranged between local teams. Instead of a puck, a football will be used and brooms in the place of hockey sticks. With these exceptions O.H.A. Rules to govern. No player will be allowed to practice previous to the match. Any player found doing so will be debarred from playing.

Why not add "Old Maie" to the program.

St. Michael's players are announcing their retirement. Laflamme is through at dentistry this year, and Richardson hopes to get into pharmacial work for himself elsewhere. Dissette and Matthews have had enough, and Manager Frank Dissette says it is somebody else's turn. He hasn't time to give to hockey henceforth.—Telegram.

THE RING

Al. Kaufman has sold his services for the next two years for $50,000. The big heavyweight, who now claims the heavyweight championship of the world, and who has hopes of soon possessing the title held by Jack Johnson, signed a contract to this effect recently in Baltimore with Barney Gerard, a theatrical promoter.

The contract is one of the biggest chance agreements ever entered into between a fighter and a manager. According to the terms all Kaufman's winnings in the prize ring and his services to a certain burlesque show are to be turned over to Gerard. The contract will result in one of the men amassing a fortune. Gerard is taking the bigger chance of the two, for whichever way the pugilistic map is altered, Al is assured of his $50,000. He evidently believes in the old adage—a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush—for should he by any chance win the undisputed heavyweight chances he would be one of the greatest drawing cards in the country and the contract would result in Gerard pulling down a fortune.

The exact chance, however, is not so great as the one that he will fail to capture Johnson's crown. In this case Kaufman will be the big winner, for $500 a week is a lot more than a loser could sign up for.

Up to last week Kaufman had a contract with Gerard for a six weeks' tour, but two weeks of which he had worked out. He received several telegrams from Bill Brady and Jack Gleason asking that he become their protege, and when Gerard heard of the offers he slipped in ahead of them with this contract.

SPORT TALK

The Berlin Telegraph pokes fun at the Brantford hockyists as follows—"That 'Buck' Irving's misfit aggregation misrepresenting the Telephone City, should never have been permitted to enter the Western Ontario Pro. League, is the general consensus of opinion throughout the Twin-City. They have won but one game out of nine played and the Brantford team therefore proves a poor drawing card. This was plainly in evidence on Monday evening, when the smallest house of the season greeted the Brantford septet. The team from Dikeville was trounced by the score of 9—2 although the locals might have added a few more just for the fun of it. However, what the game lacked in excitement it made up in the comical stunts performed by local players, who simply made monkeys of the Brantfordites. And our old friend 'Pete' Charlton, was the centre of attraction. Of course 'Pete' is always a hard worker and does his best to place his team in the running. But Pete's playing days should have ended long ago and his efforts to play hockey are funny in the extreme. Occasionally Charlton would make a fierce dash down the length of the rink and when in a position to shoot on goal he would be sent on his hinges, taking a header into the boards. Charlton would try to retaliate, but the younger and faster Dutchmen were just a little quick for him. And little Pete took it all good naturedly—sometimes. Mr. Sanford was also the victim of pranks and his 'get back at them' efforts were hilarious"

TEN YEARS OF PAIN THEN A QUICK CURE

Manitoba Man's Rheumatism Banished by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Telesphore Dupont in statement to the public Tells why he recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills for Kidney Diseases.

St. George, Man., Feb. 17.—(Special)—Completely cured of his Rheumatism from which he suffered for ten years, Telesphore Dupont, well known here, is once more added to the great and growing army of Canadians who have learned from their own experience that Rheumatism is caused by diseased Kidneys, and that the one sure cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Dupont's experience is briefly and strikingly given in a statement he has issued for publication. That statement is as follows:—

"I certify that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured my Rheumatism, from which I suffered for ten years. Thirteen boxes cured me. I am fifty-six years old and can do all my work now. I encourage all people who suffer with Rheumatism or Kidney Disease to use Dodd's Kidney Pills".

Dodd's Kidney Pills also cure Diabetes, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Bright's Disease, or any other trouble which is a Kidney disease or is caused by diseased kidneys.

DO YOU USE PILLS?

If In Doubt About the Right Pills to Use Read the Following Letter Carefully:

"I am one of those persons whose system requires aid," writes Mr. Young Gledhill, from Picton, "but it is so easily affected by reason of the great sensitiveness of the bowels that ordinary drastic pills inflict great injury to the delicate coating, and excite such persistent activity as to be with difficulty checked.

"I wish in the highest terms to express the great value of Dr. Hamilton's Pills in cases like mine, and I am sure also for elderly people and the very weak there is no pill like them.

"Speaking of my own experience with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I can say they have proved the most stimulating pills for the liver I have found. I have proved their tonic action upon digestion, and the same results have been secured by friends upon whom I have urged their use. The manufacturers are to be congratulated upon possessing so valuable a prescription, and the public should know that so valuable a remedy has been placed at their command."

No other pill for constipation, for liver, kidney, or stomach trouble, compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild and sure always to restore health. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston Ont.

THE TYPEWRITER IN 17TH CENTURY

Patent Taken Out in England for a Machine in 1714

Most persons will be surprised to learn that the typewriting machine is not, as they imagine, a distinctly modern invention. So long ago as 1714 a patent was taken out in England by Henry Mill for "a machine for impressing letters singly and progressively as in writing, whereby all writing may be engrossed in paper so exact as not to be distinguished from print."

His machine was, however, a clumsy one and practically useless. It was not until over a century later (1820) that anything more in this line was attempted. Then the first American typewriter, called a "typographer," was patented by W. A. Burt.

In 1823 a machine was produced in France having a separate key lever for each letter, and between the years 1840 and 1860 Sir Charles Whetstone invented several machines which are now preserved in the South Kensington museum, London.

In 1873 C. L. Sholes, an American after five or six years' work, succeeded in producing a machine sufficiently perfect to warrant extensive manufacture. He interested a firm of gun manufacturers in it, and in 1874 the first model of the modern typewriter was put upon the market.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

FIRST VISIT IN 25 YEARS

Mrs. Sidney Garrison, of Montgomery Creek, California, who has been the guest of her father, Mr. James Wilde, of town, for some time, returned to her home this week. Mrs. Garrison has been living in California for the past twenty-five years, and this was her first visit home during all those years.

The Women's W.A. of St. John's Church, held their meeting at Mrs. T. Cummings.

AN ACCIDENT

A serious accident to the C. P. R. train was narrowly averted near Tweed, early Friday morning. Just as the train came near the station, the rails split and the engine went down. Had this happened a minute sooner it must have meant disaster. The train arrived here about 4 hours late.

THEFTS OF WHISKEY

Packages of whiskey have been stolen from the freight cars in the yards here during the past few months. Two houses were searched by the C. P. R. authorities about 12 o'clock at night in order to find the booze. They found nothing out and the railway authorities are at sea as to the identity of the culprit or culprits. We understand that in nearly every instance, the stolen whiskey was shipped from Peterboro, to consignees east of that city. A detective has been detailed on the case, and interesting developments may be looked for.

Mr. Pat Shannon, the Campbellford hockey player who was seriously injured here a few weeks ago, left on Tuesday for his home. Mr. Shannon has fully recovered from the injury and states that he is through with hockey in future.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held at the home of Mrs. John Burnett on Thursday night of last week. The tea was a big success.

Curtiss Flies Over Sea.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 18.—Using one of his hydro-aeroplanes, Glenn Curtiss alighted yesterday on the water alongside the armored cruiser Pennsylvania and was hoisted on board. Soon afterwards the aeroplane was dropped back into the water and the aviator flew away to his hangar on North Island.

The test was made to show the Navy Department that an aeroplane equipped like that of Curtiss' does not need an especially constructed platform on a ship's deck to make it of practical use to the navy. The hydro-aeroplane was wheeled out of its hangar and he flew to the water alongside the cruiser. Within a few minutes Curtiss and his machine were on deck. After a delay of 15 minutes the machine and its pilot were lowered, the biplane arose gracefully from the water and without incident flew back to its hangar on North Island.

Will Watch Legislators.

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—Rod McKenzie, secretary of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, has been appointed a special delegate to visit Ottawa, where he will spend some time watching legislation on behalf of the farming interests in the West.

Members of the Grain Exchange here believe that the new tariff arrangements will have an important effect upon the western grain trade and in order so that it may be conserved for Canada, amendments to the present Grain and Inspection Acts are necessary. A committee has been appointed to study the situation and suggest changes in legislation.

Keep Plague Out of English Ports.

London, Feb. 18.—Despatches from St. Petersburg saying that the bubonic plague has invaded Europe and caused thirty deaths in the Russian province of Astrakhan, resulted yesterday in steps being taken for the inauguration of a campaign to protect English ports from the plague.

It is possible that within a short time a general quarantine against Russian shipping will be declared. This may ultimately result in all Russian vessels being forbidden to stop at English ports.

This would result in suffering as a large part of the wheat used in Great Britain comes from Russia.

LA GRIPPE RAVAGES

The Trouble Sweeping Over Canada is Epidemic.

Weakened and Broken Constitutions Left Behind——How to Regain New Health and Strength.

La Grippe is one of the most dangerous diseases that annually sweeps over Canada. It starts with a sneeze—a slight cold—and ends with a complication of troubles. It lays the strong man on his back; it tortures him with fever and chills, with headaches and backaches. Its victims are left low-spirited and depressed, and an easy prey to bronchitis, pneumonia, rheumatism, and often that most dreaded of all diseases—consumption. You can avoid la grippe entirely by keeping the blood rich and red by the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble takes as its victims those whose blood is in a poor condition, and its after-effects are more dangerous and more lasting than the trouble itself. For the after-effects of la grippe there is absolutely no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to make rich, red blood that drives disease from the system, and makes weak, despondent men and women bright, cheerful and strong. If you have suffered in any way from the epidemic of la grippe that has been sweeping over Canada, give this great health-restoring medicine a trial, and it will not disappoint you. Here is proof of the wonderful power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills over the after-effects of this disease. Mr. P. E. Paulin, collector of customs at Caraquet, N.B. says:—"A few winters ago I had a severe attack of la grippe, which completely broke me down. I had to take to my bed for several weeks, and although during that time I employed a doctor, I did not seem to recover from the trouble. I was left terribly weak, did not sleep well, had night sweats and little or no appetite. I was really a physical wreck. On a former occasion I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for general debility with such great success that I decided to try them. I sent for a half dozen boxes and began to take the Pills at once. When taking the second box I began to feel quite a change in my condition. I was able to walk about the house and my appetite was improving. From that on I gained strength every day, and before the six boxes were done I was able to return to the office and attend to my work. I have since enjoyed the best of health, and think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the best medicine for trouble of this kind."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not only promptly cure the serious after-effects of la grippe, but they make well and strong all persons suffering from any form of debility or general weakness. These Pills have no laxative or purgative action; their mission is to make new, rich, red blood, and thus fortify and strengthen every organ and every part of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE GOLDEN LION STORE — — PETERBOROUGH

A WARNING

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
"My trade of late is getting bad,
I'll try another ten-inch ad."
If such there be, go mark him well.
For him no bank account shall swell;
No angel watch the golden stair,
To welcome home a millionaire.
The man who never asks for trade
By local line or ad displayed,
Cares more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain.
Tread lightly, friends, let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound;
Here let him live in calm repose
Unsought except by men he owes,
And when he dies go plant him deep
That naught may break his dreamless sleep;
Wherein no clamor may dispel
The quiet that he loved so well;
And that the world may know its loss,
Place on his grave a wreath of moss;
And on a stone above, "Here lies
A chump who wouldn't advertise."

LECTURED AT A.Y.P.A. MEETING

"A Tour Across Canada" by H.M. Gilchrist

An illustrated lecture was delivered at the A. Y.P.A. meeting of St. Luke's church last evening on a tour across Canada, by H. M. Gilchrist, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. The slides were operated by Mr. Moore, president of the A.Y.P.A. All the important places of interest along the route from Quebec to Vancouver were interestingly described by Mr. Gilchrist, and the lecture was made very instructive.

There was a very fair attendance. The quartette of St. Luke's favored the gathering with a well rendered selection.

The Sunday Morning Bible Study Club will meet as usual at 9.30 Sunday morning and will study the story of the Triumphal Entry. This club is making progress through the Gospel of John, and there is a marked interest amongst the members in the lessons. If you are a young man it would pay you to get in touch with this class.

Mr. Thompson's class will meet in the afternoon at 3.30 and will continue in the study of Principles of Jesus.

INJURED EYE HAD TO BE REMOVED

Young Carpenter Underwent Serious Operation

After suffering great pain as the result of the injury to his eye received while employed at the Public Library this week, Thomas Epigrave underwent an operation and had it removed. Drs Frederick and Buchanan performed the operation after finding that it would be impossible to save the eye.

The unfortunate young man is a carpenter and sustained the injury while using a ratchet screw-driver, which slipped, breaking off the tip of it, which entered his eye. He is only 25 years of age and is a nephew of Finch Miller. He expects to be out of the hospital this week.

TO-DAY'S MARKET

Eggs Take a Jump

The market was livelier to-day than it has been for some time and a general air of business prevailed.

Produce was plentiful and there was no dearth of it in any line. Hay was well represented, also wood and vegetables.

Apples sold more by the peck than in bags, in fact no apples in bags were noticed. Russets were in most demand.

Potatoes were quite plentiful and looked well. Beef, pork and lamb as usual, flooded the outside market, the prices of which were about stationery. Eggs have risen a couple of cents, and there was a strong demand for them. Butter remains at 25c.

Fowl, mostly chickens, sold about the same as last week. A few turkeys were to be seen.

The standard prices to-day were:—

Eggs—27c.
Butter—25c.
Chickens—60c. a pair.
Turkeys—$2.75.
Lamb—12 to 13c.
Pork—12 to 13c.
Beef—8 to 9c.
Potatoes—75c. a bag.
Apples—40 and 50c. a peck.
Hay—$13 to $15.
Baled hay—$14.
Wood—$5.75.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

EXHIBITION AND SALE NEXT WEEK

Of Pictures, Arts and Crafts in Public Library Lecture Hall

The Women's Art Association is arranging for an exhibition in the lecture hall of the Public Library, of pictures, arts and crafts, which will be thrown open to the public on Monday afternoon. The exhibit and sale will open at two o'clock Monday, remain open afternoon and evening from 2 to 6 p.m. and 8 to 10 o'clock, continuously until Thursday.

The association is making extensive preparations for the occasion and all day, ladies of the society have been engaged in arranging the various exhibits in an attractive manner. The exhibits will include:—

Lace, torchon, Irish crochet.

Leather work pieces.

Jewelery—Silver, hand made.

Home-spuns, consisting of portieres, coverlets and dress materials and Roman stripe dress trimmings.

One of the features of the affair will be the presence of a perfect plaster cast of the original statue, presented to the Womens' Art Association by Miss K. Wallis, entitled, "Mercury, charmed with his own invention."

First-class music will be furnished during the evenings of the exhibition and the affair promises to be one of exceptional success.

All the pictures are for sale. Many beautiful paintings will be shown.

A FREAK CALF FROM BETHANY

Has Two Heads and Four Eyes

A freak calf, which was brought to the city yesterday from Bethany by Messrs. R. J. Reynolds and Jeff. Davis has two heads and four eyes. It was kept in the King George Hotel stables and was seen by many people. The owners intended having it stuffed but would not make arrangements with a taxidermist. They returned home with their curiosity last night. This is the second calf at Bethany to be blessed with two heads. A couple of years ago Lewis Staples, of that vicinity, was the owner of a full grown cow which had five legs.

TRAVERS IS BACK IN TORONTO JAIL; HUSTLED FROM KINGSTON

Prisoner is Rescued From Cells of Penitentiary in a Hurry Without Being Shaven.

Jail Governor Denies Anyone Had Access to the Prisoner to Influence or Threaten Him.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—Inspector of Detectives Duncan returned to the city Sunday morning with the much-moved Mr. Travers safely in tow, after the latter had been hurriedly taken to Kingston from Toronto Jail. Leaving Toronto Duncan had driven directly from the Kingston station to the penitentiary, where his man was turned over to him at 8.30 Saturday night. Travers is now again in the jail, where he was taken by Detective Armstrong, who met the train and relieved Inspector Duncan of his prisoner. Travers was given his breakfast before being taken to the Don Castle.

Adding to the present knowledge of the apparent haste and secrecy of the removal of Travers from the jail, while he was still giving evidence in the police court probe into the Farmers' Bank affair, comes his statement that when Deputy Sheriffs Brown and Severs arrived at the jail to take him to Kingston he vigorously protested that there must be some mistake and urged them, and Deputy Governor Wilson, who was present, to communicate with Inspector Duncan, Crown Attorney Corley, or at least to notify the sheriff that he was still required here as a witness, but despite the fact that more than an hour remained before the time for the leaving of his train, this was not done.

Immediately upon Inspector Duncan's arrival at the penitentiary Travers was turned over to him. He took him to the hotel and caught the train for Toronto at one o'clock yesterday morning. The train arrived in Toronto at 8.30 o'clock. Travers seemed cheerful and glad to be back. If, as is feared by many, his stay in the penitentiary, to which he has been sentenced for a term of six years, has broken his nerves, he did not show it on his arrival here, although he had spent a sleepless night sitting up in the train and looked weary. From remarks made by Travers and overheard in the train it is thought that he will now talk at least as freely as heretofore.

When Detective McKinney went to the jail shortly after eight o'clock on Saturday morning to take Travers to the City Hall to give evidence in the conspiracy charge against the provisional directors, J. R. Stratton, J. J. Warren and others, he was told that Travers had been taken away by Deputy Sheriffs John Brown and Severs, who came with an order of Sheriff Mowat to remove him to Kingston penitentiary to begin his term of six years in that institution. Detective McKinney immediately telephoned to Inspector Duncan, his principal. He was told to meet the train at the Don station and get the man, and Detective Guthrie was also rushed to that point.

Meanwhile Detectives Armstrong and Newton were hurried from headquarters to the Union Station to intercept Travers and his escort at the train, which left at eight o'clock. They arrived there just as the train was pulling out. They boarded the train and tried to recover the witness, but the deputy sheriffs would not give him up. The city officers were forced to jump from the train at Cherry street, as it did not stop at any place this side of Oshawa. Therefore the other two city men got no chance to interfere.

Inspector of Detectives Duncan was angry. He immediately notified Crown Attorney Corley and Magistrate Denison, and Assistant County Crown Attorney Monahan was also on the job at the City Hall, and several councils of war were held on the spot.

Inspector of Detectives Duncan issued a statement. He said that he had been informed of numerous efforts to close Travers mouth. These efforts originated in sources which the inspector either did not know or did not care to divulge. He declared that Travers had told him that he had been approached by a jail guard and others who had told him that the best thing he could do for himself was to keep his mouth shut.

He said that a guard had come to him while in the jail telling him that Inspector Duncan had been pulled off, Crown Attorney Corley had been pulled off, and that he was a fool to go on talking. Either this man or another had pointed out to him that he might easily antagonize those who could have it in their power to influence his release on parole, but that if he did not keep silent and went on giving information which might expose influential men, he not only would lose all chance of any parole, and be compelled to serve out his full time, but that he would be taken from the jail and further prosecuted and would get as much as twenty years in prison.

He was told, he said, that if this could not be done in the Police Court, owing to the fact that he had been given the protection of the court, it would be done by indictment before the grand jury.

Added to this, there was the rumor at the time of Travers' arrest, that it was planned to have Travers plead guilty, all the blame shouldered on him and thus have any further prosecutions balked. At this same time a rumor was current in several places that it was proposed to have Travers declared a lunatic and incarcerated in an asylum to prevent him from furnishing any further statement to the police and to discredit any facts in any statement already made.

"Travers declares to me that he never received a message while in the jail that he would be given twenty years' additional sentence if he would not keep silent about certain transactions of the Farmers' Bank. He never even told of receiving one through a guard of the jail. If I learned of such a proceeding I would immediately report the guard for suspension."

This was the statement of Rev. Dr. A. B. Chambers, governor of the jail, made last night.

KNOX SAYS RECIPROCITY IS INEVITABLE AS THE YEARS

May Not be This or Next Year, But the Closer Ties Are Coming.

Pittsburg, Feb. 20.—Secretary of State Knox, in an address at the Chamber of Commerce banquet here last night strongly advocated the passage of the Canadian reciprocity agreement, and deprecated the references that have been made to annexation. In part, Secretary Knox said:

"It is probably more true to-day than ever before that the sentiment and opinion in both countries is crystallized, so that the desires will lead to the most satisfactory relations between the two countries. Indeed, Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that the talk of the tendency as such a thing as this leading to the absorption of the Dominion of Canada is either very silly or very malicious. In the saner atmosphere and broader aspects of the situation, it is perfectly certain that if there should be a great world movement involving this continent, Canada and the United States would act in most perfect accord. Why should we not make an arrangement such as this? It is the march of progress. It is the inevitable. It may not be done to-day, this week, this year, or in this decade, but it is just as certain as the onward march of the Anglo-Saxon race.

UNIONISTS ARE WEAK IN HOUSE

No Good Debaters on the Front Bench.

Veto Measure Will Not be Fought Vigorously.

London, Feb. 20.—The main feature of the political situation is the apathy of the Opposition. The resistance to the Parliament bill will be strenuous, but there is no reasonable hope of prolonging the debate on the second reading beyond three days, nor of obstructing the passage of the measure through the committee stage for a longer period than ten days. The bill can be carried through the Commons early in May, without doubt, if the Government desires to take advantage of its new powers of naming the chairman of the committee. The lack of debating power on the Opposition side makes this an easy task without undue pressure of the guillotine.

The retention of the preamble may be regarded as a certainty and the introduction of the bill before the Lords before the coronation is also a foregone conclusion. The Lords cannot depend upon the King to extricate them from their critical position. They must fight their own battle, and they do not know how to meet the argument that the Parliament bill has received popular sanction and cannot be rejected.

The commonest quotation heard among the peers is the defiant exclamation of a belligerent duke: "Let five hundred puppets come. Four-fifths will be Tories within a year."

The most serious obstacle to the progress of the Ministerial plans is the condition of the Chancellor of the Exchequer's health. It has improved, but physicians have warned Mr. Lloyd-George that his voice must not be strained by persistent use, or he may be forced to retire from public life. The financial business is heavily in arrears, and the Chancellor alone can extricate the Treasury from the various complications and clear the ground for another instalment of the democratic politics outlined in the budget speech and for the introduction of disability pensions and a system of insurance against unemployment.

Otherwise, the Minister is in fine fighting form, and full of enthusiasm. Premier Asquith, by encouraging the rising men and distributing the labors of exposition and defence of the Liberal policies, has secured fresh supplies of debating power. Mr. Balfour has not brought forward any new debaters, and there is a dearth of ability in the front of the Opposition bench. The most serious complaint against the Unionist party organization is that the safe seats are taken by men who have money rather than talent, and that ambitious men of real ability are left to contest hopeless boroughs and are kept out of Parliament.

Reduced Salary by $10,000.

New York, Feb. 20.—A special cable from London to The Herald says: The salary of Dublin's lord mayor-elect, Mr. John J. Farrell, a news dealer, was cut by the corporation on Saturday from $18,000 to $8,000 a year. Mr. Farrell says he will close and lock the Mansion House, will give no entertainments and will live frugally in his modest suburban home.

The Fastest Ever.

London, Feb. 20.—The Duke of Westminster is having a 15-metre racing autoboat, the Brunhilde, built at the Saunders Co.'s yards in East Cowes, which he believes will surpass the world's record, with a speed of 43 miles an hour.

She will compete at the Monaco international motorboat meeting in April.

Misunderstanding Caused Collision.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 20.—Eight persons were seriously injured late on Saturday night when a passenger and freight train on the Charleroi division of the Pittsburg Railway Co. collided at Monongahela, Pa., near here. A misunderstanding of signals caused the accident.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

MR. STRATTON DENIES THEM

Stories and Rumors are Flatly Contradicted

Issues a Statement on the Farmers' Bank Case

The following statement has been made, prepared by Hon. J. R. Stratton, for publication in the Review:

"To clear the air, so far as Peterborough citizens are concerned, and dispose of many rumors, it is felt desirable that Mr. Stratton should make a statement in regard to his relation to the case of Mr. Travers and the Farmers' Bank, with which his name has been so prominently associated, owing to his connection in the capacity of President of the Trusts & Guarantee Company.

"In this connection Mr. Stratton makes the following statements:—

"In no manner, shape or form, direct or indirect, had I anything to do, nor did I assist in doing anything in any way in the promotion of the organisation of the Farmers' Bank."

"In no manner, shape or form, had I any conversation with any of the Provisional or subsequent Directors of the Farmers' Bank."

"I never directly or indirectly, at any time, from the commencement of the organization proceedings of the Farmers' Bank until the present moment, had any communication, direct or indirect, verbal or in writing, with the Hon. Mr. Fielding, Finance Minister, or with any member of the Dominion Government, or with any official or clerk of the Finance Department, or any other Department in the matter of the obtaining of a license for the Farmers' Bank."

"I wish to most emphatically declare that the insinuations that are being circulated to the effect that I received a sum of money of any kind or amount, or anything equivalent to a sum of money, in connection with the organization of the Farmers' Bank are absolutely false, absolutely untrue and absolutely unfounded."

Mr. Stratton adds; "I desire these statements to be understood as the absolute truth in the widest possible sense, without equivocation or reservation of any kind whatever; and no matter what gossip or statements may be made to the contrary by anybody, they are untrue and as incapable of proof as the statements I make to the contrary are incapable of disproof. No one should know this better than Mr. Travers, the General Manager of the Farmers' Bank, who, on Friday in answer to the pointed questions by Crown Attorney Corley, "had he paid any money to Mr. Stratton in connection with the promotion of the Farmers' Bank." swore that he had not done so, and the books of the bank bear out the correctness of Mr. Travers' evidence on this point."

"The only direct or indirect connection that Mr. Stratton can be said to have had with the organization of the Farmers' Bank was the purely technical connection arising from the circumstance of his being President of the Trusts & Guarantee Company, which Company made Mr. Travers a loan in the regular way of business and through the usual officers of the Company, whose duty it is to act in such matters."

HUGHES CHARLES AFFAIR.

"I understand that Mr. Hughes Charles wrote a letter about five years ago that at a Sunday afternoon five o'clock tea at Mr. McAllister's, Peterborough, he had a conversation with me, and that he understood from this conversation that I had advanced $80,000 to the Farmers' Bank at the time of its organization, upon which I received a substantial commission; and I am informed that Mr. Charles' evidence is wanted in court in regard to the statements contained in the letter. I am entirely at a loss to understand what conversation could have taken place that would lead Mr. Charles to make such statements as the letter is said to contain; I feel this from the double fact that no such transaction as the commission referred to took place, as I had done nothing to earn such a commission, and it would seem to me to be folly to thus boast of an improper advantage I had not received. Another reason why Mr. Charles was manifestly mistaken was because the loan in question was not made by Mr. Stratton, but by the Trusts Company officers, and the Company itself received the full advantage for whatever commission was paid."

"This whole matter is not giving me very much worry further than the fact that the wild and unbridled rumors given rise to in certain quarters, may affect my relations with the varied interests with which I am identified."

THE CHARLES CASE.

Mail and Empire—Now that they have Travers again safely in their hands, Inspector Duncan and Crown Attorney Corley are more than ever determined to probe to the bottom the conspiracy alleged to have surrounded the incorporation and financing of the Farmers' Bank. A hearing of the case has been set for 11 o'clock to-morrow morning. Besides concluding Travers' evidence, Mr. Corley hopes to have Mr. D. Hughes Charles, of Montreal, in the witness box. Mr. Charles who was subpoenaed to appear on Saturday morning but did not arrive, is now a Montreal stock broker, but was manager of the Bank of Commerce at Peterborough at the time the loan of $100,000, to complete the Government deposit for the Farmers Bank, was negotiated from the Trusts and Guarantee Company, on security of shareholders' notes. The evidence he can give, though second-hand is believed to be of the highest importance in connection with the conspiracy charges. It is stated that his alleged reason for not coming to Toronto in answer to the subpoena was that the document was unsigned and not accompanied by the statutory fee. Crown Attorney Corley has now issued a new subpoena for Mr. Charles and if he again fails to respond a warrant will be authorised by Magistrate Denison.

Smallpox at Lachine.

Montreal, Feb. 20.—Smallpox has broken out in the convent of St. Ann at Lachine, a suburb of Montreal. There are 275 pupils in the place, mostly from the United States and Western Canada. Rumor in the town placed the number of cases at seven or eight, but Dr. Valois, medical health officer, of Lachine, states that there is only one case of smallpox and three of chickenpox. A strict quarantine has been placed on the convent.

TROOPS ARE NOW ENTERING TIBET

Pekin, Feb. 20.—The viceroy of Sze Chuan Province, reported to-day that Thibet had been invaded by both British and Russian military expeditions.

Sermon Was Prophetic.

Montreal, Feb. 20.—"When I saw Him I fell at His feet as one dead," from Revelations I., 17, was the text chosen by Rev. Dr. Mowatt, of Erskine Church for his sermon yesterday morning, the subject being "A Vision of Christ."

The choir was singing the introductory hymn to the sermon when members of the congregation noticed that their pastor was in distress. Willing arms bore him to the vestry, where he passed away immediately without recovering consciousness. Dr. Mowatt was 72 years of age, and had been in ill-health for some months. Two months ago he handed in his resignation, but was filling the pulpit pending the appointment of his successor. He came to Montreal from St. John, N.B., in 1890. Last night, Rev. Dr Scott, who was assisting at the service in the morning, delivered the sermon Dr. Mowatt was to have preached to a tearful congregation.

A Tragic Sequel.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 20.—There is a tragic sequel to the conviction of the Count O'Brien de Lassy for the murder of Count Vassilli Bouturlin, for which crime he was sentenced to servitude for life. His wife, who was the sister of Count Vassilli, and the daughter of Gen. Bouturlin, has become insane.

Immediately after the verdict Countess de Lassy announced her intention of going to Siberia with her husband. Then she disappeared. She was recognized yesterday in a tram car by a lawyer engaged in the case. He detained her, and with the help of the police, took her to Gen. Bouturlin. Later an examination by physicians disclosed that she had lost her mind.

RESCUED BOYS FROM ICE FLOES

Quick Witted Youth Saves Lives of Toronto Youngsters.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—The heroism of a quick-witted young man named Claveland prevented a double tragedy about one o'clock yesterday afternoon at Balmy Beach. Two young lads who had come up from Kew Beach were playing out on the ice off the Beach Club house, when a section broke off and floated out into the lake, bearing the two boys steadily away from shore.

Before Sherwood, the steward of the club house, could bring out a boat four young men started over the ice hummocks, bearing a canoe. Leaving the hummocks behind they got down on the dangerous pack ice and made their perilous way to the open water. At every step the ice was cracking beneath their feet, and at any moment they might have been precipitated into the icy water, but they heroically pushed on. By the time the open water was reached the floating floe, with its human freight, had drifted almost a half mile from the shore.

Leaving his three companions, Bert Cleveland, a young lad living at the corner of Birch and Lake Front, set out in the canoe to thread the maze of floating ice floes to their rescue. It was perilous work. Nowhere was there an open channel, and the heavy chunks of ice were battering the frail canoe from every side, but he heroically held to his task and brought them back in safety.

The names of the foolhardy boys were not ascertained.

Immediate Business Must Precede the McCall Bill.

Extra Session Will be Called and the Fight Continued.

Washington, Feb. 20.—An extra session of Congress looms very large and probable, unless President Taft and the friends of the Canadian reciprocity agreement are able to bring more than ordinary pressure to bear upon the Senate and avert the expenditure of any time whatever by the opponents of the agreement, or friends either, for that matter—it is difficult to see how the Senate can reach a vote on the subject before adjournment in two weeks time.

Ahead of the Canadian agreement for consideration by the Senate, in addition to ten general appropriation bills, are measures affecting the following subjects: Popular election of Senators; Senator Lorimer case; permanent tariff board; general age pensions; Congressional apportionment; fortification of Panama Canal.

Not one of these measures can be sidetracked without a contest. Back of each is a group of determined Senators insisting that a vote shall be taken before adjournment. Some of the measures must be left unpassed or the Canadian agreement will die. There is not time enough left for all.

So far as can be learned no Senator who has talked with President Taft has been commissioned to announce positively whether there will be an extra session in the event the Senate fails to vote on the Canadian agreement. The general opinion now seems to be that there will be an extra session, and the only Senators who are making preparations to go home after March 4 are those whose service expires on that date.

The retirement of these Senators, a number of whom have played important roles during the consideration of many tariff measures, will make quite a change, also in the political complexion of the Senate. All the states which are now in legislative deadlock over Senators to fill the vacancies at the end of the present session, the Senate, if called together to consider the Canadian agreement, will be composed of 50 Republicans and [illegible] Democrats.

The President believes that the Senate, as it will be constituted after March 4, would pass the bill.

The Senate committee on finance met Saturday and decided to give hearings on the McCall bill on Monday and Tuesday. On Wednesday the bill will be considered in executive session, and the concensus of opinion is that it will be reported to the Senate not later than Thursday.

There is no enthusiastic advocate for the McCall bill on the Republican side of the chamber. Some Democrat may come forward as its champion, but his efforts probably would prove ineffective.

Senator Makes Amendment.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Senator Jones of Washington Saturday presented an amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill in the form of a substitute. The substitute would provide for the levying of such tariffs as are demanded by the necessary expenditures of the Government. While introduced "by request," Mr. Jones indicated that he was in favor of the proposition for the reason that the amendment would take the tariff out of politics.

Under the plan suggested, the Secretary of the Treasury at the close of the present fiscal year shall make an estimate of the amount of revenue "that should be raised from customs duties for the following fiscal year in order to meet the expenditures for that year and any deficiency of the previous year."

The Secretary also is directed to estimate the probable value of imports of articles on the dutiable list and determine what percentage the estimated revenues to be raised bears to the estimated value of the dutiable imports. It is further provided that there shall be collected for such year customs duties on all dutiable imports equal to such percentage of the value of same.

BOY NEEDED LOOKING AFTER

New York, February 18.—"It seems to me that boy needs looking after," said Anthony J. Drexel, sr., yesterday, as he glanced at the headlines of a morning paper recording that his son, Anthony, Jr., had been knocked out in the third round by the Hon. "Bobby" Beresford.

Mr. Drexel, sr., arrived here yesterday on the Mauretania.

"The boy ought to have known better," he went on, running down the column, "than to take on Bobby Beresford. That man's one of the best amateur boxers in the British Army. Anthony Drexel Riddle might have given him a little more action."

Gas Distended His Stomach

Caused Palpitation, and Prevented Sleep—When Health Was Gone, Cure Followed Use of "Nerviline."

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline. 50c per bottle, trial size 25c, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

NERVILINE CURES ALL PAIN

The Daily Review

MONDAY, FEB. 20, 1911.

THE TRAVERS CASE

Sheriff Mowat's explanation as to why he took Travers to his Kingston cell so suddenly, in the midst of such sensational evidence, are painfully inadequate and evasive.

Sheriff Mowat says that he did not know what everyone else seems to have known; that Travers was giving highly important testimony, and that the court was not through with his evidence. Such obtuseness on the part of an officer of the law is most curious. What sort of a hibernator is Sheriff Mowat?

The snatching of this important witness from the hands of the authorities at the very climax of his revelations was an unheard of event in the annals of Canadian justice, and common sense refuses to be satisfied with the sheriff's explanations. This extraordinary procedure can have only one result, and that is the creating of strong suspicions by the general public that powerful influences are at work to balk the administration of justice.

If there is hidden pressure being exerted in the case, to save anyone, the demand of the public is for the unmasking of that hidden pressure. Who is exerting it—supposing it to be existent—and how are they exerting it?

It is important that the good name of the Canadian law, and that of all its officials be kept from even vague suspicion of collusion with interested parties. The police and Crown authorities in Toronto are apparently working their hardest to get at the actual facts of this most difficult case. Inspector Duncan asserts that the police have had to fight their way against strong efforts to frustrate them at every turn. If this is so, it should be the duty of every official of the law—Inspector Mowat included—to assist to the fullest extent, the investigation. The law is no rich man's friend. The poor and the rich are alike entitled to strict justice, and in this case, the higher up the investigation goes the better for the sound morals of the community.

It was asserted on the witness stand that Liberal Whip Calvert assisted in getting the Farmers' Bank charter from the Finance Department. It has been established that the department officials knew that the bank was $80,000 short of its required capital for deposit, and the public mind must be satisfied much more fully as to the political aspect of the case. That there was some political aspect to the case, in its relation to the Ottawa action in granting the charter, is indicated by the introduction of the Liberal whip to exert influence. The public is entitled to more information about the Ottawa end of the deal and Mr. Fielding should most certainly be called into the box to tell what he knows. If it is proven that the government officials were in collusion with those getting the charter, the indignation of the citizens, and particularly the farmers, should be strong enough to turn out the government, and we wouldn't be surprised to see this as the end of the whole rotten affair.

HUSBAND HUNTING

One hundred young women from the British Isles went through Montreal and Toronto a couple of days ago, on their way west, in search of Canadian husbands. We also have a dispatch, in the last day or two, from Berlin saying that German girls are going to compete with the British for Canadian husbands, as they found it exceedingly difficult for respectable girls to get married, on account of the high price of meat. In Germany they have a colossal surplus of girls, who naturally view this condition with alarm, as polygamy is not permitted.

This great cry of the feminine heart for a man is becoming more serious. It used to be a joke, but the fact is evident (seriously) that many girls who would make good wives and mothers, are being condemned to spinsterhood, to an incomplete life, through the fact that they outnumber the men very much. In the Canadian west, a pioneering country, conditions are reversed. There are many more young men, bachelors, who would open their arms to a suitable help-mate, who wait eagerly for the incoming trains, to see what comes in the line of feminine attraction. There is one place in the west, a town of 1500, where there are half a dozen women, all married. It is no wonder that the girls, dissatisfied with the conditions that condemn them to old maidship, should throw down the gauntlet to fortune, and seek husbands where they are plentiful.

But let us not deceive ourselves about the fact that in going west, in becoming the wives of the western farmers, they are for the sake of husbands depriving themselves of many other comforts of civilization. Many a woman has heroically faded away a deserted flower "born to blush unseen," on a western homestead, seeing no friends, having few of the joys of life, but most of its hardships. This business of marrying as these new-come girls are intending to do, on practically first sight, is wrong, and the results are often unhappy.

Just as it is often worse than misery to be unhappily mated, so these haphazard marriages, usually supposed to end in the couple "living happily forever after," often wreck many promising lives. This is a condition which it is impossible to change, however. The way of a maid with a man is beyond comprehension, and if these husband-hunting maidens are prepared to risk their all on getting the right man, their courage is to be admired. It is a good thing for the west, to get a goodly number of marriageable girls on the spot. As it is now, a young man going west hasn't much chance of getting his heart's desire, unless he leaves her in the east, to follow when the nest is made.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Social note—Mr. W. R. Travers, of Toronto, paid a flying visit to the Portsmouth institution over the week-end.

A Montreal financial firm has lost a sale of $250000 of Canadian securities to a Glasgow firm. "Deal off account reciprocity," is the laconic message. The telegram will be framed for hanging in Mr. Fielding's private office.

Inspector Duncan says that there are a lot more startling revelations to come in the Farmers' Bank case. Where will the rottenness of Toronto high finance end? Is there reason to suppose that more of this juggling goes on with reference to other financial institutions?

Representative Bennett says his annexation motion is heartily concurred in (privately of course) by all the public men of the United States. But you couldn't convince some Canadians of that. They are able to see into the inner recesses of the mind, and know, beyond a doubt, that Americans entertain no such ideas.

In his sermon last night Rev. Mr. Trumpour is reported to have stated that he favored pool-rooms operated by the church. Pool is not in itself a harmful game, but neither is card-playing, yet both have done vast harm. We think the introduction of church pool would not elevate the young men who play it, but would distinctly lower the tone of the young men who don't.

A New Phase.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The Long Sault dam proposition has assumed a new phase, which will be referred to in the Commons to-day by Mr. Borden. Lieut.-Governor Dix of New York State, has written Hon. W. P. Frye, chairman of the United States committee on commerce, stating that in his opinion the pending bill fails to cover properly the interests of navigation, and suggesting that before final action is taken by Congress there should be a survey of the channel and approval obtained from the Secretary of War and the Dominion.

Will Investigate Plague.

London, Feb. 20.—Dr. Reginald Farrar, medical inspector of the local Government Board, who will start on Monday for Harbin to join the international plague commission, which is to advise China as to the best means of stemming the outbreak of the plague, thinks there is little danger of the disease spreading into western Europe.

Dr. Farrar was selected as the British representative in this mission, because of his wide experience with the plague in India. He points out that the period of incubation is so brief and deaths follow so quickly, the danger of the disease of being carried long distances over the Siberian railway is materially less. The possibility of the epidemic getting a foothold in Great Britain, the physician declares to be negligible.

England has not declared a quarantine against Russia, but since the outbreak in Manchuria the usual precautions in the matter of examining the ships arriving from that quarter have been taken, resulting in the detection of two or three cases.

Cargo on Fire.

Newport News, Va., Feb. 20.—The steamship Sloterdijk of the Holland-American line reached this port yesterday from Rotterdam with the cargo in her forward hold on fire. Tug and fire engines were called and after streams had been played upon the burning cargo for hours, the flames were extinguished at 4.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The fire was discovered at one o'clock yesterday morning, though it might have been burning a long while before its discovery, as the hatches were tightly closed. The damage to the cargo has not been ascertained.

Blaze in C.P.R. Shops.

North Bay, Feb. 20.—Fire broke out at midnight Saturday in the C.P.R. car repair shops here, doing damage to the extent of $1,000. The town and company's fire brigades, after hard work, succeeded in preventing the spread of the flames to other branches of the company's works.

Ald. John McCallum, a member of the C.P.R. fire department, while working at the fire, fell and broke his leg.

Thirteen Firemen Overcome.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Thirteen firemen were overcome by smoke in a fire in the Union Stock Yards on Saturday. While the fire itself was confined to the fourth floor of the building, fear that the blaze would be a repetition of the fire a month ago, in which 24 firemen met their death, caused the battalion chief to send in a general alarm and calls for special apparatus. The loss is $15,000.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 18.—The weakness in America yesterday and the freer offers of American winter wheat caused some realizing here, and values were off ¼d to ⅜d. The general undertone was steady, with offers light, and, following opening, market firmed under fairly good buying. Support was induced by the expectations of lighter world's shipments on Monday, fewer Plate offers, firmer Australian offers, and expectations of a large decrease in local stock here on Monday. The continent was a fair buyer of cargoes arriving. At the close the market was steady, ⅛d to ⅜d lower than yesterday, with the principal pressure in July.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Confronted by assertions that the quarantine against bubonic plague might put a stop to shipments from Russia, the wheat market today took an upward turn. Prices were a shade to ⅛c higher than twenty-four hours' previous. The outcome in corn was a net advance of ⅛c, and for oats a gain of ⅛c to ¼c. Final changes left hog products within 2½c either way from last night's figures.

New C.N.R. Route.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—It is now rumored that the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway's line from Niagara to Ottawa will pass through Toronto north of the C.P.R. line.

The survey, it is said, leaves the right of way of the Niagara power line, west of the power house on Avenue road, extends eastward between the C.P.R. line and McPherson avenue, and swings northwesterly across the latter towards Cottingham street to a fine station, which it is said will be built on the south of that thoroughfare and a short distance west of Yonge street. It is stated that the C.N.R. through the Scarboro Securities Co. have bought all the land south of McPherson avenue, west of Avenue road and south of Cottingham street, east of Avenue road.

Beat Her to Death.

Montreal, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Thomas Waterhouse, whose husband beat her over the head with a baseball bat on Wednesday night because he said she was always belittling the children by his first wife, died in the general hospital on Saturday at noon, without regaining consciousness. After beating his wife, Waterhouse walked around to the police station and notified the police of what he had done, and expressed the opinion that he had made a good job of it. The police are of the opinion that he is mentally deranged. The couple came out from England about ten years ago.

Out-and-Out Free Trade.

Chatham, Feb. 20.—Dr. M. Clark, M.P., and Dr. Neely, M.P., addressed the Kent Liberals yesterday on reciprocity. Dr. Clark expressed himself an out-and-out free trader, and declared that the Opposition press was being paid for its editorials against reciprocity by the C. P. R. and the manufacturers.

Under free trade, he said, wages would increase.

They Want Our Lumber.

Boston, Feb. 20.—The Massachusetts Retail Lumber Dealers' Association placed itself on record Saturday as in favor of a Canadian reciprocity agreement. Four hundred members passed resolutions which, in part, declare: "We heartily approve of anything and everything that will tend to increase friendly and commercial relations with Canada."

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"He left this lamp burning in order to make people believe that he was at work. There is no sign of a struggle of any sort, and in the sand I find the traces of the footprints of only Rance and Darzac, who came to this room during the storm last night and have brought on their feet a little earth from the Court of the Bold and also of the claylike soil of the outer court. There is no footprint which could be Old Bob's. Old Bob reached here before and perhaps went out while the tempest was raging, but in any case he has not come in since."

Like a flash an idea pierced through my brain. I rushed through the court till I came to the oubliette. I discovered that the iron bars were still fast. If any one had fled by that way or had fallen into the shaft the bars would have been opened. I hurried back.

"Rouletabille! There is no way that Old Bob could have got out except in the sack!"

My friend was not listening, and I was surprised to see him deeply engrossed in a task of which I found it impossible to guess the meaning. He was making drawings with a rule, a square, a measure and a compass, seated in the geologist's easy chair, with Darzac's drawing board before him. He was quietly making a plan.

He had pricked the paper with one of the points of his compass while the other point traced the circle which might represent the Tower of the Bold as we could see it in the design of M. Darzac. Then, dipping his brush into a tiny dish half full of the red paint which M. Darzac had been using, he carefully spread the paint over the entire space occupied by the circle. In doing this he was extremely particular, giving the greatest attention to seeing that the paint was of the same thickness at every point. His face took on a look like that of a maniac. Then he turned toward me so quickly that he upset the great easy chair in which he had been seated.

"Sainclair! Sainclair! Look at the red paint! Look at the red paint!"

I leaned over the drawing, terrified by his savage tone.

"The red paint, the red paint!" he kept groaning, his eyes staring in his head as though he were witnessing some frightful spectacle.

"But what—what is it?" I stammered.

"'What is it?' My God, man, can't you see? Don't you know that that is blood?"

No, I did not know it—indeed, I was quite sure that it wasn't blood. It was merely red paint. But I took care not to contradict Rouletabille. I feigned to be interested in this idea of blood.

"Whose blood?" I inquired. "Do you think that it can be Larsan's?"

"Oh, oh, oh! Larsan's blood? Who knows anything about Larsan's blood? Who has ever seen the color of it? To see that, it would be necessary to open my own veins, Sainclair. That's the only way. My father would not let his blood be spilled like that."

He was speaking again with that strange, desperate pride of his father.

"When my father wears a wig it will fit. My father would not let his blood be spilled like that."

He spoke again:

"My poor mother did not deserve this. I did not deserve it." A tear ran down his cheek and fell into the little dish of paint.

"Ah!" he cried. "It isn't necessary to fill it any fuller." And he picked up the tiny cup with infinite care and carried it to the cabinet.

"Let us go! Let us go!" he said drearily at last. "The time is come, Sainclair. No matter what happens, we can never turn back now. The Lady in Black must tell us everything—everything about the man who is in that sack."

He knocked at the door of the square tower. I asked him whether he did not wish me to leave him alone with his mother. But, to my great surprise, he begged me not to abandon him "for anything in the world—so that the circle should not be closed." And he added mournfully, "Perhaps it may never be!"

The door of the tower again was opened, and we saw Bernier's face appear.

"What do you want? What are you doing here again?" he demanded. "Speak low. Madame is in Old Bob's sitting room, and the old man has not come in yet."

Rouletabille pushed the door farther open.

We were in the vestibule of the tower.

"What is madame doing in Old Bob's sitting room?" asked the reporter in a low voice.

"She is waiting for Darzac. She dare not re-enter the room until he comes, nor I either."

"Well, go back into your lodge, Bernier."

He opened the door of Old Bob's salon, and we saw the form of the Lady in Black. She never moved at our entrance, but her lips opened, and a voice that I should never have recognized as hers murmured:

"Why are you come? I saw you crossing the court. You have been there all night. You know all. What do you want now?"

She added in deep misery:

"You swore to me that you would seek to know nothing."

Rouletabille took her hand.

"Come, mother, dearest," he said tenderly.

She did not resist in the least. But when he led her to the door of the fatal chamber she recoiled. "Not there!" she moaned.

Rouletabille tried the door. It was locked. He called Bernier, who opened the door and then hurried away.

Once the door was opened we looked into the room. What a spectacle we beheld! The chamber was in the most frightful disorder, and the crimson dawn which entered through the vast embrasures rendered the disorder still more sinister. What an illumination for a chamber of horrors! Blood was upon the walls and upon the floor and upon the furniture—the blood of the rising sun and the blood of him whom Toby had carried off in the sack, no one knew whither, in the potato bag! The tables, the chairs, the sofas, were all overturned. The curtains of the bed to which the man in his death agony had tried desperately to cling were half torn down, and one could distinguish upon one of them the mark of a bloody hand.

Mme. Darzac murmured:

"We are delivered!"

Rouletabille had fallen upon his knees at her side.

Then she told us the story. She looked at the closed door. She looked at the overturned furniture and the blood spattered walls and floor and narrated the details of the frightful scene. She told us that as soon as Darzac had entered his room he had drawn the bolt and had walked to the little table in the center of the room. The apartment was lighted only by a wax candle.

The silence of the room was suddenly broken by a loud crash like that of a piece of furniture. The crash came from the little panel, and then all was silent. Darzac made a movement toward the panel which was situated at the back of the room on the right hand side. He was nailed to the spot where he stood by a second crash louder than the first, and this time it seemed to her that she could see the panel move. But at that very moment the panel swung open before them. A shadowy form issued from the panel. Uttering a cry of rage, Darzac rushed upon the figure.

"And that shadow—that shadow had a face that you could see?" interrupted Rouletabille. "Mamma, why did you not see the face? You have killed the shadow, but how do we know that it was Larsan if you did not see his face? Perhaps you have not even killed Larsan's shadow?"

"Oh, yes," she replied almost listlessly. "He is dead."

Rouletabille took the Lady in Black into his arms, carried her tenderly to her room and said to her: "Mamma, you must leave me now. I have work to do—for you, for Darzac and for myself."

"Don't leave me until Robert comes back!" she cried. Some one knocked at the door of the corridor. Rouletabille asked who was there, and the voice of Darzac answered.

The man who entered looked like a corpse. Never was human face so pallid, so bloodless, so devoid of all semblance of life.

He fell into the chair from which Rouletabille had just raised the Lady in Black. He looked up at her.

"Your wish is realized," he said. "It is where you wished it to be."

"Did you see his face?" questioned Rouletabille excitedly.

"No," answered Darzac wearily. "I have not seen it. Did you think that I was going to open the sack?"

I thought that Rouletabille would have shown discomfiture at this answer; but, on the contrary, he turned to Darzac and said:

"Ah, you did not see his face. That's very good, indeed. The important thing now is that we should close the circle. Wait a moment."

And almost joyously he threw himself down on all fours and crawled around among the furniture and under the bed.

Suddenly he rose to his feet, holding in his hand a revolver which he had found under the panel.

"You have found his revolver!" cried Darzac. "He did not have time to use it."

As he spoke Darzac took from his pocket his own revolver, which had saved his life, and held it out to the young man.

"This is a good weapon," he said.

Rouletabille examined it closely. Then he compared the pistol with that which had fallen from the hand of the assassin. The latter bore the mark of a London gunsmith. It was new, every barrel was filled, and Rouletabille declared that it had never been fired.

"Larsan only avails himself of firearms in the last extremity," said the young man. "He hates noise of any kind. He intended merely to frighten you with it or he would have fired immediately."

And Rouletabille returned M. Darzac's revolver and put Larsan's in his pocket.

Rouletabille made a few steps through the room and said:

"Where is the body?"

Darzac replied:

"Ask my wife. I want to forget all about it. I know nothing more about this horrible thing. No one save Mme. Darzac knows where the body is. She may tell you if she likes."

"I have forgotten, too," said Mathilde. "I was obliged to do so."

"Nevertheless," insisted Rouletabille, shaking his head, "you must tell me. You said that he was in his agony. Are you sure that he is dead now?"

"I am perfectly sure," replied Darzac simply.

"Oh, it is finished! Is it not entirely ended?" pleaded Mathilde. She arose and walked to the window. See, there is the sun! This horrible night is dead—dead forever! Everything is over!"

Poor Lady in Black! The yearnings of her soul revealed themselves in her words, "It is finished!" And the fact, as she believed it, made her forget all the horror of the scene which had passed in this room. Larsan no more! Larsan buried—buried in the potato sack!

And we all started up in affright when the Lady in Black began to laugh—the frantic laugh of a mad woman! She ceased as suddenly as she had begun, and a horrible stillness followed. We dared look neither at her nor at each other. She was the first to speak.

To be continued.

Nearly eight feet of snow have fallen in Rossland this winter.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Midgie Station, N. B.—One can hardly believe this as it is not natural, but it was my case. For ten months I suffered from suppression. I had different doctors, tried different medicines, but none helped me. My friends told me I would go into a decline. One day a lady friend told me what your medicine had done for her, so I wrote you for advice and received your reply with pleasure.

I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and at the second bottle showed improvement. Now I am regular and never was so well in my life, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's medicine.

Please publish my letter for the benefit of others.—MRS. JOSIAH W. HICKS, Midgie Station, N. B.

Indian Head, Sask.—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is indeed a boon to women who suffer from female ills. My health is better now than it has been in my five years of married life and I thank you for the good your advice and medicine have done me. I had spent hundreds of dollars on doctors without receiving any benefit.—MRS. FRANK COOPER, Box 448, Indian Head, Saskatchewan.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Change in Directorate.

Kingston, Feb. 20.—At the annual meeting of The British Whig Publishing Co., held Saturday afternoon, owing to the death of E. J. B. Pense, the late president, changes in the directorate were made. J. G. Elliott was elected president and L. A. Gould, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Elliott, who has been over thirty years in The Whig office, will continue as managing editor, and Mr. Gould, for twelve years associated with the company, will continue as business manager.

Love's Young Dream.

Windsor, Feb. 20.—Harry Pembetter, aged 13, and Esther Kaechal, aged 14, of Wharton, Ohio, presented a properly signed marriage license to Rev. S. J. Allen, a Methodist clergyman Saturday night, and were married. The pair appeared the proper age, and Mr. Allen had no hesitancy in marrying them. To the license issuer, Mrs. Davidson, they gave their ages as 17 and 19.

Their parents arrived here Sunday, looking for them.

Rector Is Upheld.

London, Feb. 20.—It is believed that the last has been heard of the efforts of a portion of St. John the Evangelist Church to secure the resignation of the rector, Rev. T. W. Hill, because of his action in dismissing his assistant, Prof. C. E. Jenkins.

Saturday afternoon a delegation of those desiring to oust Mr. Hill waited on Bishop William, and while none of those present would discuss what took place, it is claimed that his lordship took a strong hand in favor of the retention of the rector, holding that he acted entirely within the canons of the Anglican Church.

No Interference With Engineer.

Vancouver, Feb. 20.—The Vancouver Council yesterday decided to engage F. L. Fellowes, at present city engineer of Westmount, a suburb of Montreal, the agreement to cover a term of five years from May 1, 1911, with a guarantee of certain conditions and an annual salary of $8,000. The agreement stipulates that the supervising engineer shall have full control of the works department with power to engage and dismiss all members of his staff, who are not to be interfered with in any manner by the aldermen.

The new $75,000 convent building in Kamloops, B.C., is about completed.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

After Cocaine Dealers.

Montreal, Feb. 18.—For three months John Foley, cocaine vendor, has led Constables Daoust and Martin a merry chase through the red light district, but they caught him Thursday night with the drug on him and he was yesterday morning fined $25 or ninety days. Since July last, Constables Daoust and Martin, aided latterly by Constable Marsolais, have arrested 165 cocaine vendors. Of these cases 125 appeared in the recorder's court, convictions being obtained in every case, some times on double charges. Over $300 worth of the drug has during this period been seized and analysed.

Off the Indian List.

Washington, Feb. 18.—President Taft has repealed those portions of treaties made with the Indian tribes of Minnesota half a century ago prohibiting all traffic in intoxicating liquors in the Indian country. He also sent to Congress a special message urging similar action by that body in those treaties, the provisions of which he is now empowered to repeal or modify.

Large white settlements have been made and great cities like St. Paul and Minneapolis have come to occupy a portion of what, at the date of the treaties, was denominated Indian country.

Band Operated In Both Countries.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The report that one of the Anarchist burglars wanted in London had been arrested at Breslau grew out of an investigation of the operations of a criminal band in Breslau who used methods similar to those employed in London. The men rented a house adjoining one which they robbed, after affecting an entrance by tunnelling from one cellar to the other. They secured booty valued at $4,000. Two watches found in the possession of the men arrested in London have been identified as those stolen from a Breslau jeweler, and it is now supposed that the same band operated in both countries.

Three Knots Untied.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—Senator Kirchhoffer, chairman of the divorce committee, submitted to the Senate yesterday a report recommending granting the application of C. E. Truman of Toronto for divorce from his wife, Mary B. Truman; of George A. Brown of Port Hope from his wife, Margaret Brown, and of Eethel M. Hornell of Toronto from her husband, David G. Hornell of Montreal.

Struck by an Engine.

Brockville, Feb. 18.—John Stark was brought here yesterday from Gananoque, and hurried to the General Hospital to receive treatment for serious injuries sustained at Thousand Islands Junction through being struck by an engine. His injuries are mainly about the head, and it is feared he may lose the sight of an eye.

The new Inland Hospital to be built this year in Kamloops will cost $125,000.

PETERBOROUGH

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

THREE DRUNKS EACH FINED $2

One Was Found Hanging From Bridge

Charges against three drunks were quickly disposed of by Magistrate Dumble this morning.

One of them paid his $2.00 in court. The second was allowed ten days to raise the price. When arrested he was found hanging half way over the iron bridge, and as the chief remarked, might easily have been killed.

The third man was also given ten days in which to raise a $2.00 fine.

SERMON AT ALL SAINTS' TO THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Present Day Practices Denounced by Rev. H. R. Trumpour

Members of Society Urged to Live up to Their Rules

Rev. H. R. Trumpour strongly denounced from the pulpit last evening the practice of young men and women walking the streets idly on Saturday nights, and frequently forming undesirable acquaintances.

"Acquaintances," he said, "are much much safer when contracted in the protection of the home, and amid friendlier environment."

The above opinions were expressed by the rector during an inspiring and suitable discourse on fraternity and its objects delivered to the Knights of Pythias who attended divine worship in All Saints' church.

He chose for his text Sam. 18 chap. iv. It relates to the marvelous friendship which existed between David and Jonathan in the time of King Saul's administration. He vividly recounted the story of Damon and Pythias, from which the society derived its name and referred to the remarkable love which these two famous characters entertained toward each other; love which gave one power to be willing to sacrifice his life for the other, the story of which has long been familiar to all.

"A knight in those days," said the preacher, "was entirely different from one of our modern knights. To-day, to be a knight, is often to be part of a political machine, or a financial success. A knight in those days, as exemplified by the knights of King Arthur's round table, possessed all the attributes which go with chivalry, gallantry and nobility. They were endowed with power, the higher rational powers, therefore the Knights of Pythias to-day should be men who go forth in the name of righteousness, in the name of truth, and challenge wrong in every form and manifestation. Pythianism is symbolical of friendship. In the hey-day of life, when young and confident, one often does not feel the need of friends, but wait until trouble creeps in sooner or later, and then is felt the longing for some sympathetic soul to whom we can unbosom ourselves. Also when enemies attack us in the dark, a friend who will stand up and say a word for us is appreciated. The man is to be pitied who has no friends, for friendship and fellow communion is the natural heritage of man.

"The slightest element of unselfishness should never be allowed to penetrate fraternity.

"Again, there are many people who are "very much your friends," but he is not always your most sincere friend who heaps your merits on your back when in your presence. One of the grand things about fraternity is that it develops unselfishness, and the Knights of Pythias should yield themselves to unselfishness and allow their lives to be moulded along noble, enlarged lines. If such a service is developed in Peterborough, then the society is doing a philanthropic work.

The spirit of fairness and squareness should also be cultivated, as it is another essential element of fraternity.

At this juncture the speaker referred to the waste of spare time by young men and women after working hours.

"While factory workers and those confined at work all day need recreation still it can be obtained in more congenial places than on the street, idly walking up and down. The moment a young man commences frequenting pool rooms, against which I have nothing to say in themselves, and I would that there were some in connection with the church, the moment he acquires a liking for such places he drifts away from the church. His habits cease to be noble and uplifting and his character does not become enriched or refined.

"If the Knights of Pythias can in any degree save young men from such from sinking to such levels, then indeed they will be doing as grand a work as did the members of King Arthur's round table.

"There is in our Ontario and Canadian homes the curse of impure speech. The amount of foul, smutty talk which may be commonly heard, and the familiar use of expressions in regard to unmentionable things is shocking, and this commonness is the most regrettable feature of the day. There is a class of impure stories circulating today which is deplorable.

"As Knights of Pythias I entreat you to take an organized stand against all impurity and intemperance, and degrading habits.

"Whenever you walk our streets you hear the name of God blasphemed. There are men driving carts and walking the streets and engaged in everyday employment who make the very air reek with curses without cause.

"Assuredly national ruin will overtake the land if Christ's name is thus defiled."

As Knights of Pythias, Rev. Mr. Trumpour entreated the members to keep their speech clean and live up to the highest ideals of purity and temperance and assured them if they did they would continue to prosper. They should also inquire into their relationship with God. Many were prone to think that as life wore on they became poorer by the loss of loved ones, but such was not the case as fraternity lived on in the life hereafter in Heaven.

In concluding his address, the reverend speaker urged the members of the lodge to seek only as associates those who were pure and good, and noble, and unite with this the teachings of Jesus Christ.

"Feature fraternity and brotherliness in your society and take the power and example of Christ into your lives," was his closing appeal.

ARE YOU GOING THERE TO-NIGHT?

The Great Interdenominational Meeting at St. Paul's

The date has arrived and the speaker has arrived for the celebration of the Three-Hundredth Anniversary of the coming of our English Bible. It is expected that the seating capacity of St. Paul's church will be taxed to-night, when all the churches unite for this special service.

Dr. Gilmour, who is to be the only speaker, arrived in the city at noon to-day, and is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Boucher, of Brock street.

The composite choir under the leadership of Mr. John Crane, will render music for the occasion.

The importance of this anniversary, and the fact that the speaker is a native of Peterborough, should make this meeting of great interest to every citizen.

TO LECTURE ON MAKING A NATION

Rev. John McNeill to Address Murray St. Baptist Ladies

The ladies of Murray street Baptist church have been successful in securing the services of Rev. John McNeill, of Toronto, who will lecture on "The Making of a Nation" on Tuesday evening, March 21st, in the auditorium of the church.

This lecture was a contribution of Canada to the World's Baptist Congress, held in 1905, in the Royal Albert Hall, London, England.

The name of Mr. McNeill will insure a full house on the occasion of his coming and the people of Murray street are to be congratulated on their success in securing one whose reputation has gone beyond our own country and the denomination of which he is a worthy representative.

A MESSAGE TO MEN BY REV J. R. WEBB

Splendid Sermon and Music by Mens' Choir at Murray St. Church

Rev. J. R. Webb of Murray Street Baptist Church, gave an able address to men last night. His text was from Mark 3rd ch., verses 1 and 3; "And He entered again into the synagogue; and there was a man there which had a withered hand—And he saith unto the man which hath the withered hand stand forth." He said the story as told by these verses was both a miracle and a parable, and not only a sign from Christ but a sermon by Christ.

He spoke of the functions of the body. A man had two hands because he needed two, and could not do life's work daily with one only. The function of the hands was to reach outward. The hand was what men used to provide the necessaries of life. There were few lazy men in the world in spite of what writers said to the contrary and there was no class of men whose hours were longer or more trying than the Christian minister. The profession of the man who did not provide for his own household was no good. If one was desirous of strengthening the right hand it was necessary to use it and develop the sinews. Some parts of the body were left to wither by not being used. Man was permitted not only to exercise the body, but was given the ability and responsibility to exercise the intellectual faculties. Many men used their faculties to obtain riches. Why were the advertisements in all the papers of how to get an education quickly. Merely because the idea of shortening mental drudgery and getting back to money-making would appeal to most men.

Men of this age were childish in the presence of sports. Man ought to indulge in sports, but many made a profession of it. Betting ended in the desire to get what belonged to another man and he who made bets came to the level of the animal, which took the bone from its contemporary. When a man went to purchase a business he would have the books of the company bared before him. The church had her books bared all the time. There was nothing to hide, and it would bear the most careful scrutiny. Men should not leave unused the social faculty association with their fellowmen tended to brighten a man's intellectual powers. As the Bible says "No man liveth unto himself no man dieth unto himself." Many tried to do this and awoke too late.

There was nothing which drove the Christian man more quickly from his church, than the idea that he was not free to think and act. Men should not let a priest, a minister or a professor think for him.

The singing of the male choir was very much appreciated by the large congregation.

BLAZE GAVE MISS A WARM TIME

But It Wasn't on Account of Extreme Heat

The fire department was called out again this morning, but their services were not needed. It appears a small blaze started in a George street office, and one of the young ladies, who became wildly excited, endeavored to send in the alarm over the telephone, instead of by Box "23" at the corner of George and Hunter streets.

The Miss made frantic attempts to explain to central that she wanted the fire station and finally heard the hello call. Just then someone else in the office shouted that the blaze was under control. This added to the strain already upon her and when the fireman at the other end wanted to know what he was up against, she gave her street address. The fire teams made a run to the house and of course found no fire. Then as light on the affair was forthcoming, they went to the office and there the explanation of the Miss was that she gave her home address, because she feared arrest for sending in a false alarm and did not care to be taken to the coup, down the George street route.

BOYS SENT IN A FALSE ALARM

Police Court Proceedings Likely to Follow—A Serious Offence

The Fire Department was called out on a wild goose chase at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. A number of boys, while playing in the neighborhood of the Park and London Streets corner, saw smoke coming from a chimney, and thought it would be fun to call out the firemen with pretence of a chimney fire. They accordingly sent a call from box 41.

As soon as the chief learned the cause of the alarm, he ordered all the apparatus back to the station, and remaining in the neighborhood for some time, learned from the boys that Harold Lawrence was the offender.

The matter is now in the hands of the police and quite likely police court proceedings will follow. The penalty for such an offence if a fine of $50 or six months imprisonment for non payment.

There is a reward of $50 offered by the City Council for any person who will give the necessary information that will convict parties of this offence, and parents would do well to advise their children of the seriousness of sending in false alarms of fire.

Hear Frederick H. Wilson in the beautiful fraternal Mono-Drama — Damon and Pythias in the Conservatory of Music Hall on the evening of Friday, February 24th, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias.

IMMIGRATION WILL BE BRISK

This Season, Says Immigration Officer Howson

G. H. Howson, the local immigration officer, when seen to day stated that he expects all point towards a busy time this spring in his business. He has had no trouble so far in placing applicants who come to him, and for work this morning, a farmer who came in to obtain a farm hand was immediately supplied.

Mr. Howson reckoned that he would have more applications for help than he would have men to fill them this summer.

According to letters which he daily receives from the Old Country, Peterboro appears to be a desirable place for emigrants. Mr. Howson stated that this locality is one of the best between Toronto and Montreal.

as Joshua Whitcomb in Denman Thompson's superb production of "The Old Homestead." Special return engagement "Grand," to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, Feb. 21. Seats now on sale.

Scene from the Big Chicago Baseball Musical Comedy "MY CINDERELLA GIRL" at "The Grand" next Wednesday, Feb. 22. The Seat Sale opened this morning

THEATRICAL

The Old Homestead

It was a decided treat to witness the presentation of Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead" at the Grand Opera House, Saturday. The absence of 'cuss' words was refreshing. Throughout the performance the comedy was clean, the play was ably acted and the audience showed its approval in no uncertain manner.

The work of William Lawrence, as Joshua Whitcomb, who is the central figure in the incidents which surround the old homestead, was at all times pleasing, and his heart to hearts talks were of that kind, which remain with the audience long after the curtain goes down after the finale. The singing of the double quartet in the first act was particularly good and enthusiastically received, as was also the work of Frederick Lyon and the choir-sisters, with "The Palms." Probably the most impressive situation was that at the close of the third act, when Reuben Whitcomb staggered into the arms of his old father, outside Grace Church in New York City, as the choir within sang "Lead Kindly Light."

The company appears at Port Hope to night and is going through to San Francisco.

"My Cinderella Girl" is the next attraction at the Grand, and comes here Wednesday night.

NOT MUCH CHEER IN THIS HOME

Family It is Said is in Destitute Circumstances—Child Died

A family on Bolivar Street which is almost destitute has come under the notice of Fire Chief, Howard.

It seems they come here from the country about ten months ago and though the father had a little work during last summer, he has had but a few days since December. They paid the rent, and food was paid for as long as money lasted. Of late the furniture has been pawned. They have had so little to eat that all are weak and the father is unable to do a hard days labor.

On Friday a child contracted pneumonia, and though Dr. Scott was called the little one passed away Sunday morning.

This, it is stated is a very deserving case and anyone who feels interested may have further particulars from Rev. Mr. Riddiford or Chief Howard.

Death of Child

The death occured yesterday morning of Gordon Ira Lane, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lane, 491 Bolivar Street.

The funeral will take place to morrow afternoon. Services will be held at the house at 2 o'clock and proceed to Little Lake cemetery for interment

Using the Flags

The thaw Saturday afternoon played havoc with the gates and semaphores at the Charlotte and Simcoe street crossings. The water-soaked around underneath and froze. The derail switch, gates and semaphores are all out of commission as a result and "Charlie" Noyes is back to the old system of flagging.

A PLAY THAT IS TO BE COMMENDED

Return Engagement of "The Old Homestead" Company To-morrow Night

The management of the Grand Opera House has secured the "Old Homestead" company for a return engagement here to morrow night.

This announcement is sure to please those who were unable to attend the matinee or the night performance, Saturday. The company is strong and the story one that holds the interest of the audience thro ghout. Such a play as the "Old Homestead" has an uplifting influence and is therefore to be commended.

It is deserving of a packed house tomorrow night

ALBERT CHEVALIER

In "Daddy Dufard"

Even in a year made notable by the importation of an unusual number of the great artists of the London stage, such as the Terrys, Edward, Ellen and Fred, each at the head of separate companies; Lena Ashwell, Oscar Asche, Forbes Robertson, Gertrude Elliott, Weedon Grossmith and many others, an American tour of Albert Chevalier appearing in a three-act comedy, stands forth among the big theatrical events of the season. Chevalier is a masterly artist acknowledged as such not only in England and America, but in France and Germany, where his genius was recognized through his veracity and human appeal of his characterizations though the words he uttered may not have been very generally understood.

Chevalier comes to the Grand next Saturday, Feb. 25th, for matinee and evening. He will appear in a three-act character comedy entitled "Daddy Dufard." He is a part author of the play himself, he has frequently written excellent and successful dramatic material for his own use, and his collaborator is an experienced English playright, Lechmere Worrall. The play deals with the life among the denizens of the London music halls—a life Chevalier and his collaborator know well. Mr. Chevalier's American tour is under the direction of Liebler and Company. He has a splendid supporting company made up of well-known American and English actors. It includes Violet Heming, Leslie Kenyon, Horace Mitchell, A. Hylton Allen, Mary Barker, Frankie Raymond and others of like worth.

The mayor of Vancouver is paid $5,000 a year and the aldermen $400 each.

O'K

Extra Mild, Remember

Many people would drink ale, in preference to all other malt beverages, if ale did not make them bilious.

This O'K brew is brewed especially for those people. It is extra mild and extra light, and lets you enjoy the creamy deliciousness of real old English ale without the heaviness and excessive bitterness. In easily—opened seal stoppered bottles. No broken cork or tinfoil in the glass.

BATTLING BOBBY PUT IT OVER "SOCIETY SWELL" A. J. DREXEL

Story of the Aristocratic Prize Fight in New York --Real Hammer and Tong Affair.

New York, February 18.—It was not an empty jest after all, that supper-table challenge of Hon. Seton Robert Beresford, younger brother of Lord Decies, to Anthony Drexel, Jr., to "have a go" with the gloves. It is all true; the fight has actually taken place, and the winner is now in possession of a handsome silver cup as a fitting memento of his important international victory.

And it was no "half andhalf, affair either, but a real, genuine, hammer and tongs, tooth and nail battle, winding up with the loser helpless.

The scene of the encounter was the luxurious private gymnasium at Mrs. George Gould's mansion at Lakewood, N.J., and it took place in the presence of the members of her house party, who watched the expert display of fisticuffs with the keenest interest. Select fight fans assembled in full force on Saturday night for the contest which was to go six rounds.

In spite of the fact that the training of the combatants for the bout consisted mainly of a whole hearted participation in certain wedding festivities, they both entered the ring looking exceedingly fit. The Englishman weighed in at 166 pounds, while the representative of the United States turned the scale at 161. Beresford had for his second, Lord Gamoy and Lord Alastair Anthony Drexel's seconds being Jay Gould, Jr., and Mr. Moffatt. A well known English naval officer acted as referee.

DREXEL OPENED STRONG

In the opening round Drexel rushed in, in true American fashion, apparently with the idea of forcing an early termination of the battle, and earning for himself the title of "one round" Drexel. The English champion, however, kept his head, and although he was receiver general at the start, the end of the round found Drexel on his back on the floor as the result of a smashing left hook on the jaw.

For the second round, Drexel came up strong and well, and continued his aggressive tactics. With a well timed right swing he landed on Beresford's head with such force that the Englishman momentarily lost his balance. In spite of Drexel's furious tactics, however, Beresford seemed quite content to take things easily and await his opportunity. This round was easily Drexel's, who got in several useful body blows before time was called.

BUT BERESFORD WNO OUT

At the start of the third round, Drexel again rushed in but was met with a heavy body punch, which staggered him somewhat. Beresford now dropped his "take it easy" methods, and got busy in real earnest. He very soon had Drexel guessing, and with a terrific swing sent his opponent sprawling.

Drexel was quickly on his feet again but the end was obviously near. With left and right to the jaw Beresford had his man completely at his mercy standing dazed in the middle of the ring, with his arms hanging listlessly by his side.

At this juncture Drexel's seconds admitted a knockout and dragged their man from the ring.

As a memento of the occasion Mrs. Gould subsequently presented to Mr. Beresford a handsome silver cup to add to his already large collection of sporting trophies. It is understood that the cup is now in the hands of the jewellers, being inscribed with a suitable record of the event.

SPORT TALK

The efforts of the baseball magnates in Western Canada to frame up some kind of a league for next season seem to be only dragging along, and if somebody does not get busy pretty soon it will be too late to form up an organization at all. According to the minutes of the last meeting of the Western Canada Baseball League the delegates were to meet in Winnipeg to-day, but President Eckstrom has not notified any of the officials of the clubs to this effect, and it will not take place. President Weatherstone and H. F. Maley of the Brandon club are expected in the city to-day to discuss the situation with President Blackburn of the Winnipeg club.—Winnipeg Free Press.

"Walter Johnson premier hurler of the world!"

The entire world does not agree with this assertion, but part of the world does, and among those who think that the tow-haired Swede of the Nationals is the best pitcher in baseball is Hughie Jennings. And the red-haired Irishman says that everybody will agree with him in a year or two in everything he says about the blond giant from the west.

Johnson will be watched more closely than any twirler in the league this year. Each season he has improved. Jennings says that last year Johnston was better than any other twirler in the business, but he needs two or three years more to prove it to the world at large.

The Swede has had but three years' experience in the major leagues and those three years have seen service for a tail-end club, but while considering those facts also understand that Mr Johnson is the highest salaried pitcher in the league.

He has no wonderful record for games won like George Mullin, Bill Donovan, Ed. Walsh and many other stars; he has never helped win any pennants for Washington, or performed the work of iron man like Jack Chesbro, George Mullin, Ed. Walsh or Jack Coombs, yet this youngster will draw more money this year than any of these famous stars of the mound

Toronto Telegram—Port Hope are champions of the Eastern Ontario pro. hockey league. They had to be because the only other team left in Buck Irving's glowing circuit was the wandering Belleville seven, who left home in disgrace and in debt—the latter of which was collected in part by a garnishee at Peterboro. The former still stuck as may be gathered from Peterboro's view of the joke game.

Loss of amateur standing and an array of injuries, not to mention contributing a winter's work for no money, was the fate of most of the players.

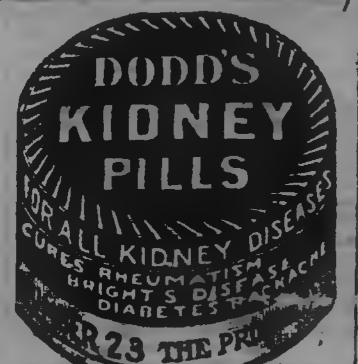
Lindsay Warder—About three hundred people gathered at Lindsay rink last night to watch a professional hockey match, when the Peterboro professionals formerly of Belleville, went down to defeat at the hands of the Port Hopers by a score of 12-6. It was the first professional hockey match ever seen in Lindsay. From previous records, the people expected a rough house game, but such was not the case, only 5 penalties being imposed. The three period idea is new to Lindsay, and after the second period, many were ready to go home.

The gate receipts amounted to over $85. That will hardly pay expenses.

Baker may be a good tender, but he is a poor defence man outside the nets.

Chipchase must have had a lot of "good luck" with the Wanderers if he ever played with them.

St. Michael's Senior O. H. A., ex-champions may play here Thursday night.



LOCAL FAMILY IS BEREAVED

Mrs. Henry Cox, East City, went up to Toronto this morning to attend the funeral of her niece, Mrs. George Hardinge, whose death occurred suddenly Saturday afternoon, at the residence of her mother, 139 Cumberland street.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lane also went up on the 4.30 this afternoon to be present at the funeral, which takes place to-morrow.

Mrs. Hardinge had been attending he rmother, who was ill, and had gone downstairs. Her mother upstairs heard a moaning shortly afterwards heard a moaning shortly afterwards, and went down to find Mrs. Hardinge unconscious. She was hurriedly taken to the hospital, where death shortly after occurred.

ENGLISH BANKER'S VIEW.

Earl Grey's Son-in-Law Sees No Harm In Reciprocity.

Ottawa, Feb. 20 —That Canada has secured a good bargain in the reciprocity agreement with the United States and that it will stimulate rather than check the investment of British capital in the Dominion is the opinion of A. M. Grenfell, son-in-law of Earl Grey, member of the banking firm of Chaplin, Milne, Grenfell & Co., and chairman of the Canadian agency of one of the leading Canadian bond issuing houses in London.

In a cabled message which reached here yesterday, Mr. Grenfell is quoted as giving the following interview in regard to reciprocity:

"From my recent trip to Canada, I am convinced that Canadians fully realize the progress and prosperity that have accrued to Canadian manufacturing and agricultural industries from cheap money sent out at a rate of over $150,000,000 per annum by English investors. I am confident that the first thing taken into consideration by the Canadian Ministers would be whether the reciprocity arrangement with the United States might affect securities against which these large invesments have been made.

"I believe it will prove of inestimable advantage to Canada. Great material benefits will be derived by the whole Dominion in both agricultural and manufacturing industries from the opening of American markets. The future prosperity of Canada must be largely based on the soundness of agriculture and the enhanced value of western farm lands that will result from reciprocity will mean greater security of English investors. The free and larger markets which reciprocity will open to the farmers of the west, will cause great demands for the products of the factories of the east Canadian statesmen have taken advantage of the situation.

"It appears to me they have secured splendid terms for Canada in exchange for giving Americans what Americans could have taken for themselves at any time by simply lowering their own tariff wall without asking permission from Canada. Investors in England will speedily realize many trade advantages derived by Canada through the reciprocity agreement and will be more anxious to participate in opportunities offered by sound Canadian enterprises by investing their money at high rates of interest, while assisting in the development of the British Empire.

Appalling stories of inadequacy of the medical provision for laboring men on the G.T.P. construction work west of Edmonton are told.

At St. John's Church

At St. John's Church, yesterday, Rev. Canon Davidson urged that there be a large attendance of the congregation at the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the English Bible in St. Paul's Church to-night. He referred to the part, English churchmen had taken in the past, and were still taking in the matter and of the inestimable value of our Bible to English Christians. On these grounds he urged that the congregation do all in their power to make the Tercentenary at St. Paul's Church an enthusiastic success.

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

CRUEL FUN FOR JOKER

Arranges Lovers Meeting on Winnipeg Avenue

Thirteen "Carnation" Wearers Get a Silly Reception

Winnipeg, Feb. 16.

PERSONAL

Young man age 28, tall, dark, fairly good looking; has nice home, good position; would like to meet young lady, object matrimony.

Accomplished young lady, with $5,000 would like to meet good shrewd young business man; age from 20 to 30.

That there are many people in Winnipeg ready and willing to take a draw in the marriage lottery was conclusively proven Saturday night, when as a result of a very mean kind of practical joke thirteen love sick swains yearning for the companionship of the opposite sex, met half a dozen females of all ages and descriptions in front of a Portage avenue cafe. Everybody wore a dapper white carnation, and everybody looked flustered and foolish. They will not recover their nervous equilibrium for days.

A GREAT JOKE—PERHAPS

It was a great joke—not. At least that was the way every one of the nineteen put it. It must have been the brain throb of some mighty intellect to conceive such a dramatic situation. Mr. Practical Joker inserted two advertisements in the "personal" column of a Winnipeg paper. One of them told of a handsome youth in search of a soul mate, and the other of a sweet young lady possessing the attraction of a $5,000 bank roll, who desired the acquaintance of a young business man matrimonially inclined. Answers from both sexes began to pour into the box address given in the advertisement, and the fellow behind became as busy with his correspondence as a one armed man with the hives trying to hang wallpaper. He answered every epistle containing pink love nothings with the request that on Saturday night at 9 o'clock the writer meet him in front of the Portage avenue cafe, wearing a white carnation. Letters to the male contingent were written by a young woman in the most seductive terms of endearment.

It was just on the dot of 9 o'clock when a pale melancholy youth, adorned with a white bloom, strolled down to the place arranged. He looked as if he had just blown in from some grass country. He was almost immediately joined by an old boy about 65 years of age, with a shape like a merry-go-round and several pairs of lace curtains suspended from his face. He, too, carried a crisp white flower in his buttonhole. They looked at each other suspiciously.

"BIRDIE" ARRIVES

Then up waltzed "Birdie" she with the roll to assay at $5,000. A dainty white carnation peeped out from beneath the folds of her dress and she affected the frightened fawn glance. Birdie No. 1 wore a big roll of blond hair and had a figure like a string of beads. The melancholy youth proceeded to stake out a claim on her affections, but he was rudely thrust aside by the cute old fox with the foliage where his necktie ought to have been. In the middle of the argument the other marks for cupid began to arrive. First came Birdie No. 2, a little girl with hair like a prairie sunset, then a fat boy, then Birdie No. 3 who was tall and skinny; and so they gathered one by one, some of the lonely girls wearing the look of a sick calf. By and by there were six little Birdies and thirteen—count 'em—thirteen sports, who looked as downcast as a flock of wet cats. Everybody wore a white carnation, and the temperature was very low. One old maid who was taking a last chance was most indignant and began to jingle with loose talk. She had an inelegant moustache, and in the excitement her coiffure became somewhat disarranged.

To make a long story short everybody looked silly and sickly, and one by one they gradually faded away into the night, all but the melancholy youth. He took Birdie No. 1 into the cafe and it cost him somewhere in the neighborhood of six seads.

Mr. P. Joker was across the street.

EARLY HISTORY OF THE BIBLE

And Its Influence—The Meeting of Guild of Goodfellowship

The usual meeting of the Guild of Good Fellowship was held in the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon. The Rev. C. Carpenter continued the subject of the previous Sunday, namely, "The early history of the Bible and its influence," dealing especially with the Biblical impress on the writings preceding the age of printing. Selections were read from the earliest Anglo-Saxon writers, which showed them to be permeated with the teaching of the Bible, although it was often supposed that the Holy Scripture at that time was an almost unknown factor. In spite of the low tone of education, and the difficulties which the people lived under, the Bible, and especially the Gospel portion was popularized by being versified by men like Caedman and Arm.

Caedman, who died about A.D. 680, composed many songs and poems on Bible history and religious subjects, some of which were very beautiful. In the first quarter of the 13th century a monk named Ar, or Armim, wrote about 10,000 lines of poetry, which consisted of paraphrases of the Gospel. His contribution goes by the name of Armulum. The language is necessarily crude and quaint, but its influence upon the thought of the day was certainly extensive.

A selection was read from the translation of a French poem by Robert Manning, one of the rhyming chronicles of the time of Edward II., showing its Biblical teaching and influence. The period of English metrical romance showed abundant evidences of a knowledge of the Bible, these poems being composed and recited by wandering poets to the accompaniment of the harp.

About the middle of the 13th century the writings contained greater moral lessons and more refinement, and their denunciations of the loose morality of the age prepared the ground for the reformers. Portions of the writings of Richard Rolle, a hermit of the time, and of "The Vision of Pierce Ploughman" were read, which showed deep knowledge of the Bible. Geoffrey Chaucer, the "Father of English Poetry," and the writer of the Canterbury Tales, was next considered. His works give a very accurate picture of the life of that age, and show that the scriptures were fairly well known.

In the 15th century and early part of the 16th the Bible was constantly drawn upon to show that the loose morality of the age was displeasing to the Almighty.

With the introduction of printing the infancy of English literature may be said to cease, and manhood begin. The dissemination of the English scriptures gave a new direction to the thoughts of literary men and he put them by the illustrations and imagery as the old philosophers had been unable to. The revival of learning and literature was at its height from the middle of Elizabeth's reign to the restoration, and practically every writer since has been indebted to the Bible for considerable help. Some like Milton, Bunyan and Dante, have almost confined their writings to Biblical subjects, while others, such as Shakespeare, Bacon and Carlyle reveal their intimate knowledge of the divine library and use its illustrations and language without stint.

The influence of the Bible on modern literature was left for further consideration, but the lesson to be derived from the earlier stages was that the Bible had always exercised a restraining influence upon lax morality, a refining influence upon literature itself, and a creative influence in that it produced many of the best books of history. Take away the divine literary from the world and all that is lofty and inspiring in literature must soon disappear.

At the conclusion of the address a violin solo "La Serenata," by Braga, was acceptably rendered by Mr. Alex. Cowie, and a vocal duet by Messrs. Greenslade and Gilbert, entitled "Happy Day," and the meeting brought to a close with the usual devotional exercises.

CONVENTION TO OPENS TO-MORROW

Many Delegates Arrived To-day

Delegates to the Hardware Convention which will be opened to-morrow, are arriving to-day. The hotels of the city have made extensive preparations for the visit of the hardwaremen, and although large numbers are expected, the accommodation will, it is expected, be adequate.

Representatives of American and Canadian firms are at work at the armories arranging the exhibits, which are particularly large in number. The executive of the convention of the convention is expected to arrive on the train from Port Hope this afternoon. The various committees appointed to be on hand on the arrival of the trains, will commence their duties to-day.

EXHIBITION AND SALE FORMALLY DECLARED OPEN

Womens' Art Association Give Pleasing Reception

A charming reception was held in the exhibit rooms of the Women's Art Association in the public library building on Saturday evening, preparatory to the exhibition and sale which is being held there commencing to-day and ending on Thursday.

DAINTY REFRESHMENTS.

Dainty refreshments were served by a staff of young ladies supervised by Mrs. R. W. Travers, Mrs. R. Rush, the vice-president of the association, in the absence of the president, received. Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, convenor of the social committee, was prevented from attending. To Miss Hatton, the convenor of the exhibition committee and those who assisted her, much credit is due for the capable manner in which the affair was conducted.

SPOKE ON ART.

Judge Huycke was also present and made a short suitable address, formally declaring the exhibition and sale open. In doing so he referred to art, in its various aspects and its meaning so far as the exhibition in question was concerned.

"The exhibition," he said, "embraced both the fine arts and the useful arts, and in the latter, particularly the textile division."

He also referred briefly to the history of art and traced its evolution from the time of our ancestors down to the present. The first serious attempts at art, that were on record, were found in the neighborhood of the Nile and Euphrates, and it was mostly pottery of an ornamental nature, the reason being that it was almost exclusively religious in nature.

His Honor also referred to architecture as the noblest of all arts, it being a combination of all that was best in the fine arts. He explained the distinctions which exist between the fine arts and the useful arts; the fine arts being those that appealed solely to the emotions, and the other division being useful in other capacities of mankind.

He concluded his address by formally declaring the Women's Art Association exhibition for 1911, open, and wishing the members great success.

CONGREGATION WILL CELEBRATE

The annual report of the George street church and Sunday school has been printed and circulated among the members and a Wesley tea will be held on Wednesday night as a celebration. The reports presented are very gratifying indeed. The Sunday school receipts of the year were $779.88 and the expenditure $92.87 less. The Grace church Sunday school report showed receipts of $130.22 and expenditures of $20.65 less.

The Epworth League of George street church had a membership of 54 active and 31 associate, with an average attendance of 40. Receipts were $14.60 and expenses $3 less, much of this going to missions.

The Ladies' Aid Society report showed that $421 had been raised during the year, of which $414.48 had been paid to the mission board.

The church treasurer's statement showed envelope collections of $4,457.19, loose collections of $742.04 thank-offering receipts of $1,435.73, which with incidentals make a total revenue of $6,820.10. The expenditure was $4,954.86, giving a surplus on the year of $1,865.12, and wiping out the 1909 deficit leaving a balance of $170.10. The average envelope collection per Sunday was $85.71 and the average loose plate collection per Sunday was $15.78. The statement of assets and liabilities show assets of $70,000 the church, fixtures and site being valued at $61,990, and liabilities of $10,000 on the property.

The church raised in 1910 for missions $1,321, the missionary society remitting $1,065.48.

The total amount raised during the year by the church organizations was $6,869.20, showing good increase over the receipts of the previous year.

REV. J. G. SHEARER HERE TUESDAY

Will Speak at St. Pauls' on White Slave Traffic

Rev. J. G. Shearer, D. D. Secretary of the Moral and Social Reform Committee of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, who led the recent successful campaign for clean moral conditions in the city of Winnipeg, will pay a visit to Peterborough, on Tuesday, when he will address two meetings in St. Paul's Church. In the afternoon he will speak to the women of the city on "The White Slave Traffic," and "What We Can do to Abolish It." In the evening he will address a mass meeting for men, to which all the men of the city are cordially invited.

LOCAL PEOPLE TO APPEAR IN COURT

While it was stated at Toronto Saturday that witnesses from this city would be called, in connection with the Farmers' Bank case, Chief Thompson has not been notified to serve any summonses.

CHIMES

The amount of the paid contributions to the chimes fund, as given Friday, was somewhat understated. It should have been $5,483. With additional paid subscriptions the amount is now close to $5,490.

An out-of-town donation has been received from Mrs. H. B. Allen, who was formerly Miss Ida Fair, of Millbrook.

Several clergymen and church officers where chimes are in operation, have shown great interest in the Peterborough chimes in their letters. Rev. Mr. Wallace, of Woodstock, is one of these, and Rev. D. R. Drummond, the widely known minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Hamilton, writes that he hopes to come to this city and hear the bells.

Rev. Mr. Drummond and his chimesmaster, Mr. Cummings, have sent a book of tunes and they are being copied for local use.

It would be interesting if the city had the chimes now in operation to welcome the visitors to the Hardware Convention. In the near future it will be possible to do this kind of public work.

At a special offering at St. John's Sunday school yesterday considerable interest was manifested, and the amount contributed was $9.72.

St. Paul's Church

Announcements for the week are as follows:

There will be no meeting of the Young People's Guild on Monday night, on account of the Tercentenary Service which is being held in St. Pauls' Church.

On Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 Dr. Shearer of Toronto will address a meeting for women in St. Paul's, on the subject of "The White Slave Traffic in Canada." Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, Dr. Shearer will address a mass meeting for men in the same place.

The regular midweek service will be held on Wednesday at 8 p.m. Teachers' meeting at the close.

Thursday afternoon at 4.15, the Faithful Workers' Mission Band will hold a sewing meeting.

The Boys' Brotherhood meet on Friday evening at 7.15.

CLIMBING THE LADDER--THE RISE OF A PETERBORO BOY

How E. R. Wood Has Risen From Telegraph Messenger to a Financial Magnate and Director of Many Corporations.

Toronto Globe.

When the northern express slackened speed and finally halted at Wading River one humid night last August the passengers mostly Muskoka cottagers and their week-end visitors, poked their heads from the windows and wondered who had flagged the train. Usually Wading River receives scant consideration from the express, and when the minutes went by no call of "All aboard!" and the answering jar of the moving engine men began to drop from the steps into the darkness to find a reason. The tiny rustic station building shrank back into the spruce shadows, as if ashamed of its inability to explain why the semaphore with its single unwinking ruby eye was turned against "Number Five." There it was a tiny glow in the dark night but no engineer dare run past it. The train crew, their lanterns swinging from their arms, stood on the platform and, with a variety of expletive, canvassed the situation. Spasmodic pounding on the door and prolonged scrutiny through the panes only proved that the station was as tenantless as it was dark. The station is all that there is to Wading River—that is close enough to the real name—so that the puzzled trainmen could not seek information elsewhere. Finally a man who had come from a Pullman suggested that somebody be boosted into the building via the window, for the purpose of reconnoitering inside. This promised something, and in a few minutes the suggester himself was being helped through the narrow aperture, and in a minute more he had the catch-lock open. The group of trainmen crowded into the station.

"If you let me have the call for the train despatcher I might locate the trouble," said the man who had effected the unauthorized entry. The conductor found the code, and the stranger, opening the telegraph key, began to call Toronto. He cut in on the despatcher, who was "sending" to the terminus of the line, and instantly aroused a remonstrance in excited staccato from Toronto, who demanded to know why that idiot at Wading River wanted to interrupt, when he ought to be in bed. Metallic protestations were of no avail, for persistently, if a little nervously, Wading River asked to be heard. At last Toronto let him in and Wading River explained haltingly that Number Five had found the board against it, that the agent had evidently forgotten to raise it before he left for home, and without an order to disregard the board Number Five would be face to face with the unpleasant alternative of spending the night in Wading River.

The despatcher who had been worrying because the express had not reported at the terminus, ten miles up the line, understood the situation, calmed down and sent the order. It required a little time to get it through for the impromptu operator was plainly no expert and the conductor remained obviously skeptical until the stranger handed him the little slip of yellow paper with an apologetic "I haven't touched a telegraph instrument in twenty-five years before." The message bore the chief despatcher's name, and the conductor was convinced. "There's your orders, Bill," he said, turning to the engineer, and then Number Five shipped out of Wading River on the last stage of its night journey.

"Who was that who got the despatcher?" asked the brakeman of the last man piling into the Pullman.

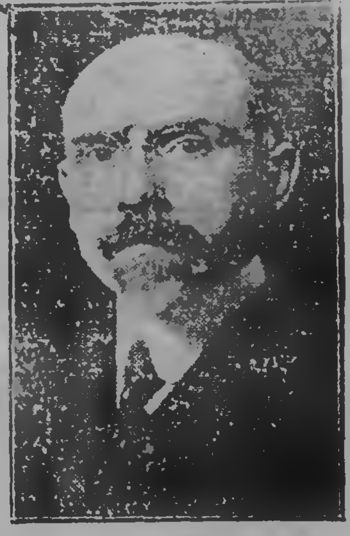
"E. R. Wood of Toronto," was the reply. "A little thing like that is all in the day's work to him."

There is no particular moral about this, except that E. R. Wood as a boy learned telegraphing as he did everything else—for keeps.

But about Mr. Wood. He mastered telegraphy in what might be called his first and only position. It was in the office of Mr. Geo. A. Cox at Peterborough. At that time Mr. Cox was the general agent of the Canada Life Assurance Company, as well as agent of the Western Fire Insurance Company, the British America Assurance Company, the telegraph, express and ticket agent, and the moving spirit in a few other similar enterprises which naturally seem to fall into one business in a large-sized country town. Into the midst of these activities Edward Rogers Wood was projected, much the same as he was boosted through the station windows at Wading River, except that in the earlier instance he supplied the motive power himself. Unconsciously he provided possibly the first evidence of his commercial acumen when he made up his mind that his business career would begin in the office of George A. Cox. He broke the good news to the future Senator and capitalist one day after school and heard expressions of satisfaction at his determination, coupled with regrets that there was no vacancy at the moment. But Mr. Cox promised to keep him in mind, and he did. The candidate saw to it that he did. He called again the next week and repeated his intention of allying himself with the Cox forces.

Mr Cox reiterated his polite regrets that for the moment there was no vacancy, and was thereupon acquainted with the fact that, while no vacancy actually existed, one would early be precipitated by a resignation in the telegraph department. In short, young Mr. Wood had learned and communicated the intelligence to his future employer that the telegraph delivery boy had determined to leave Mr. Cox to his fate and strike out for himself.

This was hardly the position which Mr. Cox expected his young recruit to seek. The lad's father, Mr. John Wood was a prominent resident of the town, and had obtained a large measure of success as a teacher, and Mr. Cox thought the son because of his education and training, might aspire to a higher position than that of the humble, though responsible, occupation of distributing telegrams. Wood, jun., however, announced that his ambition was to enter the business and it was not of present consequence by which door admission was secured.



E. R. WOOD.
Financier and Philanthropist.

As a matter of fact, the telegraph end of the business was little more than an incident of his earlier years in the Cox office, although he did actually graduate as an operator of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company, but his inclinations drew him to the financial side of the business, and that is why it can be said that Mr. Wood is still at his first job. Every day since he began as a lad in his earliest teens new work and new responsibilities have been added, and there has been no laying down of the task he assumed, but instead a wonderful process of enlargement from the country clerk to the city magnate. In the first step of his business career Edward Wood was the servant of the Canada Life Assurance Company and the Western Fire Insurance Company by putting the stamps on the envelopes which went out from the Peterborough branch. Now when he enters his name at the close of a directors' meeting he can still feel that he serves the same institutions as faithfully and zealously as when he began.

The Central Canada Loan & Savings Company came into being in a room over the Cox establishment at Peterborough, and Mr. Wood started his real financial career with it. This was in 1884, when he came to Toronto, and since that time the financial world has never been able to ignore the existence of Mr. E. R. Wood. Out of the Central Canada grew the Dominion Securities Corporation, the largest bond house in the country, and an institution which in the past five years has drawn from Great Britain alone for Canadian investments scores of millions of dollars.

It may be interesting to consider just how wide Mr. Wood's financial ramifications have been extended in this career of development. It is not possible to set down all the companies whose destinies he assists in directing, but there are the more important of them:—

Canadian Bank of Commerce.
Canada Life Assurance Company.
National Trust Company.
British-American Assurance Company.
Western Assurance Company.
Central Canada Loan and Savings Company.
Dominion Securities Corporation.
Grand Trunk Pacific Company.
Mexican Light and Power Company.
Sao Paulo Tramway, Light and Power Company.
Rio de Janeiro Tramway, Light and Power Company.

When the campaign for funds for the Young Men's Christian Association was inaugurated, a lot of young men knew Mr. Wood for the first time, and they had some glimpse of his methods. He was not the whole works of the big clock in the Lumsden building, but he was the mainspring. He never allowed the campaign to be considered other than a business proposition, with a deeply religious purpose behind it, and he repressed emotional mania on the one hand as much as he stimulated real endeavor on the other. For the time his own affairs received the most perfunctory attention. He made all his staff work, and he worked his friends himself.

The public heard less of the plan for providing a Young Men's Christian Association building for the larger cities of India, Japan and China, surely a real kind of Imperialism. After the big effort Mr. Wood led in securing pledges of $81,000 for an Association building in Calcutta. When it was all over he went back to his desk, but philanthropic work, as it always did, still found a niche in every day. The only difference is that the public does not hear so much about it. Not many people know, for instance, that the burden of the development of Grace Hospital lay upon Mr. Wood's shoulders. As the chairman of the Board of Governors he had practically revolutionized that institution. Still less are they aware of his work in financing the present Orthopedic Hospital, and perhaps if one could consult Houston for men's charities as we do for the list of their financial achievements one would likely find in Mr. Wood's case that they at least balanced.

Edward Rogers Wood "arrived" early. He is only forty-four and his father, Mr. John Wood, of Peterborough, who came from county of Fermanagh, Ireland, to educate the young idea of Peterborough, with Mrs. Wood, are in their serene old age, still view from the old town the rising fortunes of their son.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The Higher Criticism so-called, declares that the book of Genesis is largely myth, fable and legend, that there was no Adam and Eve, no Cain or Abel, no Enoch, no Noah, or flood, no Abraham, all myth, &c., that the books of Daniel, Esther and Jonah are romance. This same criticism, I say also, declares that our English Bible is largely a mass of mistakes of very bad form, caused by careless writers, who had no passion for accuracy, who did not stick to the facts, &c. But as these same teachers of higher criticism confess that over their findings everlasting uncertainty must always be written, their testimony against the integrity and credibility of our English Bible must be ruled out of court. Let a witness go before a judge and jury and give his evidence in minute detail. The judge cross-questions said witness and says "You swear that every detail of your evidence is correct and that you are certain that your evidence is according to facts." The Witness answers, "My Lord, over many of the details of my evidence that I have just given to the court, there is much uncertainty. In the very nature of the case it must always be so." Any just judge would immediately silence such a witness, and absolutely refuse and reject testimony as evidence on the case. Yet people who profess to be sensible are accepting the testimony of these critical analysists the so-called higher critics, who have come forward in these last days, to give evidence against the credibility of the sacred scriptures as found within our English Bible, and who in their evidence have confessed that "over many of the details of the critical analysis there is, of course, much uncertainty. In the very nature of the case it must probably always be so." (Prof. Jackson's book, page 22.)

The people are the judges on this question.

Yours,
JOHN. CARLISLE.

THE CHIMES.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—The Chinese are now in the midst of a dreadful famine. The reports of our missionaries are heartrending. Who would be cruel enough to object to the Peterborough chimes fund being turned over with all speed to fill the poor little mouths that are crying for food and help. No work of luxury should be allowed to go on amongst Christians while our brothers and sisters starve. God will never forgive us if we sacrifice the poor creatures while we listen to sweet music.

WHYTHEOPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ourselves. There are Optometrists and Opticians who do a smaller, but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our work. We are ever adding to our facilities and studying the latest methods. This is why we succeed.

Ontario Legislature Raises the Maximum of "Alimony"– Other Matters.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—Monday, at the Legislature, instead of the formal gathering of a remnant of the House, yesterday proved one of the most interesting and important of the present session. Several Government measures of considerable public importance were dealt witr.

Sir James Whitney relieved the province of all need for anxiety respecting the control of the Hydro-Electric power furnished by the commission by himself moving the withdrawal of the bill to transfer the control from the Hydro-Electric to the Railway Commission.

Hon. Col. Matheson introduced a bill empowering the Government to recover by purchase to the extent of $500,000, timber limits in the Algonquin Park forest reservation.

The Provincial Treasurer stated that the limits to be secured within the immediate future were appraised at $290,000.

Hon. J. J. Foy was called upon by Allan Studholme and S. Clark to increase the maximum amount to be paid by husbands to deserted wives. The revised statute as recommended by the commission of judges, left the maximum as formerly at $5 per week.

Mr. Studholme said he did not see why a wealthy man, possibly a millionaire, should be let off with $5 a week to his deserted wife.

S. Clark said he thought it should be $7 a week.

Hon. J. J. Foy said he was willing to have the maximum raised to $7, $8 or $10, but this act was not with respect to the wives of men of wealth. It was one of summary proceedings at the entire cost of the public, and enabled a deserted wife, without the expenditure of a cent, to secure an order of support, which carried with it a penalty of imprisonment if disobeyed.

The Attorney-General agreed to the maximum being raised to $10 a week.

Several speakers suggested that various officials in addition to the wife should be authorized to lay complaints on her behalf.

Hon. J. J. Foy said that the judges and himself had personally considered the proposal. It might give opportunity to meddlesome persons to increase trouble, and as desertion was not a crime, but only a civil offence, the act as amended, would, he believed, suffice. It was given its third reading.

Sir James gave notice of his bill aiming at the transfer of control over rates in the early days of the session, but on Feb. 1 announced that he would allow the bill to stand, pending consultation with the hydro engineers. His action of yesterday in absolutely withdrawing the bill, indicates that proposed change was not a popular one.

The House went into supply and passed the balance of the supplementary estimates with the exception of the colonization and agricultural items, which were held over on account of the absence of the Opposition leader.

Replying to an enquiry respecting the item of $10,000 for islands in Georgian Bay, Hon. Frank Cochrane explained that it was to go towards a complete survey, which was designed to prevent the same property being sold to two or three persons, as had been sometimes done.

In passing $1,156,196.77 for miscellaneous items, the Government was asked by Mr. Studholme, why some civil service employes were getting gratuities upon retirement and others were not. He brought up the names of two employes in the Hamilton Asylum of over twenty years' service. A man discharged after twenty-five years' service got nothing.

Sir James Whitney said there was a moral difference between being retired or resigning, and being discharged.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, referring to the statutes, said that prior to 1881 there was an indefinite provision for gratuities, but then an order-in-council was made, classifying the manner of em-

TRADE TREATY WITH JAPANESE

Mikado's Ministers to Create Scientific Tariff.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—At the Department of Customs yesterday it was stated that renunciation reported by cable over the Anglo-Japanese convention regarding relations between Japan and Canada, has been forecasted, and consequently causes no surprise. It is claimed to be a precursor to a wider arrangement, Japan's idea being to frame a scientific tariff and to cancel such a convention as a preliminary.

The supplementary convention was signed in January, 1905, and was terminable on six months notice, which have now been given. In the meantime negotiations for a new agreement will take place. Under the convention being renounced a specific instead of an advalorem duty was substituted on a list of 64 articles. Included in this list were cement, cotton, yarns and tissues, velvets, velveteen, window glass, iron and weld steel, sheet iron, wire, and small rod iron, leather linen tissues, printing paper, sugar, woolen and worsted yarns, silk faced cotton, satins, yarns of all sorts.

Recently, it was announced in the House by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, that correspondence, looking to a new treaty with Japan was in progress.

U.S. NAVAL PLANS CALL FOR TWO SUPER-DREADNOUGHTS

Lively Fight is Expected Over the Building Program.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The naval appropriation bill was considered at length in the House yesterday and practically all of the provisions of the measure were agreed to with the exception of the new building program which will come up to-day, and which is expected to precipitate a lively fight.

The bill provides for two battleships of the super-Dreadnought type, carrying twelve 14-inch guns; two fleet colliers, eight torpedo boat destroyers and four submarines. An attempt will be made both to decrease and increase this program, but the committee believes it has enough votes to carry it through.

A proposed repeal of the clause in last year's bill that all ships let out by contract should be under the eight-hour labor law, will be fought from both sides of the chamber. There also will be a fight to have one of the new ships constructed at a navy yard. Chairman Foss of the naval commission stated yesterday that of two sister ships now under construction, the one at the New York Navy Yard is costing $6,400,000, and the one by private contract, $3,900,000.

D. HUGHES-CHARLES TELLS OF CONVERSATION WITH MR. STRATTON ON BANK AFFAIR

Evidence in the Farmers' Bank Case Continued Before Magistrate Denison To-day in Toronto—W. R. Travers Back on the Stand.

Special to The Review.

Toronto February 21.—D. Hughes Charles former manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Peterborough, gave evidence this morning at the continuation of the hearing against Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren.

A letter was produced and identified in which Mr. Charles had written Mr. Walker, president of the bank, on December 10, 1906, in which Charles told of a conversation he had with Stratton in a social way over Farmers Bank affairs. He told Stratton that he did not think very much of the future of that bank and upon Stratton telling him that the Trusts and Guarantee Company had advanced an $80,000 loan, Charles had asked him if he did not think they had taken a big risk. In reply Stratton had said that they had for security everything the Farmers Bank had, including the farmers' notes.

"Then Mr. Stratton knew that money had been raised on these notes of subscribers?" asked the magistrate.

"Yes, I think so," he replied.

It had never occurred to Charles however, that there was anything illegal in this, nor had the question of legality been discussed with Mr. Stratton.

W. R. Travers in continuing his evidence, observed that since he was last there he had had a short trip, which, however, was anything but enjoyable.

Proceeding with Farmers Bank affairs, he said that had it not been for the strenuous and continued opposition of the Bankers' Association, and the losses that had been incurred by certain local managers of Farmers Bank branches he was sure that he would have made the bank a financial success, in fact, he had never given up hope until the crash came in December. In cross examination he declared his innocence of having wilfully done anything illegal, and said that in obtaining the charter the only parties responsible for untrue affidavits or statements were Dr. Nesbitt, James Fitzgibbon W. H. Hunter and himself, and even in these cases there was no wilful wrong-doing.

SAYS SEVERS KNEW OF IT

Sheriff's Officers Knew Travers Was Wanted.

Toronto, Feb. 21.

Mr. Corley said yesterday that Deputy Sheriff Severs at least knew that he was not through with Travers and that he might need him even this week. He said that he had told him that he did not know whether the magistrate would sit on Saturday, and that if not, he would need him on Monday. He said that he was asked for a letter asking the sheriff to detain him, but that he did not give the letter, as it would have had no further weight than his spoken request.

Sheriff Mowat still continues to state that the length of Travers stay in the city is without precedent. Frank Law was held here after his conviction for even longer time.

Travers is back in the city looking not much the wrose for his hurry-up trip to Kingston penitentiary. Yesterday he was closeted with Inspector of Detectives Duncan, Crown Attorney Corley and Assistant County Crown Attorney Monahan.

Travers still says that when he was taken from the jail he vigorously protested that he should not be so removed, as he was wanted to complete his evidence in the Police Court, and asked that either Magistrate Denison, Inspector Duncan, Sheriff Mowat or Mr. Corley be communicated with. He was told that Mr. Corley knew on Friday of the plan to move him on Saturday, and yesterday he told Mr. Corley so.

It was learned yesterday from a responsible source that Premier Whitney had called for the presence of Dr. Bruce Smith, who is said to have asked Sheriff Mowat why Travers had not been removed. Dr. Smith was not in the city, having gone out upon a tour of inspection.

The central topic of conversation on the street yesterday was a call for the circumstances surrounding the removal of Travers and the placing of the responsibility.

Sinister Silence.

London, Feb. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Sheffield Telegraph says: "The program of the coming conference is a general warning to us. Canada's silence is most significant and sinister, and seems to point out that she is slipping away from us."

Favor Canadian Reciprocity.

Boston, Feb. 21.—The Massachusetts Retail Lumber Association is in favor of a Canadian reciprocity agreement. Four hundred members approve of anything tending to increase friendly and commercial relations with Canada.

CANAL CONTRACT AIRED IN COURT

Exchequer Court Takes up Peterborough Case.

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, February 21.—The Exchequer Court sat this morning to hear the case of Brown, Love & Aylmer vs. the King. This was a case arising out of a claim for certain extras performed by the claimants under a contract for the construction of section No 1, Lakefield and Peterborough division of the Trent Canal. The claimants had not been paid, because in the opinion of the deputy minister of railways and canals their claims could not be considered, owing to the provisions of the contract prohibiting any claim on the basis of an implied contract. The minister of railways was empowered by order in council to waive certain stipulations in the contract, preventing consideration by the court of the claim. T. Stewart for the claimants; R. J. McLaughlin, K.C. for the Crown.

FLIES OVER MANILA CITY

First Aeroplane Flight in Far East.

Special to The Review.

Manila, Feb. 21.—Aviator Bud Marsh made a splendid aeroplane flight over the city to-day, the first time an aeroplane has flown in the far east.

Wreck on I.C.R.

Pictou, N.S., Feb. 21.—The Intercolonial Railway train from Pictou to Oxford Junction met with a serious mishap yesterday afternoon. Near Munro's Siding, two and a half miles this side of River John, something caused the whole train of fifteen cars to leave the track, the engine alone remaining on the rails. Thirteen of the cars were freight, and there were two passenger coaches. No one was hurt, although the passenger cars are in rather bad shape. The freight cars are badly wrecked, many of them being laden with perishable food products from Prince Edward Island. The mix-up will not be cleared for a day or two.

Burglars Unsuccessful.

Brockville, Feb. 21.—Bold attempts were made to enter three places of business on Brockville's leading thoroughfares. The guilty party was aware of the movements of the night constable, who passed along the street examining doors less than five minutes before. After he had made the nightly examination of the doors the would-be intruder attempted to force them open with a jimmy or chisel. The efforts were unsuccessful.

They Pinched McCurdy.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 21.—At the completion of the aviation exhibition here Sunday, J. A. D. McCurdy and Clem Beachy, aviators, and Col. T. J. T. Brown, chairman of the census celebration committee; Gen. U. Stroude of West Tampa racetrack, and Phil. Collins, treasurer for the racing association, were arrested on a charge of violating the state laws relative to the giving of exhibitions on Sunday, to which admission is charged.

Drowned at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Feb. 21.—Foreman Harris, of the Magee Walton Ice Co., while out on the bay Sunday morning found a Christy hat, a black overcoat and a pair of gloves close to one of the channels in the ice field. A card in one of the pockets bore the name of C. Wilson, 370 Wilson street.

The police were notified and on investigation found that a man bearing the above name has been missing since Thursday.

Mr. Schwitzer Appointed.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—The last of the important positions at the Printing Bureau has been filled by the appointment of T. H. Schwitzer as mechanical superintendent. The new superintendent graduated in the engineering course at McGill University, and is a brother of the recently deceased chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

No Youthful Smokers.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 21.—One must be eighteen to smoke legally, according to a bill introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Collins. The measure provides that it shall be a misdemeanor to furnish cigars, cigarettes, tobacco or "the makings" to a child under eighteen. The age limit has been raised by the bill from sixteen years.

BURNING ALL THE VICTIMS

China Making Desperate Efforts to Get Rid of Plague.

Pekin, Feb 21.—There is a notable attempt on the part of the Chinese Government to stay the spread of the plague, and sanitary measures are being strictly enforced in all the various towns, where a few weeks ago the disease was allowed full swing unhampered. Instructions have been issued that every village burn its dead. The panic and fear of the plague have overridden the Chinese superstition against cremation, and now almost daily the torch is applied to piles of hastily constructed coffins, among which are often seen bodies wrapped only in shrouds.

In the town of Kwongchangtze, near the Manchurian Railway, where the daily death list has numbered a hundred or more, masked men go about with sleds and pick up the bodies lying in the streets, where they have been placed by relatives. The sleds transport them to the west gate, and from there they are removed in carts in lots of four or five to the cremation grounds.

Every house is inspected daily. The important shops keep a man at the door with an atomizer, and with this he sprays all persons entering the shop with a solution of carbolic acid. The refuse, which was formerly thrown into the streets is now removed each day from the houses.

The Mukden authorities are promptly despatching physicians and nurses with all the requisites for taking care of the sick, to villages where new outbreaks occur, and this precaution, it is believed, will result in checking the spread of the disease.

A correspondent who visited Hu-Lan, which is thirty miles north of Harbin, found that towns are afflicted. For many weeks the governor, with the customary fatalism, was indifferent to the awful work of the plague. He has now been suddenly roused into activity, and, clad in mask and bandages, personally superintends the cremation of the accumulated bodies.

In one village nearby, where formerly seventy people lived, there are now thirty-four, the other thirty-six having died from the plague and been cremated. The dread of death seems to have set in throughout the afflicted regions, and the people, fearing infection, refuse to go any distance from their homes. Trade and commerce have been therefore greatly affected in all parts of the country where the disease has appeared.

According to the Government statistics, there have been a few deaths in Pekin and Tientsen.

Burning Lazarettos.

Harbin, Feb. 21.—Although the bubonic plague now is said to be waning in Southern Manchuria, reports from the northern part yesterday stated that the scourge was growing in virulence there. All of the Lazarettos just outside the towns in Southern Manchuria are being burned to-day. Parts of towns where the plague raged in its most virulent form are also being destroyed.

Plague in Glasgow.

London, Feb. 21.—According to The Morning Post, there are isolated cases of the bubonic plague at Glasgow and East Anglia. The plague has killed 75,000 in China.

H. H. Miller Moves for Inquiry Into the Cause of so Many Fatalities.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—On a resolution which recited that one trainman in 190 was killed on Canadian railways, and one in every 33 injured in a year, and that the Government should cause an investigation to be made, with the view of devising some means to provide better protection, with the object of preventing so great a loss of life and so frequent accidental injury, H. H. Miller (S. Grey) pointed out in the House of Commons yesterday that on Canadian railways there was not a sufficient sectional staff maintained to safeguard the lives of trainmen and traveling public. The hours were too long, and he thought the cause was partly due to lack of enforcement of regulations and lack of protective equipment.

Hon. George Graham thought that Canada was moving rapidly towards better railways and better management. He mentioned recent improvements in the way of more money spent for protection, heavier rails, fewer level crossings, more double tracks, interlocking switches and safety devices of all kinds. As to the proposed regulation guarding cattle and protecting farmers from loss, the Minister pointed out that the original framers of railway law approached the problem from the point of view that the right of way belonged to the railway, and cattle on it might cause loss of life to passenger or employes. The railway commission had more plenary power than the Interstate Commerce Commission. Its inspectors reported on every accident.

"Have inspectors the right to prosecute? If not, why not give it to them," asked Mr. Miller, bringing up the old question of enforcing Federal law.

Mr. Graham: Results is what we are after, and we get better results than in the United States, where they have power to prosecute.

The Minister of Railways went on to show that the climatic difficulty was gradually being overcome. Railway employment of its nature involved danger, but owing to the standardization of equipment and the regulation of the hours of employment by the railway brotherhoods, the elements of danger were being eliminated. The regulations of the Railway Board were stringent, and rolling stock had to be built to comply with those orders. He thought that legislation would be introduced this session to give the board absolute power to employ all the experts necessary to maintain a thorough inspection of railway equipment.

Hon. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, quoted statistics in Britain, Canada and the United States to show that Canada was more saving of passenger and employes' life and injury than the republic, although much less than England. But Canada had great mountains and much territory, in which the physical conditions caused greater risk than in comparatively level England. He showed that Canada's laws for the protection of life must be good, as the statistics showed much lower proportions of loss than in the United States, where conditions were similar.

Mr. Miller offered to withdraw his resolution, but Dr. Sproule objected, and Sir Wilfrid moved the adjournment.

Just before the House rose the bill of Mederech Martin (Montreal), providing for the fortnightly payment of railway employes, was given a second reading, passed through the committee stage, and stands for third reading.

George Perley, chief Conservative whip, expressed dissent, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that if the railways had any objections to offer they would be given an opportunity before a third reading.

Hon. Mr. King, on behalf of Mr. Graham, stated that the Minister approved of the bill.

In reply to a question by Dr. Sproule, the Prime Minister stated that he had not yet received the text of the new treaty affecting pelagic sealing in Behring Sea.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) read to the House a letter by Governor Dix, published in a New Yok paper, regarding the Long Sault bill, now before Congress, in which the writer suggested that a hydrographic survey be made of the locality before any legislative action. This was necessary in view of the superior rights of navigation in the St. Lawrence channel. Sir Wilfrid did not think it was necessary to bring this phase of the question before the British ambassador at Washington.

Alex. Haggart (Winnipeg) wanted a bill to incorporate the Security Trusts Corporation amended so that the name of the company would not conflict with one already doing business. The bill goes back to the banking committe.

Catarrhal Bad Breath

Corrected Quickly by the Use of

Catarrhozone

Catarrh is an inflammation. Where there is inflammation there is always more or less offensive secretion. Inflammation may be of the very active sort, but it is often of the slow kind, and this is the particular form in which the breath is rendered offensive and the presence of the sufferer becomes an offence to every person of delicate sensibility.

Bad breath is in itself sufficient to urge you to correct it, because one dislikes to be unpleasant to their friends, but this form of catarrh is dangerous because it supplies a hotbed for the development of Consumption or of other diseases of the throat and lungs.

Bad breath is an evidence that the microbes have found a good resting place and are carrying on their evil inroads into the health of the body.

Catarrhozone acts at once and destroys these minute organisms, but it does more—it heals the inflamed surfaces in which they found a nesting place and consequently removes both cause and effects of their action.

If we only highly estimated the value of prevention and used Catarrhozone at the beginning of a cold or just before it becomes well seated, the deadly ravages of Consumption would be stayed and the terrible agonies of sufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis completely abolished.

There is no remedy as effective for bad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhozone. Besides being healing and soothing it is germ destroying. Nothing ever offered to the public can compare with it in its promptness, efficiency, and permanency of action, and you can buy it from any dealer in medicine throughout the Dominion of Canada, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 sizes. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

REBELLION OF EIGHTEEN

Eighteen of the most prominent Liberals in Toronto, men of the stamp of Sir Edmund Walker, J. L. Blaikie, W. D. Mathews, W. K. George, H. S. Strathy, E. R. Wood and John Eaton, have declared deliberately and over their signatures that reciprocity is, in their thinking, greatly detrimental to Canada's best interests. They have issued a manifesto, giving ten sound reasons for this opposition to the leaders of their political faith—big, sound, patriotic, large-minded reasons—and their united condemnation of the greatest give-away Canada has yet experienced, is the strongest blow the reciprocal measure has yet received.

Had these eighteen, or a portion of the eighteen, been Conservative, the partisan Liberal chorus would have cried "politics." But everyone of the eighteen is a Liberal, many of them in things ordinary strong supporters of the party principles. In this reciprocity matter they differ so strongly, so unhesitatingly, that they premeditatedly break away from their party and boldly declare their deep conviction that the reciprocity deal will harm instead of benefit Canada.

Coming right on the heels of the Toronto Board of Trade's 280-to-13 resolution against reciprocity, it is a remarkable evidence of the emphatic opinion in business circles against the consummation of this betrayal of Canada into the hands of the Americans. Quite true it is that the Liberal newspapers and politicians tried to solace themselves with the thought that the Board of Trade was located in Toronto, and that Toronto Toryism was at the bottom of it. But these eighteen heavy-weight, leading business men and financiers, cannot be accused of being tainted with Toryism, not one of them. They have enough patriotism, enough backbone, however, to denounce the agreement, knowing that it is antagonistic to the country's best interests.

What sort of satisfaction the Liberal newspapers or politicians can get out of the situation is hard to imagine. They cannot belittle the importance of the men or their views. They cannot accuse them of Toryism, or having an axe to grind. They can make no defence whatever, except to say that they believe these eighteen men all to be flatly mistaken in their ideas. And this would sound rather ironical, referring to the leaders of the Canadian business and financial world.

The real fact is that the reception of the agreement has been of the cold water variety. It was expected at Ottawa that it would be received by the country with open arms, but no enthusiasm has manifested itself ever. The opposition to it is springing up from unexpected quarters and the making of any trade agreement at all with the United States is bitterly opposed. What justification the Laurier Government can find in pushing the agreement through, in the face of such a general outcry, is not apparent. The interests of common sense point to the necessity of a direct reference to the people BEFORE THE AGREEMENT IS RATIFIED BY THE CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

WILL HE RETIRE

The Canadian Century says—Hon. J. R. Stratton allows himself to be interviewed by his own paper, the Peterborough Examiner, regarding the anti-reciprocity declaration signed by nearly all the farmers in North Monaghan, one of the townships of his constituency. He says—

"The gentleman who circulated it says that it was signed by 189 out of 218 farmers asked, but it is safe to say that not one out of the 189 read it through from beginning to end."

As a matter of fact no farmer signed the declaration without careful reading of it, and intelligent discussion of it. The editor of the Canadian Century found that the farmers of North Monaghan were generally well informed. They discussed the matter in a very intelligent way, asked many questions, and knew perfectly well the meaning of what they were signing. We are surprised that Hon. J. R. Stratton, who has lived in Peterborough County for many years, has such a poor opinion of his constituents that he thinks they would sign such a declaration without reading it.

Perhaps Mr. Stratton does not expect to be a candidate in that constituency again or he would not be so ready to insult his constituents.

A BRANCH HOUSE

Speaking of some of the effects of the reciprocity deal, the Toronto News aptly points out—Prices will be fixed by these great United States concerns. The export trade will be done from American centres. Our whole commercial autonomy will be endangered. In many respects we shall become a branch house of the United States with the steady pressure of over ninety millions of people upon seven or eight millions threatening ultimate commercial and political consequences that we cannot afford to ignore. The great American corporations seldom hesitate at the means necessary to accomplish their ends. They will establish newspapers to defend their methods and advance their purposes. They will throw their influence into Canadian elections. They will ally themselves with the interests which under the new policy will be forced to depend upon American markets. They will appeal to a vast mass of new settlers who know nothing of older Canada, who can have no natural allegiance to British as distinguished from American institutions, who know little of Canadian achievements or sacrifices, and who will be interested only in their own material prosperity. At best we have a mighty problem of assimilation on our hands, and surely it is profoundly unfortunate that it should be made more difficult by a commercial agreement with a foreign country which amounts at least to a partial separation of the Eastern and Western communities from the older Provinces.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It was a moving scene when Mr. Travers departed from Toronto.

Now is a good time for Mr. Travers to unburden his conscience with all he knows. Six years in a penitentiary cell is a long time to keep silent.

Now are there eighteen good sensible Liberals in Peterborough who who will publish a protest against the Laurier reciprocity pact? We trow not.

Col. Sam Hughes is in Washington hunting for Champ Clark. The latter doesn't fully appreciate the honor of being in Editor Macdonald's class.

President Taft has seized his big stick for use in the Senate. With the calling of another session, a great chance for a congressional row would be afforded. In the words of Towser, "right at 'em, old boy."

The department of justice denies all knowledge of Travers' removal to Kingston. It seems to be up to Sheriff Mowat. What use is a sheriff who comes out of somnolence with such a violent start?

The New York American, on May 20, 1903, said:—"Eventually of course Canada will come in. That will happen when we want her. Meantime she is, so to speak, keeping herself for us in colonial cold storage."

Sir Mort Clark, former lieutenant-governor of Ontario, is one of the signatories to the "manifesto of the eighteen." Sir Mort will be read out of the good graces of the Toronto Globe for all time to come.

The Montreal Herald says that the business men don't know what is to their best interest as well as the politicians who run the affairs of the country. Imagine Sir Wilfrid Laurier telling Sir Edmund Walker or John Eaton how to run a big business and make money! Sir Wilfrid can't even stop the leaks at Ottawa, whereby $200,000 goes in one sum to over-classifying contractors on the G.T.P. He cannot even stop Hon. Bill Pugsley spending $30,000 in dredging a harbor worth 30,000 cents. To say the crowd at Ottawa is composed of men who know better what is best for the big business concerns than the men who have spent a life-time climbing to the top is rank libel on the business men—and about as inane and foolish an argument as can be advanced. It is the best the hard case will afford.

SAVED HER FINGER.

CONTAINS
Zam-Buk

Mrs. R. E. Bedwell, of 237 Provencher Ave., St. Boniface, Winnipeg, says:—"Some time ago my children took diphtheria, and while attending them the poison entered a small scratch on the second finger of my left hand. This became very sore and blood-poisoning soon set in. For months after the children were quite well I was suffering from a shockingly bad finger. The scratch was caused originally by a pin, and in itself, was not at all serious. The consequences, however, of neglecting this scratch, were very serious to me.

"When the blood-poisoning set in I tried poultices and a salve I had in the house. These, however, did not have the desired effect. Quite on the contrary the finger became more and more swollen and discolored. It then began to fester, and I had to call in a doctor. He lanced the finger to let out the pus, and you can imagine how painful the finger was! Despite his care, however, it again festered and the ointments, liniments, and other preparations which the doctor gave me seemed absolutely unable to bring about any relief.

"The doctor thereupon advised me to go into the St. Boniface Hospital. I feared that if I went to the Hospital the finger would be amputated. We were told of a case similar to my own in which Zam-Buk had effected a cure when everything else had failed and the doctor had said that only amputation could save the person's hand.

"We, therefore, decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. A supply was procured, and we commenced the Zam-Buk treatment. It only needed a few days to show the wisdom of this step. The blood-poisoning and inflammation were reduced, the pain became less acute, and it was evident very shortly that the trouble was being reduced to a less and still less area. We persevered with the Zam-Buk and in the end the festering sore was thoroughly cleansed, then healed. In under three weeks from first commencing with Zam-Buk, the finger was entirely well; and had we applied Zam-Buk in the first place, instead of trying ordinary preparations, no doubt I should have saved myself hours and hours of acute agony."

All mothers should note this case. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for blood-poisoning, festering, cuts, scratches from barbed wire, bruises, eczema, rashes, tetter, salt rheum, face sores, ulcers, piles, bad leg, varicose veins, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c a box, all druggists and stores or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1c stamp for postage of free trial box. Refuse all imitations.

Bad Storm In Alaska.

Cordova, Alaska, Feb. 21.—One of the worst storms ever experienced in Cordova and the Copper River country ended Sunday after three days of continuous rain and of wind reaching a velocity of eighty miles an hour. Snow melting on the mountainsides caused bad landslides on the railroad running up the Copper River, but they are now clear. The river bank is full, and it is feared that the flood will start the glaciers moving long before the Alaska winter is ended.

Seven Were Cremated.

Sutton, W.Va., Feb. 21.—Seven persons lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the home of J. D. Hardin in this city on Sunday. Only Mr. Hardin escaped, the six remaining members of his family, and Ada Green, a 14-year-old girl who made her home with the Hardins, perishing in the flames. The fire was caused by a natural gas grate.

French-Canadian Resentment.

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 21.—At a large meeting held at Tecumseh Sunday a resolution was adopted and a message sent to Hon. N. A. Belcourt, approving the steps taken by the French-Canadians in resenting the presence of Bishop Fallon at the installation of Archbishop Gauthier at Ottawa.

To Avoid General Revision.

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—The passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill by the U. S. Senate is favored in a resolution adopted by the Board of Trade here yesterday, in order, the resolution states, "to avert any broader or more general revision of the tariff."

New School Principle.

Lindsay, Feb. 21.—Mr. Donald Mackenzie of Clifford, Ont., has been engaged as principal of the East Ward Public School, succeeding the late Mr. Robinson. Mr. Mackenzie is a Bruce County boy, and comes highly recommended.

Flight Over Harbor.

Nice, France, Feb. 21.—Aviator Le Gagneaux, of France, made a daring flight over the harbor in his Bleriot yesterday. He circled the steamship Cleveland, of the Hamburg-American Line, three times.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Snow aided the bears to-day in the wheat market. At the close prices showed a net decline of ⅛c to ⅝c to 1⅛c. The day's trading left corn ⅛c to ¼c off, oats down a shade, to ⅛c, and provisions varying from 5c lower to 7½c advance.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 20.—The market at the opening showed a steady undertone with prices ⅛d higher on the steadier American cables on Saturday and the decrease in local stocks here. Following the opening the market was depressed with a lower tendency and values declined ⅛d with the undertone heavy. Pressure resulted from the liberal American shipments and larger Russian shipments for the week than was expected. Russian shipments amounted to 2,176,000 bushels, against 2,736,000 bushels last week. The amount on passage showed a large increase.

Five hundred and thirty-two sheep and lambs sold as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4 to $4.60; rams, $3.50 to $3.75; lambs, $6 to $6.40, and one or two selected lots sold at $6.50 and $6.55, weighing 90 lbs. each. Wesley Dunn reports the lamb trade dull and sure to go lower.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered at the market, $7.20 and $6.90 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b., cars at country points were the prices quoted by all dealers here to-day, with 50c per cwt. deducted for all thick fat heavy hogs.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 20.—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 18 were 2100 cattle, 275 sheep and lambs, 2800 hogs and 550 calves. The offerings on the market this morning were 1000 cattle, 300 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 150 calves.

The supply of cattle was a little larger than a week ago, but this fact seemed to have no depression on the market as values were firmly maintained. The weather was decidedly cold, which tended to curtail the demand some, as the attendance of buyers was not as large as usual, but on the other hand a very fair trade was done and at the close few were left over.

There is no change in prices here to note, sales of choice steers being made at 6¾c, good at 6¼c to 6½c, fairly good at 5¾c to 6c, fair at 5¼c to 5½c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5c per lb. Sales of car loads of extra heavy cows and bulls mixed were made at 5¾c per lb.

There was a somewhat unsettled feeling in the market for hogs, notwithstanding that the offerings were smaller. Packers in some cases tried to get prices down by only bidding $7.25 to $7.50 per cwt. for selected lots, which drovers would not accept, and in consequence trade in the early part of the day was slow, as the buying was left to one concern, who paid the same prices as ruled last Wednesday, viz., $7.65 to $7.75 per cwt. for selected lots, weighed off the cars.

A feature of the market for small meats is the high prices that are being demanded for calves and spring lambs, $16 per head being paid for choice stock of the former and $8 for ordinary ones, while spring lambs sold at $12 to $14 each, at which figures butchers state they stand to lose from $2 to $4 per head, according to the prices they are realizing for them in a retail way. Sheep are steady at four cents to 4½c and lambs, at 6c to 6½c per pound.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"It is all over!" she said. "Forgive me. I won't laugh again."

And then Rouletabille said, speaking in a very low tone:

"It will be over when we know how he got in."

Rouletabille opened the door and called Bernier and his wife, and a general consultation took place.

Rouletabille, who was sitting at Darzac's desk taking notes, arose and said:

"So far it is very simple. We have only one hope. It is in the few moments that Bernier was off guard about 6 o'clock. At least at that time no one was in front of the door. But there was some one behind it. It was you, M. Darzac. Can you reiterate, after having thoroughly searched your memory, that when you went into your room you instantly closed the door and drew the bolt?"

"I can," replied Darzac solmenly. And he added: "And I opened that door only when you and Sainclair knocked upon it. I swear it."

And in saying this, as later events proved, the man spoke the truth.

Rouletabille said:

"It is well, Darzac, you have closed the circle. The apartment in the square tower is now closed as firmly as was the yellow room, which was like a strong box, or as the 'inexplicable gallery.'"

"One would guess immediately that Larsan was mixed up in the affair," I exclaimed. "It is the same mode of procedure."

"Yes," observed Mme. Darzac. "Yes, M. Sainclair, it is the same mode of procedure." And she unfastened her husband's collar to show the wounds hidden beneath it.

"See!" she said. "They are the same nail prints. I know them well."

"No; it is not the same thing," said Rouletabille. "It is just the opposite. In the yellow room there was a body missing. In the room in the round tower there is a body too many."

CHAPTER XIV.

Mystery of the "Body Too Many."

NEXT day, 11 o'clock. Where was Rouletabille? His bed had not been disturbed. I dressed myself hurriedly and went to look for my friend, whom I found in the outer court. He took me by the arm and led me into the vast drawing room of la Louve. There I was surprised to find, although it was not yet time for luncheon, everybody assembled. M. and Mme. Darzac were there. Mme. Edith, from the dark corner where she was reclining on a sofa, saluted us.

"Ah, here is M. Rouletabille with his friend, Sainclair! Now we shall know why we have all been summoned here."

He addressed himself to Mme. Rance.

"First of all, madame, permit me to inform you that I have decided to suppress the 'guard' which you kindly allowed me to establish, although it vexed you."

"Ah, really, are you going to withdraw the guard from the chateau, M Rouletabille? Well, I am very glad to hear it, although I assure you that it did not vex me in the least," exclaimed Mme. Edith, with an affectation of gayety. "On the contrary, the fact proves to me that M. and Mme. Darzac are no longer in any danger."

"This is true, madame," replied Rouletabille, "since last night."

Mme. Darzac could not refrain from a nasty movement which no one save myself perceived.

"So much the better," cried Mme. Edith. "May heaven be praised! But how is it that my husband and I are the last to hear the news? Interesting things must have been happening last night. The nocturnal trip of M. Darzac to Castelar was one of them without doubt."

As she spoke I could see the embarrassment of M. and Mme. Darzac. The former, after a glance at his wife, started to speak, but Rouletabille would not permit him to do so.

"Madame, you should know the reason why M. and Mme. Darzac have ceased to run any danger. Your husband, madame, has told you of the frightful tragedy of the Glandier two years ago, and you know also, of course, that the reason why we have placed such a strong guard here around M. Darzac and his wife was because we had seen a certain man again."

"I do."

"Well, this man cannot appear again ever."

"What has become of him?"

"He is dead."

"When did he die?"

"Last night. He was killed in the square tower."

We all sprang to our feet at this declaration in the greatest agitation. M. and Mme. Rance seemed completely stupefied by the words which they had heard, and M. and Mme. Darzac and myself were plunged into the most profound agitation by the fact that Rouletabille had not hesitated to reveal the secret.

"In the square tower?" cried Mme. Edith. "And who, then, has killed him?"

"M. Robert Darzac," replied Rouletabille.

Mme. Edith arose, seized Darzac by the hand and exclaimed with an emphasis which made me decide that I had judged her wrongly when I called her affected:

"Bravo, M. Robert! All right! You are a gentleman!"

Arthur Rance arose and said, his face as pallid as though he had seen a ghost:

"Larsan is dead. Well, no one is more rejoiced than myself to know it, and if he has received the punishment due to his crimes from the hand of M. Darzac no one is more to be congratulated than M. Darzac. But I consider that it would be wrong for M. Darzac to make any attempt to conceal an act which is an honor to himself. It would be better to inform the authorities. If they come to learn of this affair from outsiders, think what the situation would be! If we give out the information ourselves we shall show that an act of justice has been committed. If we conceal anything we shall place ourselves in the category of malefactors." He paused.

"I believe that my husband is right," Edith added. "But we ought to know just what has happened."

And she addressed herself directly to M. and Mme. Darzac. But both of the latter were still under the spell of surprise which Rouletabille had caused them by his remarks, who that very morning in my presence had promised to be silent and had sworn us all to silence. M. Rance repeated nervously: "Why should we conceal anything? Why should we? We must tell everything."

All at once the reporter seemed to take a sudden resolution. He leaned toward Arthur Rance, whose right hand was resting on a cane, the head carved of ivory by a famous cutter at Dieppe. Rouletabille took the cane in his hand.

"May I look at it?" he asked. "I am an amateur ivory carver myself. It is really very beautiful. It is a figure by Lambesse, and there is no better workman on the Norman shore."

The young man seemed to be entirely engrossed in studying the cane. As he touched the carving the stick fell from his hand and rolled toward Darzac. I picked it up and returned it immediately to M. Rance. Rouletabille cast a withering look at me, and I read in that glance that somehow or other I had shown myself an idiot.

Rouletabille asked abruptly of Mrs. Rance:

"Well, madame, do you think we ought to inform the authorities?"

"I think so more than ever," she replied. "That which we are powerless to discover they would certainly find out. And I warn you of one thing, M. Rouletabille, and that is that we may already be too late in seeking out the officers of justice. If we had told them of our fears at the very beginning you would have been spared some long hours of watching and sleepless nights which have profited you nothing, since, as now appears, they did not prevent what you dreaded from coming to pass."

Rouletabille motioned Mme. Edith to a chair and again picked up the cane which M. Rance had laid down upon a sofa. He replied sharply to Mme. Edith:

"Madame, you are wrong in asserting that all the precautions which I had taken for the safety of M. and Mme. Darzac have been useless. If I am obliged to acknowledge the unexplainable presence of one body too many I am also compelled to refer to the absence—perhaps less inexplicable—of one member of our own party."

"What is that?" inquired Mme. Edith, with a mocking smile. "In such a case I fail to see how you find any mystery," giving a flippant imitation of the reporter's words—"a body too many on the one side, an unexplained absence on the other. Everything is for the best."

"Perhaps," rejoined Rouletabille. "But the most frightful thing of all is that the unexplained disappearance comes just at the right time to make known to us apparently the identity of the 'body too many.' Madame, I regret to tell you that the person we cannot find is none other than your uncle, M. Bob."

"Old Bob!" screamed the young woman. "Old Bob has disappeared!"

"Unfortunately it is true," said Rouletabille.

And he let the cane drop to the ground.

But the news of the sudden disappearance of Old Bob had so seized the Rances and the Darzacs that no one paid any attention to the cane as it fell.

"My dear Sainclair, will you be kind enough to pick up that cane?" asked Rouletabille.

I did as I was ordered, and quickly, too, but Rouletabille did not even deign to thank me. Mme. Edith turned like a lioness upon Robert Darzac, who recoiled from her almost in fear as she shrieked:

"You have killed my uncle!"

Her husband and myself with difficulty prevented her from flying at him. We entreated her to be calm and to remember that because her uncle had absented himself from the peninsula did not necessarily mean that he had disappeared in the potato sack, and we reproached Rouletabille with his brutality in blurting out an idea which could only be, at the present time, at all events, a hypothesis of his uneasy mind. But the young woman turned scornfully.

"M. Sainclair, I sincerely hope that my uncle's absence from here will only be of short duration, for if it should turn out otherwise I should accuse you of being an accomplice in the most cowardly murder. As to you," turning to Rouletabille, "the mere idea that you dared compare Larsan with my uncle, the kindliest soul and the greatest scholar of his time, forbids me to consider you as a friend, and I hope you will relieve me of your presence."

"Madame," replied Rouletabille, "I was just about to ask your permission to leave. I have a journey of twenty-four hours to take. I shall return to be of assistance to you in accounting for the disappearance of your uncle."

"If my uncle has not returned within twenty-four hours I shall lodge a complaint in the hands of the police, monsieur."

"It is a good plan, madame, but first I advise you to question all the servants in whom you have confidence, particularly Mattoni. Question him—question him. Ah, before I take my departure allow me to leave with you this excellent and historical book." And Rouletabille drew a small volume from his pocket. "This is a work of M. Albert Bataille, a copy of his 'Civil and Criminal Cases,' in which I advise you to read the adventures, disguises, travesties and deceptions wrought by an illustrious swindler whose true name was Ballmeyer

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN

Women suffering from any form of illness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established this confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Never has she published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which Mrs. Pinkham has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge needed in your case. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Mrs. Pinkham, care of Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

"Under no case had this province granted a gratuity to a discharged persons," concluded Mr. Hanna, "and the provision reads, 'Where it is necessary to dispense with a man by change of Government or through ill-health, without fault, the Government may—not shall—give a gratuity'."

Hon. Col. Hendrie, chairman of the railway committee, moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Railway Act. He explained that this was the provincial portion of joint legislation to be also enacted at Ottawa. It was for control of the interchange of freight between railway companies holding provincial charters and those chartered at Ottawa. The details had been drafted by Justice Mabee of the Dominion Board, and Chairman Leitch, of the Ontario Commission. Its necessity had been shown by conditions at Preston, and with respect to levies in the vicinity of Hamilton.

Col. Hugh Clark's bill with respect to fire insurance aims to provide a standard form of fire policy; to limit variations to the statutory conditions to such as are accepted by the insurer and the assured; to provide that a copy of the application shall be attached to the policy; to hold the inspector of insurance responsible for the administration of the act and the solvency of companies doing business in Ontario. Several amendments are made to the statutory conditions, all with a view to protecting the insured against companies that are practically insolvent, and against trickery, adjustment of fire claims, at the same time providing safeguards for the companies against fraudulent claims.

SYDNEY MINES, N.S., Jan. 25th, 1910.

"For many years, I suffered torture from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited food constantly and I lost 25 pounds in weight. I was afraid the disease was Cancer, but medicine gave only temporary relief.

I read about "Fruit-a-tives" and the cures this wonderful fruit medicine was making, and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say "Fruit-a-tives" has cured me when every other treatment failed and I reverently say "Thank God for 'Fruit-a-tives'." EDWIN ORAM, Sr.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold at 50c. box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or, from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN STEWART.

After only a few hours' illness, Elizabeth Kennedy, wife of the late John Stewart, passed away yesterday. The deceased came to this country thirty-six years ago from Aberdeen, Scotland, and took up residence in Peterborough. Her many estimable qualities had endeared her to a wide circle of friends.

Surviving her are two daughters namely, Mrs. Wm. Irwin and Mrs. Walter Wood both of this city.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. James Hamilton, 438 Sheridan street, on Wednesday, February 22nd.

MRS. ALEXANDER LAW.

At the good old age of 73 years Mrs. Alexander Law passed away at the family residence, 240 Stewart street this morning. Deceased had been ailing for some time. The survivors are three daughters Mrs. Cragie of British Columbia; Misses Minnie and Alexandria, at home, and one son, Bruce who resides on Charlotte street.

The funeral will take place at 3.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, from the family residence to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. J. G. Davidson will officiate.

DOALD REMANDED FOR ONE WEEK

Police Have Man Who Has Been Misbehaving

Charged with indecent exposure in the west part of the city, George Doald, faced the Magistrate this morning to explain his actions.

It appears that Doald was under the influence of liquor at the time and was unaware of his offence.

He is the same man who has been guilty of annoying small children of late and yesterday he faced a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

The chief not being ready to proceed with the evidence, the case was remanded for a week.

THIS VISITOR IS ACTING QUEERLY

It is Thought That His Mind is Unbalanced. Remanded for A Week.

The prisoner's box at police court this morning was occupied by a man who appeared on a charge of being dangerous and, apparently, insane.

To the chief of police yesterday he told a very queer story. He said he came from the west last summer, where he was in charge of two sections of land owned by his father, who is an immigration officer in England. He came to Peterborough, recently with two hundred dollars on him, but since then his mind has been a blank.

He strolled into Dr. Morgan's office yesterday and stated that he felt rather funny, and in a mind to do some harm.

He has spent some time in an asylum in Wisconsin, and had once been the victim of assault in the west, where he was slugged on the head.

Dr. McPherson also examined him and found his condition difficult to understand.

He was remanded for a week.

ALBERT CHEVALIER IN 'DADDY DUFARD'

In making his local debut as a star in "Daddy Dufard" Albert Chevalier one of the few character delineators on the boards to day, gifted with absolute genius, has chosen a congenial character comedy. This play written by Chevalier himself in collaboration with Leslmere Worrall, tells a charming love story set in interesting surroundings. The people of the play are mainly men and women who belong to the English music halls. The heroine is the young and talented daughter of the old time French actor, the part played by Chevalier, whose career is crossed by the jealousy of older artists.

There are three acts to "Daddy Dufard" the first in Daddy's loggia in Soho, the next two on the premises of the Alsatian's club, a small gambling in a more or less fashionable section of London, and the last is split into three scenes, the lobby, the stage and the green room of the Caledonia Theatre, a music hall in the West End.

Injecting into this promising setting are a large number of interesting characters, such as music hall singers and comedians, a music hall manager the employees of the gambling club of struggling young dramatist, and writers and musicians, friends of Daddy Dufard. A touch of variety will be lent to the music hall scene of the last act when Chevalier will discard his character of the old Frenchman for a few moments to appear as himself, Chevalier the music hall favorite. During these few moments Chevalier will have an opportunity to render a few of his character recitations and patter songs that made him famous. With these ingredients Worrall and Chevalier are much to blame if they have not provided Chevalier with a splendid vehicle for his genius. To judge from advance reports and the success of the play in other cities, the authors have made good. Their efforts and those of the star will be supplemented by those of well-known players. Chevalier's tour is under the direction of Liebler and Company. Chevalier will be seen at The Grand next Saturday, Feb. 25, matinee and evening, in "Daddy Dufard." The company—quite a remarkable one—includes among others Violet Heming, Leslie Kenyon, Frankl Raymond, Mary Barker, Harry Brett and Horace Mitchell

SACRED HEART T.A.S. WON DEBATE

Interesting Evening at St. Alphonses' Lyceum

A debate at St. Alphonse's Lyceum last night between Sacred Heart T. A. S. and St. Peter's T.A.S. was a great success. The decision was given to Sacred Heart debaters.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien acted as chairman and in making a few remarks said that debates were becoming very popular with the society.

The program was as follows;

Song, selected—Miss Devlin, accompanist, Miss Picard.

The program was as follows;

Duet, Excelsior—Messrs. New and Reid, accompanist, Mr Perry.

Vocal solo,—The Old Sexton, Mr. New, accompanist, Miss Doherty.

Debate—Resolved, that Municipal ownership and public utilities are more advantageous than private ownership.

The judge was Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore.

St. Peter's T.A.S., affirmative—J. J. Duffus, Vincent McCabe.

Sacred Heart Church, negative—R. Picard, J. McNichol.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick was called upon to give a very close decision and decided in favor of the negative.

After the debate addresses were given by Rev. Father McColl, Rev. Father O'Sullivan, of Victoria Road, Rev. Father Mcauley, of the Sacred Heart Church, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick and by the chairman, all of whom congratulated the debaters.

A Fine Attraction

TERCENTENARY OF THE BIBLE CELEBRATED IN GOOD STYLE

St. Paul's Church Packed to the Doors---Rev. Dr. Gilmour Lectured on History of the Bible in Interesting Manner---A Great Gathering.

The celebration of the 300th anniversary of the coming of the English Bible, which was held in St. Pauls' church, last evening, as promised, was a most interesting and profitable occasion.

It was estimated that over twelve hundred people heard the address delivered by Dr. J. L. Gilmour, the eminent Bible historian, and a former local boy, on the evolution of the Bible and its remarkable history. Every church in the city had cancelled its usual Monday evening meeting, and splendid representations from all of these contributed in swelling the immense audience.

The union choir of the church under the leadership of Mr. John Crane, furnished suitable and inspiring music. A beautiful solo was given by Miss Helen Davies, the talented soloist of St. Paul's. Six of the local clergymen occupied places on the platform, two of whom conducted the opening devotional exercises.

Rev. Isaac Couch, pastor of George Street Methodist Church, introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Gilmour, in a most eulogistic and complimentary manner. He paid a tribute to the reverend gentleman's ability as a student of the Bible, and also to the love and reverence which the Canadian people entertain for him.

In commencing his address, Dr. Gilmour remarked, "that of all the places in which tercentenary celebrations were being held, there was no place in which he would sooner prefer to speak than in Peterboro," and assured them he appreciated very highly the privilege of speaking to such a representative audience. He also realized the responsibility which accompanied such an attempt.

"Three hundred years ago" he said, "the King James version of the bible was submitted to the world, and from then down to the present it has been speaking to the nations of the world. It is surely fitting then that the English speaking portion of the people of the earth take the matter in hand and hold meetings for giving thanks to God. In our hearts we should cultivate sincere gratitude for having the Bible which God in his providence has given us. There are several things in the Bible for which we should be extremely thankful. In the first place because there is no other book in all the world that can compare with it; because it is a book that has worked itself into the hearts of millions.

"Six and a half millions of copies of the Scripture have been circulated by the Bible society.

"It contains books written by various types of men, some of them of wide horizon and others written by plain, homely, simple natures. The story of how the many books of the Bible have been preserved through all the ages is one of the most interesting studies. The purpose of the Bible is to trace God's great work in introducing his kingdom on earth. The Bible is a wonderful combination of literature of all kinds. There is narrative which soothes and comforts us, and which we all love to read. Bible narratives are without a superior in all the world's history. There is the beautiful psalm of Hannah, the plaintive psalm of Jonathan and other matchless lyrics, which make the poetry of the Bible unsurpassed in literature. Besides the poetry there is that wonderful book of Proverbs, full of wholesome advice. It should be the aim and ambition of everyone who has anything up of children to impress upon them to do with the training and bringing the advice contained in the Proverbs. Any country will be strong which has the teachings in them instilled in its people. Also in the stately sayings of the prophets, we find that which should make any man, country, or empire great. We might speak also of the sweetness, the pathos and the simplicity which stands out in hundreds of passages throughout the Scriptures. Noted scholars all refer to the concreteness and permanency of the Bible. Other words by famous men may pass away, but the words of the Bible can never.

"In the Bible there is a great moral earnestness. It is not like the writings of some frivolous dilettante, who seeks to pass away the idle hour. The Bible is all seriousness. It is full of the sweet wooing of God's grace, entreating men to seek the glory of God.

"We should all be particularly thankful for the translation of the Bible, the anniversary of which we are now celebrating. Critics have unhesitatingly said, that the authorized version of the Bible, which we now enjoy, was the first English classic.

"When the first King James version of the Bible was issued, there were two other versions competing against it. One was the bishops Bible and the other the Genevan. The latter was very popular with the Puritan element in England, and the former which was issued some eight years previous, was intended to be used in all the English Churches.

"When King James first came to the throne of England, he found a lot of controversy existing in regard to the Biblical matters. To settle all disputes a conference was called, where it was decided that a new Bible be issued to be known as the King James version. To carry out these plans fifty-four scholars were appointed who were divided into six groups. Two groups of each were stationed at each of the three universities, Westminster, Cambridge and Oxford. The scholars went at the Bible carefully, and when they had completed their labors they handed it over to a group of six men who supervised their work. It was then handed to the press for publication. The Genevan Bible was for a time its greatest rival, but it was ultimately driven from the field.

The simplicity and power contained in our Bible now is inimitable, and this sweetness in it we owe to those scholars who labored hard at the authorized version, for little or no remuneration."

Dr. Gilmour enlarged extensively on the beauties of our present Bible and his words were full of absorbing interest.

At the conclusion of his address a special appeal was made for funds for the movement now in progress.

LOCK MEN WERE BEHIND AGAIN

Pillpounders Had the Better of the 2-1 Score in Mercantile League Game

In a clean and well played Mercantile League fixture, last night, the Pillpounders won from the Lock Works seven, by a 2-1 score. The half time count was 1-0 for the Pillpounders. Only two penalties were handed out by "Bud" Kelly, of the Intermediates, who satisfied both teams with his rulings. Frank Heffernan worked on the line of the winners.

FORMER TORONTO TWIRLER IS DEAD

"Buttons" Briggs Has Passed Away

"Button" Briggs, who some years ago was one of the best, if not the best pitcher in the Eastern League, when he figured on the Toronto club's staff, along with "Jimmy" Gardner and Falkenburg, is dead. "Buttons" had few equals when right. He was a close student of the batsmen, and no one understood better than he did the art of serving out the twisters they didn't like to batsmen who faced him. He was a cool, clever worker, and the tighter the spot the better he pitched. Like the late lamented Gardiner, he had the "cross fire" down to perfection, and was an adept at playing the "corners." Briggs was a "big leaguer" when a mere youngster, being a first-ranker when in his teens. He did not take the best care of himself, and as a consequence dropped out of baseball for a while, until picked up by the Utica club in the State League. He was a sensation in that league, and Toronto purchased his release. Chicago drafted him from Toronto after a successful season, and he did good work for the Cubs for a couple of years. Last season Briggs was in the American Association. Though prominent in baseball for over twenty years Briggs was comparatively a young man.—Toronto News.

BASEBALL

For a bonus paid to be $150,000, the National League has made a 20-year contract with a sporting firm here to use a baseball of its manufacture. It is the ball now in use and in adopting it the magnates rejected an offer from a Cincinnati firm of $325,000 in twenty annual installments of $16,250, of which half was to be in cash and half in baseballs supplied. Heretofore it has been supposed even among the players, that the big leagues paid about 95 cents a piece for balls which would retail at $1.25 but the developments of to-day show that they not only pay nothing, but receive all the balls they use free and considerable cash besides.

The Doughty Patent Process for making Bicycle Tires is probably the greatest step forward in the tire industry in recent years. Dunlop Detachable Bicycle Tires are made by the Doughty Process. This accounts for Dunlop exclusiveness when it comes to durability, resiliency and uniformity.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

There will be a game of basketball between the Collegiate and Business College teams of the city league on the local Association's floor to-night at 5.00 p.m.

The bowling game in the Association league last-night was very close like all the games in the competition that have been played so far. The champion Lancashire Trio went down to defeat before the millionaires, who set a new team score for the present competition. The competition is keen and close indeed, the Strikers being the only team that have not been defeated. The standing of the different teams are as follows:

	Won	Lost
Strikers	1	0
Millionaires	2	1
Mig-les	2	1
Midgets	1	1
Lancashire Trio.	1	2
Millards	0	1

The Y.M.C.A. Intermediate hockey team defeated the Auburn team last night at the Brook Street rink, by a score of 5-2. The Y.M.C.A. lined up as follows—Goal, W. Flowers; point A. Fitzgerald; cover, Gibson; rover, N. Taylor; centre, C. Nicholls, l. wing E. Hanwell; r. wing, N. Carter. Referee "Bill" Downey.

The city basketball league looks like a good thing from here. With two teams from the Canadian General Electric Company; two from the Y.M.C.A., one Collegiate Institute, business College, and the T.A.S., with these teams there should be some classy sport during the early spring. If there are other teams who wish to enter a team. Kindly have your representative at the meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Friday evening at 7.30 p.m.

YOUTH WHO STOLE HAD BAD RECORD

Escaped from Mimico Once

Earl Schwier, a sixteen year old youth is in the county jail, charged with theft, and he will appear before Magistrate Edmison next Friday morning at eleven o'clock.

The youth hired out with a farmer named Silas Bullied, in the 3rd concession Smith to help at taking out poles. He worked a day and left the same evening taking with him several articles including some socks.

Constable Cochrane had a warrant issued for his arrest which was carried out this morning, the young man being located in the city.

It appears that he has a record having been confined to Mimico reformatory for some time, for a previous offence and from which place he escaped.

PAINFUL YEAR FOR THE POPE

New York, Feb. 20.—Declaring that the proposed celebration in Rome in commemoration of the fortieth anniversary of the taking of that city from the control of the Pope is an insult to the Pontiff and every member of the Catholic Church, Archbishop Farley, in a letter to all all the churches in this archdiocese, asks that, as the Pope is in more than ordinary need of material help this year, liberal contributions be made at the Peter's Pence collection to be taken up next Sunday.

He also requests the prayers of the clergy and laity for the Pope "in all their devotions, public and private, that his enemies may not prevail."

MOST PAINFUL YEAR.

The letter, which was addressed to the pastors of the archdiocese, is in part as follows:—

"This year of grace 1911 promises to be one of the most painful to him personally in the pontificate of our Holy Father, Pius X. The open and secret enemies of the Holy See have decided to hold a celebration in the Eternal City in commemoration fo the sacrilegous taking of Rome forty years ago. The celebration is to be of such a character as to prolong the insult, implied as far as possible into the year. The evident and declared intent of this is to inflict the deepest and most poignant pain on the Vicar of Christ under his own eyes.

SECRET SOCIETIES HOSTILE.

"Only a few weeks ago the heads of the secret societies so bitterly hostile to the Church, who are to take a leading part in the demonstration, instructed their followers throughout the world to do everything in their power to make the coming festivity as anti-Papal as possible.

"The insult thus offered to the Holy See, it need not be said, is directed not less against every member of the Catholic Church. The public speech of the present mayor of Rome uttered a few months ago and stigmatized by his own co-religionists of London as brutal, gave ample promise of what may be expected at the coming demonstration in Rome.

"We cannot remain silent in the face of this indignity, which menaces the supreme Father of the faithful."

Harem Skirt Ties-up Traffic

London, Feb. 21.—The first appearance of the harem skirt was made here Saturday. On Regent street, wearing a blue turban-like toque, blue velvet skirt and bodice and pink pantaloons, a lady walked, calmly chatting with her male escort. A crowd gathered and followed her. The crowd grew and grew, and waited outside a shop while she purchased some articles, and then accompanied her in ever-increasing numbers while she booked seats at a music hall.

Policemen had to hold up traffic to allow her and her entourage to re-enter Regent street, soon after which the assemblage grew so large that she was in danger of arrest "for causing a crowd to assemble." Her escort then called a cab, and they drove off.

To the Business and Professional Men of Peterborough

BEFORE THE CONVENTION

We want you to think about your need of a reliable Safe. Every business or professional man needs a fire-proof, burglar-proof Safe just as sure as he needs insurance on his general property. In fact his private papers—valuable records—legal documents—books, etc., as a rule present more wealth than the property he insures. If a resident of the city buys one of our Safes during convention we will put it on his premises at our expense.

DURING THE CONVENTION

We want you to be sure to look over our exhibit and have demonstrated to you the features that make our Safes worthy of their reputation. Ask our man and learn the "Reason Why."

GOLDIE & McCULLOCH FIRE PROOF SAFES

Have won their reputation on straight quality merit—and as absolutely fire resisting. Goldie & McCulloch Safes went scatheless through the fiercest heats of the great fires of Toronto, Ottawa, Hull, Campbellton, Carleton Place, Three Rivers, Que., Fernie, B.C., Sydney, C.B., Woodstock, N.B., and others in perfect safety of contents stored.

TO VISITING HARDWAREMEN AND OTHERS

DURING THE CONVENTION

We're going to sell our entire exhibit of Goldie & McCulloch Fireproof Safes. We do not intend to ship a single Safe back to Galt.

AFTER CONVENTION

We'll ship right from Peterborough to purchaser, and we'll pay freight too.

BUT, NOW

Is the time to buy a first class reliable Safe at a price you won't have an opportunity of getting again. If you have an old Safe which is too small or is not absolutely reliable we will make you an allowance on it.

OUR EXHIBIT

Will be located at the west end of the Armouries among GALT MANUFACTURES. Be sure to look us up.

Lines on Scott's Reciprocity Poem

O singer who singest of Zion, of a truth "a strange song" in thy mouth,
Is thy song about selling "our birthright for the gold of the Kings of the South,"
And blindness might well come upon us, and the doom of our land draw near,
If our writers could tangle our gumption with a jingle of words in the ear.
Not by verses, how much we may hear them are we led in a business deal,
Though the harp of our poet may charm us, when not struck with excess of zeal.
But to call in the Lord in such matters with blasting of fires or worse
Is treason to all you had written before your slightly irreverent verse.

Two Men Badly Burned.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—George Cuff and Arthur Mitchell were very seriously burned by boiling tallow in the works of the Inter-urban Electric Co., 215 Mavety street, seventh ward, at 3 p.m. Saturday.

They were melting tallow in the cellar, and were lifting the pot out of the furnace with pinchers, when it dropped, sending a shower of scalding grease over them.

The superintendent sent a hurried call for aid to the "Junction" fire hall, and Firemen William Harsnuth and Bert Spicer responded and effectively dressed the blistered men's injuries with bandages and oils, in accordance with the system inaugurated by Dr. Sheard last year, whereby every hose section is supplied with "first aid" appliances.

Dr. Gilmore later ordered the men removed to Englehart Hospital, where they were resting quietly, and will recover. He praised very highly the work of the firemen.

The B.C. Government has consented to the appointment of a commission to enquire into the high price of coal.

A syndicate of Vancouver people has recently purchased 35 lots in the west end of New Westminster for $75,000.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

THE CHIMES AND THE CHINESE.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Your correspondent will see on reflection the absolute impossibility of the action which seems to sincerely desire to see taken. A public fund raised for one object could not of course, with any honesty, be transferred to an entirely different object, and it would be manifestly impossible to consult or obtain the sanction of our great multitude of subscribers.

I readily agree that the chimes are in the nature of a luxury and gladly say publicly what I have said to hundreds privately in the canvas for funds that "if it was a question between charity and chimes the latter must at once take second place."

But as these chimes are bound to exert strong and steady religious and patriotic influences, besides being a source of general happiness our citizens who do give liberally to charity are not wholly selfish or unreasonable in thus enriching their city, and as a matter of fact they have decided to do so.

I am like others, in warm sympathy with the writer's interest in the suffering Chinese.

Yours,
J. C. DAVIDSON.

Chimes and Chinese Fund

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In your issue of last night appeared a letter signed "Be Merciful, etc.," which revealed an illogical narrowness or the spirit of that disciple of our Lord who was so scathingly reproved for suggesting that the alabaster box of precious ointment had better be sold for three hundred pence and given to the poor than be "wasted" upon the Saviour of mankind. Did anyone ever see so absurd and illogical a suggestion as that the "Chimes Fund" should be turned over to the Chinese famine fund?

Why does the writer, except, perhaps, for special animus, stop at the chimes fund?

If, as he says, he believes that "God will never forgive us if we sacrifice the poor creatures while we listen to sweet music," if he believes this, why does he not demand that the fifteen or twenty organs in twenty city churches, worth altogether between forty and fifty thousand dollars—the unholy contributors to sweet music—be turned over to the Chinese famine fund?

Why does he not demand that the costly enrichment of our churches—frescoed ceilings, stained glass windows, richly upholstered pews and aisles be converted into cash and our churches themselves converted into consecrated barns?

Why does he not demand that the thousands of riotously ungodly women's hats that swamp our churches, representing the cruel slaughter of thousands of birds and representing every manner of bird known to Noah except the dove that descended from heaven and "lighted upon him," why does he not have the price of these, so far as money can pay the price of Neronian cruelty, proved and placed to the credit of the Chinese famine fund?

Why does he not also demand that the selfish men give up some of their luxuries for the benefit of the famine fund? Give up his costly cigars, his strong drinks, his gorgeous club rooms, his club suppers, his autos, his steam launches, his fast horses, his lady friend, and the long list of expensive luxuries that suck up money like a sponge and perhaps at the expense of the comforts of his family?

Why does he not demand that our preachers resign their two thousand or three thousand dollars salary and maintain their families by snow shovelling, so that they can have more to give to the poor Chinese?

Why does he not ask that the tens of thousands of frivolous society church women whose ambition does not rise above outshining their sisters in dress at church services; who give rollicking Sunday afternoon teas, and in order to keep up their end in "bridges" or "pink teas," bend all the powers of their humming bird intellects to "standing off" the butcher and the baker, who, between the "honeyed holdups of society" and the just demands of the bank haven't ready money enough to send a "necktie" to China?

Why doesn't this "Merciful" disposer of other people's generosity gather on the market square all the pianos, organs, violins, mandolins and gramophones—heaven bless his dear heart for this anyway—all the costly furs, silks, carpets, silverware, jewelery, the dust gathering and unthumbed Bibles in regal binding? Why does he not make a stack of these and hold a heavenly auction, with Messrs Haggart and Stapleton knocking them down to the highest bidders on condition that the buyers turn them over again for sale, thus providing a Chinese famine fund in perpetuity?

I merely mention these things to show the absurdity of the principle behind "Be Merciful's" suggestion, which is perfectly insane and visionary; yet I perfectly agree with him that there is much spent in luxuries that might "be sold for three hundred pence and given to the poor." But who will draw the line? What is luxury to one is a necessity to another. A potato roasted in the ashes is a luxury in many a poor Canadian home, but it would be a necessity to starving Chinese, yet even "Be Merciful" wouldn't ask the poor man to sacrifice the luxuries of his children's potato to feed the starving in China who are of the poor, who, the Master said, we should always have with us.

However I have no objection to the application of "Be Merciful's" doctrine to himself. I am quite willing that he should withdraw his subscription to the chimes, and place it with the famine fund; and I am sure, Mr. Editor, that you would gladly acknowledge it in that form in the list of contributions to the fund.

Yours thankfully—for having been given a glimmering of COMMON SENSE.

Tea Time Talks

The Healthfulness of Tea

Physicians who often forbid the use of Coffee and Cocoa to the well, prescribe tea for the sick. Of the three, tea is the only beverage that can be drunk for a lifetime without injurious effects. It is a harmless tonic—a gentle stimulant without reaction.

As tea is the most desirable beverage, so "Salada" is tea in its most desirable form.

"Salada" Ceylon Tea comes from tea plant to tea pot untouched by human hands, from the time the leaves fall into the picker's baskets. Its delicate aroma and delicious flavor are perfectly preserved in sealed, air-tight packages.

FAMINE FUND

The Calls for Relief Are Many and Urgent

Rev. D. McGillivray writes from Shanghai, as follows:—

"The Famine Relief Committee organized in Shanghai, acting in the strong faith that the benevolent would liberally respond to their appeals, have borrowed money sufficient to begin the relief work at places. Protestant and Catholic missionaries vie with one another in offering their services in distributing the relief. But since the committee was formed they have received numerous appeals from other places where the famine is little if any less severe. Whether these other places shall receive any help depends on the liberality of Canadian, American and British friends. The weather has recently been exceedingly cool and the mortality among the refugees has already been severe. Many of the aged, the women and children and the weak in body have already perished. May God in His mercy move those who have, to give liberally and quickly ere it is too late.

Contributions to the fund for relief are still being received by John Crane at the Dominion Bank.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

Mr. Walter Metheral, of Toronto, is in the city.

PRESENTATION IN OTONABEE

The Intended Departure of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Stewart is Regretted

On Thursday evening about fifty friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Stewart gathered at their home in Otonabee and presented them with a well filled purse. The following address was read—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Stewart,—It is with the deepest regret that we have heard of your intended departure from our neighborhood. You have been many years in our midst, and during that time have endeared yourselves to us. We have always found in you the most obliging of neighbors, and the kindest of friends and on your departing from our midst we feel that we can not let you go without some token of our appreciation. For this purpose we meet here to-night and present to you this purse.

We sincerely hope that in the years to come you may have health, happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of your many friends,

BURTON DEYELL
GORDON SAVIGNY,
GEORGE STEWART,
JOHN HANBIDGE
DAVID HUTCHINSON.

Mr. Stewart spoke a few words on behalf of Mrs. Stewart and himself thanking his friends for their kindness.

Five-minute speeches were given by several old neighbors and an excellent musical program consisting of songs, instrumental and violin solos, was given by Miss Mary Laing, Mr. N. Wicker, Miss Annie Deyell and Evans Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, who have resided in Otonabee for the past thirty-two years, are moving to Millbrook their old home, early in March.

BIG CONVENTION FORMALLY OPENED

of Montreal exhibit, in charge of G. N. Dunk, of Toronto, and A. Johannet of Montreal, is a gaily set off with colored cartridge shells and streamers. A feature of their exhibit is the free drawing competition, the winner of the lucky number securing a box of cartridges.

Lewis Bros. Limited of Montreal have one of the finest and most attractive exhibits of the armouries. All kinds of sporting goods, rifles, fishing tackle, baseball goods, hammocks, refrigerators are displayed to fine advantages. This firm is widely known, and its goods are reliable and serviceable. They also handle flintkote roofing, and several small samples of it are exhibited. Their rifles and baseball goods are worthy of special mention. Their reputation is firmly established and they occupy the front rank amongst makers of similar goods. They are known as the makers of the highest grade rifles and guns in all of the United States and Canada, and their exhibit at the armouries draws large numbers of people.

O. D. Ellis, manager and buyer of the sporting goods department is in charge of the booth, and is pleased to explain to prospective buyers and others the merits of his stock.

The Taylor-Forbes Company, whose offices and works are at Guelph, have a fine array on exhibition, of letter plates, etc., and they claim to be the largest makers of hardware and lawnmowers in Canada. At Guelph they employ over 400 hands.

Adam Taylor, the secretary of the Company is in charge, assisted by J. M. Taylor.

The Hollow Cable Mfg., Company, makers of wire and household specialties, have an orderly and attractive display, which draws large crowds of admirers of that class of articles. Their wares can be commended to the housewife as great labor-savers.

ON THE CHIMES

Letter From Magistrate Dumble Praising Idea

Rev. Canon Davidson has received a letter from Magistrate D. W. Dumble in reference to the chimes fund. The letter says;

"The great success which has crowned your effort to procure a complete set of bells for chimes is to me, as no doubt it is to all our citizens, a source of much rejoicing. No more interesting feature could be added to our beautiful little city, and no more appropriate site could have been selected for these bells than the picturesque Tower of your beautiful church. The unanimity of approval and support given you in the matter is very gratifying. I am told that those who worship on the western hill to the number of considerably over one hundred, contributed to these chimes. This is, indeed, as it should be. May the harmony of the bells ever be a promoter of harmony and good will amongst all who in common citizenship worship our common Lord. Please accept from me the enclosed further contribution to the chimes."

BLADE OF KNIFE GOUGED EYE

Painful Mishap to Leonard Giroux —Is in the Hospital

Leonard Giroux met with a painful and serious mishap yesterday when the blade of a pen knife penetrated his eye. He is now in St. Joseph's hospital and his physician is unable to state just what the result as to the sight of the eye, will be.

He had intended to leave to-day on a business trip for the T. J. Parsons Co., of Toronto, having stopped off here to visit his parents Mr. and Mrs. George Giroux.

GIRLS ARE SOLD INTO WIFEHOOD

Juneau, Feb. 21.—The custom that has prevailed among Alaska Indians for ages—that of selling their girls into wifehood—appears to be on the increase in Southeastern Alaska.

Within a short time six girls in this section have been offered for sale. Four of these were formerly students at the Sitka training school, and three of them absolutely refuse to go into slavery, although the parents cajoled and threatened physical violence.

While the matter has been called to the attention of the officials, it is hard to deal with, as the natives decline to go into a white man's court and have the offenders punished.

Those in a position to know say the cases definitely known are only a small fraction of the scores that really have taken place.

BIG CONVENTION FORMALLY OPENED

Address of Welcome by Mayor Morrow to Visitors --Delegates Arriving by Every Train -- Attractive Display Work in Armories

HARDWARE
Retail Hardware Men are we,
Hammers and matches, nails and tacks,
We're out for a good time,
so don't get an axe,
HARDWARE

The big Hardware Convention is now in full swing, having been formally opened this afternoon.

It is a big affair, and the scene presented by the displays and the large number of visitors is one that speaks volumes for the annual gathering of the hardwaremen.

On behalf of the citizens of Peterborough His Worship Mayor Morrow read an address of welcome in the band hall at the armories this afternoon to the members of the Ontario Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association, after the meeting had been called to order by President Cinnamon.

He stated that it was a pleasure to welcome the visitors who were men engaged in the important lines of business in all parts of the province. They would become better acquainted with Peterborough, and he hoped that the industries of the city would be visited. Many of the public buildings were referred to as worthy of inspection, and Mayor Morrow concluded by expressing the wish that the sessions of the convention would be profitable and that all would have a thoroughly enjoyable time.

The address of the president and the report of the secretary followed, together with other business of the association.

ARMORIES TRANSFORMED.

A wonderful transformation has taken place in the armouries, and the results besides being most pleasing to the visitors, reflect much credit to those in charge of the exhibits and who have arranged the goods manufactured by their company. And everything carried by the progressive hardwaremen, is on exhibition at the fifty or more booths.

There is to be seen, anything from a safety razor blade to a handsomely finished range, and in each display can be seen the skill of the dresser. At one booth is exhibited all the many parts of a rifle, in their rough and finished state, and also the beautiful firearm as it is presented to the prospective purchaser. Another company displays its large assortment of paints and varnishes, further on, are the highly finished tools of the artisan. Another company displays a large array of contractors supplies, while others show their labor saving machines and other goods, and to the best possible advantage.

The convention is featured by the displays and nothing has been left undone in this department. Representatives of each company are on hand to demonstrate and furnish information.

THE EXHIBITS.

The Metal Shingle and Siding Co., Ltd., of Preston, and Montreal, exhibit is in charge of H. S. Murdock. This firm has supplied their goods for many local buildings, and which includes the new Public Library. The Hall-Zryd Foundry Co., of Grimsby, show a line of stoves, and the Benjamin Moore Co., Toronto, is demonstrating by the use of their paints and varnishes for interior effects. Stoves, lamps and heaters are shown by the Queen City Oil Company, and at the Gutta Percha Co., Toronto, exhibit, are displayed rubber goods. The The Glidden Varnish Co., Toronto, feature Jap-a-lac, and the Pinchin Johnston Co., of London, England, has a display of paints from the branch at Toronto. B.B. paints and varnishes make up the exhibit of the Brandram-Henderson Co., and the Carborundum Co., of Niagara Falls, N.Y., exhibit all kinds of sharpening stones, razor hones and strops. Wear Ever Aluminum Co. from the branch office dence at the booth of the Northern Aluminum Co. from the branch office at Toronto, while the cutlery display by the E. P. Walter and Co., Montreal, is very attractive. The Dominion Register Co., Toronto, show their account registers and demonstrate. Simplex guns manufactured by the Tobin Arms Co., of Woodstock, make an interesting display, and the Ohio Varnish Co., Cleveland, Ohio, demonstrate with Chi-Namel paints and varnishes. Silver and steel goods are prominently displayed by the Oneida Community Co., of Oneida, together with a suggestion for window dressing for retailers. The Brantford Roofing Co., also have supplied their goods to the Canadian General Electric Co., and other large local concerns, have a unique demonstration by means of a model of a house. The simplicity with which a universal vacum cleaner is worked is explained by the representatives of the company, and the Canadian Cycle and Motor Co., of Toronto, is on hand with a large assortment of skates. Clare Bros. and Co., of Preston, have ranges, and another display of vacuum cleaners, and the Gliding Furniture Shoes are on exhibition by the Onward Furniture Co., of Berlin. Safety razors in all their vatous states make up the exhibit of the Gillette Co., of Montreal. Rules and other styles of measure are shown at the Lufkin Rule Co. booth, and a large space is used in a prominent display of steel ranges, stoves and gas heaters, by the McClary Manufacturing Co. Many kinds of registers are shown by the McClary Manufacturing Co. Many kinds of registers are shown by the Ferro Steel Company. The Lundy Shovel and Tool Co. and the Rapid Tool Co., of this city, occupy a booth where their goods are largely in evidence. A large display of highly finished goods manufactured by the Peterborough Lock Co., is very attractive. J. J. Turner & Sons have the only exhibit in their line of goods, and B. F. Ackerman & Sons are in a similar position with their display of harness. Large cooking stoves are shown by Adam Hall, and the Peterborough Canoe Co. has a number of canoes and skiffs.

WESTON WRIGLEY
The busy secretary of the Convention.

For fire-proof safes, intending buyers should not fail to visit the exhibit of the Goldie-McCulloch Company. Some remarkable and unusual snaps may be obtained in some of their safes, as they shipped them away again.

The exhibit is under the direction of E. F. Hetherington.

The Shirley-Dietrich people, makers of Maple leaf saws, band saws, carpenters' saws, etc., have arranged their exhibit in a manner calculated to advertise their merits to the best advantage. It is in charge of G. Boomer, E. C. McMurtry and W. T. Murray.

Allan Hill's Edge Tool Company, of Galt, are showing all kinds of carpenters' tools, lumbering tools, etc. This is their second year in the business and they are meeting with exceptional success. Their tools are all made of Jessop steel, which material only two other companies use.

The Galt Art Metal Company have an attractive and varied display of metal ceilings, galvanized steel shingles, etc., under the supervision of D. G. Spiers.

The Down Draft Furnace Company, Galt, have an exhibit in charge of J. Short. They are displaying a full line of stoves, furnaces, etc., specializing the Chieftain Banner range.

J. R. McDougal and Company, Galt, have an exhibit of pumps, small engines of all shapes and sizes, the engines being similar to those installed in gasoline launches and small boats.

A gasoline lighting system under the direction of Rice-Knight, Ltd., Toronto, is one fo the novel features of the convention. The chief feature of it is the removal of the generator which allows the company to give a five year guarantee with it. It is the only Canadian made system and is very much superior to American systems.

The Metallic Roofing Company, of Toronto, are exhibiting Eastlake shingles, corrugated iron, sidings, roofings and ceilings and all kinds of zinc ornaments. The exhibit is in charge of F. E. Ansell and is extremely interesting. The firm has protected its trade for 25 years.

The Page Wire-Fence Company, of Walkerville, exhibit is principally made up of vacuum cleaners. They are not showing any fence wares, but merely their side-lines. The vacuum cleaners are a source of attraction, also their baskets and mats. A. R. Lundy is in charge.

Findlay Bros., of Carleton Place are exhibiting a fine line of stoves, etc.

A most complete stock of brushes, brooms and similar articles are exhibited by Brock Bros., whose reputation is well known. The steel grip brush is one of their specialties. They manufacture 500 varieties of brushes, including corn brooms and hair brooms. The exhibit is in charge of T. Miles, J. Billinghurst and L. J. Levey.

The Dover Manufacturing Co., Canal Dover, Ohio, U.S.A., have an exhibit of all sizes of asbestos sad irons for every household purpose. A. S. Howe is in charge.

The International Varnish Company, of Toronto, have a complete exhibit of paints, samples and colors, etc., in charge of W. H. Davey.

All lines of paints, varnishes, stains and white lead, the genuine elephant brand, are displayed in an inviting and tasteful manner by the Canada Paint Company, of Montreal. It is in charge of R. J. Sitman and Henry Clucas.

The James Robertson Company also are displaying a full line of paints, varnishes, etc.

An exhibit of crude rubber material, all kinds of hard and soft rubber stock is shown by the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Goods Company, of Toronto. The Dunlop tires are made by this firm and their reputation is strongly known. H. C. Austin, supervises the display.

David Maxwell and Sons, of St. Mary's, Ont., are showing a line of lawn-mowers, washing machines and wheelbarrows.

The Peterborough Lubricator Company, is also well represented, their products being displayed to excellent advantage.

WARREN SAYS HE'S A VICTIM

Charges Against Him Were Legal Inventions.

Wasn't Guilty of Any Intentional Crime.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—J. J. Warren, general manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., has made a statement regarding his alleged connection with the Farmers' Bank, which he regards as only an ordinary business transaction.

He said, in part: I have lived in this community for almost twenty-five years, during which period, while no doubt I have made mistakes, yet never knowingly did I injure anybody. Without any enquiry or request for information from me, I find myself charged with two offences. One that I conspired with Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, the provisional board of directors and others to do an illegal act. The other that I accepted a pledge of the notes (circulation) of the Farmers' Bank, and therefore made a loan of them as security.

The offences charged are of a technical character. The first one in particular is undoubtedly the invention of a legal mind, whose I do not know yet. The other I am advised is based on a misunderstanding of the Bank Act.

At the time of the alleged committing of the first offence I did not know nor was I acquainted with Dr. Nesbitt or any member of the provisional board. I did not meet Dr. Nesbitt until he ran for mayor. I have never yet met the provisional directors, except Dr. Ferguson.

In the fall of 1906, as an official of the Trust Co., I made W. R. Travers personally a call loan on the security of a large number of satisfactory promissory notes. Counsel advised us that the business was perfectly legal and proper. Ultimately the loan was paid off in full. Moreover, the notes that formed the security were also paid in full.

I was no party to the representations Mr. Travers made at Ottawa. I did not know what they were.

In regard to the other offence, the Farmers' Bank was in the habit of depositing with us their notes (circulation), which we paid out in the ordinary course of our business. The amount of each deposit was placed to the credit of the bank which could and did draw against it by check. We never loaned $5 against the circulation of the Farmers' Bank.

Further, I never made five cents personally out of the Farmers' Bank business, every cent of profit went to the Trust Company, to whom it belonged.

BALFOUR MAKES A GREAT SPEECH

First Day of Debate on the Veto Business.

London, Feb. 22.—The first day's debate on the Government's bill to abolish the veto power of the House of Lords, while it failed to indicate definitely the fate of the measure in the hands of the House of Lords, left no doubt as to the attitude of the Premier.

Mr. Balfour's speech was the great event of the day. He said that he distrusted the policy of making the House of Lords a purely elective body. In no country, in neither the United States nor France, had that been found consistent with the predominance of the Lower House. If, therefore it was wished that the House of Commons predominate, the hereditary principle should be continued. He indicated that he would consent to no change of the constitution which would allow Parliament to pass the home rule bill without this bill having been voted on by the electorate. In other words, he would not acquiesce in the home rule question being submitted to a second chamber differing only from the existing House of Lords in being bereft of its absolute power.

The Unionists members cheered again and again when Mr. Balfour declared that he would fight against a revolution on which the people had not been consulted, carried out, not at the bidding of the majority of the House, but at the bidding of the Nationalist minority.

HON. J. R. STRATTON AND J. J. WARREN WERE COMMITTED FOR TRIAL AT HIGHER COURT

Provisional Directors all go up---Cases May be Brought on in March Sessions---Defendants Admitted to Bail of $1,000 Each.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—Hon. J. R. Stratton and J. J. Warren and the Farmers' Bank provisional directors were committed for trial this morning on a charge of hypothecating notes to obtain the Farmers' Bank charter by fraud and deceit. A second charge against Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren of cashing hypothecated notes for Travers last year, was adjourned until a definite time for hearing is settled. In this connection Mr. Warren said that he desired to return to the coast, but was willing to come back when absolutely necessary for him to do so.

A HOTTER CAR PROMISED.

Crown Attorney Corley said that three thousand miles was not far, whereupon Warren retorted as follows;—"No not very, with a car heated to 66 degrees, but you will have a hotter car than that some day and you won't be alone either."

There is some uncertainty as to whether the Crown will be ready to go on with the case at the sessions, which begin March 7th. In this connection Inspector Duncan remarked that it would take him at least three weeks with Mr. Travers in completing the examination of the books. Travers was in the box a short time this morning and stated that certain transfers in the account between the Farmers' Bank and the Trusts and Guarantee Co. had been made "to suit the occasion," the latter being the approaching visit of Secretary Knight, of the Bankers' Association.

ADMITTED TO BAIL.

All the defendants were admitted to their own bail of $1,000 each, and the case closed as far as the police court proceedings are concerned.

KEELEY MINE STOCK WAS PUT UP AS SECURITY BY THE BANK

Farmers' Bank Owed Trusts and Guarantee Co. $295,000 at one Time—Farmers Notes Brought in From Branches as Security.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—For just about ten minutes at the close of the hearing of the conspiracy charge against the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank, J. J. Warren and J. R. Stratton, Dr. Beattie Nesbitt and C. H. Smith in the Police Court yesterday afternoon, those present in the court room had one more view of the old dominant Travers, who drove through the organization of the bank, crushing all obstacles before him. And out of the evidence of the closing moments of the hearing it is possible that further charges will be laid to-day.

On a sudden the air of the courtroom grew tense. Matthew Wilson, K.C., counsel for J. J. Warren, had been pressing Travers on cross-examination, seeking to have him say plainly and without qualification that the deposit slip given by the Trusts & Guarantee Co. to the bank at the time of the visit of Secretary Knight of the Bankers' Association represented a bona fide transaction.

"Yes," with the added qualification, "as far as it goes," was as far as he could get Travers to go. A moment later Crown Attorney Corley took the witness for re-examination.

"It might as well all come out," said he as he took the witness. He then proceeded to draw from Travers the statement that, in its closing days, the bank owed the Trust company, on a loan secured by Keeley Mine and other stocks, the sum of $175,000, and also a deposit of $120,000, which would rank as an unsecured claim upon the same basis as any other deposit.

Travers declared that he needed more money and went to the Trust company's office to negotiate a further loan. He discussed the affairs of the bank and company with S. C. Morden of the company, and Matthew Wilson, K.C., who was acting as its solicitor. The company proposed to withdraw its deposit of $120,000, but Travers says that he told them that the bank could not meet the withdrawal, but needed more money.

Either Mr. Morden or Mr. Wilson told him that they were not satisfied with the security for the loan, nor with the unsecured condition of the deposits, and someone, Travers could not say whether it was himself or one of the others, suggested that the loan and deposit be consolidated in a new loan for which additional security be put up and that then further moneys might be forthcoming.

Travers pointed out, he said, that under a section of the Bank Act, it was an offence to give one creditor an undue preference over other creditors by way of added securities. He was told that, if this was done under pressure, it would relieve him of criminal responsibility, and that, as they were supplying the pressure, he would be relieved. The loan and deposit were consolidated as a new indebtedness of $295,000, and $300,000 worth of notes were called into the head office of the bank from the branches and put up as security for the consolidated debt.

No money was then advanced nor was Travers able to secure any further advance, but he says that on one of two occasions Mr. Wilson and Mr. Morden told him, when he urged that the bank must have money or close its doors, that it might as well suspend one day as another. This was the story drawn from Travers by Mr. Corley.

At the close of the hearing Mr. Warren stated that the company had been paid the full amount of the loan by Mr. Clarkson. It was afterward stated that this had been done under protest. Mr. Warren asked that it be stated that the Trust company is well and strong financially.

President Munro comes up in the County Court to-morrow.

ASKING FOR RESIGNATION OF OTTAWA HEALTH OFFICER

Great Dissatisfaction Over Sanitary Conditions in Capital.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The typhoid troubles of Ottawa have raised considerable criticism of the Board of Health and the medical health officer. There is an accusation of the dereliction of duty of both regarding the entrance of pollution in the water supply. Outspoken public opinion was retaliated to by a proposal by the Board of Health agreeing on its own efficiency and proposing to raise salaries all round in the department. This was the last straw, and the City Council, after a warm debate, asked the Board of Control to reorganize the discredited department.

Last night the controllers asked for the resignation of Dr. Law, medical health officer, around whose head the storm has raged.

Meantime there is a serious move in the city towards government by commission, owing to many acts of the aldermen recently. On this point one newspaper has taken a plebescite which gives 96 per cent. in favor of Ottawa being made practically a federal district under a commission.

Town Hall on Fire.

Brockville, Feb. 23.—Fire was discovered at an early hour yesterday morning in the basement of Brockville's Town Hall. The police on duty detected the smell of smoke, which soon filled the premises, and on investigation located the blaze. Plumbers had been at work on the premises, and a pot of hot lead ignited the woodwork adjoining.

Ex-Banker Off to Sing Sing.

New York, Feb. 22.—Wm. Montgomery, former president of the Hamilton Bank, which failed in 1907, was sentenced yesterday to no less than two years and two months and not more than five years in Sing Sing Penitentiary for grand larceny. The judge said that crimes of this sort were becoming too prevalent.

Had Fortune, Didn't Know It.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 22.—When J. E. Herold, a local barber, found an unaddressed but official looking envelope on the street a few days ago, he picked it up and put it in his pocket. Yesterday he was startled to find it contained checks from the State Treasurer's office aggregating $80,565.

Irish Boycott Coronation.

London, Feb. 22.—At a meeting of the Irish Parliamentary party last night it was decided to abstain from participating in the coronation ceremonies. A statement was issued to the effect that the party greatly regretted that the time had not yet come when it would feel free to join other representatives of the King, although the cause of Irish liberty was on the eve of victory. Promise was made that when the King visited Ireland the people would welcome him with generosity and hospitality.

Wall Street Against Reciprocity.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Congressman E. J. Hill, of Connecticut, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, delivered an address before the local Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon yesterday, in which he charged Wall street as the source from which all opposition to the reciprocity measure has sprung.

Hull's Chief of Police Accused.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Charges were made against Chief Marcoux of the Hull police force yesterday. Mrs. Jos. Canadien, during the hearing of a non-support claim against her husband, alleged that Marcoux had made improper overtures to her. He is an ex-member of the Dominion police. He denies the charge.

Minnesota Wants Delay.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 22.—The Minnesota Senate yesterday by a vote of 36 to 26 passed a resolution requesting Congress to hold the Canadian reciprocity agreement over until the next regular session in order that the people may have an opportunity to study the question.

More Cruisers For France.

Paris, Feb. 22.—Admiral Boue de Lapeyere, Minister of Marine, asserted in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday that the French navy ought to be strengthened by the addition of two armored cruisers.

NOT IN FAVOR OF RECIPROCITY

Special to The Review.

Cardiff, Wales, Feb. 22.—The steel and tinplate manufacturers here have decided to protest to the Government against the Canadian-United States reciprocity agreement. They believe it will injure their export trade.

COUNTESS OF ABERDEEN

Who is organizing an Irish address of welcome to the King and Queen.

AT THE SIGN OF THE SCISSORS

A Review reporter attended the Knights of Pythias service at All Saints' church on Sunday evening, and wrote a column report of the interesting remarks made by Rev. Mr. Trumpour. There is nothing remarkable in this fact, as the Review staff endeavors to give all the local news, fully, accurately, and interestingly, fresh as it happens.

The Examiner did not have its own reporter at the service on Sunday night, and on Monday contained no report of the interesting event. That is the Examiner's affair, of course—and that of its readers, who had to look for the report of the event in the on-the-job Review. This situation is not particularly remarkable, either.

But here is where the humorous feature of the affair enters. Last night the Examiner gave a full account—a very fine account, indeed, of the sermon and service. It did not matter that it was a day or so late. That's no object with an enterprising newspaper. But, with the exception of nine lines at the top, written as a new introduction the column-long Review report was used holus-bolus, word for word, sentence for sentence.

The Review doesn't mind having the Examiner fill its columns with day-old stuff clipped from the Review, of course. Indeed, we must feel highly honored. But this instance—and there have been others—is so palpably glaring that we cannot refrain from praise of the length of our contemporary's scissors.

Creates Plumber a Lord.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—Harry Plate, a plumber of Hanover, who attained the great distinction of being raised to the dignity of life membership in the Prussian House of Lords on the emperor's birthday, is the first artisan who has ever attained such a position.

The new member of this most exclusive body is not a mere theorist, but a man who has had to work at his trade for his living, and he has passed through every grade. He served the usual four years' apprenticeship, then packed his tools and for several years tramped through the German states, Switzerland, Italy and France, working wherever he could find a job. Finally he settled in Hanover, where he eventually set up independently and became prominent in the plumbers' organization and president at several artisans' congresses.

The Prussian House of Lords has hitherto consisted exclusively of members of the nobility, great scientists and educators, manufacturers and commercial men, prominent bankers, mayors of cities and retired military and naval officers.

In selecting Harry Plate to join their councils his majesty has carried out a request formulated in a petition from the last artisans' congress for representation in the lawmaking bodies of Prussia, and this self-made man was indicated to him as the best possible choice he could make for the honor.

WATERING OF STOCK AN EVIL

Warm Discussion in the Ontario Legislature.

Allan Studholme Takes a Lively Part in It.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—Lively passages between the Premier and members who were disinclined to abide by the traditional usages of Parliamentary procedure and a stiring debate on the question of watered stocks, afforded visitors to the Ontario Legislature an interesting afternoon yesterday at the Parliament Buildings. In addition, a number of bills were introduced, or given second or third readings.

Cabinet Ministers and the members paid close attention to the speech of J. W. Johnson, West Hastings, upon the question of watered stock. The sequel was an animated debate with the mover, a Government supporter, refusing to accede to his leader's suggestion to withdraw the bill. The Prime Minister said he had been given to understand that the measure was introduced to enable the mover and the House to discuss the position of affairs with respect to over-capitalization.

All might have gone smoothly but for the fact that Allan Studholme rose with a denunciation of anybody who would be weak-backed enough to withdraw a good measure just because his party didn't like it. Mr. Johnson resented quickly the imputation and declared that he would press the motion. When the vote was finally taken it was lost, of course, and Mr. Johnson did not call for a division, but it occasioned a very heated debate.

Mr. Johnson declared that watered stock made the poor man poorer and the rich man richer. It was an instrument of tyranny, the evil of which had been exampled in the United States. It was applied in effecting mergers and combines. The bait held out to the consumer was the promise of an increased production and a reduced price. The results were inevitably the reverse.

The Canadian Express Co. had, Mr. Johnson declared, with a capital asset of $212,000, watered its stock up to $3,000,000, and the Dominion Express Co. had beaten this a long way.

The Canadian Canners, he said, started by merging thirty-four factories, then the Dominion Canners added fourteen more. Thirty thousand dollars each would be a high valuation to put on the forty-eight factories, so that $1,440,000 would be the limit of their tangible assets. Yet the capitalization was $5,700,000. The difference of $4,260,000 is watered stock, and the company had, under its charter, the reserve power to issue $12,000,000 more of stock.

In 1910 the company made a profit of $400,000, which was 27 per cent. on its actual assets.

Hon. Mr. Hanna then asked that the bill be withdrawn. Studholme protested, and Mr. Johnson decided to let it stand. Several members joined in the debate, declaring that the bill was inadequate to meet the case.

When the vote was taken the roar of "No's" was like thunder compared to the "Ayes," and Mr. Johnson declared that he would not press for a division.

"Lost," announced the Speaker.

Hon. J. S. Duff moved the second reading of the pure milk bill, the provisions of which were recently published. The Minister of Agriculture said that the bill enacted into law the recommendations of the milk commission.

John Shaw, North Toronto, introduced the Toronto City Bill, which embodies the legislation asked for by the Toronto City Council.

A. E. Fripp, Ottawa West (Con.), again introduced his bill to permit municipalities to place a lower rate of taxation on improvements than on land. Mr. Fripp states that this principle is being extensively applied in the west with most satisfactory results in stimulating the holding of unimproved land out of the market.

W. J. McCart, Stormont, (Lib.), felt the crushing power of an adverse majority when he refused to accept a Government suggestion. The incident arose over his motion for an order of the House for a return showing the number of officials, clerks and employes in the various branches of the Provincial Secretary's Department on Feb. 1, 1906, and on Jan. 1, 1911, with the salaries in each case.

Hon. W. J. Hanna expressed a willingness to furnish the return if the "additional work and results" were included.

Mr. McCart objected to any addition to the order. It contained all he wanted to know.

Sir James Whitney said that probably other members of the House would like the complete information.

Let them ask for it was Mr. McCart's attitude.

Thereupon the sledge hammer fell.

HOME MARKET IS ENOUGH

Dr. Sproule Continues Debate on Reciprocity.

Lemieux Would Have All Doors Thrown Open.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Geo. Kyte (Richmond, N.S.), continuing the debate on the reciprocity agreement, gave an enthusiastic endorsation of the Government's proposals, more particularly because of the good effect he said they would have on the industries of the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Kyte said that with the exception of coal and steel, reciprocity between the Maritime Provinces and Ontario and Quebec had consisted in an exchange of the manufactured products of the latter for the cash currency of the people by the sea. At times, he admitted, there was a market for Maritime potatoes in mid-Canada, and fish to a limited extent came as far west as Montreal, but the natural market for both products was to be found in the United States. The people of the Maritime Provinces had been trying to coax the residents of this part of Canada to buy their fish, but with little success.

Dr. Sproule (E. Grey) replied the argument of Mr. Kyte that there was no inter-provincial or English trade in fish by showing that out of $15,000,000 fish produced last year $5,800,000 had gone to England, but only $1,627,000 to the United States.

Was it a wise policy to say, as the member for Richmond argued, that the natural resources of Canada were for to-day and not for to-morrow, "What about posterity?" asked Dr. Sproule.

Canada wanted nothing but the opportunity to work out her own problems, and to preserve the home market for Canadian farmers. In support of this demand Dr. Sproule pointed out that until the duty of three cents per pound had been placed on fresh meat the Canadian industry was dormant. So, too, the prohibition of the import of process butter and filled cheese had developed the native industry, and these Canadian products had a leading reputation in the markets of the world. In the horse-breeding industry he said that the splendid stock of the eastern provinces would be driven out of its natural market in the west through competition with the cayuse and broncho.

"Reciprocity can mean only one thing," said Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, "the development, progress and ultimate grandeur of both countries." He twitted Dr. Sproule for being sentimental, reminiscent and witty in propounding his "tale of woe."

"Granted," he said, "that we have good times, but our policy is to have better times. Granted that we have good markets, which we, of the Liberal party have created (applause), we want better markets still; and let my hon. friend (Dr. Sproule) add this line: Yes, and let Canada with better times and better markets work out its own destiny under the aegis of the British flag."

"Let us," he said, "rise to the proper height; let us not be little Canada; let us trust ourselves in this bargain with the United States."

"Canada can absorb the United States. The United States materially cannot absorb Canada. Mr. Borden's motto was to let well enough alone. In view of the wonderful heritage of Canadians we could afford to adopt as a substitute for that motto: 'Let us open wide the gates of the country; let us not be afraid to bargain and to trade with our neighbors.'"

Mr. Lemieux emphasized his point by declaring that Great Britain was not afraid to trade east and west, north and south.

Sing Sing Means Slow Death.

Albany, Feb. 22.—The annual report of the State Commission of Prisons, just made public, again calls attention to the unsanitary condition of Sing Sing Prison, and says a long sentence there is often a sentence to slow death because of the prevalence of tuberculosis.

The report further says that many prisoners are discharged incapacitated from earning a living, and frequently, on leaving Sing Sing, spread tuberculosis.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares "Nerviline" Is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

Nerviline CURES QUICKLY

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 50c, trial size 25c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

CORNS CURED IN 24 HOURS

Refuse substitutes.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 22, 1911.

AT IT AGAIN

Representative Gaines, of West Virginia on Saturday quietly introduced into the United States House of Representatives a resolution as startling in its scope as the Bennett annexation resolution. It proposes the abolition of all duties between the United States and Canada, and the formulation of a common tariff against all nations. It is a "complete commercial union" resolution, doing away with all customs barriers of any nature between the two countries. Here is the new startling proposal:

> "That the President and his successors in office are hereby authorized, and it shall be their duty, to enter into and vigorously prosecute negotiations with the Government of Canada for the purpose of securing a customs compact to continue for a period of not less than twenty years between the United States and the Dominion of Canada, by which the two countries shall adopt the same customs duties upon products of other countries than the United States and Canada when imported into the United States or Canada, and the abolition of all duties and export restrictions of every kind whatsoever between every part of the United States and every part of Canada upon the articles of growth and the product of the two countries respectively.
> $1,000,000 FOR EXPENSES.
>
> "That such an agreement, when made, shall be promptly reported to Congress for appropriate legislation to give full force and effect to same.
>
> "That, for the purpose of such negotiations, the President is hereby authorized to employ such experts, clerical and other assistants as he may deem necessary, to fix compensation and to allow travelling and other expenses.
> "That, for carrying out the purposes of the said act, there is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated the sum of one million dollars."

Wouldn't it, sizzle a Hottentot in a cyclone cellar! We've no sooner recovered our balance from the shock of Champ Clark's "we're going to annex Canada" speech, and Bennett's "negotiate with Britain to hand over Canada to us" resolution, than this complete reciprocity resolution is sprung.

Representative Gaines desires his resolution not to be connected with the annexation talk. He would have practical, complete and thorough commercial union—an all-American combination against Europe, Africa and Asia, but to save our tender feelings, he would not formally annex us—just ally against the common enemy, including Britain.

Gaines' resolution will not be taken seriously. It is too absurd. But it is another insult thrown at the loyalty of Canadians to the empire. It is rot to suppose that the 90,000,000 Americans look upon reciprocity with 8,000,000 Canadians as other than a process towards the absorption and assimilation of the smaller nation. Representative Gaines has no comprehension of the stern and unyielding loyalty of Canada to imperial ties and ideals. He is a typical American.

Yet we have the basely partisan Toronto Globe and Star, and minor satellites, throwing mud at the honest Liberals who refuse to be blinded by Taft's diplomatic assurances that "all we want is better trade relations." If Laurier were to make a pact with Satan to deliver up the country, these organs would denounce the churches that would (perhaps) intervene to save the people from His Majesty's clutches. In such a situation, some of the hide-bound partisan clergymen would perhaps consent to make Satan's acquaintance, since Laurier proposed it.

Gaines would make us the catspaw of the United States. Champ would take us over bodily. Bennett would buy us from Britain. Next!

THE SENATE'S ACTION

It is a rather striking evidence of the way in which the Senate of Canada is regarded that until now no one has even suggested that the upper chamber might block the reciprocity agreement, even if passed in the Commons under the lash of the party whip. No one seems to have thought that the Senate, composed of men like Sir George Ross, strong opponents of any reciprocity measure, would take any stand but that of senile acquiescence in the Liberal program, and perhaps they are right.

The Senate has been "reformed" by Sir Wilfrid Laurier until there are now very few Conservative senators left. The upper chamber is filled with appointees of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, retired and in some cases discredited politicians, who received their appointments as rewards for party services. What may Canada expect from such a body?

It is true that some of the Senators belong to the older generation of Canadians, the men who struggled over the terms of confederation, the men who went through the bitter period of Canada's history, when she was rebuffed and frozen out by the United States in seeking some measure of reciprocity. These old Senators may remember that, but we doubt if they will have the courage of the noble eighteen Liberals of Toronto, who placed national principles and patriotism higher than partyism, and rebelled against the dictation of the party boss.

Supposing that the servile majority in the Commons passes the measure, even against loud protest from Liberal and Conservative all over the Dominion, will the Senate place patriotism before party and block it?

The uselessness of the second chamber, being composed of Liberal appointees, will never be more strongly manifested, if it passes the agreement as an echo to the action of Commons. Its function as part of the legislative machinery will be a farce and a joke. If the autocrat of Canada can force unwilling members of Parliament to do his bidding, and apply the big stick to the Senate just as effectively, the time for the abolition of the second chamber will have come.

The Liberals of Monck county, in convention, have endorsed the reciprocity business. Whose judgment is better—that of the eighteen Liberal leaders of Canadian business enterprise, controlling millions of dollars, or that of the 14 ral party to lowers politically tied hand and foot in convention!

in a state of siege and it will not be the Winnipeg Telegram. The western paper published a speech by a western member that was never delivered, and reported Mr. Oliver as replying with "a tirade of abuse." The member apologized for the incident, and Mr. Oliver awaits an apology from the Telegram. Newspapers occasionally exhibit great prescience. That "tirade" may be on its way, but it hasn't yet come. The Telegram, having announced it, will eagerly await the justification of its assertions.

The officers and members of the Hardware Convention are to be congratulated on the beautiful booths erected in the armory for the exhibition of the wares of the business houses. It is a striking evidence of the business enterprise of the firms selling to the hardware trade, and one appreciates the strong competition existing for business, only on an examination of the tastily arranged exhibits. To the members of the convention, one and all, Peterborough bids a hearty welcome and it is the earnest hope of every citizen that they may enjoy their stay here to the full, and carry away the pleasantest memories of the city and its people.

BURNS CAUSED OPEN SORE

Zam-Buk Worked a Wonderful Cure

Sometimes a bad burn, a deep cut, or some similar injury, sets up a more permanent injury, in the form of an open discharging sore. In such cases Zam-Buk will be found of unequalled value.

Mr. J. Nixon, of 901 William Ave., Winnipeg, a blacksmith at the C.P.R. shops, had his foot badly burned by some molten metal falling upon it. He says: "The burn was a very bad one, and after the first few days it left an open sore, which showed marked signs of blood-poisoning. It discharged freely and caused me terrible agony. For three weeks I suffered acutely and could get no ease. At last I obtained a preparation from the doctor, which seemed to stop the discharging and made me quite hopeful, but finally the wound became as bad as ever.

"I was then advised to use Zam-Buk, and from the first application the balm gave me relief. The inflammation was thoroughly checked, and the poisonous matter cleared away in a very short time after beginning with Zam-Buk. Healing then began, and in less than two weeks the wound was thoroughly healed."

One of the main lessons of this case lies right here—try Zam-Buk first for any injury, sore, skin disease or wound. It is equally good for piles, blood-poisoning, festering wounds, chaps, cold sores, children's eruptions, scalp sores, varicose ulcers, chilblains, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful substitutes and inferior preparations, which yield a bigger margin of profit and are sometimes pushed as being "just as good." Nothing is just as good.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—General covering by short sellers anxious to escape having open trades to-morrow, while the exchange will be shut, gave a lift to-day to the wheat market here. Besides, there was a big decrease shown in the world's available stock. Closing prices were steady at a net advance of ⅛c to ¼c to ⅜c. Corn wound up ⅛c to ¼c higher than last night; oats with a gain of ⅛c to ¼c, and provisions much the same as twenty-four hours before, with more expensive by 2½c to 5c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d lower on wheat than yesterday. Corn was ⅛d to ¼d lower. Berlin closed ¼c to ½c lower on wheat. Antwerp unchanged. Paris ¼c higher for cash wheat.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought 250 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Company, as follows: Butchers' steers and heifers, $5.10 to $6.10; cows, $3.00 to $5.25, bulls, $4.75 to $5.25.

Milkers and Springers.

The number of the better class of milkers and springers was larger than for several markets. Prices ranged at from $45 to $80 each.

Dunn & Levack sold 12 choice milkers and springers to one dealer at $70 each.

Veal Calves

Receipts of veal calves were larger than for sometime, and prices eased off, the bulk selling at from $3.50 to $8 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

There were 518 sheep and lambs reported on sale. Sheep were about steady, but lambs were easier. Wesley Dunn, who handled the bulk, reported prices as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4.25 to $4.60, rams, $3.25 to $3.75, lambs easier at $6 to $6.50. One or two lots of selected lambs sold at $6.60 and $6.65.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris quoted hogs unchanged at $7.20 for selects, fed and watered, and $6.90 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b. cars at country points. The thick, fat, heavy hogs were culled out at 50c per cwt. less than the above quotations.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"After having read this," he went on, "ask yourself carefully whether the cleverness of such an individual would have found very great difficulty in presenting himself before your eyes under the guise of an uncle whom you had not seen in four years, for it was four years, madame, since you had seen Old Bob until that time that you started out to the heart of the Pampas to look for him. As to the memory of M. Arthur Rance, who started out with you on that journey, it would be even less distinct than your own, and he would be more capable of being deceived than yourself with your intuition of kinship added to your recollections of your relative. I am going, but I shall return, for if it is necessary to arrive at the intolerable conclusion that Larsan assumed the likeness of M. Bob it will remain for us only to seek M. Bob himself, in which case, madame, I shall be your obedient servant.

"For all that has happened, M. Rance, I make you my humblest excuses and also to your wife, and I count upon you to persuade her to have patience a little longer. I realise that you feel that you have reason to reproach me with having stated my hypothesis too quickly and too abruptly; but, please remember, it is only a few moments since madame reproached me with being too slow."

Suddenly the portals flew open, and the stable boy, Walter, Old Bob's faithful servant, rushed into our midst. His clothing was torn and muddy, his hair was in disorder, and his face wore an expression of rage mingled with terror. He carried in his hand a dirty rag which he threw upon the table. This repulsive object, stained with great blotches of reddish brown, was nothing other than the sack which had served to carry off the mysterious body.

With a harsh voice and savage gestures Walter howled forth a thousand incomprehensible things in his broken jumble of French and English.

Rance interrupted him from time to time, while Walter shook his fists menacingly at Darzac. Once for a moment it seemed as though he intended to seize Darzac by the throat. When he finished speaking Rance translated his words for us.

"He says that this morning he noticed blood stains on the English cart and saw that Toby seemed very greatly fatigued. This puzzled him so much that he decided to speak of it at once to Old Bob, but he sought his master in vain. Then, seized by a dark foreboding, he followed the prints of the horse's feet and the wheels of the vehicle, which he could easily do because the road was muddy and the wheels had sunk deep. Finally he reached the old Castillon and noticed that the wheels led up to a deep chasm into which he descended, believing that he should find the body of his master, but he saw merely this empty sack, which may have contained the corpse of Old Bob, and now, having caught a ride in a peasant's wagon, he has returned to ask for his master, to learn whether any one has seen him and, if he is not found, to accuse Darzac of having caused his death."

We stood confounded. But, to our great astonishment, Mme. Edith was the first to recover her self possession. She quieted Walter by promising him that she would soon bring him face to face with Old Bob perfectly safe and well. And she said to Rouletabille:

"You have twenty-four hours, monsieur. Make the best use of it."

Mme. Edith cast a withering glance at him and left the room, followed by her husband. The sight of the sack struck Darzac speechless. He had thrown the bag into an abyss, and it was brought back empty. Rouletabille spoke:

"Larsan is not dead, be sure of that! Never has the situation been so frightful as it is today, and I must hurry away at once. I have not a minute to lose. In twenty-four hours I shall be back."

He pressed us to his heart, M. Darzac first, then myself, and then, falling into the arms of the Lady in Black, he burst into a passion of sobs.

CHAPTER XV.

Darzac or Larsan?

TWO o'clock in the morning! Every person and every thing in the castle seemed wrapped in slumber. Silence brooded over the heavens and the earth. While I stood at my window, my forehead burning and my heart frozen, the sea yielded its last sigh and in a moment the moon appeared riding like a queen in the cloudless sky. There, in that vast, motionless slumber which seemed to envelope all the world, I heard the words of the Lithuanian folk song. "But his glance seeks in vain for the beautiful unknown who has covered her head with a veil and whose voice he has never heard." The words were carried to my ear, clear and distinct, in the still air of the night. What should the prince of the Black Lands be doing on the azure shore with his Lithuanian melodies?

Why was Mme. Edith attracted toward him? He was ridiculous with his melancholy eyes and his long lashes and his Lithuanian songs! The emotion which was excited in me by the personality of Prince Galitch rose less from my knowledge of the interest which Mme. Edith felt in him than from the thought of that other. In my mind the thought of the prince and that of Larsan somehow went together. And the prince had not returned to the chateau since the famous luncheon at which he was presented to us—that is to say, since the day before yesterday.

The afternoon following Rouletabille's departure had brought us nothing new. We received no news from him nor from Old Bob. Mme. Edith had locked herself up in her own apartments after having questioned the domestics and visiting her uncle's rooms and the round tower. She made no effort to penetrate into the apartments of the Darzacs in the square tower. "That is an affair for the police," she had said.

And now a shadow appeared on the bosom of the starry night—the shadow of a canoe which slowly detached itself from the shadow of the fort and glided out upon the silvery water. Whose is this silhouette which arises proudly in the front of the boat, while another shade bends over a silent oar? It is yours, Prince Galitch! Ah, here is a mystery which might be easier to solve than that of the square tower, Rouletabille. And I, who believed that Mme. Edith had too good a brain and too fine a mind to lend herself to a vulgar intrigue!

I left my bedchamber and went rapidly over to the boulevard in time to see the bark of Prince Galitch landing on the strand in front of the Gardens of Babylon. I recognized the master and servant. It was Feodor Feodorowitch and his serf Jean. A few seconds later they disappeared in the protecting shade of the century plants.

I turned and walked around the boulevard of the court, my heart beating wildly. I seemed to see a form arise in a listening attitude from beneath the arch of the ruined chapel. I paused in the shadow cast by the gardener's tower and drew my revolver. Was it really a human creature who stood there listening? It was the Lady in Black. The moon under the half ruined arch showed me that she was as pale as death.

Suddenly I perceived a shadow beside the Lady in Black, and I recognized Darzac. From the corner where I was I could now hear all that they were saying. Now I thought no longer of Edith and her Prince Galitch. I thought only of Larsan. Why? Why was it on account of Larsan that I bent my ears so anxiously to hear all that went on between those two? I learned from their words that Mathilde had descended stealthily from la Louve to be alone in the garden with her agony and that her husband had followed her. And she took his hands and said to him:

"I know, dear—I know all your grief. You need not speak of it to me when I see you so changed, so wretched. I accuse myself of being the cause of your sorrow. But do not tell me that I no longer love you. Oh, I will love you dearly, Robert, just as I have always done. I promise you."

To be continued.

AT WORK IN 3 WEEKS

$4 Worth of Father Morriscy's "No. 7" Cured Her of Inflammatory Rheumatism.

Mrs. Agnes Edgar, of Grand Falls, N.B., had a terrible time with Inflammatory Rheumatism. Anyone who has had this most painful disease will understand her suffering—and her joy when she found Father Morriscy's "No. 7" had cured her. She says:

"I took Father Morriscy's Prescription for Inflammatory Rheumatism. I had suffered everything with it, but in three weeks after starting Father Morriscy's Prescription I was able to do my work, and after taking four dollars worth of medicine I was well. I highly recommend it any sufferer with Rheumatism."

Rheumatism comes from bad kidneys. The poisonous Uric Acid which they should remove stays in the blood, accumulates in joints and muscles, and causes agony. Father Morriscy's "No. 7" puts the kidneys right, removes the Uric Acid from the blood and the whole system, and cures the Rheumatism. 50c. a box at your dealer's, or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co. Ltd., Chatham, N.B. 63

JUST ONE WOMAN IN THOUSANDS

Who Can Say "Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Me Well!"

Mrs Louis Delorme who was always tired and nervous and suffered from Backache, tells how she found a cure.

St. Rose du Lac, Man., Feb. 21.—(Special).—The story of Mrs. Louis Delorme, a well known and highly respected resident of this place, is identical with that of thousands of other women in Canada. It is all the more interesting on that account. She was tired, nervous and worn out. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

"I suffered for five years from Backache and too frequent urination, which destroyed my sleep," Mrs. Delorme states. "My head would ache, and I was always tired and nervous. My limbs were heavy, and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. Dodd's Kidney Pills made me well. I used in all ten boxes, but they fixed me up."

Thousands of other Canadian women who have not used Dodd's Kidney Pills are in just the condition Mrs. Delorme was in before she used them. Thousands of others who were in that condition and who used Dodd's Kidney Pills, are now well and strong.

We learn from the experiences of others, and those experiences teach us that the weary and worn women of Canada can find relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

WHITE SLAVERY'S AWFUL TOLL

Rev. J. G. Shearer Tells of Ravages of the Trafic

Rev. J. G. Shearer, general secretary of the moral and social reform work of the Presbyterian church addressed a gathering of men only in St. Paul's church last night on the "White Slave Traffic, and its Evil Results." Mr. Shearer told of the great numbers of innocent girls lured from the paths of decency, and the means by which they were trapped and enticed often through trickery and cunning. He estimated that there were 300,000 girls and women in the United States directly in the business of vice and that a fifth of them died each year the average life of one being only five years.

That meant 60,000 fresh recruits each year. Mr. Shearer told of the contributions Canada was making toward the horrible traffic and gave instance after instance from his personal knowledge. He referred to the segregation inquiry in Winnipeg, denouncing the policy of toleration as much more harmful than the police-raiding system. He said that although there was a lot of vice in Toronto yet the police did their best to stamp it out and Toronto was comparatively clean especially from official concurrence in the business.

Mr. Shearer claimed that tuberculosis cancer and other diseases against which humanity fought with much noise were as nothing to the insidious diseases which sprang from this traffic, and which were far more deadly in their effect than any of the others. But prudery forbade us to take any notice of their dreadful ravages.

On Dr. Lackner's bill to extend the powers of tax collectors to follow taxable goods to any part of the same county, Hon. W. J. Hanna said that the bill as prepared might cause injury to innocent persons who had acquired the goods [illegible]. The bill went to the committee.

G. Pattinson's bill to govern the construction of bridges by adjacent municipalities was given a second reading.

Geo. H. Gooderham, South Toronto, introduced a bill to confer on the Ontario Motor League the same powers respecting the erection of road signs as formerly enjoyed by the Canadian Wheelmen's Association.

John Shaw, North Toronto, introduced the Toronto City Bill, which embodies the legislative proposals of the City Council.

Hon. A. C. MacKay gave notice that he would ask the following:

"Has the Government cancelled the charters of any companies, incorporated under the Ontario Companies' Act, on the ground that they have failed to file their annual returns? And if so, how many?

It appears that the final reports of companies are required to be filed with the Provincial Secretary by Feb. 8 each year. If they fail to be received, letters of warning are sent to the delinquent concerns.

Radial Motorman Brutally Assaulted.

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 22.—Motorman Charles Anderson, employed on the Windsor, Sandwich & Amherstburg Railway, was found lying face downward in a pool of blood on the floor of his car in an unconscious condition by his conductor, Abraham Derbyshire, about 10.30 Monday night.

It is thought that Anderson was assaulted by some one who mistook him for the conductor with intent to commit robbery.

Failed to Consult Interests.

Washington, Feb. 22.—By adroit questioning Senator Hale of Maine yesterday in opposing the Canadian reciprocity agreement in the hearings given by the Senate committee on finance put into the record statements by witnesses that President Taft, Secretary of State Knox and the American commissioners had failed to consult the interests affected by the agreement negotiated.

Companies May Appeal.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The C.P.R. and the C.N.R. were yesterday given leave to appeal to the Supreme Court by the Railway Commission against the ruling of the board in the Regina rate case, judgment which was handed down on Dec. 10 last.

To Break Up Steamship Combine.

Montreal, Feb. 22.—A despatch from London states that the Canadian Pacific Railway is threatening to break up the Atlantic steamship combine unless it receives a greater proportion of the emigrant traffic. G. M. Bosworth, vice-president of the C.P.R., however when interviewed on the subject yesterday, said that he did not believe that there was anything in it.

The substance of the cable is as follows:

"The Canadian Pacific states that unless it is allowed a larger percentage of the North Atlantic emigrant traffic, it will not consent to the continuance of the pool after its expiration next month. As a precautionary measure, this line has already given notice of the termination of all contracts."

A Follow Up Deputation.

NEARLY DIED OF STONE IN THE BLADDER

GIN PILLS SAVED HIM

513 JAMES ST., HAMILTON, ONT.

"Five years ago, I was taken down with what the doctors called Inflammation of The Bladder—intense pains in back and loins, and difficulty in urinating, and the attacks, which became more frequent, amounted to unbearable agony. I became so weak that I could not walk across the floor.

My wife read in the papers about GIN PILLS and sent for a box. From the very first, I felt that GIN PILLS were doing me good. The pain was relieved at once and the attacks were less frequent.

In six weeks, the Stone in the Bladder came away. When I recall how I suffered and how now I am healthy and able to work, I cannot express myself strongly enough when I speak of what GIN PILLS have done for me." JOHN HERMAN. 48

GIN PILLS are sold at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your dealer does not handle them. Sample box free if you write us, mentioning this paper. Money back, if GIN PILLS do not give full satisfaction. National Drug and Chemical Co., Dept. B., Toronto.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

PETERBORO IS IN CANADIAN TOUR

Of Famous English Comedienne Who Comes Here in March

Peterborough theatre-goers are to have the pleasure of hearing the famous London comedienne, Miss Vesta Victoria, who is about to begin her first Canadian tour, supported by her own English company. Miss Victoria will appear at the Grand Opera House Friday, March 10th.

Wherever Miss Vesta Victoria appears, whether she be upon the stage, in a railroad train or at some great function among society or the nobility, one may rest assured that not far away is a lady of kindly face who rarely takes her eyes from the focus which includes within their range the little English balladist. She is Miss Jean Lowrie, who has been for many years the chaperon and companion of Miss Victoria on all her tours and travels.

Miss Lowrie is the daughter of the proprietor of the theatre in Dublin, where Miss Victoria made her debut when she was four years old. Though slightly older than the star, Miss Lowrie became very devotedly attached to the little one and they grew to be inseparable friends. Several years later when Miss Victoria began touring she insisted that Miss Lowrie be taken with her, as she found life lonely with no children to play with in her hours of leisure and no one to whom she could entrust the girlish hopes and dreams and fancies and confidences which are part of the life of every girl whether she be a carefully nurtured stay-at-home with a fond mamma to watch her incessantly or whether she be a little daughter of the green-room tumbling about the country, in a maze of railroad trains, dressing rooms and bright footlights. Her unusual demand was granted and Miss Lowrie, with the consent of her parents, became little Miss Victoria's travelling companion. She is now the principal advisor to the star in matters of art and business.

All Saint's Women's Guild are holding an At Home on Friday, 24th, from 4 to 6 and 7 to 9, at the home of Mrs. Harry Morgan, 323 Reid St. Silver collection. All welcome.

Pianos to Rent.

Pianos and organs rented from $1.00 per month up. Six months' rent allowed in case of purchase. The J. M. Greene Music Co., Limited, Charlotte street.

A Fine Attraction

A dozen clever comedians and comediennes, prima donna who can really sing, and a score of beautiful chorus girls that can really dance, and sing comprise the cast of "My Cinderella Girl" the musical farce to be presented at the Grand theatre tonight, direct and intact from a run of three hundred consecutive performances in Chicago.

They Are Interior Effects

In mentioning the display at the armories of the Benjamin Moore Co., of Toronto, in yesterday's issue, "inferior" should have read "interior." This company has a reputation that goes with Moore's Muresco, and is demonstrating to visitors a number of interior effects, which may be brought about by the use of their goods. The representatives are most obliging and the exhibit may be found near the north-east corner of the armories.

ADDED MISFORTUNE CAME TO FATHER OF ENGLISH FAMILY

After Being Befriended He Fell Broke His Arm

A story of a case of misfortune in which a former local boy played the part of the good Samaritan, comes to hand.

A young English emigrant with his wife and child got as far as Belleville last Sunday on their way to Peterborough.

Mort. Mowry, formerly of Peterborough, but now of Belleville, went down to the station on Sunday morning at Belleville and got into conversation with the family. He learned that they were rather financially embarrassed and invited them up to his home. On the way the father slipped and broke his arm. He was taken to the hospital in Belleville and attended to, and on Monday morning was sent on here, where Mr. Howson the immigration officer, had a position awaiting him.

The circumstances of the case came under the notice of Finch Miller, the relief officer, and the family is now in the Protestant Home until the father recovers sufficiently to proceed to work and support the family.

THEATRICAL

The simplicity and charm of rural life has been brought about as near perfection as is possible in "The Old Homestead," which was again greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience at the Grand last night. The performance, as previously stated, was really refreshing, and the blending of humor and pathos was the most outstanding feature of the production.

William Lawrence as Joshua Whitcomb was easily the stellar performer of the cast, and his work drew forth rounds of applause.

"The Old Homestead" is a play that can be recommended to all, even to non-theatre goers, as it contains some excellent moral lessons. There is nothing weak, or namby-pamby about it, and many helpful lessons may be gleaned from its story.

Wm. Nixon, a well-known mining man, is dead at Kenora, aged 50.

Albert Chevalier as "Daddy Dufard"

"To match his impersonation one has to go back to the Corporal Brewster of the late Sir Henry Irving." This is what one of London's foremost critics said of Albert Chevalier, when, in 1906, that great artist first essayed the title role of Barrie's eccentric one act play, "Pantaloon." Previous to that his fine characterization of Bill Sykes has been revealed in a revival of "Oliver Twist," made notable chiefly by his individual success. Again the Drewery Lane management has pressed into service the genius of Chevalier when their production called for character acting, not to be supplied by ordinary actors. So, that though Chevalier's appearance in "Daddy Dufard" at the Grand next Saturday is his first "legitimate" appearance in this city, London has come to respect his work on the regular as well as on the music hall stage. In fact his present tour in "Daddy Dufard" makes the first opportunity America has had to see this great artist in a vehicle that requires his presence on the stage for the great part of the evening.

"Daddy Dufard" is designated as a character comedy, meaning that it is play something on the order of the "Music Master", for example. It was written by Lechmore Forrall and Chevalier himself, and tells the story of the struggle of a talented young actress to make her way on the stage. This particular young lady is admired by a promising young playwright, who has written a part for her in his latest play, a one act sketch about to be presented at the Caledonia theatre, a music hall in the West End of London. During the rehearsal a favorite of the hall's sees the young woman in the part, realizes its possibilities and insists upon playing the role herself. The manager fears to offend the favorite, and so that the young woman sees her chance to make good taken away from her. This angers the playwright and greatly distresses the young woman's father, an old retired French play actor. The part taken by Chevalier, whose sole remaining ambition is to see his daughter win the success she deserves. He restrains any hot headed action on the young playwright's part, however, and determines to use only that diplomacy and tact that has become second nature to him in dealing with artistic temperament throughout his life in rearranging matters for the greatest good of the greatest number.

Chevalier, whose present tour is under Liebler and Company's directions, will be supported by an excellent cast. It includes Violet Heming, Leslie Keynon, A. Hylton Allen, Horace Mitchell, Frankie Raymond, Mary Barker, Harry Brett and other favorites.

CLAUSE SUBMITTED BY THE ROMAN CATHOLICS DEALT WITH

Special Meeting of the City Council

No Change in the Sign By-law

At a meeting of the city council yesterday afternoon it was decided, on motion of Ald. Duncan and Graham that the mayor and city solicitor be instructed to advise the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature at Toronto, that the council is willing to have the bill regarding the maintenance of indigents and the payment therefor in the Protestant Home and House of Refuge, amended to provide that corporations apportion their rates between the Protestant same way as they are now enabled to do between Public and Separate Schools under the Separate School Act.

There were present Mayor Morrow, Ald. Buller, Graham, Metheral, Anderson, Brown, Duncan, Edgar, Kerneghan and Morgan.

Opposition was made to the bill by the deputation from the Roman Catholics, when it received its first reading last week, and at the meeting yesterday City Solicitor Hall had a copy of a clause, which had been submitted by D. O'Connell, acting for the Roman Catholics. This clause provided for the assessment of all incorporated companies, and all the taxes derived to be divided between Protestant Home and House of Providence in proportion of the assessment upon Roman Catholics and Protestants, apart from the companies. Home and House of Providence in the

The clause did not meet with the approval of the council, who decided as above stated.

OTHER BUSINESS

The report of the chairman of the Board of Works, was read and adopted. The motions carried in committee meetings which made up the report have been published.

Ald. Morgan asked if something could not be done in regard to the sign by-law by which the merchants would be excluded from responsibility in case of accidents to citizens. He stated some signs had been taken down.

"Cut out the responsibility," suggested Ald. Morgan. "That's the main clause" answered Mayor Morrow. He explained that without this protection, the city might be made liable for damages in case of accident.

ACCOUNTS APPROVED

Approval was given to the payment of $500 to Mr. Chipman, who is engineering the construction of the sewage system in the south end of the city.

The account of the Ontario Sewer Pipe Co., for $722.31 passed the meeting.

THE SUBWAY

The Council favored the building of the C. P. R. subway at Mervins corner and the deputation from that body to wait on the Board of Railway Commissioners which meets this week in Toronto will act accordingly.

Ald. Buller and Duncan were strong for the southend ratepayers, who object to the subway being built at Park Street, thus necessitating the closing of Chamberlain and streets to the east.

Ald. Buller maintained that as the original plan was to have the subway at Mervins it should be so located.

The deputation will also urge that the railway Co., have gates put in commission at the Aylmer Street crossing.

MORE PARKS.

The matter of the city securing certain property, was brought up by Ald. Buller, and it was decided that the Manufacturers Committee should look around and report. It is suggested that property for parks in the south, east and west parts of the city be purchased.

Ald. Graham asked what was doing in the line of a park at the corner of Waterford and Dublin streets. It was pointed out that the agreement between the city and the Dickson Co., allowed for the site.

SOCIAL HELD BY ALL SAINTS' W.A.

Enjoyable Program and a Large Attendance

The Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' held a congregational social in the parish hall last night. There was a large attendance and a most enjoyable time was spent.

During the evening the following program was given:

Instrumental Solo—Miss Geralding King.
Vocal Solo—Herbert Rush.
Vocal Solo—Miss Geraldine King.
Recitation—Mr. Bristow.
Instrumental—Miss Olga Johnston.
Vocal Solo—George Chandler.
Reading—Rev. H. R. Trumpour.
Vocal Solo—Miss Ruth Dawson.

The accompanists of the evening were Miss Gumpright, and Mrs. Geo. Johnston.

Refreshments were served, after which the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The Women's Auxiliary is making an effort to increase the membership, this being the 25th year since the founding of the Auxiliary in the Anglican church.

Knox Church W.F.M.S.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Knox church will hold a meeting on Thursday afternoon at 3.30 in the church parlors.

Had to Refuse Guests

The accommodation at the hotels since the Hardware Convention has been in progress has been taxed to the utmost and at the National they have been compelled to refuse to take any more guests. The other hotels are in a similar crowded condition.

One More Blacklister

A case of family disagreement was aired in police court this morning, with the result that the husband of the house was placed on the black list, and other arrangements made for future peace in the household.

D. HUGHES CHARLES TELLS OF THE STRATTON CONVERSATIONS

Evidence as Given by Former Peterborough Man in the Court

He Says Mr. Stratton Knew of Security for the Loan

POINTS OF THE EVIDENCE

Mr. Corley: "Did Dr. Nesbitt say anything about Mr. Stratton when you were making up your report?

Mr. Travers: "He merely said he would get some of his friends to 'get me.'"

Mr. Corley: "Mr. Stratton evidently knew the loan had been made on the security of the notes?"

D. Hughes Charles: "Yes."

R. R. Hall: "What you really thought was wrong was the use that might be made of the money?"

Mr. Charles: "Yes."

Mr. Hall: "Mr. Stratton didn't ask you to subscribe to the stock of the bank?"

Mr. Charles: "No, I guess he thought I knew too much about it for that."

Mr. Hall: "Sir Edmund Walker took no action as a result of the letter you wrote him?"

Mr. Charles: "Not as far as I know."

At the session of Magistrate Denison's court in Toronto yesterday morning in the Farmers' Bank case, a principal witness was D. Hughes Charles, formerly manager of the Bank of Commerce branch in Peterborough. Mr. Charles was called to give evidence of conversations he had had with J. R. Stratton, M.P., over the Farmers' Bank affair. Following is a full report of his evidence:

"During 1906 do you remember having any talk with Mr. Stratton regarding how the charter of the Farmers' Bank was obtained?" asked Mr. Corley.

"Yes," at a private house, to the effect—I wrote a letter to my general manager."

The letter was shown him, to refresh his memory. It was:

Peterborough, Dec. 10, 1906.

"Dear Mr. Walker—

"I don't know whether a conversation I had with Mr. Stratton was to be considered by me as private or not. It took place in a private house. It was at . . . He asked me how I would like to buy stock in the Farmers' Bank. Then he told me he had made an advance of $90000 to enable them to make their cash deposit with the Government. I asked him if he did not think the loan was a little risky. He said 'No; we have all the Farmers' Bank has as security, including the farmers' notes.' and was getting interest at 8 per cent., and had ample margin. I don't know whether the loan was made by the Traders' Bank, of which he is vice-president, or the Trust and Guarantee Company, of which he is president."

"How long would this letter be after the conversation?" asked the magistrate. "About two days later. In the meantime I had gone to Toronto with Mr. Stratton, and had a further conversation with him."

"You mention a bonus there. Have you any recollection of the amount of the bonus?" asked Mr. Corley.

"I believe it was 10 per cent."

"On $10,000 that would be $1,000," commented His Worship.

SUGGESTS MR. STRATTON KNEW.

"He evidently knew that the loan had been on the security of these notes?" suggested Mr. Corley.

"Yes."

"What was your objection to the Farmers' Bank?"

"I objected to the way in which it had been started."

Cross-questioning Mr. Charles R. R. Hall, of Peterborough, counsel for Mr. Stratton, remarked to the witness that he supposed the conversation already referred to, as taking place at a five o'clock tea, was merely a casual one, that might occur at any such function.

Mr. Charles answered in the affirmative.

"Then," said Mr. Hall, "any statements that were made at such a function would naturally not be as accurate as if made at a business meeting?"

"I suppose not."

"You did not find fault with the making of the loan by the Trusts Company to the Farmers' Bank in so far as that money was raised on the notes of subscribers?"

"No."

"What you really thought was wrong was the use that might be made of this money?"

"Yes."

WASN'T ASKED TO SUBSCRIBE.

"You did not tell Mr. Stratton at this time just what you thought?"

"No."

"Mr. Stratton did not ask you to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers' Bank?"

At this Mr. Charles laughed outright and said: "No, I guess he thought I knew too much about it."

"As a matter of fact, Sir Edmund Walker, your president, took no action as a result of your letter?"

"Not as far as I know. I thought by writing the letter I had done all that was required of me by my head office in informing them as to how the new Farmers' Bank was coming along."

This concluded the evidence of Mr. Charles.

MR. TRAVERS.

W. R. Travers in the box was questioned:

A statement was handed Mr. Travers, a copy furnished by the Trusts and Guarantee Company. Of this, however, Mr. Travers knew nothing.

A check for $25,344.80 dated in March, 1906, was then taken from the exhibits.

"What loan does that represent?" asked Mr. Corley.

"2,380 was made for the purpose of buying out those shareholders for whom Wm. Laidlaw brought suit."

"Had Lindsay anything to do with this?"

"I think part of it was deposited to his credit in the bank."

Continuing with regard to obtaining the bank's charter, Mr. Corley asked:

"Did you have any conference with Mr. Stratton or Dr. Nesbitt with regard to it?"

"No, I think not."

"Did Nesbitt say anything about any interview with Mr. Stratton?"

"No."

"What did he tell you?"

"Did he say anything about a thousand dollar loan?"

"No."

"Strange how I get misinformed," remarked Mr. Corley. "Later, did Dr. Nesbitt say anything about Mr. Stratton when you were making up the report?"

"He merely said he would get some of his friends to 'get me.'"

BALDHEADED MEN

Getting Scarcer Every Year

Ninety-nine times in one hundred baldness is caused by dandruff germs, which dig down deep into the roots of the hair, destroy its vitality and cause it to fall out.

If you have dandruff, the little invisible, persistent devils called dandruff germs are at work. Destroy them at once, or sooner or later they will cause your hair to fall out, and you will be compelled to take your place in the baldheaded class.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed by Wm. Mason to stop falling hair and itching scalp and to drive out dandruff and kill the germs, or money back. It is the most delightful hair dressing in the world, not sticky or greasy. Large bottle 50 cents.

GARDEN HILL

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Beatty and Miss Beatrice, drove to the 8th line of Clarke, last Tuesday in the face of the worst storm this season, to attend the wedding of Miss Elva Truel and H. B. Lawson of Hope.

Mr. and Mrs Herb. Russell of Millbrook called in town on their way to Liskeard to attend the wedding of Miss Truel and H. B. Lawson.

Dr. Beatty is very busy with La Grippe patients.

Cecil Walsh attended the stock judging exhibition at Millbrook last week.

Jacob Waddell received a telegram Sunday to go to Woodstock and see his brother, the Baptist minister, who had had an operation for appendicitis and was not expected to recover.

Capt. and Mrs. R. W. Leonard of St. Catharines, have donated a pipe organ to Thomas' Church, that city.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

SPORT TALK

The Winnipeg Tribune says:—

Sport is a fundamental essential not only of English life, but almost of human life itself, and the question that confronts us to day is this—upon what could we better build up and establish the character and physique of the future builder and maintainer of empire than upon the foundation of sport in its highest and noblest forms! Of course there are those who would pooh pooh the idea altogether of anything so serious as human character being formed and strengthened and established by the training that forms the life's work and objects of the accomplished sportsman. Indeed many people deliberately maintain that, so far from building character, it debases and demolishes it. I not only do not agree with such a ridiculous verdict, but I honestly believe that the very reverse is the truth. Of the two modes of building up a man of fine character—sport and literature,—I say, without a moment's hesitation give me the man brought up to be a sportsman. That is the kind of man who in the past conceived the idea of empire: that is the man who carved it out of the deserts of the earth, and that is the man who had established and who maintains the British empire, as the most marvellous political fact ever known in the long history of humanity and of the world.—Raymond Blathwayt.

P.C.I. TEAM WON AT BASKETBALL

Defeated Business College Five With 38-13 Score Y.M.C.A. Notes

The Business College and Collegiate Institute teams played basketball in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night. The P. C. I boys had their opponents beaten at every stage. The half time score was 18-5 and full time 38-13. The Collegiate team looks good for the city league. The winners lined up as follows—

Forwards, Hull and Laing; centre, Bartlett; defence, Matthews and Howden.

Senior leaders are requested to meet to night.

In the bowling league the Midgets and Millards come together at 8 p.m. to night.

The business boys had their first entertainment last night. It was in the form of a gramophone concert. About twenty boys enjoyed the program and unanimously decided to hold one every Tuesday for a couple of months.

CURLING

Four rinks went to Lindsay to-day to play the return game.

The following are the local rinks—

Dr. Caldwell, J. Davidson, H. Meredith, R. Punchin, skip.

S. Trew, W. S Dodd, G. B. Stevenson, W. G. Read, skip.

H. Martin, J. Brightman, J. Montgomery, F. F. Lockhart, skip.

H. McCann, A. Archibald, W. H. Dunsford, J. W. McDermid, skip.

The contest for the Lindsay-Peterborough cup is called for to-morrow. Four rinks from Lindsay play here and four from Peterborough play in Lindsay.

The locals did not send a rink to the Waverley Club bonspiel in Cobourg which started yesterday. One rink went from Keene.

BASEBALL

Five Chicago Cubs have not yet signed: Hoffman, Tinker, Evers, Pfeister and Overall.

Addie Joss, Cleveland's star pitcher, is in Toledo. His arm has been placed in a plaster case but the injury is not thought to be serious. A strained tendon in the elbow caused inflammation which spread and caused a crook in the elbow.

The death of Fred. Burton at London removes a figure who for many years was prominent in baseball of a generation before the present crop of city league players. Fred was contemporaneous with a number of London youths who made good in fast company—Doc. Sippi, Ned. Morkin, Sam Collins, Denny Connor and others.

Says Doc White of Lange of Chicago. "He has more speed than Ed. Walsh and a wonderful curve. His change of pace is probably the best I have ever seen."

For $1,000,000 premium Lloyd's, London, will insure the Cincinnati club against finishing lower than third. The English syndicate will gamble on any unique sport proposition.—Detroit Free Press.

"Doc" White, of Chicago Sox, has a hunch that Jack Coombs, the durable hero of the world's series and the Athletics' fight all last season, will be the leading twirler in the league this year.

PUCKLAND

Kingston Frontenacs won at Oshawa last night 11—7. The second game will be played at Kingston Friday night.

Marmora and Sterling play off for the championship of the Trent Valley League, at Marmora, Friday night.

The Galt pro hockey club has sent in a challenge for the Stanley Cup. The championship of the Ontario pro. league has not been decided, but Safetown seven are likely looking winners.

Found Dead In Bed.

Montreal, Feb. 22.—Ovid Miner Gould, one of Montreal's best known business men, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning by his brother, Joseph, at the latter's home, 287 Peel street. The physician who was called, stated that life had been extinct several hours.

Mr. Gould complained the day before of feeling unwell and a doctor was called. It was discovered that one of the valves of his heart was affected.

About twenty years ago Mr. Gould formed the cold storage company which bears his name, and of which he was a director and general manager. He is survived by one brother, Joseph Gould, sr. Joseph Gould, jr., librarian at McGill University, is his nephew.

Woodstock yesterday voted a loan of $20,000 to the Ven Knitting Co., which will build a $35,000 factory.

THE CHIMES AND CHINESE

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir—Respecting my letter to your valuable paper on the giving of the chimes money to the starving thousands of China, I have read Canon Davidson's letter with gratitude that he sees the necessity of feeding the hungry mouth before listening to music. You have a list of subscribers and it would be easy to ask them by post card if they would consent. Who would not? Great God! Is there anyone so selfish as to listen to this tale of woe with a hard heart. We can understand how tyrants hardened themselves against the cries of the little ones of old. When we shall rejoice in giving and not receiving we shall be blessed and not till then. The other writer does not seem to have any kindness or spirituality at all. He may not understand it. It is a sad thing to be so selfish.

"OUR NATIONAL SONG"

To The Editor of The Review

Peterborough, Feb. 21.

Sir—By a happy instinct our inspiring National song, "O Canada," was chosen by Mr. Crane for the offertory selection at the great meeting in St. Paul's Church, Monday night. While, at first sight it seemed to have little connection with the subject of the evening, on the other it was really most appropriate in expressing another deep bond of union between the whole of the audience and practically inculcating that spirit of patriotism which breathes so strongly throughout the Bible.

But, sir, how much more impressive and inspiring it would have been had the whole congregation risen to their feet at the opening chord. Surely there must have been many who found it difficult to remain seated instead of being active participators in a national act. I make no reflection whatever upon those who conducted the meeting for as yet, the appropriateness of this is not generally recognized.

But even if this be not always considered advisable, may we not at least have our National Song so stirring and sublime, sung or played at every meeting of the Canadian Club as a most national and effective part of the proceedings?

Yours Sincerely,
J. C. DAVIDSON.

ST. ANDREWS' W.F.M.S. HEARD FINE TALK

The W. F. M. S. of St. Andrew's Church, met yesterday afternoon in the church parlors and listened to an address of great interest delivered by Mrs. (Rev.) H. J. Keith, on Zenana work in India. Miss Lackenham also read a paper of much interest.

Mrs. Keith in her address told of the sights which are seen during a mornings trip around to Zenanas in some cities of India.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker at the conclusion of her address, by Mrs. (Rev.) Rollins seconded by Miss Langford.

Mrs. P. Kerr, the president of the society presided.

Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. G. B. Hughes, and a vocal duet by Mesdames Gibson and Former.

Acute Dyspepsia

Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep, and live like a live man."

Be advised—Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

CITIZENS INVITED TO THE EXHIBITION THIS EVENING

Brilliant Spectacle at Armories Last Night

Another Concert by 57th Band

Everybody is talking about the Ontario Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' exhibition and convention at the armories, and citizens are invited to be present this evening.

It was at first intended to charge an admission fee of ten cents for to-night to those not having secured one of the large number of complimentaries sent out earlier in the week, but this has been changed to a free admission and the officials hope to see the workingmen and their wives. No children will be admitted unless in the company of their parents.

The interior of the armories presented a brilliant spectacle last evening, each booth being illuminated with small lights, some of which were arranged in pretty designs.

The program given by the 57th Band, under the direction of Mr. Glaidon, was well received, and another program will be given to-night.

YESTERDAY'S BUSINESS SESSION

The following is a report of the convention proceedings of yesterday—

About 300 crowded into the band room yesterday afternoon and participated in what was the most interesting session in the Association's history.

President Cinnamon opened the meeting. Mayor Morrow turned the town keys and pump over to the hardwaremen and Harry Cocomore, who used to steal apples here when a boy, replied. Then S. H. Alexander Hamilton, and James Hardy, secretary Wholesale Hardware Association, told the retailers a few things about costs. Next Adam Taylor, Arno Bittues, and A. S. Howe, spoke for the manufacturers, and pushed price maintenance.

Last year's minutes the president's, secretary's, executive's and auditors' reports were read and referred to the Resolutions Committee. Permanent committees were then appointed and a recommendation was made by President Cinnamon for the Executive that arrangements be made with the Hardware and Stove Journal "to become the recognized official organ of this Association."

PRESENTATION TO TRAVELLER

Walter B. Sereaton, McClary's, London, was called to the front and handed a suit case for his services in enrolling new members.

Then Tom. Wright of Howlands, Toronto, chairman of the "Travellers' Hour" Committee, did himself proud by taking the chairmanship for the most interesting hour and a half ever spent at a hardware gathering in Canada. Tom. called on A. S. Howe the Asbestos Sad iron man; George Boomer, Shurley Dietrich Co.; J. A. Hossack, who sells [illegible] tapes for less than cost; and Arno Bittues, who does the opposite with Gillette safety razors; and one by one they handed out hot stuff.

Then Russell Chown set the grass on fire by handling the travellers some straight talk, criticizing the jobbers for failing to have their travellers show samples and help educate the retailers on selling points. "There are too many order-takers," said next year's president.

Harry Clucas, who pushes "beauty and utility" goods (see page 53, February Hardware and Stove Journal,) A. F. Collins, the Ever-Ready live wire and John Irwin, the Brandram-Henderson King pin, followed, after which Jimmy Hossack had a second spasm, during which he got off his chest some most practical talk about travellers carrying samples and the jobbers' duty to retailers. Talking about jobbers' salesmen selling from catalogues, he said: "None of you would marry a girl from a picture—you'll want to see the real article."

Frank Taylor, Carleton Place, who has a sample room in his store for travellers said there were too many "train catchers" on the road.

C.M. Woodburn, who carries the biggest line of hardware samples in Canada, said if Taylor had to stay at Carleton Place hotels he'd catch the first train out, too. J.J. Levy, who brushes up trade for Boeckh Bros., Toronto, followed.

Tom Wright then told of how he had landed Dan Cinnamon as a customer by showing him samples of new goods. H. J. Carter, Picton, C. M. Woodburn, N. Turner, Sol Waffle, N. B Misener, Toronto, J. D. Robinson, the wide awake Imperial Varnish man, and J. Smyth, of Boeckh Bros., closed the discussion.

Secretary Wrigley suggested a "Travellers' Afternoon" next year, and the suggestion was applauded. The meeting adjourned at 5.45.

BENSFORT BRIEFS

Miss R. Dodds of Exeter, Ont., is the guest of her uncle Mr. Thos. Dodds.

John Fletcher is the new mail carrier between Bensfort and Smithbank in place of Wm. Chambers.

David Chambers is not severing his connections with us as was reported last week.

Mr. Wallace Morrison has been getting in a telephone, on what is known as the Russell line. He is well pleased with the convenience.

Several of our young people, who were guests at a party at Mr. J. Williams on Friday night, are highly pleased with the good time they had.

One of our nearby residents, who is always ahead of his neighbors, in regard to large yields of the various kinds of farm produce, expects, with the aid of his new hired man, to make the coming season a banner one.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gray and child have returned to their home at Osage, Sask., where Mr. Gray is engaged in the medicine business.

A party was held at Mr. R. J. Puis, Lakeview, on Thursday night. The light fantastic was tripped into the small hours of the morning. A very enjoyable time is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kerr, of Arcola Sask., have left for home.

Mr. Levi Byers' sale, held on Wednesday 15th, was a decided success. Among those noticed present was Mr. O'Hara of Millbrook, and Bensfort cheese factory, working after the interests of his dairy business.

Mrs. John Kerr is rather ill with La Grippe.

Dr. Turner of Millbrook has been attending W. H. Thompson, who has been laid up with an abscess on one of his arms. Mr. Thompson is able to be out again.

It is rumored that the Cobourg-Peterborough electric road, is to soon start construction work on their line but whether it is to come in way of Bensfort is yet to be seen.

Messrs. Jos. Huggins and Wm. Devell are preparing to build new barns next season. Mr. G. Smithson has the carpenter work and Mr. Mitchell of Millbrook is the contractor for the mason work.

The Publishers' section of the Canadian Press Association met at Guelph yesterday and discussed the cost system in job printing.

Thirteen cars of an I. C. R. freight train were derailed near Monro's Siding, N.S. Two passenger coaches attached were also derailed.

BETHANY

Bethany, Feb. 21.—We regret to record the death of a very old and much respected resident of Manvers township in the person of Mrs. Ann Jane Preston, widow of the late Porter Preston, who passed peacefully away at her residence in Bethany on Friday last, Feb 17th, at the advanced age of 96 years, and who up till the last retained all her faculties. Mrs. Preston had the distinction of having lived under six sovereigns, viz:—George III., George IV., William IV., Queen Victoria, Edward VII. and George V.

Mrs. Preston came to this country from County Armagh, Ireland, in 1823, and resided in Kingston 14 years when she migrated to Manvers township. Her husband, who died in 1883, was magistrate for the township for a good many years.

The funeral took place on Sunday, 19th inst., service being held in St. Paul's church, Bethany, conducted by the Rev. J. Poston, who gave a very impressive address from the text, "I have kept the faith." Afterwards the cortege proceeded to St. Mary's cemetery, the body then being interred in the family grave. The pall-bearers were Messrs. George Sisson, Wm. Hannah, S. Beer, Robt. Thorndyke, Joseph Hadden and George Sisson.

Chief mourners were Mrs. Dow, daughter; W. A. Preston, M.P.P., Fort Francis, Rainy River district; J. J. Preston, M.P.P., Sidney; Isaac and Heber Preston, nephews; W. J. Elliott, barrister, Toronto, grandson; Mrs. Touchburn, Mrs. Dobbin, Peterborough, nieces; Miss Lee, Peterborough.

Wreaths were sent from the following;—Anchor from family, shield from Mr. Elliott, sr., shield, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Elliott, Toronto; wreath, Mrs. McKague; shield, Misses Ward, Lindsay.

Mrs. Preston is survived by three daughters, the Misses Jane, "Addie" and Mrs. Dow.

The funeral arrangements were very satisfactorily carried out by Mr. C. Reynolds.

BAILIEBORO

Bailieboro, Feb. 21.—Mr. Wm. Greer has moved into the residence formerly occupied by John Hawthorne.

Levi Byers and Asa Barnard will exchange their residence in the near future.

David Chambers, our future blacksmith and general mechanic, intends taking up residence with us before very long.

Harry Perrin has been engaged as occasional teacher for S. S. No. 14, Hope, the regular teacher being Miss E. Sidey, of Bewdley. We believe that Mr. Perrin made a very capable and desirous supply and that the whole school in general will be greatly benefitted.

The Bailieboro skating and hockey club have had a very successful season under the management of Messrs. Perrin, Fell, Tunney and Preston. Each Saturday night brings numerous skaters of both sexes from Bewdley, Bensfort and the surrounding country, and we are confident that the management must feel very grateful for their liberal patronage.

Miss T. E. Hutchinson, of Cavan, is visiting her brother Wesley.

Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, of Millbrook, have been the guests of W. Hutchinson for a week or so.

Rev. Father Chas. Oliver Caron is dead at Kenora, aged 66.

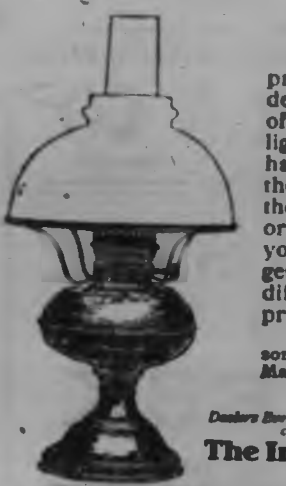
The Famous Rayo



Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflickering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickeled, and easily polished.

BROUGHT HERE FROM LUMBER CAMP SEVENTY MILES DISTANT

Tree Fell on Frank Sullivan, Inflicting Serious Injury

Cousin Brought Him to St. Joseph's Hospital

Suffering from a fracture of the skull, which he received through the falling of a tree yesterday afternoon, while engaged with other men at a lumber camp in Cavendish, some 70 miles from here, Frank Sullivan, a young man of about twenty-two years of age, and a son of Denis Sullivan, of Indian River, was brought here by his cousin, William Ryan, and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is under the care of Drs. McGrath and McNulty, who are inclined to be [illegible]ful for his recovery.

DRIVEN ALL THE DISTANCE.

The injured man was brought all the distance from the camp to this city in a cutter by Ryan, who pluckily undertook the long journey in the face of extreme cold and a storm.

The accident occurred in the early afternoon and about one mile from the camp. Working beside Sullivan was a man, White by name, and when the tree at which he was chopping fell, Sullivan was unable to reach safety on account of the deep snow.

STARTED AT FIVE.

He was knocked unconscious, but after being carried to the camp, recognized Ryan. The wound, which was on the left side of the head, was washed and attended to as circumstances would permit and at about five o'clock the long drive was commenced with Sullivan protected from the cold and snow by robes and blankets and as much as possible by his companion. He was unconscious all the time.

The city was reached this morning between one and two o'clock.

There are about seventy men engaged at the camp, which is in charge of Wm. Nixon.

BROTHER LOST ARM.

About this time last year William Sullivan, a brother, met with an accident in a saw mill in the same locality and lost an arm. He was brought to this city in pretty much the same manner as the patient now in the hospital.

THE PRANKS OF A RUNAWAY HORSE

Tore Away Several Feet of a Fence

A farmer named Sarginson, residing just outside the city accompanied by his niece, Miss Starke, were driving out Charlotte street at noon to-day, when their horse became frightened and ran away. The cutter was overturned at the corner of Charlotte and Park streets, throwing both out on to the hard road.

The horse proceeded out Charlotte street at a rapid rate and at St. Joseph's street turned over to Gilmour. It jumped the fence in front of F. R. Yokome's residence, tearing down about six or eight feet of it in doing so. The frightened animal was caught by Fred Myles, and held until the owner came up.

Fortunately no damage was done to the occupants. The cutter, however, was broken and battered to quite an extent.

OYSTER SUPPER AND CONCERT

At Coldsprings Sunday School—A Large Attendance

Under the auspices of the young ladies of Coldsprings Sunday school a very successful oyster supper and concert, both from a financial and attendance standpoint, was held in Coldsprings last evening.

A bright, interesting program was given and every number was thoroughly enjoyed.

During the program a quilt which was the result of considerable work on the part of the young ladies, was presented to the efficient superintendent of the Sunday school, Miss Bennett, by Mrs. Ross, secretary of the Young Ladies' Society.

The following was the program—

Song—Mr. Lewis.
Monologue—Mr. O'Neil.
Recitation—James McDonald.
Song—Mr. O'Neill.

A comedy presented by seven members of the school, entitled "Uncle Jack," was very creditably given.

Mr. Frank Kitney presided very acceptably.

A large attendance is requested at the usual week-night service in Coldsprings Sunday school on Thursday.

ENTERTAINED A SLEIGHING PARTY

Mrs. Westlake Provided Enjoyable Evening for Young People

A sleighing party of young people sprang a surprise on Mrs. Westlake, 189 Brook Street, last evening, when after a pleasant drive, they invaded her home. Mrs. Westlake, however, proved more than equal to the occasion and the unexpected callers were given a particularly enjoyable time dancing, games, music and a tasty supper making up the program, for which the hostess received the hearty thanks of the gathering, which numbered about fifty-five. Miss Heard presided at the piano during the evening.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

Walter Mitchell, of Lakefield, is at the Munro House.

J. A. Kennedy, of Kingston, is at the White House.

Geo. Matthie, of Lindsay, is a guest at the White House.

A. J. Sprague, of Belleville, is at the Snowden House.

James Calder, of Norwood, is a guest at the Munro House.

E. F. Morton, of Campbellford, is at the White House.

Wm. O'Hara, of Toronto, is a guest at the Snowden House.

H. J. Lobb, of Toronto, is a guest guest at the Snowden House.

Mr. Waldon Stone, of Montreal, is spending a few days in the city.

Mrs. D. D. C. Dawe, Gilmour street, has been called to Napanee, owing to an accident to her sister, Mrs. Lucas, Knox church WFIS.

Are in Washington

Mrs. J. McCoy has received a letter from Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Caley, who left last Wednesday to spend their honeymoon visiting the principal cities of the United States. This is the anniversary of the birthday of Washington and they are spending to-day in that city.

Fireman Resigns

James Bell, driver at the fire hall, has resigned his position, owing to the action of the Finance Committee of the council at last night's session in not recommending an increase of salary. Mr. Bell claims that the salary he is at present receiving is not sufficient, owing to the high cost of the necessities of life, and that it would be unwise for him to continue in the service of the town under such conditions.—Lindsay Post.

Band Meeting

A meeting of the 57th band is called for this evening at 7:30 in the Simcoe street hall.

OBITUARY

GORDON WILFRED BREWER

Gordon Wilfred Brewer, aged 15 years 5 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brewer, 59 Alfred street, passed away at eight o'clock last evening, after a lingering illness.

Besides his parents the survivors are three brothers, Fred and Harry, of Cleveland and Sydney, of Buffalo, and five sisters, Mrs. Knox, Toronto; Mrs. Fred Skenely, Hamilton, Mrs. Mrs. Chas. Nichols, Campbellford; Olive and Daisy of Nottingham, Eng.

The funeral will take place at two o'clock Friday afternoon from the family residence to Little Lake cemetery where interment will take place. Services at the house and grave will be conducted by Rev. H. R. Trumpour.

REV. E. A. PEARSON ON THE PRAYER MEETING

Speaking on the prayer meeting of to day, at a meeting of the Hamilton Ministerial Association, Rev. E. A. Pearson suggested that the pastors magnify the prayer meeting in their pastoral visits and in their pulpit announcements. Not only should the pastor conduct the meeting, he said, but a layman should take charge once in a while. A bunch of flowers would enliven the proceedings somewhat. The stranger should be greeted before the meeting instead of after. In conclusion he reminded his hearers that the prayer meeting was not only for members of the church, but also for adherents and strangers.

Sweet Charity

Many citizens are calling on Fire Chief Howard with donations of victuals and money for the help of the destitute family mentioned in Monday's issue. With the aid of some prominent citizens the family has been removed to a house on Hunter street. The husband seems very sensitive and is being forced to accept charity.

WHY THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE SUCCEEDS

There are Optometrists in Canada who do a larger business than ourselves. There are Optometrists and Opticians who do a smaller, but the Optometrists who does better work or gives better value has not pushed his head above the optical horizon. A strong statement to be sure, but when we point to twenty years of the best training and experience in both United States and Canada and over 27,000 persons helped to the best possible eyesight, are we not justly proud of our wor[k]. We are ever adding to our facilities and studying the latest methods. This is why we succeed.
